The problem under the Delaware Valley order can best be resolved by permitting as qualifying shipments for pooling status, shipment to other order plants but denying pooling status in the event that such shipments to any other single order exceed shipments to qualified plants regulated under this order.

While this procedure could result in a plant shipping to both New York-New Jersey and Delaware Valley pool plants not being pooled under either order, it is clear that such a result would be at the choice of the handler. Some operational changes might be necessary to accommodate pooling under Order 2, but this cannot be controlling in any determination of the milk to be pooled under the Delaware Valley order.

It is recognized further that the particular circumstances prompting the suspension action and the proposals here under consideration roughly coincided with the change in pooling arrangement effective June 1. Because of the historical association of the plant in question with the Delaware Valley market under the individual-handler pooling arrangement reasonable time should be allowed to permit the plant operator to adjust his business to permit pooling under this order, if he so desires.

The forthcoming months through October are the shortest months of production and hence the period when milk is most needed in the market. It is concluded therefore that continuing pooling status through October 1967 should be provided for any plant which has been a fully regulated plant under this order in each of the months from January 1967 to the effective date of this order but which fails to meet the prescribed shipping requirements solely because greater qualifying shipments are made to other order plants. This should present reasonable time for orderly adjustment of the plant's operations to comport with the regular pooling standards for supply plants. If sufficient sales cannot be developed in this market by that time the plant appropriately should not continue to have pooling privileges under the Delaware Valley order.

Rulings on proposed findings and conclusions. Briefs and proposed findings and conclusions were filed on behalf of certain interested parties. These briefs, proposed findings and conclusions and the evidence in the record were considered in making the findings and conclusions set forth above. To the extent that the suggested findings and conclusions filed by interested parties are inconsistent with the findings and conclusions set forth herein, the requests to make such findings or reach such conclusions are denied for the reasons previously stated in this decision.

General findings. The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order and of the previously issued amendments thereto; and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) The tentative marketing agreement and the order, as hereby proposed to be amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the Act;

(b) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the Act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the proposed marketing agreement and the order, as hereby proposed to be amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(c) The tentative marketing agreement and the order, as hereby proposed to be amended, will regulate the handling of milk in the same manner as, and will be applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in, a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Recommended marketing agreement and order amending the order. The following order amending the order as amended regulating the handling of milk in the Delaware Valley marketing area is recommended as the detailed and appropriate means by which the foregoing conclusions may be carried out. The recommended marketing agreement is not included in this decision because the regulatory provisions thereof would be the same as those contained in the order, as hereby proposed to be amended:

1. In § 1004.8 paragraph (b) is revised to read as follows:

§ 1004.8 Pool plant.

(b) Subject to the provisions of paragraphs (c) and (d) of this section, a supply plant from which during any of the months of September through February not less than 50 percent, and during any of the months of March through August not less than 40 percent, of the milk received from dairy farmers (including milk diverted as producer milk pursuant to § 1004.15 by either the plant operator or by a cooperative association), or from a cooperative association in its capacity as a handler pursuant to § 1004.10(c) is moved during the month to a distributing plant from which a volume of fluid milk products which is not less than 50 percent during any month of September through February, or 45 percent during any month of March through August, of its receipts of milk from dairy farmers, cooperative associations, and from other plants is disposed of as route disposition during the month, and the volume disposed of as route disposition in the marketing area during the month is not less than 10 percent of such receipts. However, a supply plant shall not be qualified pursuant to this paragraph in any month in which a greater proportion of its qualifying shipments are made to a plant(s) regulated under another Federal order than to plants regulated under this order: Provided, That for the months through October 1967, this condition shall not be applicable to any plant which has continuously been a fully regulated plant under the Delaware Valley order for the months of January 1967 to the effective date of this amending order.

2. In § 1004.15 the preamble and paragraph (d) are revised to read as follows:

§ 1004.15 Producer.

"Producer" means any person, except a producer-handler as defined in any order (including this part) issued pursuant to the Act, a "dairy farmer for other markets", or any other person with respect to milk produced by him which is subject to the pricing and payment provisions of another order issued pursuant to the Act, who produces milk which is received at a pool plant or by a cooperative association in its capacity as a handler pursuant to § 1004.10(c), or is diverted to an other order plant under an agreed upon Class II disposition by both the diverting and receiving handlers and for which equivalent Class II use is available in the receiving plant to permit such assignment under the terms of the other order, or which is otherwise diverted to any other nonpool plant other than a producer-handler plant during any month(s) of March through August, or in accordance with the provisions of paragraphs (a), (b), or (c) of this section, during any month of September through February. If a handler diverting milk pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section diverts milk of any dairy farmer in excess of the limits prescribed, such dairy farmer shall be a producer only with respect to that milk physically received at a pool plant. If a handler diverting milk pursuant to paragraphs (b) or (c) of this section diverts in excess of the limits prescribed, all diversions by such handler during the month shall be pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section.

• • • • •

(d) Milk which is diverted pursuant to paragraphs (a), (b), or (c) of this section shall be deemed to have been received by the handler, for whose account it is diverted, at a pool plant at the location of the plant from which it was diverted, except that, for the purpose of applying location adjustments pursuant to §§ 1004.52 and 1004.82, milk which is diverted from a pool plant within 45 miles of the nearest of the basing points in § 1004.52 to a plant in excess of 125 miles from the nearest of such basing points or from a pool plant located in excess of 45 miles of the nearest of the basing points to a plant at which a greater location adjustment credit is applicable shall be priced at the latter location.

Federal Aviation Administration

[14 CFR Part 21]

[Docket No. 8286; Notice No. 67-33]

CERTAIN NORMAL, UTILITY, ACROBATIC, AND TRANSPORT CATEGORY AIRCRAFT

Issue of Airworthiness Certificates

The Federal Aviation Administration is considering amending § 21.183 of the Federal Aviation Regulations with respect to the issue of airworthiness certificates for normal, utility, acrobatic, and transport category aircraft other than aircraft manufactured under a production certificate or a type certificate only or an import aircraft.

Interested persons are invited to participate in the making of the proposed rule by submitting such written data, views, or arguments as they may desire. Communications should identify the docket number and be submitted in duplicate to the Federal Aviation Administration, Office of the General Counsel, Attention: Rules Docket, 800 Independence Avenue SW., Washington, D.C. 20590. All communications received on or before September 27, 1967, will be considered by the Administrator before taking action upon the proposed rule. The proposals contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received. All comments will be available, both before and after the closing date for comments, in the Rules Docket for examination by interested persons.

In order to be certificated under the provisions of paragraph (d) of § 21.183, aircraft must be inspected and found airworthy by certain specified persons before being submitted to the Administrator for inspection. In the past, there has been some confusion concerning the exact nature of this interim inspection and this has been responsible, in part, for the fact that foreign repair stations have not been authorized to make the airworthiness inspection and finding. However, because of the increasing number of requests for authority to use foreign repair stations in making the required inspections, the FAA has undertaken a complete review of the certification procedures provided under § 21.183(d). In this connection, the FAA has made an analysis of the inspections currently being performed by the domestic repair stations under § 21.183(d)(2). Based upon this analysis and taking into account the fact that the inspection and finding required under § 21.183(d)(2) are designed to assist the FAA in making its required inspection and finding, the FAA now believes that an inspection of the scope of a 100-hour inspection as outlined in Part 43 of the Federal Aviation Regulations would provide the necessary information. It is, therefore, proposed to make the 100-hour inspection the standard for the inspection required by § 21.183(d)(2).

Since it is now proposed that the airworthiness inspections required under § 21.183(d)(2) be performed in accordance with the performance rules applicable to a 100-hour inspection, the FAA considers that all persons currently authorized to perform the 100-hour inspection should be permited to make the inspections and findings required under § 21.183(d)(2). Moreover, the FAA now has sufficient personnel at Frankfurt, Beirut, Tokyo, and Manila to provide the necessary surveillance for such persons. Therefore, it is proposed to amend § 21.183(d)(2) to permit the holder of a mechanic certificate with both airframe and powerplant rating and the holder of a foreign repair station certificate under Part 145 to conduct the required inspections. This proposal could result in substantial savings in time and cost of certificating airplanes under § 21.183(d) by making it unnecessary, in every case, to ferry aircraft purchased in a foreign country back to the United States for the interim inspection when there are qualified persons available abroad.

In addition, the reference to certificated air carriers in § 21.183(d)(2) has been changed to make it clear that the air carriers authorized to make the specified inspections and findings are those holding certificates issued under Part 121 or 127 of the Federal Aviation Regulations. Furthermore, since the holder of a commercial operator certificate issued under Part 121 is presently authorized to approve aircraft for return to service as provided in that part, it is proposed to amend § 21.183(d)(2) to permit such operators to make the specified inspections and findings.

In consideration of the foregoing, it is proposed to amend § 21.183(d) of Part 21 of the Federal Aviation Regulations by amending subparagraph (2) to read as follows:

§ 21.183 Issue of airworthiness certificates for normal, utility, acrobatic, and transport category aircraft.

• • • • •

(d) Other aircraft. • • •

(2) The aircraft (except an experimentally certificated aircraft that previously had been issued a different airworthiness certificate under this section) has been inspected in accordance with the performance rules for 100-hour inspections set forth in § 43.15 of this chapter and found airworthy by—

(i) The manufacturer;

(ii) The holder of a repair station certificate as provided in Part 145 of this chapter;

(iii) The holder of a mechanic certificate with both airframe and powerplant ratings as provided in Part 65 of this chapter; or

(iv) The holder of a certificate issued under Part 121 or 127 of this chapter, and having a maintenance and inspection organization appropriate to the aircraft type; and

• • • • •

These amendments are proposed under the authority of sections 313(a), 601, and 603 of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (49 U.S.C. 1354, 1421, and 1423).

RESTRICTED AREA

Proposed Designation; Withdrawal of Proposed Rule Making

In a notice of proposed rule making published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on March 25, 1967 (32 F.R. 4543) it was stated that the Department of the Air Force had submitted a request for the designation of temporary restricted airspace in eastern North Carolina to contain a large scale U.S. Strike Command field exercise, Kitty Hawk.

The Air Force recently advised that the Kitty Hawk exercise is canceled. In consideration of the foregoing, notice is hereby given that the proposal contained in Airspace Docket No. 66-SO-25 is withdrawn.

This notice of withdrawal is made under the authority of section 307(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (49 U.S.C. 1348).

SEASONAL EXEMPTION FOR COTTON STORING INDUSTRY

Compressing of Cotton

Pursuant to section 7(c) of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 (29 U.S.C. 207(c)); Reorganization Plan No. 6 of 1950 (3 CFR 1949–53 Comp., p. 1004), and General Order No. 45A of the Secretary of Labor (14 F.R. 3290), I propose to amend the seasonal industry determination for the storing of cotton (32 F.R. 5775 incorporating by reference 5 F.R. 3772) to include the compressing of cotton in cotton storing establishments. Part 526 of Title 29 of the Code of Federal Regulations will govern the procedure for making this determination.

The amended determination would redefine the industry to include the storing and compressing of cotton in cotton warehouses and compress warehouse facilities, and any operations necessary and incidental thereto.

The issue presented is whether the industry thus redefined is of a seasonal nature within the meaning of 29 CFR 526.2(a). (See § 526.4(a).)

Any person interested in this proposal may present pertinent written data, views, or argument to the Administrator, Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions, U.S. Department of Labor, 14th Street and Constitution Avenue NW., Washington, D.C. 20210, within 30 days after this document appears in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

FEDERAL SAVINGS AND LOAN INSURANCE CORPORATION

Operations; Reporting Requirements

JULY 20, 1967.

Resolved that, for the purpose of implementing subsection (1) of section 407 of the National Housing Act (12 U.S.C. sec. 1730(1)) as enacted by the Financial Institutions Supervisory Act of 1966, containing requirements for reports to the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation with respect to control of institutions whose accounts are insured by such Corporation, and pursuant to Part 508 of the general regulations of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board (12 CFR Part 508) and § 567.1 of the rules and regulations for Insurance of Accounts (12 CFR 567.1), it is hereby proposed that Part 563 of the rules and regulations for Insurance of Accounts (12 CFR Part 563) be amended by adding immediately after § 563.18, a new section, § 563.18–1, to read as follows:

§ 563.18–1 Reports of change in control; other reports; form and filing of such reports.

(a) Report of change in control. It shall be the duty of the president or other chief executive officer of an insured institution to report promptly to the Corporation whenever he is informed or has reason to believe that a change has occurred in the outstanding voting stock of any insured institution resulting in control or a change in the control of the institution. If there is any doubt concerning whether a change in ownership or other change in the outstanding voting stock of an insured institution is sufficient to result in control or a change in the control thereof, such doubt shall be resolved in favor of reporting the facts to the Corporation.

(b) Loans secured by voting stock of another insured institution. Whenever an insured institution makes a loan or loans secured (or to be secured) by 25 percent or more of the voting stock of another insured institution, the president or other chief executive officer of the lending institution shall promptly report such fact to the Corporation. No such report need be made in those cases where the borrower has been the owner of record of the stock for a period of 1 year or more, or the stock is of a newly organized insured institution prior to its opening.

(c) Contents of reports of change in voting stock or loans secured by such stock. The reports required under paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section shall contain the following information to the extent that it is known to the person making the report: (1) The number of shares involved, (2) the names of the sellers (or transferors), (3) the names of the purchasers (or transferees), (4) the names of the beneficial owners if the shares are of record in another name or other names, (5) the purchase price, (6) the total number of shares owned by the sellers (or transferors), the purchasers (or transferees) and the beneficial owners both immediately before and after the transaction, (7) in the event control or a change in the control of an insured institution results from the substitution, designation, or appointment of a holder of any proxies, consents, or authorizations in respect to the voting stock of the institution, the name of the holder and the number of shares subject to such proxies, consents, or authorizations, and the number of shares owned of record or beneficially by such holder, and (8) in the case of a loan, (i) the name of the borrower, (ii) the amount of the loan, and (iii) the name of the institution issuing the stock securing the loan and the number of shares securing the loan. In addition to the foregoing, such reports shall contain such other information as may be available to inform the Corporation of the effect of the transaction upon control of the institution whose stock is involved.

(d) Change in chief executive officer or director. Whenever a change such as is described in paragraph (a) of this section occurs, the insured institution involved shall report promptly to the Corporation any change or changes, or replacement or replacements, of its chief executive officer or of any director occurring concurrently with or within 60 days prior to or within the 12-month period next succeeding such change in control. Such report shall include a statement of the past and current business and professional affiliations of the new chief executive officer or director.

(e) Other reports. The Corporation may also require insured institutions and individuals or other persons who have or have had any connection with the management of an insured institution to provide such periodic or other reports or disclosures as the Corporation may determine to be necessary or appropriate for the protection of investors or the Corporation.

(f) Form and filing of reports. Unless otherwise specified by the Corporation, the reports provided for in this section shall be in letter form, and copies thereof shall be filed as follows: One copy shall be forwarded to the Federal home loan bank of the district in which the insured institution is located and two copies to the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, Washington, D.C. 20552.

(g) Penalty for failure to report. For the willful failure of any institution or person to submit, within the time prescribed by the Corporation, any report or disclosure required under this section, such institution or person shall be subject to a civil penalty of not to exceed $1,000 (which penalty shall be cummulative as to any other remedies) for each and every day of the continuance of such failure, which the Corporation may recover by suit or otherwise for its own use. The Corporation may, at any time before collection of any such penalty, whether before or after the bringing of an action or other legal proceedings, the obtaining of any judgment or other recovery, or the issuance or levy of any execution or other legal process therefor, and with or without consideration, compromise or remit in whole or in part any such penalty or any such recovery.

(h) Definitions. As used in this section—

(1) The term "stock" means any capital stock or similar security or any share or capital account in any insured institution, whether such institution is a stock company or a mutual institution, and any rights, interests, or powers with respect thereto.

(2) The term "control" means the power to directly or indirectly direct or cause the direction of the management or policies of the insured institution, and includes but is not limited to any change in the direct or indirect ownership of more than 10 percent of the voting stock of an insured institution, or in the holding of any proxies, consents, or authorizations in respect to voting rights to more than 10 percent of such stock.

(3) The term "individuals or other persons who have or have had any connection with the management of an insured institution" is hereby defined to include, for the purposes of paragraphs (a) through (d) of this section, any individual required by said paragraphs to provide any report or disclosure.

(4) The term "promptly" means within a period of not to exceed 15 days.

(Secs. 402, 407, 48 Stat. 1256, 1260, as amended; 12 U.S.C. 1725, 1730. Reorg. Plan No. 3 of 1947, 12 F.R. 4981, 3 CFR, 1943–48 Comp., p. 1071)

Resolved further that all interested persons are hereby given the opportunity to submit written data, views, or arguments on the following subjects and issues: (1) Whether said proposed amendment should be adopted as proposed; (2) whether said proposed amendment should be modified and adopted as modified; (3) whether said proposed amendment should be rejected. SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

[Release No. 35-15798]

COMPANIES DEEMED NOT TO BE ELECTRIC OR GAS UTILITY COMPANIES

Notice of Proposed Rule Making

Notice is hereby given that the Securities and Exchange Commission has under consideration an amendment to Rule 7 (17 CFR 250.7) under the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("Act") (15 U.S.C. 79a et seq.) to provide for an additional exclusion from the statutory definition of a utility company.

Section 2(a)(3) of the Act sets forth the definition of an electric utility company essentially as "any company which owns or operates facilities used for the generation, transmission, or distribution of electric energy for sale * * *". Section 2(a)(4) of the Act sets forth the definition of a gas utility company essentially as "any company which owns or operates facilities used for the distribution at retail * * * of natural or manufactured gas for heat, light, or power." The Commission is empowered by both sections to adopt rules and regulations excluding specific classes of companies from the definitions of a public-utility company.

Rule 7 (17 CFR 250.7) under the Act, which has been adopted under sections 2(a)(3) and 2(a)(4) of the Act, specifies two classes of companies deemed not to be electric or gas utility companies. Rule 7(a) (17 CFR 250.7(a)) provides that:

> Any company which is primarily engaged in one or more businesses other than the business of any electric or gas utility company, shall not be deemed an electric or gas utility company within the meaning of section 2(a)(3) or section 2(a)(4) of the Act if the gross sales of electric energy, or of natural or manufactured gas distributed at retail by means of the facilities owned or operated by such company, did not exceed $100,000 during the previous calendar year.

The amendment to Rule 7 (17 CFR 250.7) would add a new paragraph (c) which would provide an additional exclusion from the definitions in sections 2(a)(3) and 2(a)(4) of the Act, to a company which (1) owns no utility assets located within any State of the United States, (2) has no subsidiary company owning such assets within the United States, and (3) is engaged solely in businesses outside the United States, if its gross sales of electric energy or of natural or manufactured gas distributed at retail by means of facilities owned or operated by such company, did not exceed 1 percent of its gross revenues during the previous calendar year.

Essentially, the proposed amendment would apply to companies incorporated within the United States but operating solely outside the United States. Such a company would be one who produced electric energy or gas primarily for its own consumption or consumption by affiliate companies, but which would have surplus available for resale and where such sales would produce gross revenues in excess of $100,000. The purpose of amending Rule 7 (17 CFR 250.7) is to obviate the need for a holding company to apply periodically for an exemption under section 3(a)(5) (of the Act) as such new foreign subsidiary companies are acquired or organized and are primarily engaged in nonutility businesses.

The text of the proposed amendment to Rule 7 reads as follows:

§ 250.7 Companies deemed not to be electric or gas utility companies.

* * * * *

(c) Any company, which (1) owns no utility assets located within any State of the United States, (2) has no subsidiary company owning any such assets so located, and (3) is engaged solely in business outside the United States, shall not be deemed to be an electric or gas utility company within the meaning of section 2(a)(3) or section 2(a)(4) of the Act, if its gross sales of electric energy or of natural or manufactured gas distributed at retail, by means of facilities owned or operated by such company, did not exceed 1 percent of its gross revenues during the previous calendar year.

(Secs. 2(a)(3), 2(a)(4), 20(a), 49 Stat. 804, 833, 15 U.S.C. 79b(a)(3), 79b(a)(4), 79t(a))

All interested persons are invited to submit views and comments on the amendment to Rule 7. Written statements of views and comments in respect of the proposed rule should be submitted to the Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington, D.C. 20549, on or before August 30, 1967. All such communications will be available for public inspection.

By the Commission.

SMALL BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

[13 CFR Part 107]

INVESTMENT COMPANIES

Examinations and Records and Reports

Notice is hereby given that pursuant to authority contained in section 308 of the Small Business Investment Act of 1958, Public Law 85-699, 72 Stat. 694, as amended, it is proposed to amend, as set forth below, Part 107 of Subchapter B, Chapter I, of Title 13 of the Code of Federal Regulations, as revised in 29 F.R. 16946–16961, and amended in 30 F.R. 534, 1187, 2652, 2653, 2654, 3635, 3854, 7597, 7651, 8775, 8900, 11960, 13005, 14095, 14850, 14851, 31 F.R. 2815, 4954, 4954–4955, 9720, 10114, 13532, and 32 F.R. 2769, 6620, and 7743, by amending §§ 107.801 and 107.802. Prior to final adoption of such amendment, consideration will be given to any comments or suggestions pertaining thereto which are submitted in writing, in triplicate, to the Office of the Associate Administrator for Investment, Small Business Administration, Washington, D.C. 20416, within a period of thirty (30) days of the date of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Information. The proposed amendment would modify the language of §§ 107.801(e) and 107.802(c)(1) in such manner as to bring it into conformance with the model language recommended by the Comptroller General of the United States for identifying eligible public accountants who may conduct audits of federally chartered organizations, other organizations tinged with the public interest, or activities wholly or partially supported by Federal funds. Upon adoption of this amendment, only public accountants certified or licensed by a regulatory authority of a State or other political subdivision of the United States (and thus subject to the regulations, disciplinary measures, and a code of ethics provided under State laws) would be eligible to conduct the annual audits of Licensees.

The title of § 107.802 would be changed to include a reference to records, as well as reports, since the provisions of this section relate to both subjects.

Paragraph (c) of § 107.802 would be amended to provide for financial reporting to SBA by Licensees on a regular basis only once annually (at the end of the fiscal year for SBA purposes), rather than both annually and semiannually as at present. In addition, the fiscal year to which such annual report would relate would be administratively determined by SBA for each Licensee. The purpose would be to inaugurate and maintain a system of staggered reporting on a quarterly basis whereby the workflow in SBA respecting Licensee reports would be evened out, and the periodic examination of Licensees by SBA examiners at times not conflicting with dates of annual independent audits would be facilitated.

Upon adoption of this amendment SBA would assign to each Licensee an annual reporting period ending as of the close of a particular quarter of the calendar year. Consideration would be given to present fiscal years of Licensees for their own corporate purposes, and to other factors, in making these assignments, and Licensees would have an opportunity to request a different reporting period, when justified, before the assignments became final.

Proposed changes in paragraph (d) of § 107.802 would include the prescribing of a revised form of the Financial Report, SBA Form 468, and a requirement that money amounts in financial reports of Licensees be shown in whole dollars to simplify the preparation of financial and statistical summaries of small business investment company data.

Other proposed changes in § 107.802 would accomplish, primarily, the correction of references to the address of SBA to take account of the agency's move to its new location and the conformance of instructions on report verification to the conditions which would exist upon adoption of the revised SBA Form 468.

It is proposed to amend the Regulations Governing Small Business Investment Companies as follows:

1. By amending paragraph (e) of § 107.801 to read as follows:

§ 107.801 Examinations.

IMPORTED PARTS USED IN ASSEMBLING FISHING RODS AND REELS

Country of Origin Marking

JULY 24, 1967.

The Bureau of Customs has recently reviewed the application of the country of origin marking requirements of section 1304, title 19, United States Code, to imported parts used in assembling fishing rods and reels in the United States.

In some instances fishing rods, complete except for handles, are imported and permanently attached to handles made in the United States. The Bureau is of the opinion that a manufacturer who produces fishing rods in such manner may be considered the ultimate purchaser of the imported rod parts, within the contemplation of 19 U.S.C. 1304(a) and § 11.8(e) of the Customs Regulations (19 CFR 11.8(e)). Therefore, a country of origin marking on the end of the rod part to be attached to the handle will be acceptable since such marking will remain visible until the imported part reaches the ultimate purchaser (manufacturer). The imported parts may be excepted from individual marking pursuant to 19 U.S.C. 1304(a)(3)(D) and § 11.10(a) of the Customs Regulations (19 CFR 11.10(a)) if they are imported in containers legibly and conspicuously marked to indicate the country of origin, and the customs officers at the port of entry are satisfied that such containers will reach the ultimate purchaser unopened and that the contents will be used by such ultimate purchaser only in producing complete fishing rods. An exception under 19 U.S.C. 1304(a)(3)(H) may also be in order if the components are ordered directly by the ultimate purchaser under terms which will insure that the order will be filled only with articles manufactured in a named country.

In some instances fishing reels are imported in an unassembled or partially assembled condition, and assembled in the United States. Some minor parts made in the United States may be used in assembling the reels. The Bureau is of the opinion that the assembly of such reels, where all or substantially all of the components are imported, cannot be considered to result in the manufacture of a new and different article in the United States. When fishing reels are imported in an unassembled condition, one of the parts, such as the main reel housing, should be marked to indicate the country of origin so that the marking will be legible and conspicuous after the reels are assembled.

This ruling shall be effective as to merchandise entered, or withdrawn from warehouse, for consumption on and after September 1, 1967.

[SEAL] LESTER D. JOHNSON,
Commissioner of Customs.

DARTBOARDS AND DARTGAMES FROM ENGLAND

Notice of Tentative Determination

JULY 20, 1967.

Information was received on June 30, 1966, that dartboards and dartgames imported from England were being sold at less than fair value within the meaning of the Antidumping Act, 1921, as amended (19 U.S.C. 160 et seq.). This information was the subject of an "Antidumping Proceeding Notice" which was published pursuant to section 14.6(d), Customs Regulations, in the FEDERAL REGISTER of August 25, 1966, on page 11277 thereof.

On January 17, 1967, the Commissioner of Customs issued a withholding of appraisement notice with respect to such merchandise, which was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER dated January 21, 1967.

I hereby make a tentative determination that dartboards and dartgames imported from England are not being, nor likely to be, sold at less than fair value within the meaning of section 201(a) of the Antidumping Act, 1921, as amended (19 U.S.C. 160(a)).

STATEMENT OF REASONS ON WHICH THIS TENTATIVE DETERMINATION IS BASED

Sales to the United States were made both to purchasers related to the manufacturer within the meaning of section 207 of the Antidumping Act, 1921, as amended (19 U.S.C. 166), and to purchasers buying outright in transactions not involving such relationship. Sufficient quantities of the merchandise were sold in the home market to afford a proper basis of comparison. Purchase price or exporter's sales price, as applicable, were compared with adjusted home market price for fair value purposes.

Purchase price was calculated by adding to the ex-factory price for exportation to the United States, as provided for in section 203 of the Antidumping Act, 1921, as amended (19 U.S.C. 162), a 2½ percent rebate of taxes granted by the British Government on exportation of the merchandise.

Exporter's sales price was based on the resale price of the merchandise in the United States by the United States subsidiary of one manufacturer. From this price were deducted commission, ocean freight and insurance, United States duty, and inland freight incurred both in the United States and England. To the result was added as provided for in section 204 of the Antidumping Act (19 U.S.C. 166), the 2½ percent rebate paid by the British Government on exportation of the merchandise.

Adjusted home market price was calculated by deducting from the gross price to United Kingdom purchasers, a trade discount, a cash discount, and as appropriate, a quantity discount, a commission and an additional trade discount.

Comparison of purchase price and exporter's sales price, as applicable, with adjusted home market price revealed that adjusted home market price was not higher than purchase price or exporter's sales price except in a few instances. The amounts involved in these few sales were minimal. The exporter upon being advised of these sales at less than adjusted home market price provided assurances that it would make no future sales at less than home market price regardless of the disposition of the investigation.

Such written submissions as interested parties may care to make with respect to the contemplated action will be given appropriate consideration by the Secretary of the Treasury.

If any person believes that any information obtained by the Bureau of Customs in the course of this antidumping proceeding is inaccurate or that for any other reason the tentative determination is in error, he may request in writing that the Secretary of the Treasury afford him an opportunity to present his views in this regard.

Any such written submissions or requests should be addressed to the Commissioner of Customs, 2100 K Street NW., Washington, D.C. 20226, in time to be received by his office not later than 30 days from the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

This tentative determination and the statement of reasons therefor are published pursuant to § 14.8(a) of the Customs Regulations (19 CFR 14.8(a)).

[SEAL] TRUE DAVIS,
Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

TUBELESS TIRE VALVES FROM WEST GERMANY

Determination of Sales at Less Than Fair Value

JULY 21, 1967.

On May 16, 1967, there was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER a "Notice of Discontinuance of Investigation and Determination Regarding Fair Value," with regard to tubeless tire valves from West Germany.

The statement of reasons was published in the above-mentioned notice, and interested parties were afforded until June 15, 1967, to make written submissions or requests for an opportunity to present views in connection with the determination.

No persuasive written submissions and no requests having been received, I hereby determine for the reasons stated in the above-mentioned notice that finished tubeless tire valves imported from West Germany, with the exceptions noted below, are being, or are likely to be, sold at less than fair value within the meaning of section 201(a) of the Antidumping Act, 1921, as amended (19 U.S.C. 160(a)).

I further determine for the reasons stated in the above-mentioned notice that finished tubeless tire valves (1) TR 413 and 415 produced by EHA Ventilfabrik, Muhlheim Am Main, West Germany, but only if purchased in quantities of over 33,000 units per month over a significant period of time; (2) TR 413 and 415 produced by Alligator Ventilfabrik, Wurttemberg, Germany; and (3) TR 414, 416, 420, 423, and 425 produced by EHA Ventilfabrik, Muhlheim Am Main, West Germany, are not being, nor likely to be, sold at less than fair value within the meaning of the Antidumping Act, 1921, as amended.

These determinations are published pursuant to section 201(c) of the Antidumping Act, 1921, as amended (19 U.S.C. 160(c)).

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

WATCHES AND WATCH MOVEMENTS

Clarification and Implementation of Policy Prohibiting Transfers of Duty-Free Quotas Issued to Producers Located in the Virgin Islands, Guam, and American Samoa

Public Law 89-805, approved November 10, 1966, establishes a limitation on the number of watches and watch movements containing foreign components which may be imported duty-free from the United States insular possessions. Under General Headnote 3(a) of the Tariff Schedules of the United States, duty-free treatment is allowed an article produced in the insular possessions if not more than fifty percent of the total value of such article is of foreign origin. The purpose of this duty-free treatment is to stimulate the development of light industry in the insular possessions, thereby contributing to their economies. Congress has made it clear that this purpose continues to be the primary consideration in the allocation of duty-free watch quotas under Public Law 89-805.

On March 15, 1967, under the authority of Public Law 89-805, the Departments of the Interior and Commerce issued jointly an interim allocation of quotas among producers of watches and watch movements containing foreign components which may be entered duty-free into the customs territory of the United States from the U.S. insular possessions. This allocation expressly provides that: "The sale or transfer of quotas by one firm to another is not authorized. Unused quotas are subject to reallocation by the Departments." (32 F.R. 4176; March 17, 1967). The purpose of this notice is to interpret and to implement the above quoted provision for the 1967 quota year.

The rule making requirements of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act are not applicable to the interpretative portions of this notice. To the extent that such requirements may be applicable to the implementing portions of this notice, the Departments have determined that notice and public procedure thereon are impracticable and contrary to the public interest. The only firms affected by this notice are those to which allocations have been made who wish to make a sale or transfer of their business during the present calendar year. Thus time is of the essence in announcing to such firms the rules under which sales or transfers of businesses to which quotas have been allocated will be permitted by the Departments during the 1967 quota year. The following rules, therefore, are final upon publication of this notice:

SECTION 1. The sale or transfer of a quota from one firm to another is not permitted. A quota thus sold or transferred will be canceled.

SEC. 2. The sale or transfer of a business together with its quota, as defined in section 4 hereof, is considered a sale or transfer of a quota by one firm to another within the meaning of the prohibition contained in the March 15, 1967, notice of interim quota allocations.

SEC. 3. The sale or transfer of a business together with a quota may be permitted after the effective date of this notice if the prior approval of the Secretaries or the delegates is secured: Provided, however, That the firm sold or transferred remains in the business as a separate and distinct entity.

SEC. 4. Sale or transfer of a business means the sale or transfer of control, whether temporary or permanent, over a firm to which a quota has been allocated, to any other firm, corporation, partnership, person or other legal entity by any means whatsoever, including but not limited to, by merger, transfer of stocks or assets or voting trusts.

SEC. 5. The sale or transfer of a business, as defined in section 4 above, without the prior approval of the Secretaries or their delegates will result in the cancellation of the quota allocated to the firm whose business has been sold or transferred.

SEC. 6. If a proposed sale or transfer of a business to which a quota has been allocated is approved by the Secretaries or their delegates, the unused portion of the quota allocated to the firm whose business has been transferred or sold or that portion thereof not in excess of the number of units assembled by it which were entered duty-free into the customs territory of the United States during the calendar year 1966, whichever is less, will be allocated to the transferee.

SEC. 7. The prior approval of the Secretaries or their delegates to the sale or transfer of a business may be sought by submitting a written request to the Secretaries, setting forth all facts regarding such sale or transfer addressed to:

Business and Defense Services Administration
U.S. Department of Commerce
Washington, D.C. 20230
Attention: Scientific, Photographic and Business Equipment Division

SEC. 8. Every firm to which a quota has been granted is required, on August 15, 1967, and on January 15, 1968, to provide the Departments via registered mail on Form BDSAF 779, which will be forwarded to each firm at its territorial address of record not later than August 1, 1967, and will also be available during office hours at the address listed in section 7 above, with information regarding any sales or transfers of all or part of their respective businesses by any means whatsoever which occurred during the period January 1 through July 31, 1967 and August 1 through December 31, 1967. Such information will include the names and addresses of parties owning or holding any legal or equitable interest in such firm as of January 1, 1967, with any changes thereto which may have occurred during the reporting period and the effective date on which such changes occurred, and any agreements entered into by the firm or any of its officers or stockholders which would have the effect of transferring control over management and operation of the firm.

In any event, the firm must report any sales or transfers to the Departments other than those approved by the Secretaries or their delegates, via registered mail, within fifteen days following the date upon which these are effected.

SEC. 9. Any firm initially determined by the Secretaries or their delegates to have made a sale or transfer in violation of the provisions of this notice shall, upon receipt of written notice of such initial determination mailed, registered or certified mail return receipt requested, to the territorial address of record of the firm, be entitled to a full hearing on the question of cancellation pursuant to rules and regulations hereafter to be promulgated. Failure of the firm to make written request for such hearing within fifteen days from the date of receipt of an initial determination shall constitute a waiver of its right to the hearing and shall result in the automatic cancellation of its quota as herein specified. Requests for a hearing must be mailed to the address specified in section 7 hereof. The computation of time to determine whether the fifteen day period has run shall be made in accordance with the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

SEC. 10. The firm whose quota has been canceled pursuant to this notice may be declared ineligible for quota allocations in future years.

SEC. 11. The unused portions of any quotas canceled pursuant to this notice shall be reallocated among quota holders not affected by cancellations and which are not transferees or purchasers in violation of this notice.

LAWRENCE C. MCQUADE,
Acting Assistant Secretary for Domestic and International Business, Department of Commerce.

HARRY R. ANDERSON,
Assistant Secretary for Public Land Management, Department of the Interior.

LAUREL CABLEVISION CO. ET AL.

Memorandum Opinion and Order Instituting Consolidated Hearing

In re petitions by Laurel Cablevision Co., Somerset, Pa., Docket No. 17538, File No. CATV 100-24; and Punxsutawney TV Cable Co., Inc., Punxsutawney, Pa., Docket No. 17539, File No. CATV 100-155; for authority pursuant to § 74.1107 of the rules to operate CATV systems in the Johnstown-Altoona television market; and in re application of New York-Penn Microwave Corp., Brockport, Pa., Docket No. 17540, File No. 7793-C1-P-66, for construction permit for new point-to-point microwave radio stations.

1. The Commission has before it two petitions for waiver of the evidentiary hearing requirements of § 74.1107 of the rules, involving the Johnstown-Altoona market, the 38th market: (a) Laurel Cablevision (CATV 100-24) proposes to carry the three network-affiliated stations from Johnstown-Altoona and the three network-affiliated and one educational station from Pittsburgh, and to import the distant signals of three network-affiliated stations (two from the Wheeling-Steubenville market and one from the Clarksburg market), and an educational station located at Clearfield, Pa., in the Johnstown-Altoona market; (b) Punxsutawney TV Cable Co., Inc., is operating in Punxsutawney and carries two of the three Johnstown-Altoona stations (Channels 6 and 10), the three network-affiliated and one educational stations from Pittsburgh, and another educational station from Clearfield. In addition, it proposes to import the distant independent signal of WPIX from New York City.

2. The Johnstown-Altoona market has a total net weekly circulation of 450,700. The central cities have Channels 6, 10, 19,[1] *28, 31, 48, and *57 assigned to them; also assigned within the market are State College—*35, Clearfield—*3, and Greensburg—40. Stations are operating on Channels 6 (NBC), 10 (ABC, CBS), 56 (CBS),[2] and *3 (Educational); none of the other assigned channels has been applied for. The populations and distances from Johnstown and Altoona for the communities of the systems are as follows:

	Population	Johnstown	Altoona
Somerset, Somerset County	6,347	27	51
Punxsutawney, Jefferson County	8,805	42	42

3. The community of Somerset is within the predicted Grade B contour of the Altoona station and on the fringe of the predicted Grade A contours of the Johnstown stations. It is a distinct and separate community, located outside the Urbanized Area but within the Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area. WJAC, Inc., licensee of WJAC-TV, Johnstown, opposes the proposal. Triangle Publications, Inc., licensee of WFBG-TV, Altoona, has filed a letter commenting on the proposal.

4. The second proposal is for Punxsutawney, a community of 8,805, located within the Grade A contours of stations in the Johnstown-Altoona market. Neither of the two stations placing a predicted Grade A contour over Punxsutawney has filed an objection to the proposal. The New York-Penn Microwave application would supply to Punxsutawney the distant signal of independent television Station WPIX, New York City.

5. Westinghouse Broadcasting Co., Inc., licensee of Station KDKA-TV, Pittsburgh, has filed a petition to deny the microwave applications and has also filed an opposition to the system's proposal. Westinghouse shows that Punxsutawney is located within its predicted Grade B contour and that the station is credited with circulation in the county in which Punxsutawney is located. It is also alleged that WPIX does not now have any viewers in the county. Westinghouse asserts that it has standing because importation of the distant signal would inevitably result in some economic injury to its operation. It also urges that potential UHF development is threatened by importing the distant signals, and that no reason has been shown for the importation of the New York signal into the community of the system. The Hearst Corporation, licensee of Station WTAE-TV, Pittsburgh, also opposes the proposal. It urges that a hearing be held because of possible injury to potential UHF stations, the system's failure to state that it will carry any new UHF stations which may go on the air, and failure to carry the Johnstown UHF which does not place a predicted Grade B contour over the city of the system.

6. On the facts presented in these petitions and the opposing pleadings, we are unable to make the determination, without hearing, that importation of the requested distant signals would be consistent with the establishment and healthy maintenance of UHF development in the area. Accordingly, it is ordered, That the requests for waiver are denied.

It is further ordered, That with respect to the requests of Laurel Cablevision Co. and Punxsutawney TV Cable Co., Inc., and the application of New York-Penn Microwave Corp. (File No. 7793-C1-P-66) (insofar as it proposes to serve Punxsutawney TV Cable Co., Inc., in Punxsutawney) and pursuant to sections 4(1), 303, 307(b), and 309 of the Communications Act and § 74.1107 of the Commission's rules consolidated hearing is ordered as to said matters on the following issues:

1. To determine the present and proposed penetration and extent of CATV service in the Johnstown-Altoona market.

2. To determine the effects of current and proposed CATV service in the Johnstown-Altoona market upon existing, proposed, and potential television broadcast stations in the market.

3. To determine (1) the present policy and proposed future plans of petitioners with respect to the furnishing of any service other than the relay of the signals of broadcast stations; (2) the potential for such services; and (3) the impact of such services upon television broadcast stations in the market.

4. To determine in light of the above whether the application and proposals are consistent with the public interest.

It is further ordered, That Laurel Cablevision Co.; Punxsutawney TV Cable Co., Inc.; WJAC, Inc., licensee of Station WJAC-TV, Johnstown; Triangle Publications, Inc., licensee of Station WFBG-TV, Altoona; Rivoli Realty Co., grantee of Station WARD-TV, Johnstown; Westinghouse Broadcasting Co., Inc., licensee of Station KDKA-TV, Pittsburgh; and The Hearst Corp., licensee of Station WTAE-TV, Pittsburgh; are made parties to this proceeding and, to participate, must comply with the applicable provisions of § 1.221 of the Commission's rules.

It is further ordered, That the petitions of Westinghouse Broadcasting Co., Inc. and The Hearst Corp. are granted to the extent indicated by the designation of issues and otherwise denied.

The burden of proof with respect to issues 1, 2, and 3 is upon petitioning CATV systems and with respect to issue 4 is upon the petitioning CATV systems and the applicant. A time and place for the hearing will be specified in another order.

Adopted: June 21, 1967.

Released: July 24, 1967.

All persons (including individuals, corporations, associations, firms, partnerships, and public bodies) having an interest in this proceeding and desiring to intervene therein, should notify the Secretary of the Commission promptly and file petitions for leave to intervene in accordance with Rule 5(1) (46 CFR 502.72) with a copy to all parties to this proceeding.

FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION

[Docket No. CP67-218]

ALABAMA-TENNESSEE NATURAL GAS CO.

Notice of Petition To Amend

JULY 21, 1967.

Take notice that on July 17, 1967, Alabama-Tennessee Natural Gas Co. (Petitioner), Post Office Box 918, Florence, Ala. 35630, filed in Docket No. CP67-218 a petition to amend the order issued by the Commission June 29, 1967, by authorizing Petitioner to sell and deliver additional quantities of natural gas to an existing customer, all as more fully set forth in the petition to amend which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

By the above-mentioned order, Petitioner was authorized, inter alia, to construct and operate additional natural gas facilities which increased its system daily delivery capacity by 4,650 Mcf of natural gas and also provided for the sale and delivery of a total firm daily volume of 960 Mcf of natural gas to Amoco Chemicals Corp. (Amoco), one of its existing customers. By the instant filing, Petitioner seeks authorization to increase the sale and delivery to Amoco by 140 Mcf per day of firm natural gas making its total firm daily delivery to Amoco 1,100 Mcf of natural gas. Petitioner states that Amoco has indicated that it will need the additional quantity and Petitioner and Amoco have executed an amendatory agreement, dated May 17, 1967, to this effect. Petitioner states further that the construction originally authorized herein will provide an unallocated daily system delivery capacity of 2,440 Mcf of natural gas and it will therefore have the additional volumes of natural gas available for the service proposed above. Petitioner also states that rendition of the service proposed above will not require the construction or operation of any additional natural gas facilities.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) and the regulations under the Natural Gas Act (§ 157.10) on or before August 18, 1967.

[Docket No. CP68-17]

ALABAMA-TENNESSEE NATURAL GAS CO.

Notice of Application

JULY 21, 1967.

Take notice that on July 17, 1967, Alabama-Tennessee Natural Gas Co. (Applicant), Post Office Box 918, Florence, Ala. 35630, filed in Docket No. CP68-17 an application pursuant to section 7(b) of the Natural Gas Act for permission and approval of the Commission to abandon by sale certain natural gas facilities, all as more fully set forth in the application which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

Specifically, Applicant seeks permission and approval to abandon by sale to Muscle Shoals Natural Gas Corp. (Shoals), Muscle Shoals, Ala., approximately 0.6 of a mile of 4½ inch O.D. pipeline, approximately 1.5 miles of 3½ inch O.D. pipeline and two meter stations, originally built to serve the U.S. Army Chemical Corps and presently being used to serve Muscle Shoals City, Ala., and approximately 3.3 miles of 6⅝ inch O.D. pipeline in Muscle Shoals City which was originally part of Applicant's Florence-Sheffield Lateral. Applicant states that the section of its Florence-Sheffield Lateral described above is no longer needed as the communities are now being served by an 8⅝ inch O.D. lateral line. Applicant further states that all the facilities described above are located within the city limits of Muscle Shoals City and Shoals proposes to include them in its distribution system to serve the potential market that has grown since original installation of the facilities. Applicant also states that the proposed abandonment by sale of the natural gas facilities described above will not result in any change in the natural gas service now being rendered by Applicant in any of its markets.

Applicant has agreed to sell and Shoals has agreed to purchase the natural gas facilities described above for the depreciated book value as of the date of approval of the sale, said price estimated to be $38,775.60 as of December 31, 1967.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) and the regulations under the Natural Gas Act (§ 157.10) on or before August 18, 1967.

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Power Commission by sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, a hearing will be held without further notice before the Commission on this application if no protest or petition to intervene is filed within the time required herein, if the Commission on its own review of the matter finds that permission and approval for the proposed abandonment is required by the public convenience and necessity. If a protest or petition for leave to intervene is timely filed, or if the Commission on its own motion believes that a formal hearing is required, further notice of such hearing will be duly given.

Under the procedure herein provided for, unless otherwise advised, it will be unnecessary for Applicant to appear or be represented at the hearing.

Secretary.

ARKANSAS LOUISIANA GAS CO.

Notice of Petition To Amend

JULY 20, 1967.

Take notice that on July 12, 1967, Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co. (Petitioner), Post Office Box 1126, Shreveport, La. 71102, filed in Docket No. CP65-209 a petition to amend the order issued by the Commission March 15, 1965, by authorizing Petitioner to increase its sale and delivery of natural gas to an existing customer, change the delivery point of such natural gas and relocate a sales meter, all as more fully set forth in the petition to amend which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

By the above-mentioned order, Petitioner was authorized to sell and deliver to Mississippi River Transmission Corp. (River) a volume of up to 20,000 Mcf per day of natural gas at a delivery point in North Louisiana. By the instant filing, Petitioner seeks authorization to increase the volume of natural gas sold and delivered to River up to a daily maximum of 25,000 Mcf of natural gas, pursuant to a letter agreement between Petitioner and River dated June 30, 1967, and attached to said petition to amend. Petitioner also seeks authorization to transfer the point of delivery of such natural gas from the present location in North Louisiana to a point where the Petitioner's and River's pipeline systems interconnect in Jefferson County, Ark. Petitioner states that the new delivery point is necessitated by the shifting sources of its supplies and would also deliver said natural gas at a point closer to River's general marketing area. Petitioner further seeks authorization to relocate the sales meter from the present point of delivery to the proposed delivery point.

Petitioner estimates the total cost of relocating said sales meter at approximately $4,000.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) and the regulations under the Natural Gas Act (§ 157.10) on or before August 16, 1967.

Findings and order after statutory hearing issuing small producer certificates, terminating certificate, accepting rate schedule, making successor co-respondent, granting relief, and requiring refund assurance.

On March 14, 1967, B H and D Co. and on March 31, 1967, Redfern Oil Co. filed in Docket Nos. CS67-54 and CS67-66, respectively, applications pursuant to section 7(c) of the Natural Gas Act and § 157.40 of the regulations thereunder for small producer certificates of public convenience and necessity authorizing the sale and delivery of natural gas in interstate commerce from the Permian Basin area of Texas and New Mexico, all as more fully set forth in the applications.

Applicant in Docket No. CS67-54 is not presently authorized to make sales from the Permian Basin area, but is partial successor to the interest of Rodman & Late in sales under their FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 1, Docket No. G-14752 (subsequently redesignated Rodman Petroleum Corp. & Late FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 4 and covered by the small producer certificate in Docket No. CS65-40). Applicant's rate schedule is to be accepted for filing effective December 1, 1966. The certificate will be effective as of the date of this order.

Applicant in Docket No. CS67-66 is presently authorized to make sales from the Permian Basin area and its small producer certificate shall be effective as of the date of this order.

The certificate heretofore issued in Docket No. G-15447 to Applicant in Docket No. CS67-66 shall be terminated.

Applicants have requested that they be allowed to continue to collect rates in excess of the applicable area base rate ceiling prescribed in Opinion No. 468 consistent with the Commission's order issued February 6, 1967, in Rodman and Late, et al., Docket No. CS66-48, et al. For the reasons set forth in that order Applicant in Docket No. CS67-54 will be allowed to continue the collection of the 17.2295-cent rate (B H and D Co. FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 1) now in effect under the rate schedule of Applicant's predecessor in interest. Applicant in Docket No. CS67-66 will be allowed to continue the collection of the 17.0816-cent rate (Redfern Oil Co. FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 1) now in effect under Applicant's rate schedule.

It will be necessary to make Applicant in Docket No. CS67-54 a corespondent in Docket No. G-19952. In this connection Applicant will be required to file appropriate refund assurance as hereinafter ordered.

Applicant in Docket No. CS67-66 will continue to be liable for the refund obligations in Docket No. RI62-290.

The above rates will be subject to rejection as of the date of this order in the case of Docket No. CS67-66 and as of December 1, 1966, in the case of Docket No. CS67-54 in the event the Permian court stay is dissolved or the moratorium provisions in Opinion Nos. 468 and 468-A are upheld ultimately upon the judicial review. The collection of such rates is also subject to the refund provisions of paragraph (D) of Opinion No. 468, as well as the refund provisions of Docket Nos. G-19952 and RI62-290.

The Commission staff has reviewed each application and recommends each action ordered as consistent with all substantive Commission policies and required by the public convenience and necessity.

After due notice no petition to intervene, notice of intervention, or protest to the granting of the applications has been received.

At a hearing held on July 13, 1967, the Commission on its own motion received and made a part of the record in this proceeding all evidence, including the applications and exhibits thereto, submitted in support of the authorizations sought herein, and upon consideration of the record,

The Commission finds:

(1) Applicants are engaged in the sale of natural gas in interstate commerce for resale for ultimate public consumption, subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, and each is, therefore, a "natural-gas company" within the meaning of the Natural Gas Act.

(2) The sales of natural gas hereinbefore described, as more fully described in the applications herein will be made in interstate commerce subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, and such sales by Applicants, together with the construction and operation of any facilities necessary therefor will be subject to the requirements of subsections (c) and (e) of section 7 of the Natural Gas Act.

(3) Applicants are able and willing properly to do the acts and to perform the service proposed and to conform to the provisions of the Natural Gas Act and the requirements, rules, and regulations of the Commission thereunder.

(4) Each Applicant is an independent producer of natural gas who is not affiliated with natural gas pipeline companies and whose total jurisdictional sales on a nationwide basis, together with sales of affiliated producers, were not in excess of 10,000,000 Mcf of natural gas at 14.65 p.s.i.a. during the preceding calendar year.

(5) The sales of natural gas by Applicants, together with the construction and operation of any facilities subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission necessary therefor, are required by the public convenience and necessity, and small producer certificates of public convenience and necessity therefor should be issued as hereinafter ordered and conditioned.

(6) The certificate heretofore issued in Docket No. G-15447 should be terminated.

The Commission orders:

(A) Small producer certificates of public convenience and necessity are issued upon the terms and conditions of this order authorizing the sale for resale and the delivery of natural gas in interstate commerce by Applicants from the Permian Basin area of Texas and New Mexico, together with the construction and operation of any facilities subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission necessary therefor, all as more fully described in the applications in this proceeding.

(B) The certificates granted in paragraph (A) above are not transferable and shall be effective only so long as Applicants continue the acts or operations hereby authorized in accordance with the provisions of the Natural Gas Act and the applicable rules, regulations, and orders of the Commission and particularly;

(a) The subject certificates shall be applicable only to all present and future "small producer sales," as defined in § 157.40(a)(3) of the regulations under the Natural Gas Act, from the Permian Basin area;

(b) Except where otherwise ordered herein, sales shall not be at rates in excess of those set forth in § 157.40 (b)(1) of the regulations under the Natural Gas Act; however, for sales authorized under permanent or temporary certificates prior to September 1, 1965, Applicants shall collect the rates set forth in paragraphs (H) and (I) and may file notices of change in rate for any contractually authorized rates in excess of the ceiling rates, which increased rates shall be subject to suspension pursuant to section 4(e) of the Natural Gas Act and subsequently may be rejected as of the date of filing as provided by the Order granting relief issued February 6, 1967, in Docket No. CS66-48, et al.

(c) Applicants shall file annual statements pursuant to § 154.104 of the regulations under the Natural Gas Act.

(C) The certificates granted in paragraph (A) above shall remain in effect for small producer sales until the Commission on its own motion or on application terminates said certificates because Applicant no longer qualify as small producers or fail to comply with the requirements of the Natural Gas Act, the regulations thereunder, or the terms of the certificates. Upon such termination Applicants will be required to file separate certificate applications and individual rate schedules for future sales. To the extent compliance with the terms of this order is observed, the small producer certificates will still be effective as to those sales already included thereunder.

(D) The grant of the certificates issued in paragraph (A) above shall not be construed as a waiver of the requirements of section 7 of the Natural Gas Act or Part 157 of the Commission's regulations thereunder, and is without prejudice to any findings or orders which have been or may hereafter be made by the Commission in any proceedings now pending or hereafter instituted by or against Applicants. Further, our action in this proceeding shall not foreclose nor prejudice any future proceedings or objections relating to the operation of any price or related provisions in the gas purchase contracts herein involved. Nor shall the grant of the certificates aforesaid for service to the particular customer involved imply approval of all of the terms of the contracts, particularly as to the cessation of service upon termination of said contracts as provided by section 7(b) of the Natural Gas Act. Nor shall the grant of the certificates aforesaid be construed to preclude the imposition of any sanctions pursuant to the provisions of the Natural Gas Act for the unauthorized commencement of any sales subject to said certificates.

(E) The certificates issued in paragraph (A) are effective as of the date of this order.

(F) The certificate heretofore issued in Docket No. G-15447 is terminated.

(G) B H and D Co. FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 1, together with Supplement Nos. 1 through 4, is accepted for filing effective December 1, 1966, subject to the provisions of paragraphs (H) and (J).

(H) Applicant in Docket No. CS67-54 is made a co-respondent in Docket No. G-19952 and may charge and collect, subject to refund, the 17.2295-cent rate involved in Docket No. G-19952 for sales under its FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 1 effective as of December 1, 1966, if within 30 days from the issuance of this order Applicant files with the Secretary of the Commission in Docket No. G-19952 an acceptable agreement and undertaking in the form attached to assure the refund of any amounts collected by it, together with the interest at the rate of 7 percent per annum, in excess of the amount determined to be just and reasonable in said proceeding. Unless notified to the contrary by the Secretary of the Commission within 30 days from the date of filing, the refund assurance filed herein shall be deemed to be satisfactory and to have been accepted for filing. The refund assurance filed herein shall remain in full force and effect until discharged by the Commission. Said Applicant shall also comply with the refunding and reporting procedures required by the Natural Gas Act and section 154.102 of the regulations thereunder.

(I) Applicant in Docket No. CS67-66 may continue to charge and collect the 17.0816-cent rate under its FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 1, subject to refund in Docket No. RI62-290.

(J) The rates set forth in paragraphs (H) and (I) above are subject to rejection as of December 1, 1966, and the date of the issuance of this order, respectively, in the event the Permian court stay is dissolved or the moratorium provision Opinion Nos. 468 and 468-A are upheld ultimately upon judicial review. The collection of such rates is also subject to the refund provisions of paragraph (D) of Opinion No. 468 as well as the refund provisions of Docket Nos. G-19952 and RI62-290.

JOSEPH S. GRUSS ET AL.

Order Clarifying Order Issuing Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity, Making Successor Co-respondent, Redesignating Proceeding, and Requiring Filing of Agreement and Undertaking

JULY 24, 1967.

Joseph S. Gruss (Operator), Agent, Docket No. CI65-941; Estate of Kay Kimbell, et al., Chase Petroleum Co. (Operator), Agent for John M. Clark, et al., and Joseph S. Gruss (Operator), Agent, Docket No. G-20538.

By order issued May 24, 1967, Joseph S. Gruss (Operator), Agent (Petitioner), was authorized in Docket No. CI65-941 to continue the sale of natural gas under his FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 17 (formerly Chase Petroleum Co., et al. FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 4) theretofore authorized in said docket. By notice issued April 18, 1967, in Docket No. G-4713 and published in 30 F.R. 5398 on April 15, 1965, the rate for such sale was stated to be 10 cents per Mcf at 14.65 p.s.i.a. A review of the Commission's records reveals that the current rate under Chase's rate schedule was 17 cents per Mcf subject to refund in Docket No. G-20638. Therefore, Petitioner will be made corespondent in Docket No. G-20538, said proceeding will be redesignated accordingly, and Petitioner will be required to file an agreement and undertaking to assure the refund of any amounts collected by him in excess of the amount determined to be just and reasonable in said proceeding.

The Commission finds: It is necessary and appropriate in carrying out the provisions of the Natural Gas Act that Joseph S. Gruss (Operator), Agent, be made a corespondent in the proceeding pending in Docket No. G-20538, that said proceeding should be redesignated accordingly, and that Joseph S. Gruss should be required to file an agreement and undertaking.

The Commission orders:

(A) Joseph S. Gruss (Operator), Agent, shall collect a total initial rate of 17 cents per Mcf at 14.65 p.s.i.a. subject to refund in Docket No. G-20538 pursuant to his FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 17.

(B) Joseph S. Gruss (Operator), Agent, is made a corespondent in the proceeding pending in Docket No. G-20538 and the proceeding is redesignated accordingly.

(C) Within 30 days from the issuance of this order Joseph S. Gruss (Operator), Agent, shall execute, in the form set out below, and shall file with the Secretary of the Commission an acceptable agreement and undertaking in Docket No. G-20638 to assure the refund of any amounts collected by it, together with interest at the rate of seven percent per annum, in excess of the amount determined to be just and reasonable in said proceeding. Unless notified to the contrary by the Secretary of the Commission within 30 days from the date of submission, such agreement and undertaking shall be deemed to have been accepted for filing.

(D) Joseph S. Gruss (Operator), Agent, shall comply with the refunding and reporting procedure required by the Natural Gas Act and § 154.102 of the regulations thereunder, and the agreement and undertaking filed by Joseph S. Gruss in Docket No. G-20538 shall remain in full force and effect until discharged by the Commission.

[4] The stated effective date is the effective date requested by Respondent.

[5] The suspension period is limited to 1 day.

[6] Increase due to upward B.t.u. adjustment for 1146 B.t.u. gas.

[7] Pressure base is 14.65 p.s.i.a.

[8] Initial rate.

[9] The stated effective date is the first day after expiration of the statutory notice.

[10] Increase due to upward B.t.u. adjustment for 1160 B.t.u. gas.

[11] Includes 2.25 cents per Mcf upward B.t.u. adjustment which is maximum allowed under terms of contract, as amended.

[12] Includes 2.22 cents per Mcf upward B.t.u. adjustment. Maximum adjustment allowed under terms of contract, as amended, is 2.25 cents per Mcf.

[13] Contract Amendment dated May 26, 1967, which provides for measurement of B.t.u. content on a wet basis and at a pressure equivalent to 30 inches of mercury at 32° F.

U.S. Natural Gas Corp. (U.S. Natural) requests an effective date of June 27, 1967, for its proposed contract amendment and rate increase filing. Good cause has not been shown for waiving the 30-day notice requirement provided in section 4(d) of tthe Natural Gas Act to permit an earlier effective date for U.S. Natural's rate filings and such request is denied.

Humble Oil & Refining Co. (Humble) and U.S. Natural have filed rate increases involving the application of upward B.t.u. price adjustments to their jurisdictional sales of gas from the Desert Spring Field, Sweetwater County, Wyo., to Colorado Interstate Gas Co. The proposed rate increases are from a permanently certificated rate of 15 cents per Mcf. Humble proposes a rate of 17.22 cents per Mcf as a result of a 2.22 cents per Mcf upward B.t.u. adjustment for 1148 B.t.u. gas. U.S. Natural proposes a rate of 17.25 cents per Mcf resulting from a 2.25 cents per Mcf maximum upward B.t.u. adjustment provided by the contract.

Humble and U.S. Natural have filed the above rate changes to put into effect B.t.u. price adjustment provisions contained in contract amendments previously accepted by the Commission. The contract amendments provide for proportional upward and downward B.t.u. adjustments from a base of 1000 B.t.u.'s, with such adjustment not to exceed plus or minus 2.25 cents per Mcf.

Concurrently with the filing of their rate increases, Humble and U.S. Natural submitted contract amendments dated June 8, 1967,[14] and May 24, 1967,[15] respectively, which provide for measurement of B.t.u. content on a wet basis and at a pressure equivalent to 30 inches of mercury at 32° F. We believe that it would be in the public interest to accept for filing Humble and U.S. Natural's aforementioned contract amendments to become effective on July 21, 1967 (Humble), the proposed effective date, and July 28, 1967 (U.S. Natural), the date of expiration of the statutory notice, but not the proposed rates contained therein, which are suspended as hereinafter ordered.

Humble and U.S. Natural's proposed increased rates and charges exceed the applicable initial rate ceiling of 15 cents per Mcf for Wyoming as announced in the Commission's Statement of General Policy No. 61-1, as amended (18 CFR 2.56). Since the proposed increases relate only to B.t.u. adjustment and exceed the area initial rate ceiling by only the contractual B.t.u. adjustment, we conclude that they should be suspended for 1 day from July 21, 1967 (Humble), and July 28, 1967 (U.S. Natural).

The proposed changed rates and charges may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, or preferential, or otherwise unlawful.

The Commission finds:

(1) Good cause has been shown for accepting for filing Humble and U.S. Natural's proposed contract amendments dated June 8, 1967, and May 24, 1967, respectively, designated as Supplement No. 2 to Humble's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 403, and Supplement No. 2 to U.S. Natural's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 4, and for permitting such supplements to become effective on July 21, 1967 (Humble) and July 28, 1967 (U.S. Natural).

(2) Except for the supplements set forth in paragraph (1) above, it is necessary and proper in the public interest and to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of the Natural Gas Act that the Commission enter upon hearings concerning the lawfulness of the proposed changes, and that the above-designated supplements be suspended and the use thereof deferred as hereinafter ordered.

The Commission orders:

(A) Supplement No. 2 to Humble's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 403, and Supplement No. 2 to U.S. Natural's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 4, are accepted for filing and permitted to become effective on July 21, 1967 (Humble) and July 28, 1967 (U.S. Natural).

(B) Pursuant to the authority of the Natural Gas Act, particularly sections 4 and 15 thereof, the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, and the regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR Chapter I), public hearings shall be held upon dates to be fixed by notices from the Secretary concerning the lawfulness of the proposed increased rates and charges contained in the above-designated supplements (except the supplements set forth in paragraph (A) above).

(C) Pending hearings and decisions thereon, the rate supplements herein are suspended and their use deferred until the date shown in the "Date Suspended Until" column, and thereafter until made effective as prescribed by the Natural Gas Act: Provided, however, That the supplements to the rate schedules filed by Respondents, as set forth herein, shall become effective subject to refund on the date and in the manner herein prescribed if within 20 days from the date of the issuance of this order Respondent shall each execute and file under its above-designated docket number with the Secretary of the Commission its agreement and undertaking to comply with the refunding and reporting procedure required by the Natural Gas Act and § 154.102 of the regulations thereunder, accompanied by a certificate showing service of a copy thereof upon the purchaser, Colorado Interstate Gas Co. Unless Humble and U.S. Natural are advised to the contrary within 15 days after the filing of their respective agreement and undertaking, such agreement and undertaking shall be deemed to have been accepted.

(D) Unless otherwise ordered by the Commission, neither the suspended supplements, nor the rate schedules sought to be altered, shall be changed until disposition of these proceedings or expiration of the suspension period.

(E) Notices of intervention or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.37(f)) on or before September 6, 1967.

PANHANDLE EASTERN PIPE LINE CO.

Notice of Application

JULY 24, 1967.

Take notice that on July 17, 1967, Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Co. (Applicant), One Chase Manhattan Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10005, filed in Docket No. CP68-19 an application pursuant to subsections (b) and (c) of section 7 of the Natural Gas Act for permission and approval of the Commission to abandon by sale certain natural gas facilities and for a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing the construction and operation of certain other natural gas facilities, all as more fully set forth in the application which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

Specifically, Applicant seeks permission and approval to abandon by sale to Illinois Power Co. (Illinois) the following natural gas facilities:

(1) Approximately 21,738 feet of 10-inch pipeline together with all appurtenant facilities; and

(2) A meter and regulator station, Station No. 235+08, together with all appurtenant facilities except instruments.

Applicant also seeks authorization to construct and operate a new meter and regulator station, to be called the Decatur Meter and Regulator Station, at the site of its Chaining station 17+70 to provide a revised point of delivery to Illinois.

Applicant states that the above-proposed abandonment and construction of facilities will enable it to alleviate the burden of maintaining and operating that portion of the Decatur Lateral within an urban area and also allow Illinois to more readily develop its market within this urban area.

Applicant estimates the total cost of the proposed construction at approximately $83,000, said cost to be financed from general funds available to Applicant. Applicant has also agreed to sell and Illinois has agreed to purchase the facilities proposed to be abandoned by Applicant for the sum of $35,474, said cost representing the depreciated book value as of April 30, 1967.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) and the regulations under the Natural Gas Act (§ 157.10) on or before August 21, 1967.

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Power Commission by sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, a hearing will be held without further notice before the Commission on this application if no protest or petition to intervene is filed within the time required herein, if the Commission on its own review of the matter finds that a grant of the certificate and permission and approval for the proposed abandonment is required by the public convenience and necessity. If a protest or petition for leave to intervene is timely filed, or if the Commission on its own motion believes that a formal hearing is required, further notice of such hearing will be duly given.

Under the procedure herein provided for, unless otherwise advised, it will be unnecessary for Applicant to appear or be represented at the hearing.

GORDON M. GRANT,
Secretary.

SOUTHERN NATURAL GAS CO.

Supplemental Notice of Petition To Amend

JULY 20, 1967.

Take notice that on June 8, 1967, Southern Natural Gas Co. (Petitioner), Post Office Box 2563, Birmingham, Ala. 35202, filed in Docket No. CP67-168 a petition to amend the order issued by the Commission April 20, 1967, by authorizing Petitioner to construct the facilities originally authorized, in a different location, all as more fully set forth in the petition to amend which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

By the above-mentioned order, Petitioner was authorized to construct and operate 31.84 miles of 24-inch O.D. pipeline loop along its existing White Castle-Franklinton Line, commencing at Mile Post 70.050. In the instant filing, Petitioner requests authorization to construct and operate the same 31.84 miles of 24-inch O.D. pipeline loop on the same White Castle-Franklinton Line but commencing at Mile Post 31.590, on the north side of the Mississippi River, a short distance downstream of White Castle Compressor Station. Petitioner states that additional surveys have indicated that the hereinproposed location will enable Petitioner to construct the pipeline loop in a less densely populated, less congested area which will also result in a lesser cost of construction. Petitioner further states that the location change proposed herein will not alter the system capacity provided by the pipeline loop.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) and the regulations under the Natural Gas Act (§ 157.10) on or before August 8, 1967.

Applicant states that the facilities are necessary to enable it to take into its pipeline system the additional volumes of natural gas proposed to be purchased from South Texas Natural Gas Gathering Co. (South) which volumes will enable Applicant to improve its system reserves and deliverability and enhance the flexibility of its system natural gas supply. Applicant further states that the volumes of natural gas proposed to be purchased from South are required to enable Applicant to replenish and augment supplies of natural gas being used to serve existing and growing market requirements.

Applicant estimates the total cost of the proposed facilities at approximately $10,810,000, said cost to be financed initially from temporary bank loans and company funds and later to be made a part of a major financing program.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

KEYSTONE CUSTODIAN FUNDS, INC., AND KEYSTONE CO. OF BOSTON

Notice of Filing of Application for Order Exempting Certain Underwriting Contracts

JULY 24, 1967.

Notice is hereby given that Keystone Custodian Funds, Inc. ("Keystone"), a Delaware corporation, as Trustee of each of the following nine trusts, namely, Keystone Custodian Funds Series S-1, S-2, S-3, S-4, B-1, B-2, B-4, K-1 and K-2 ("Funds"), each registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940, 15 U.S.C. Sec. 80a-1, et seq. ("Act") as a management open-end diversified investment company, and The Keystone Co. of Boston ("Keystone-Boston") 50 Congress Street, Boston 9, Mass., a Delaware corporation, have filed an application for an order pursuant to section 6(c) of the Act exempting Keystone-Boston from the provisions of section 15(b)(1). All interested persons are referred to the application on file with the Commission for a statement of the representations therein which are summarized below.

The nine Funds are unincorporated common law trusts, each existing under a separate but substantially identical trust agreement between Keystone as Trustee and the investors in the Funds. Shares of each of the Funds are registered under the Securities Act of 1933 and such shares are offered for sale to the public in accordance with the terms of a principal underwriting contract dated August 28, 1964 ("contract") between Keystone, as Trustee for the Funds, and Keystone-Boston, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Keystone.

Section 15(b)(1) of the Act makes it unlawful for any principal underwriter for a registered open-end investment company to offer securities of such company except pursuant to a written contract, which contract shall continue in effect for a period of more than 2 years from the date of its execution only so long as such continuance is specifically approved at least annually by the Board of Directors or by vote of a majority of the outstanding voting securities of such registered investment company. Section 6(c) of the Act states that the Commission may exempt any person from the provisions of the Act if the exemption is necessary, or appropriate in the public interest and consistent with the protection of investors and the purposes fairly intended by the policy and provisions of the Act.

By order dated September 24, 1965, the Commission granted an application exempting Keystone-Boston from section 15(b)(1) of the Act on the condition that the contract continue in effect with respect to any of the Funds only so long as the continuance is specifically approved at least every 3 years by either written approval by holders of a majority of the outstanding shares of each of the Funds or the vote of a majority of such outstanding shares cast in person or by proxy at a meeting called for that purpose. By reason of such order the contract may continue in effect after August 28, 1967, only if its continuance is approved by shareholders of the Funds in the manner provided by the Commission's order.

Keystone is now preparing the proxy material necessary for submission to shareholders of the Funds of the proposal to continue the contract. The application states that Keystone has intended to submit a number of other matters to the shareholders of the Funds as part of the same solicitation of proxies; that for more than 1 year it has been engaged in a project to revise the trust agreements of each of the Funds for the purpose of modernizing and improving them; and that while the project is substantially completed, because of the importance of the project to shareholders of the Funds, Keystone believes it should have a small amount of additional time to assure itself that shareholders will receive maximum benefits from the project.

The application further states that a 6-month delay in the operation of the commitment to submit the contract to shareholders in this one instance will not materially or significantly detract from any shareholder protection or be adverse to their interests. Keystone believes that the 6-month exemption to enable it to formulate and finalize certain proposals relating to the governing instruments of the Funds will benefit shareholders. While it would be possible to submit these proposals to shareholders in separate special meetings of the Funds, Keystone believes that if shareholders were to receive two proxy statements within a short period of time, it would tend to be unnecessarily disruptive of orderly shareholder relations, and if separate proxy statements were submitted to shareholders of nine funds, it would require considerable additional and unnecessary effort and expense to Keystone well in excess of $65,000.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than August 14, 1967, at 5:30 p.m., submit to the Commission in writing a request for a hearing on the matter accompanied by a statement as to the nature of his interest, the reason for such request, and the issues of fact or law proposed to be controverted, or he may request that he be notified if the Commission shall order a hearing thereon. Any such communication should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington, D.C. 20549. A copy of such request shall be served personally or by mail (airmail if the person being served is located more than 500 miles from the point of mailing) upon applicants at the address set forth above. Proof of such service (by affidavit or in case of an attorney at law by certificate) shall be filed contemporaneously with the request. At any time after said date, as provided by Rule 0-5 of the rules and regulations under the Act, an order disposing of the application herein may be issued by the Commission upon the basis of the information stated in the application, unless an order for hearing upon the application shall be issued upon request or upon the Commission's own motion. Persons who request a hearing or advice as to whether a hearing is ordered will receive notice of further developments in this matter including the date of the hearing (if ordered) and any postponements thereof.

For the Commission (pursuant to delegated authority).

[SEAL] ORVAL L. DUBOIS,
Secretary.

NATIONAL AVIATION CORP.

Notice of Filing of Application for Order of Exemption To Permit Purchase of Securities During an Underwriting

JULY 24, 1967.

Notice is hereby given that National Aviation Corp. ("Applicant") 111 Broadway, New York, N.Y. 10006, a closed-end, nondiversified management investment company registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 ("Act"), has filed an application pursuant to section 10(f) of the Act for an order of the Commission exempting from the provisions of section 10(f) a proposed purchase by the Applicant at the public offering price of up to $2 million principal amount convertible subordinated debentures due 1992 ("the debentures") which The Cessna Aircraft Co. ("the Issuer") proposes to issue. The proposed purchase is a portion of an offering of $20 million principal amount of the debentures expected to be offered to the public as soon as the registration statement on Form S–1 of the Issuer, filed July 7, 1967, shall be made effective pursuant to section 8(a) of the Securities Act of 1933. All interested persons are referred to the application on file with the Commission for a statement of the representations made therein which are summarized below.

The firm of Hornblower & Weeks-Hemphill, Noyes will probably be one of the principal underwriters for the issue. Howard E. Buhse, a director of Applicant and a member of the executive committee, is a partner of that firm. Section 10(f) of the Act, as here pertinent, provides that no registered investment company shall knowingly purchase or otherwise acquire, during the existence of any underwriting or selling syndicate, any security (except a security of which such company is the issuer) if a director of the registered investment company is an affiliate of a principal underwriter of such security. Since one of the Applicant's directors is an affiliated person of one of the principal underwriters offering the debentures, the purchase thereof by the Applicant is prohibited. The Commission may exempt a transaction from this prohibition if and to the extent that such exemption is consistent with the protection of investors.

The Applicant in support of its application asserts that the proposed purchase of the debentures is consistent with Applicant's investment objectives and policies and is not proposed for the purpose of stimulating the market in the debentures or for the purpose of relieving the underwriters of securities otherwise unmarketable, that it will not purchase the debentures from Hornblower & Weeks-Hemphill, Noyes, that the terms of the proposed investment, if consummated, are fair and reasonable, that the amount paid will represent 1.7 percent of the Applicant's assets as of July 7, 1967.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than August 7, 1967 at 5:30 p.m., submit to the Commission in writing a request for a hearing on the matter accompanied by a statement as to the nature of his interest, the reasons for such request and the issues of fact or law proposed to be controverted, or he may request that he be notified if the Commission shall order a hearing thereon. Any such communication should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington, D.C. 20549. A copy of such request shall be served personally or by mail (airmail if the person being served is located more than 500 miles from the point of mailing) upon Applicant at the address stated above. Proof of such service (by affidavit or in case of an attorney at law by certificate) shall be filed contemporaneously with the request. At any time after said date, as provided by Rule 0–5 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the Act, an order disposing of the application herein may be issued by the Commission upon the basis of the information stated in said application, unless an order for hearing upon said application shall be issued upon request or upon the Commission's own motion. Persons who request a hearing or advice as to whether a hearing is ordered will receive notice of further developments in the matter, including the date of the hearing (if ordered) and any postponements thereof.

PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY OF OKLAHOMA

Notice of Proposed Indenture Amendment

JULY 20, 1967.

Notice is hereby given that Public Service Company of Oklahoma ("Public Service") 600 South Main Street, Tulsa, Okla. 74102, an electric utility subsidiary company of Central and South West Corp. ("Central"), a registered holding company, has filed a declaration with this Commission pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("Act") proposing the amendment of its indenture of mortgage. Public Service has designated sections 6(a) and 7 of the Act as applicable to the proposal. All interested persons are referred to the declaration, which is summarized below, for a complete statement of the proposed amendment.

Public Service proposes to amend its indenture of mortgage dated July 1, 1945, as amended ("Indenture"), to the First National Bank and Trust Company of Tulsa, as trustee, so as to increase from $125 million to $225 million the principal amount of bonds of all series that may be outstanding at any one time. The aggregate principal amount of all the bonds of Public Service now outstanding under the Indenture is $124 million.

Under Oklahoma law the proposed amendment requires the favorable vote of the greater amount in value of the outstanding stock of Public Service, which consists of 197,900 shares of preferred stock, par value $100 per share and 6,650,000 shares of common stock, par value $10 per share. Public Service does not intend to solicit proxies and Central, which owns all of the outstanding common stock of Public Service, intends to vote such stock in favor of the proposed amendment. Central states that the value of the common stock of Public Service owned by Central is sufficient for the purpose of adopting the proposed amendment.

The fees and expenses incurred and to be incurred in connection with the proposed transaction are estimated at $500. The portion of Public Service's annual counsel retainer fee which may be allocable to the proposed transaction is estimated at not to exceed $1,000. The declaration states that Public Service is of the opinion that no State commission and no Federal commission, other than this Commission, has jurisdiction over the proposed transaction.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than August 9, 1967, request in writing that a hearing be held with respect to the proposed amendment of the indenture, stating the nature of his interest, the reasons for such request, and the issues of fact or law raised by said declaration which he desires to controvert; or he may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington, D.C. 20549. A copy of such request should be served personally or by mail (airmail if the person being served is located more than 500 miles from the point of mailing) upon the declarant at the above-stated address, and proof of service (by affidavit or, in case of an attorney at law, by certificate) should be filed with the request. At any time after said date the declaration, as filed or as it may be amended, may be permitted to become effective as provided in Rule 23 of the general rules and regulations promulgated under the Act, or the Commission may grant exemption from such rules as provided in Rules 20(a) and 100 thereof or take such other action as it may deem appropriate. Persons who request a hearing or advice as to whether a hearing is ordered will receive notice of further developments in this matter, including the date of the hearing (if ordered) and any postponements thereof.

For the Commission (pursuant to delegated authority).

Title 3—THE PRESIDENT

Proclamation 3796

NATIONAL DAY OF PRAYER FOR RECONCILIATION

By the President of the United States of America

A Proclamation

From its earliest day, our nation has been dedicated to justice, to equality—and to order.

We are a people committed to the rule of law, believing that it holds the greatest hope for human progress and well-being. We must never abandon that commitment.

Today our people reaffirm their faith in law; their faith in progress; their faith in human brotherhood.

It is right to pray that strife will not bring down what we have built, nor threaten all the things we hope to build.

NOW THEREFORE I, LYNDON B. JOHNSON, President of the United States of America, do hereby set aside Sunday, July 30, 1967, as a National Day of Prayer for Peace and Reconciliation.

I call on every Governor, every Mayor, every family in the land to join in this observance. I call on all our citizens to go into their churches on this Sunday, and to pray for peace in the land we love.

We deplore the few who rely upon words and works of terror.

We mourn the many who have suffered from violence in the cities.

We dedicate ourselves once more to the rule of law, in whose absence anarchy is loosed and tragedy is born.

We pray to Almighty God, the Author of our liberty, for hearts free from hate, so that our Nation can be free from bitterness.

We pray for strength to build together so that disorder may cease, progress steadily continue, and justice prosper.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this twenty-seventh day of July, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and sixty-seven, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and ninety-second.

THE WHITE HOUSE,
July 27, 1967.

[Valencia Orange Reg. 213]

PART 908—VALENCIA ORANGES GROWN IN ARIZONA AND DESIGNATED PART OF CALIFORNIA

Limitation of Handling

§ 908.513 Valencia Orange Regulation 213.

(a) Findings. (1) Pursuant to the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 908, as amended (7 CFR Part 908), regulating the handling of Valencia oranges grown in Arizona and designated part of California, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601-674), and upon the basis of the recommendations and information submitted by the Valencia Orange Administrative Committee, established under the said amended marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of handling of such Valencia oranges, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this section until 30 days after publication hereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (5 U.S.C. 553) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which this section is based became available and the time when this section must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient, and a reasonable time is permitted, under the circumstances, for preparation for such effective time; and good cause exists for making the provisions hereof effective as hereinafter set forth. The committee held an open meeting during the current week, after giving due notice thereof, to consider supply and market conditions for Valencia oranges and the need for regulation; interested persons were afforded an opportunity to submit information and views at this meeting; the recommendation and supporting information for regulation during the period specified herein were promptly submitted to the Department after such meeting was held; the provisions of this section, including its effective time, are identical with the aforesaid recommendation of the committee, and information concerning such provisions and effective time has been disseminated among handlers of such Valencia oranges; it is necessary, in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, to make this section effective during the period herein specified; and compliance with this section will not require any special preparation on the part of persons subject hereto which cannot be completed on or before the effective date hereof. Such committee meeting was held on July 27, 1967.

(b) Order. (1) The respective quantities of Valencia oranges grown in Arizona and designated part of California which may be handled during the period July 30, 1967, through August 5, 1967, are hereby fixed as follows:

(ii) District 2: 232,500 cartons;

(iii) District 3: Unlimited movement.

(2) As used in this section, "handled," "District 1," "District 2," "District 3," and "carton" have the same meaning as when used in the said amended marketing agreement and order.

Title 14—AERONAUTICS AND SPACE

Chapter I—Federal Aviation Administration, Department of Transportation

[Airworthiness Docket No. 67–SW–32; Amdt. 39–452]

PART 39—AIRWORTHINESS DIRECTIVES

Bell Model 206A Helicopters

Investigation of a fuel tank explosion on a Bell Model 206A helicopter during ground maintenance activities revealed that the positive and negative wires of a fuel boost pump had been reversed. It is believed that this reversal was a contributing factor to the explosion.

If a similar explosion should occur in flight, a catastrophic failure of aircraft structure could result with possible serious injury or loss of life. Since the wires to the fuel boost pumps may be reversed in other helicopters of the same type design, an airworthiness directive is being issued to require inspection and modification of the fuel pump wiring on certain Model 206A helicopters.

Since a situation exists that requires immediate adoption of this regulation, it is found that notice and public procedure hereon are impracticable and good cause exists for making this amendment effective in less than thirty (30) days.

In consideration of the foregoing, and pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (31 F.R. 13697) § 39.13 of Part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations is amended by adding the following new airworthiness directive:

BELL. Applies to Model 206A helicopters, serial numbers 4 through 20, 22 through 48, 50 through 56, 59, 61, and 65.

Compliance required as indicated below after the effective date of this airworthiness directive, unless already accomplished.

To assure proper grounding of both fuel boost pumps and prevent a potentially explosive condition in the fuel tank due to improperly wired electric fuel boost pumps, accomplish the following inspection and modification:

1. Before further flight, determine by either of the following methods that the white wire from each fuel boost pump is connected to the aircraft system ground wire:

(a) If the wire identification is legible, by reference to the Master Electrical Wiring Diagram in the Model 206A Maintenance and Overhaul Manual, confirm that helicopter system wires numbered Q2A18N (to the Forward Boost Pump), and Q4A18N (to the Aft Boost Pump) are connected to the white wire from the corresponding boost pump.

(b) If the wire identification is not legible, turn all switches off and disconnect each fuel boost pump white wire from the aircraft system wire. Check each aircraft system wire thus exposed for proper grounding using an ohmmeter or continuity checking device.

If the grounding is confirmed by either of the above methods, disconnected wires may be reconnected and the helicopter returned to service for not more than 25 hours before the modification required by subparagraph 2 below is accomplished.

If grounding is not confirmed by either of the above methods, the fuel pump leads may have been reversed. Use the Master Electrical Diagram in the Maintenance and Overhaul Manual to determine correct connections, and connect the pumps to the aircraft system accordingly. The helicopter may then be returned to service for not more than 25 hours operation before the modification required by subparagraph 2 below is accomplished.

2. Within the next 25 hours time in service, modify the fuel boost pump wiring in accordance with Part B, Bell Helicopter Co. Service Letter, Model 206A—No. 21, Revision A, dated July 18, 1967, or an equivalent method approved by the Director, Southwest Region, Federal Aviation Administration.

This amendment becomes effective on July 29, 1967.

A. L. COULTER,
Acting Director, Southwest Region.

Title 15—COMMERCE AND FOREIGN TRADE

Subtitle A—Office of the Secretary of Commerce

PART 12—FAIR PACKAGING AND LABELING

Notice of proposed rulemaking regarding the Department of Commerce proposal to issue procedures for the discharge of the Secretary's responsibilities under sections 5(d) and 5(e) of the Fair Packaging and Labeling Act (Public Law 89–755, 80 Stat. 1299) was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER of May 23, 1967 (32 F.R. 7532). Interested parties were afforded an opportunity to file written comment on the proposed procedures with the Office of the General Counsel of the Department of Commerce.

On the basis of the comments which were received, several changes in the proposed procedures have been effected.

The final procedures are set forth below in the form of a new Part 12 that is hereby added to Title 15, Subtitle A, Code of Federal Regulations.

Sec.
12.1 Introduction.
12.2 Undue proliferation.
12.3 Development of voluntary standards.
12.4 Report to the Congress.

AUTHORITY: The provisions of this Part 12 issued under the authority vested in the Secretary of Commerce by secs. 5(d) and 5(e), Public Law 89–755, 80 Stat. 1299, and delegated to the Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Science and Technology by sec. 3, Department Order 177 (31 F.R. 6746), as amended (32 F.R. 9110).

§ 12.1 Introduction.

(a) These procedures apply to the discharge of the responsibility given to the Secretary of Commerce by sections 5(d) and 5(e) of the Fair Packaging and Labeling Act (Public Law 89–755, 80 Stat. 1299), hereinafter called the "Act". The word "Secretary", as used hereinafter, shall refer to the Secretary of Commerce or his authorized delegate.

(b) The Secretary does not have the responsibility or the authority under the Act to issue any regulations governing the packaging or labeling practices of private industry.

(c) The Secretary does have the responsibility and authority to:

(1) Determine whether the reasonable ability of consumers to make value comparisons with respect to any consumer commodity or reasonably comparable consumer commodities is impaired by undue proliferation of the weights, measures, or quantities in which such commodity or commodities are being distributed in packages for sale at retail.

(2) Request manufacturers, packers, and distributors, where a determination of undue proliferation has been made, to participate in the development of a voluntary product standard under the procedures governing the Department's voluntary standards program.

(3) Report to Congress with a recommendation as to whether legislation providing regulatory authority should be enacted, when after 1 year following the date private industry has been requested to participate in the development of a voluntary product standard it is determined that such a standard will not be published, or when following the publication of such a standard it is determined that the standard has not been observed.

(d) The Act does not furnish a detailed, definitive explanation of "undue proliferation". It does, however, point out that the condition of "undue proliferation" must be one which "impairs the reasonable ability of consumers to make value comparisons" with respect to consumer commodities. Generally, therefore, the Department will determine "undue proliferation" on a case-by-case basis, and, accordingly, is establishing by these procedures an orderly process for such determinations.

(e) As used hereinafter the term "undue proliferation" shall refer to such undue proliferation—of the weights, measures or quantities in which any consumer commodity or reasonably comparable consumer commodities are being distributed for sale at retail—as impairs the reasonable ability of consumers to make value comparisons with respect to such consumer commodity or commodities, as set out in section 5(d) of the Act.

§ 12.2 Undue proliferation.

(a) Information as to possible undue proliferation. Any person or group, including a State or local governmental entity, is invited to communicate information to the Secretary concerning the possible existence of undue proliferation. Such communications should be in writing and include supporting information and explanations.

(b) Initiation of inquiry as to undue proliferation. Upon receipt of information regarding the possible existence of undue proliferation, the Secretary will determine whether there has been a showing of good cause warranting an inquiry. If the Secretary determines that good cause exists, he shall initiate an inquiry for the purpose of finding facts concerning the existence of undue proliferation.

(c) Procedures for Inquiry—(1) Cooperation with State and local officials. Any inquiry initiated under paragraph (b) of this section may be conducted in cooperation with State and local weights and measures officials.

(2) Participation by interested persons. The Secretary may, during the course of the inquiry, afford interested persons or groups an opportunity to submit in writing comments, data, arguments, views, or other information relevant to the inquiry.

(d) Proposed determination as to existence of undue proliferation. (1) If, after consideration of all relevant information, the Secretary concludes that undue proliferation appears to exist, he shall publish a proposed determination to this effect. The proposed determination shall identify the particular consumer commodity or commodities involved and shall be accompanied by a concise statement of the facts upon which it is based.

(2) Within 60 days after publication of the proposed determination, any interested party may submit in writing comments, data, arguments, views, or other information relevant to the proposed determination. All written submissions shall be made a part of the public record.

(3) Within 30 days after the proposed determination has been published, any interested party may request in writing an oral hearing to present his views. The granting of such a hearing shall be at the discretion of the Secretary. Any such hearing shall be public and notice thereof shall be published at least 15 days in advance. A transcript of the hearing shall be made part of the public record.

(e) Final determination as to undue proliferation. As soon as practicable following the conclusion of the proceedings described in paragraph (d) of this section, the Secretary shall either publish a final determination of undue proliferation, or he shall publish a notice withdrawing his proposed determination of undue proliferation. In no event shall the withdrawal of a proposed determination operate to preclude the initiation of another inquiry regarding the same or similar subject matter under paragraph (b) of this section.

§ 12.3 Development of voluntary product standards.

(a) Invitation to participate in the development of a voluntary product standard. Whenever the Secretary publishes a final determination of undue proliferation under § 12.2(e), he shall invite manufacturers, packers, and distributors of the commodity or commodities involved to participate in the development of a voluntary product standard in accordance with the terms of the Act and the Department's published procedures for voluntary product standards. The term "Voluntary Product Standard" as used in this section means a standard for weights, measures or quantities in which the commodity or commodities are being distributed in packages for sale at retail.

(b) Determination that voluntary product standard will not be published. (1) If a voluntary product standard has not been developed within one year from the date on which participation was invited, the Secretary may conclude that a voluntary product standard will not likely be published. Upon reaching such a conclusion, the Secretary will publish a proposed determination that a voluntary product standard will not be published.

(2) Within 60 days after publication of the proposed determination, any interested party may submit in writing comments, data, arguments, views, or other information relevant to the proposed determination. All written submissions shall be made a part of the public record.

(3) Within 30 days after the proposed determination has been published, any interested party may request in writing an oral hearing to present his views. The granting of such a hearing shall be at the discretion of the Secretary. Any such hearing shall be public and notice thereof shall be published at least 15 days in advance. A transcript of the hearing shall be made part of the public record.

(4) As soon as practicable following the conclusion of the proceedings described in subparagraphs (2) and (3) of this paragraph, the Secretary shall either publish a final determination that a voluntary product standard will not be published, or he shall publish a notice withdrawing his proposed determination under subparagraph (1) of this paragraph. In no event shall the withdrawal of a proposed determination operate to preclude the publication of another proposed determination under subparagraph (1) of this paragraph with respect to the same or similar subject matter.

(c) Determination that a published voluntary product standard has not been observed. (1) Whenever the Secretary has reason to believe that a voluntary product standard published under these procedures is not being observed he shall initiate an inquiry to determine such fact.

(2) If, on the basis of the information developed during the inquiry, the Secretary concludes that the voluntary product standard is not being observed, he shall publish a proposed determination to this effect. The proposed determination shall identify the particular standard involved and shall be accompanied by a concise statement of the facts upon which it is based.

(3) Within 60 days after publication of the proposed determination, any interested party may submit in writing comments, data, arguments, views, or other information relevant to the proposed determination. All written submissions shall be made a part of the public record.

(4) Within 30 days after the proposed determination has been published, any interested party may request in writing an oral hearing to present his views. The granting of such a hearing shall be at the discretion of the Secretary. Any such hearing shall be public and notice thereof shall be published at least 15 days in advance. A transcript of the hearing shall be made part of the public record.

(5) As soon as practicable following the conclusion of the proceedings described in subparagraphs (3) and (4) of this paragraph, and upon consideration of all relevant information, the Secretary shall either publish a final determination that the voluntary product standard is not being observed, or he shall publish a notice withdrawing his proposed determination under subparagraph (2) of this paragraph. In no event shall the withdrawal of a proposed determination operate to preclude the initiation of another inquiry regarding the same standard under subparagraph (1) of this paragraph.

§ 12.4 Report to the Congress.

Whenever the Secretary publishes a final determination under § 12.3(b)(4) or 12.3(c)(5), he shall promptly report such determination to the Congress with a statement of the efforts that have been made under the voluntary standards program and his recommendation as to whether Congress should enact legislation providing regulatory authority to deal with the situation in question.

Effective date. This part shall become effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

J. HERBERT HOLLOMON,
Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Science and Technology.

Title 20—EMPLOYEES' BENEFITS

Chapter III—Social Security Administration, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare

[Reg. 4]

PART 404—FEDERAL OLD-AGE, SURVIVORS AND DISABILITY INSURANCE (1950_____)

Subpart K—Employment—Wages—Self-Employment—Self-Employment Income

WAGES AND EXCLUSION FROM WAGES

Regulations No. 4, as amended, of the Social Security Administration (20 CFR 404.1 et seq.) are further amended as follows:

1. Sections 404.1026 and 404.1027 are amended to read as follows:

§ 404.1026 Wages.

(a) General. (1) Whether remuneration paid after 1950 for employment performed after 1936 constitutes wages is determined under section 209 of the Act. This section and § 404.1027 (relating to the statutory exclusions from wages) apply with respect only to remuneration paid after 1950 for employment performed after 1936. Whether remuneration paid after 1936 and prior to 1940 for employment performed after 1936 constitutes wages shall be determined in accordance with the applicable provisions of law and Regulations No. 2 (20 CFR, 1938 ed., Part 402). Whether remuneration paid after 1939 and prior to 1951 for employment performed after 1936 constitutes wages shall be determined in accordance with the applicable provisions of law and Part 403 of this chapter (Regulations No. 3).

(2) The term "wages" means all remuneration for employment unless specifically excepted under section 209 of the Act (see § 404.1027).

(3) The name by which the remuneration for employment is designated is immaterial. Thus, salaries, fees, bonuses, and commissions on sales or on insurance premiums are wages within the meaning of the Act if paid as compensation for employment.

(4) Generally, the basis upon which the remuneration is paid is immaterial in determining whether the remuneration constitutes wages. Thus, it may be paid on the basis of piecework or a percentage of profits; and it may be paid hourly, daily, weekly, monthly, or annually. See, however, § 404.1027(m)(3) relating to the treatment of cash remuneration computed on a time basis for agricultural labor.

(5) Generally, the medium in which the remuneration is paid is also immaterial. It may be paid in cash or in something other than cash, as for example, goods, lodging, food, or clothing. Remuneration paid in items other than cash is computed on the basis of the fair value of such items at the time of payment. See, however, § 404.1027(l) relating to the treatment of remuneration paid in any medium other than cash for services not in the course of the employer's trade or business, for domestic service in a private home of the employer, or for agricultural labor, § 404.1027(o) for services described in section 209(j) of the Act (relating to home workers), and § 404.1027(p) relating to tips paid in a medium other than cash.

(6) Ordinarily, facilities or privileges (such as entertainment, medical services, or so-called "courtesy" discounts on purchases), furnished or offered by an employer to his employees generally are not considered as remuneration for employment if such facilities or privileges are of relatively small value and are offered or furnished by the employer merely as a means of promoting the health, good will, contentment, or efficiency of his employees. The term "facilities or privileges," however, does not ordinarily include the value of meals or lodging furnished to employees. The value of these items is wages where:

(i) It is agreed as part of the contract of employment that the employer is to furnish to the employee daily meals or regular lodging or both; or

(ii) The value of such items forms an appreciable part of the total remuneration. For example, the value of meals or lodging furnished to hospital, restaurant, or hotel employees or to seamen or other employees aboard vessels, would generally be wages because either one or both of these conditions are met.

(7) Amounts of so-called "vacation allowances" paid to an employee constitute wages. Thus, the salary of an employee on vacation, paid notwithstanding his absence from work, constitutes wages.

(8) Amounts paid specifically—either as advances or reimbursements—for traveling or other bona fide ordinary and necessary expenses incurred or reasonably expected to be incurred in the business of the employer are not wages. Traveling and other reimbursed expenses must be identified either by making a separate payment or by specifically indicating the separate amounts where both wages and expense allowances are combined in a single payment.

(9) Remuneration for employment, unless such remuneration is specifically excepted under section 209 of the Act, constitutes wages even though at the time paid the relationship of employer and employee no longer exists between the person in whose employ the services were performed and the individual who performed them.

Example: A is employed by B during January 1966, in employment and is entitled to receive remuneration of $100 for the services performed for B during the month. A leaves the employ of B on January 31, 1966. On February 15, 1966 (when A is no longer an employee of B), B pays A the remuneration of $100 which was earned for the services performed in January. The $100 is wages within the meaning of the Act.

(b) When paid and received. (1) In general, wages are received by an employee at the time they are paid by the employer to the employee. Wages are paid by an employer at the time that they are actually or constructively paid unless under subparagraph (3) of this section they are deemed to be subsequently paid. For provisions relating to the time when tips received by an employee are deemed paid to the employee, see paragraph (d) of this section.

(2) Wages are constructively paid when they are credited to the account of or set apart for an employee so that they may be drawn upon by him at any time although not then actually reduced to possession. To constitute payment in such a case (i) the wages must be credited to or set apart for the employee without any substantial limitation or restriction as to the time or manner of payment or condition upon which payment is to be made, and must be made available to him so that they may be drawn upon at any time, and their payment brought within his own control and disposition, or (ii) there is an intention by the employer to pay or to set apart or credit, and ability to pay wages when due, and failure of the employer to credit or set apart the wages is due to clerical error or inadvertence in the mechanics of payment, and because of such clerical error or inadvertence the wages are not actually available at that time. However, where the employee has authority to withhold wages from himself in the interest of the employer, his failure to reduce any of his wages to his possession shall be deemed to be in the interest of his employer and to establish the employer's intent not to pay such wages, unless there is a clear showing that such withholding was exclusively in the employee's interest. As to the time tips are deemed paid, see § 404.1026(d). For provisions relating to the treatment of deductions from remuneration as payments of remuneration, see paragraph (c) of this section.

(3) (i) The first $50 of cash remuneration paid, either actually or constructively, by an employer to an employee in a calendar quarter for:

(a) Service not in the course of the employer's trade or business and domestic service in a private home of the employer; or is deemed paid by the employer to the employee at the first moment of time in such calendar quarter that the sum of such cash payments made within such quarter is at least $50.

(ii) (a) The first $100 of cash remuneration paid, either actually or constructively, by an employer to an employee in the calendar year 1965 or 1966 for agricultural labor to which § 404.1027(m) is applicable is deemed paid by the employer to the employee at the first moment of time in such calendar year that the sum of such cash payments made within such year is at least $100.

(b) Cash remuneration paid, either actually or constructively, by an employer to an employee in a calendar year after 1966 for agricultural labor to which § 404.1027(m) is applicable, and before either of the events described in (1) or (2) of this subdivision has occurred, is deemed paid upon the occurrence of the earlier of such events, as follows:

(1) The first moment of time in such calendar year that the sum of the payments of such remuneration is at least $150; or

(2) The twentieth day in such calendar year on which the employee has performed such agricultural labor for the employer for cash remuneration computed on a time basis.

(c) Deductions by an employer from wages of an employee. The amount of any tax which is required by section 1400 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939 or section 3101 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 to be deducted by the employer from the wages of an employee is considered to be a part of the employee's wages, and is deemed to be paid to the employee as wages at the time that the deduction is made. Other amounts deducted from wages of an employee by an employer also constitute wages paid to the employee at the time of the deduction. It is immaterial that any act of Congress, or the law of any State requires or permits such deductions and the payment thereof to the United States, a State, or any political subdivision thereof.

(d) Tips.—(1) In general: Except as otherwise provided in § 404.1027(p), tips received after 1965 by an employee in the course of his employment are remuneration for employment. (For definition of the term "employer" see § 404.1064.) Tips reported by an employee to his employer in a written statement furnished to the employer pursuant to section 6053(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 are deemed to be paid to the employer at the time the written statement is furnished to the employer. Tips received by an employee which are not reported to his employer in a written statement furnished pursuant to such section 6053(a) are deemed to be paid to the employer at the time the tips are actually received by the employee.

(2) Tips received by employee in course of his employment: Tips are considered to be received by an employee in the course of his employment for an employer regardless of whether the tips are received by the employee from a person other than his employer or are paid to the employee by the employer. However, only those tips which are received by an employee on his own behalf (as distinguished from tips received on behalf of another employee) are considered as remuneration paid to the employee. Thus, where employees practice tip splitting (for example, where waiters pay a portion of the tips received by them to the busboys), each employee who receives a portion of a tip left by a customer of the employer is considered to have received tips in the course of his employment.

(3) See § 404.1027(l)(3) for discussion of tips or gratuities received before 1966.

§ 404.1027 Exclusions from wages.

(a) Annual wage limitation. (1) The term "wages" does not include that part of the remuneration paid to an employee within any calendar year:

(i) After 1950 and prior to 1955 which exceeds the first $3,600 of remuneration;

(ii) After 1954 and prior to 1959 which exceeds the first $4,200 of remuneration; or

(iii) After 1958 and prior to 1966 which exceeds the first $4,800 of remuneration; or

(iv) After 1965 which exceeds the first $6,600 of remuneration; (exclusive of remuneration excepted from wages in accordance with paragraphs (b) through (l) of this section) paid within such calendar year to such employee for employment performed for him at any time after 1936.

(2) The annual wage limitation applies only if the remuneration received during any one calendar year by an employee for employment performed after 1936 exceeds such limitation. The limitation in such case relates to the amount of remuneration received during any one calendar year for employment after 1936 and not to the amount of remuneration for employment performed in any one calendar year.

Example: Employer A, in 1965, receives $6,600 from employer B on account of $6,400 due him for employment performed in 1965. In 1966 A receives from employer B the balance of $800 due him for employment performed in 1965, and thereafter in 1966 also receives $6,600 for employment performed in 1966 for employer B. The first $4,600 of the $6,600 received during 1965 is wages in 1965. The $800 received in 1966 for employment during 1965 is wages in 1966, as is also the first $5,800 paid of the $6,600 for employment during 1966 (the $800 for 1965 employment added to the first $5,800 paid for 1966 employment constitutes the maximum remuneration which could be creditable as wages to A in 1966). The final $1,000 received by A from B in 1966 is not included as wages.

(b) Payments under employers' plans providing for payments on account of retirement, sickness, or accident disability, medical or hospitalization expenses, or death. (1) The term "wages" does not include the amount of any payment (including any amount paid by an employer for insurance or annuities, or into a fund, to provide for any such payment) made to, or on behalf of, an employee or any of his dependents under a plan or system established by an employer which makes provision for his employees generally (or for his employees generally and their dependents) or for a class or classes of his employees (or for a class or classes of his employees and their dependents), on account of:

(i) An employee's retirement;

(ii) Sickness or accident disability of an employee or any of his dependents;

(iii) Medical or hospitalization expenses in connection with sickness or accident disability of an employee or any of his dependents; or

(iv) Death of an employee or any of his dependents.

(2) The plan or system established by an employer need not provide for payments on account of all of the specified items, but such plan or system may provide for any one or more of such items. Payments for any one or more of such items under a plan or system established by an employer solely for the dependents of his employees are not within this exclusion from wages.

(3) Dependents of an employee include the employee's husband or wife, children, and any other members of the employee's immediate family.

(4) It is immaterial for purposes of this exclusion whether the amount or possibility of such benefit payments is taken into consideration in fixing the amount of an employee's remuneration or whether such payments are required, expressly, or impliedly, by the contract of service.

(c) Retirement payments. The term "wages" does not include any payment made by an employer to an employee (including any amount paid by an employer for insurance or annuities, or into a fund, to provide for any such payment) on account of the employee's retirement. Thus, payments made to an employee on account of his retirement are excluded from wages under this exception even though not made under a plan or system.

(d) Payments on account of sickness or accident disability, or medical or hospitalization expenses. The term "wages" does not include any payment made by an employer to, or on behalf of, an employee on account of the employee's sickness or accident disability or the medical or hospitalization expenses in connection with the employee's sickness or disability, if such payment is made after the expiration of 6 or more calendar months following the last calendar month in which such employee worked for such employer. Such payments are excluded from wages under this exception even though not made under a plan or system. If the employee does not actually perform services for the employer during the requisite period, the existence of the employer-employee relationship during that period is immaterial.

(e) Payments from or to certain tax-exempt trusts. The term "wages" does not include any payment made:

(1) By an employer, on behalf of an employee or his beneficiary, into a trust; or

(2) To, or on behalf of, an employee or his beneficiary, from a trust;

If at the time of such payment the trust is exempt from tax under section 165(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939 with respect to payments made prior to 1955, or with respect to payments made after 1954, under section 501(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 as an organization described in section 401(a) of such Code. A payment made to an employee of such a trust for services rendered as an employee of the trust and not as a beneficiary thereof is not within this exclusion from wages.

(f) Payments under or to certain annuity plans. The term "wages" does not include any payment made:

(1) By an employer, on behalf of an employee or his beneficiary, into an annuity plan; or

(2) To, or on behalf of, an employee or his beneficiary, under an annuity plan;

If at the time of such payment:

(3) With respect to payments made prior to 1955, the annuity plan meets the requirements of section 165(a) (3), (4), (5), and (6) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939;

(4) With respect to payments made after 1954 and prior to 1963, the annuity plan meets the requirements of section 401(a) (3), (4), (5), and (6) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954;

(5) With respect to payments made after 1962, the annuity plan is a plan described in section 403(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954.

(g) Payments under or to certain bond purchase plans. The term "wages" does not include any payment made after December 31, 1962:

(1) By an employer, on behalf of an employee or his beneficiary, into a bond purchase plan; or

(2) To, or on behalf of, an employee or his beneficiary under a bond purchase plan;

If at the time of such payment the plan is a qualified bond purchase plan described in section 405(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954.

(h) Payments by an employer of employees' tax or employees' contributions under a State law. The term "wages" does not include any payment by an employer (without deduction from the remuneration of, or other reimbursement from, the employee) of either:

(1) The employee tax imposed by section 1400 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939 or section 3101 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954; or

(2) Any payment required from an employee under a State unemployment compensation law.

(i) Payments other than in cash for certain types of services. (1) The term "wages" does not include remuneration paid in any medium other than cash:

(i) For services not in the course of the employer's trade or business;

(ii) For domestic service in a private home of the employer; or

(iii) For agricultural labor.

For provisions relating to tips paid in a medium other than cash, see paragraph (p) of this section. Cash remuneration includes checks and other monetary media of exchange. Remuneration paid in any medium other than cash, such as lodging, food, clothing, car tokens, transportation passes, farm products, or other goods or commodities, for services of the prescribed character does not constitute wages. Remuneration paid in any medium other than cash for services other than those mentioned in subdivisions (i), (ii), and (iii) of this subparagraph does not come within this exclusion from wages.

(2) For provisions relating to the circumstances under which prior to 1955 services not in the course of the employer's trade or business or agricultural labor does not constitute employment, see §§ 404.1010 and 404.1008, respectively. For provisions relating to the circumstances under which cash remuneration for domestic service in a private home of the employer or for industrial home work does not constitute wages, see paragraphs (k), (l), and (o) of this section, respectively.

(j) Domestic service defined. Services of a household nature performed by an employee in or about a private home of the person by whom he is employed constitute domestic service in a private home of the employer. A private home is a fixed place of abode of an individual or family. A separate and distinct dwelling unit maintained by an individual in an apartment house, hotel, or other similar establishment may constitute a private home. If a dwelling house is utilized primarily as a boarding or lodging house for the purpose of supplying board or lodging to the public as a business enterprise, it is not a private home. In general, services of a household nature in or about a private home include services performed by cooks, waiters, butlers, housekeepers, governesses, maids, valets, baby sitters, janitors, laundresses, furnacemen, caretakers, handymen, gardeners, footmen, grooms, and chauffeurs of automobiles for family use. Remuneration for the services above enumerated is not within this exclusion from wages unless performed in or about a private home of the employer. Remuneration for services not of a household nature, such as services performed as a private secretary, tutor, or librarian, even though performed in the employer's home, is not within this exclusion from wages.

(k) Cash payments prior to 1955 for domestic services. (1) The term "wages" does not include cash remuneration paid in any calendar quarter prior to 1955 by an employer to an employee for domestic service in a private home of the employer unless both of the following tests are met:

(i) The cash remuneration paid by the employer to the employee in the calendar quarter for such service is $50 or more; and

(ii) Such employee is regularly employed by such employer in the calendar quarter in which the payment is made.

(2) The test relating to cash remuneration of $50 or more is based on remuneration paid in a calendar quarter rather than on remuneration earned during a calendar quarter. Furthermore, in determining whether $50 or more has been paid for domestic service in a private home of the employer, only cash remuneration for such service shall be taken into account. For meaning of the term "cash remuneration," see paragraph (i) of this section.

(3) For purposes of this exclusion, an individual is deemed to be regularly employed by an employer during a calendar quarter only if:

(i) Such individual performs domestic service in a private home of such employer for some portion of the day on at least 24 days (whether or not consecutive) during such calendar quarter; or

(ii) Such individual was regularly employed (as determined under subdivision (i) of this subparagraph) in the performance of domestic service in a private home of such employer during the preceding calendar quarter (including the last calendar quarter of 1950).

(4) In determining whether an employee has performed domestic service in a private home of the employer on at least 24 days during a calendar quarter, there shall be counted as 1 day:

(i) Any day or portion thereof on which the employee actually performs such service; and

(ii) Any day or portion thereof on which the employee does not perform domestic service in a private home of the employer but with respect to which cash remuneration is paid or payable to the employee for such service, such as a day on which the employee is sick or on vacation.

An employee who on a particular day reports for work and, at the direction of his employer, holds himself in readiness to perform domestic service in a private home of the employer shall be considered to be engaged in the actual performance of such service on that day. For purposes of this exclusion a day is a period of 24 hours commencing at midnight and ending at midnight.

(5) (i) Domestic service in a private home of the employer performed on a farm operated for profit and services not in the course of the employer's trade or business are not within this exclusion from wages. For provisions relating to domestic service in a private home of the employer performed on a farm operated for profit and services performed prior to 1955, not in the course of the employer's trade or business, see §§ 404.1008 and 404.1010, respectively.

(ii) For provisions relating to the exclusion from wages after 1954 of cash remuneration for services not in the course of the employer's trade or business, see paragraph (1) of this section.

(iii) For provisions relating to the exclusion from wages of remuneration paid in any medium other than cash for domestic service in a private home of the employer, see paragraph (i) of this section.

(l) Cash payments after 1954 for domestic service and service not in the course of the employer's trade or business.

(1) The term "wages" does not include cash remuneration paid by an employer in any calendar quarter after 1954 to an employee for:

(i) Domestic service in a private home of the employer; or

(ii) Service not in the course of the employer's trade or business, unless the cash remuneration paid in such quarter by the employer to the employee for such service is $50 or more.

In determining whether $50 or more has been paid either for domestic service in a private home of the employer or for service not in the course of the employer's trade or business, only cash remuneration for such service shall be taken into account. For meaning of the term "cash remuneration," see paragraph (i) of this section. If an employee receives cash remuneration from an employer in a calendar quarter for both types of services the $50 cash-remuneration test is to be applied separately to each type of service. If an employee receives cash remuneration from more than one employer in a calendar quarter for domestic service in a private home of the employer or for service not in the course of the employer's trade or business the $50 cash-remuneration test is to be applied separately to the remuneration received from each employer.

(3) An employer may, for purposes of the Act, elect to compute to the nearest dollar any payment of cash remuneration for domestic service in a private home of the employer which is more or less than a whole-dollar amount. (This also applies with respect to remuneration before 1955.) For the purpose of the computation to the nearest dollar, the payment of a fractional part of a dollar shall be disregarded unless it amounts to one-half dollar or more, in which case it shall be increased to $1. For example, any amount actually paid between $4.50 and $5.49, inclusive, may be treated as $5 for purposes of the Act. If an employer elects this method of computation with respect to any payment of cash remuneration made in a calendar quarter for domestic service in his private house, he must use the same method in computing each payment of cash remuneration of more or less than whole-dollar amount made to each of his employees in such calendar quarter for domestic service in his private house. Moreover, if an employer elects this method of computation with respect to payments of the prescribed character made in any calendar quarter, the amount of each payment of cash remuneration so computed to the nearest dollar shall, in lieu of the amount actually paid, be deemed to constitute the amount of cash remuneration for purposes of the regulations in this Part 404. Thus, the amount of cash payments so computed to the nearest dollar shall be used for purposes of determining whether such payment constitute wages, for purposes of applying the employee and employer tax rates to the wage payments, for purposes of any required record keeping, and for purposes of reporting and paying the employee tax and employer tax with respect to such wage payments.

(m) Payments for agricultural labor.—(1) Scope of this section. For purposes of the regulations in this section, the term "agricultural labor" means only such agricultural labor (see § 404.1007) as constitutes employment or is deemed to constitute employment by reason of the rules relating to included and excluded services contained in section 2104(b) of the Act (see § 404.1007).

(2) Payments other than in cash. The term "wages" does not include remuneration paid in any medium other than cash for agricultural labor. For meaning of the term "cash remuneration," see paragraph (i) of this section.

(3) Cash payments. (i) The term "wages" does not include cash remuneration paid by an employer in the calendar year 1955 or 1956 to an employee for agricultural labor unless the cash remuneration paid in such year by the employer to the employee for such labor is $100 or more.

(ii) The term "wages" does not include cash remuneration paid by an employer in any calendar year after 1956 to an employee for agricultural labor unless the cash remuneration paid in such year by the employer to the employee for such labor is $150 or more, or unless the employee performs agricultural labor for the employer on 20 days or more during such year for cash remuneration computed on a time basis.

Example: On 12 days in 1957 A performs agricultural labor for X for cash remuneration of $8 per day, and X pays A $144 in such year. A performs no further service for X. Neither the $150-cash-remuneration test nor the 20-day test is met. Accordingly, the remuneration paid by X to A is not wages. If in 1957 A had performed agricultural labor for X on 20 days for cash remuneration of $7.20 per day, the $144 paid by X to A would have been wages because the 20-day test would have been met. Or if A had performed the 12 days of agricultural labor for cash remuneration of $8.50 per day and had been paid in full therefor in 1957, his cash remuneration of $153 would have been wages because the $150-cash-remuneration test would have been met.

(4) Application of cash-remuneration test. (i) If an employee receives cash remuneration from an employer both for services which constitute agricultural labor and for services which do not constitute agricultural labor, only the amount of such remuneration which is attributable to agricultural labor shall be included in determining whether cash remuneration of $150 or more ($100 or more in 1955 or 1956) has been paid in the calendar year by the employer to the employee for agricultural labor.

Example: Employer X operates a store and also is engaged in farming operations. Employee A, who regularly performs services for X in connection with the operation of the store, works on X's farm when additional help is required for the farm activities. In the calendar year 1957, X pays A $149 in cash, computed on a time basis for agricultural labor performed on 19 different days in such year, and $3,263 for services performed in connection with the operation of the store. Since the cash remuneration paid by X to A in the calendar year 1957 for agricultural labor is less than $150, the cash-remuneration test is not met. Since A performed agricultural labor for X on less than 20 days in 1957, the 20-day test set forth in section 209(h)(2) of the Act is not met. The $149 paid by X to A in 1957 for agricultural labor does not constitute wages.

(ii) The test relating to cash remuneration of $150 or more ($100 or more in 1955 or 1956) is based on the cash remuneration paid in a calendar year rather than on the remuneration earned during a calendar year. It is immaterial if such cash remuneration is paid in a calendar year other than the year in which the agricultural labor is performed.

(iii) In determining whether $150 or more ($100 or more in 1955 or 1956) has been paid to an employee for agricultural labor, only cash remuneration for such labor shall be taken into account. If an employee receives cash remuneration in any one calendar year from more than one employer for agricultural labor, the cash-remuneration test is to be applied with respect to the remuneration received by the employee from each employer in such calendar year for such labor.

(5) Application of 20-day test. (i) Only agricultural labor for which cash remuneration is computed on a time basis is taken into account in determining whether an employee performs such labor for such remuneration on 20 days or more during a calendar year after 1956. For purposes of the 20-day test, the amount of such remuneration is immaterial, and it is immaterial if, in addition to cash remuneration computed on a time basis, the remuneration for such labor also includes remuneration other than cash or remuneration which is not computed on a time basis. If cash remuneration paid to an employee after 1956 for agricultural labor is computed on a time basis, such cash remuneration does not constitute "wages" unless it is paid in a calendar year in which either the 20-day test or the $150-cash-remuneration test is met.

Example: Employer X employs A to construct fences on a farm owned by X. The work constitutes agricultural labor and is performed on 50 days in November and December 1957. A is not employed by X at any other time. A's remuneration consists of meals and lodging, $5 cash per day, and additional cash measured by the amount of fence constructed. X pays A $140 cash in December 1957 and $160 cash in January 1958, in full payment for the work. Inasmuch as A has performed agricultural labor for X on 50 days in 1957, for remuneration computed on a time basis, the 20-day test is met for 1957 and the $140 cash paid in 1957 is wages. It is immaterial that the $150-cash-remuneration test is not met for 1957. Inasmuch as X has paid A $160 cash remuneration in 1958 for agricultural labor, the $150-cash-remuneration test is met for 1958 and the $160 cash paid in 1958 is wages. It is immaterial that the 20-day test is not met for 1958. If the remuneration paid by X to A in January 1958 had been in an amount less than $150, neither the $150-cash-remuneration test nor the 20-day test would have been met for the calendar year 1958, and the remuneration paid by X to A in such year would not have been wages.

(ii) For the purpose of determining whether an employee performs agricultural labor for an employer on 20 days or more during any calendar year after 1956, for cash remuneration computed on a time basis, there shall be counted as 1 day:

(a) Any day or portion thereof on which the employee actually performs such labor for cash remuneration computed on a time basis; and

(b) Any day or portion thereof on which the employee does not perform agricultural labor but with respect to which cash remuneration is paid or payable to the employee for such labor, such as a day on which the employee is sick or on vacation.

An employee who on a particular day reports for work and, at the direction of his employer, holds himself in readiness to perform agricultural labor shall be considered to be engaged in the actual performance of such labor on that day. For purposes of the regulations in this section a day is a period of 24 hours commencing at midnight and ending at midnight.

Example: During the period of 20 days beginning April 11, 1957, and ending April 30, 1957, employee A was employed by employer X to perform agricultural labor on X's farm. The agreement provided that A would be furnished room and board at the farm and would be paid cash remuneration of $150 per month. On 1 day during the 20-day period A was sick and unable to work, and on another day X directed A to refrain from work because of weather conditions. At the termination of A's employment X paid A cash remuneration of $100 for the full 20-day period. The 20-day test had been met and the $100 cash remuneration is wages.

(iii) If in any 1 calendar year an employee performs agricultural labor for more than one employer, the 20-day test is to be applied with respect to the agricultural labor performed by the employee in such year for each employer.

(n) Payments to employees for non-work periods. (1) The term "wages" does not include any payment (other than vacation or sick pay) made by an employer to an employee for a period throughout which the employment relationship exists between the employer and the employee, but in which the employee does no work (other than being subject to call for the performance of work) for the employer, if such payment is made after the calendar month in which:

(i) The employee attains age 65, if the employee is a man, or if the employee is a woman to whom the payment is made before November 1956; or

(ii) The employee attains age 62, if the employee is a woman to whom the payment is made after October 1956.

(2) Vacation or sick pay is not within this exclusion from wages. (The term "sick pay" as used in this paragraph, includes "sick leave" payments made after Aug. 27, 1958, by a State, a political subdivision thereof, or an interstate instrumentality, to an employee for a period during which he was absent from work because of illness.) If the employee does any work for the employer in the period for which the payment is made, no remuneration paid by such employer to such employee with respect to such period is within this exclusion from wages.

Example: Mrs. A, an employee of X, attained the age of 62 on September 15, 1956, and discontinued the performance of regular work for X on September 30, 1956. Their employment relationship continued for several years until Mrs. A's death, and X paid Mrs. A $50 per month as consideration for Mrs. A's agreement to work when asked by X. The payment for each month was made on the first day of each succeeding month. After September 30, 1956, the only work performed by Mrs. A for X was performed on one day in October 1956. The payment made by X to Mrs. A on November 1 (for October 1956) is not excluded from wages under this exception, but the payments made thereafter are excluded from wages. The payment on November 1 was not excluded because Mrs. A worked for X on 1 day in October 1956. (Inasmuch as Mrs. A had attained age 62 in September 1956, the November 1 payment would have been excluded if Mrs. A had not performed any work for X in October 1956.)

(o) Payments to certain home workers. (1) The term "wages" does not include remuneration paid by an employer in any calendar quarter to an employee for services performed as a home worker who is an employee by application of the provisions in § 404.1003(d)(1)(iii), unless the cash remuneration paid in such quarter by the employer to the employee for such services is $50 or more.

(2) The test relating to cash remuneration of $50 or more is based on remuneration for employment paid in a calendar quarter rather than on remuneration earned during a calendar quarter. If $50 or more of cash remuneration for employment is paid in a particular calendar quarter, it is immaterial whether the $50 is in payment for services performed during the quarter of payment or during any other quarter.

Example 1: A, a home worker, performs services for X, a manufacturer, in 1954 and 1956. In the performance of the homework A is an employee both in 1954 and in 1956. In March 1955, A returns to X articles made by A at home from materials received by A from X in 1954. X pays A cash remuneration of $50 for such work when the finished articles are delivered. The $50 includes $10 which represents remuneration for homework performed by A in 1954. The entire $50 is wages.

Example 2: Assume that the same transactions occur, but that A is not subject in 1954 to licensing requirements under the laws of the State in which the homework is performed. A, therefore, does not perform homework in 1954 as an employee of X by reason of section 210(k)(3)(C) of the Act in effect prior to 1956, and the $10 paid in 1955 for such work is not remuneration for employment. The remaining $40 for the homework performed in 1955 is remuneration for employment, but is excluded from wages by application of the $50 cash remuneration test.

(3) In the event an employee receives remuneration in any one calendar quarter from more than one employer for services performed as a home worker of the character described in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, the regulations in this paragraph are to be applied with respect to the remuneration received by the employee from each employer in such calendar quarter for such services.

(4) This exclusion from wages has no application to remuneration paid for service performed as a home worker who is an employee under section 210(j)(2) of the Act (see § 404.1003(c)), relating to common-law employees.

(5) If the cash remuneration paid in any calendar quarter by an employer to an employee for services performed as a home worker of the character described in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph is $50 or more, then no remuneration, whether in cash or in any medium other than cash, paid by the employer to the employee in such calendar quarter for such services is excluded from wages under this exception. For meaning of the term "cash remuneration," see paragraph (i) of this section.

(6) For provisions relating to whether a home worker is an employee under section 210(k)(3)(C) of the Act in effect prior to 1955, see § 404.1003(d)(1)(iii).

(p) Tips. The term "wages" does not include remuneration received by an employee after December 1965 in the form of tips if:

(1) The tips are paid in any medium other than cash; or

(2) The cash tips received by an employee in any calendar month in the course of his employment by an employer are less than $20. The cash tips to which this section applies include checks and other monetary media of exchange. Tips received by an employee in any medium other than cash, such as passes, tickets, or other goods or commodities do not constitute wages. If an employee in any calendar month performs services for two or more employers and receives tips in the course of his employment by each employer, the $20 test is to be applied separately with respect to the cash tips received by the employee in respect of his services for each employer and not to the total cash tips received by the employee during the month. As to the time tips are deemed paid, see § 404.1026(d). For provisions relating to the treatment of tips received by an employee prior to 1966, see § 404.1027(b)(3).

(q) Payments to members of the uniformed services. The term "wages" as applied to remuneration for services by a member of the uniformed services of the United States does not include any remuneration for such services other than his basic pay as described in section 102(10) of the Servicemen's and Veterans' Survivor Benefits Act (P.L. 881, 84th Cong., 32 U.S.C. 401(1), 403; 72 Stat. 1126).

(r) Payments to "volunteers and volunteer leaders" in the Peace Corps. The term "wages" as applied to remuneration for services as a "volunteer" or "volunteer leader" enrolled under the provisions of the Peace Corps Act (P.L. 87-293, 75 Stat. 612), does not include any amount paid for such service in excess of or in addition to the amounts certified as payable pursuant to section 5(c) or 6(1) of the Peace Corps Act. Amounts certified pursuant to such sections are deemed to have been paid to such individual at the time the service, with respect to which it is paid, is performed. See § 404.1013(h) relating to coverage of such services.

(s) Moving expenses. The term "wages" does not include amounts paid to or on behalf of an employee if (and to the extent that) at the time of the payment it is reasonable to believe that a corresponding deduction is allowable under section 217 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (dealing with allowances or reimbursement for moving expenses paid or incurred by the employee).

(t) Miscellaneous. In addition to the exclusions specified in paragraphs (a) through (s) of this section, the following types of payments are excluded from wages:

(1) Remuneration for services which do not constitute employment under section 210(a) of the Act;

(2) Remuneration for services which are deemed not to be employment under section 210(b) of the Act;

(3) Tips or gratuities paid, prior to January 1, 1966, directly to an employee by a customer of an employer, and not accounted for by the employee to the employer. For provisions relating to the treatment of tips received by an employee after December 31, 1965, as wages, see §§ 404.1028(d) and 404.1027(p).

Title 21—FOOD AND DRUGS

Chapter I—Food and Drug Administration, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare

SUBCHAPTER B—FOOD AND FOOD PRODUCTS

PART 120—TOLERANCES AND EXEMPTIONS FROM TOLERANCES FOR PESTICIDE CHEMICALS IN OR ON RAW AGRICULTURAL COMMODITIES

Naled

A petition (PP 7F0632) was filed with the Food and Drug Administration by Chevron Chemical Co., Ortho Division, 940 Hensley Street, Richmond, Calif. 94801, proposing the establishment of tolerances for residues of the insecticide naled (1,2-dibromo-2,2-dichloroethyl dimethyl phosphate) in or on raw agricultural commodities as follows: 3 parts per million in or on chard, grapefruit, lemons, oranges, spinach, tangerines, and turnip tops; 1 part per million in or on broccoli, brussel sprouts, cabbage, cauliflower, lettuce, and strawberries; and 0.5 part per million in or on beans (succulent and dry forms), cucumbers, eggplants, melons (including cantaloups, honeydew melons, muskmelons, watermelons, and others), peas (succulent and dry forms), peppers, pumpkins, rice, soybeans (succulent and dry forms), summer squash, tomatoes, and winter squash.

Subsequently, the petitioner withdrew the request for tolerances in or on beans, peas, and soybeans. He also modified his request to include the total cholinesterase-inhibitting residue of naled and its conversion product 2,2-dichlorovinyl dimethyl phosphate, expressed as naled.

The Secretary of Agriculture has certified that this pesticide chemical is useful for the purposes for which the tolerances are being established.

Based on consideration given the data submitted in the petition, and other relevant material, the Commissioner of Food and Drugs concludes that the tolerances established by this order will protect the public health. Therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare by the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (sec. 408(d)(2), 68 Stat. 512; 21 U.S.C. 346a(d)(2)) and delegated by him to the Commissioner (21 CFR 2.120), Part 120 is amended as follows:

1. Section 120.3(e)(5) is amended by alphabetically inserting in the list of pesticides two new items, as follows:

§ 120.3 Tolerances for related pesticide chemicals.

* * * * *

(e) * * *

(5) * * *

2,2-Dichlorovinyl dimethyl phosphate; Naled (1,2-dibromo-2,2-dichloroethyl dimethyl phosphate).

2. The following new section is added to Subpart C:

§ 120.215 Naled; tolerances for residues.

Tolerances for residues of the insecticide naled (1,2-dibromo-2,2-dichloroethyl dimethyl phosphate) and its conversion product 2,2-dichlorovinyl dimethyl phosphate, expressed as naled, in or on raw agricultural commodities are established as follows:

3 parts per million in or on grapefruit, lemons, oranges, spinach, Swiss chard, tangerines, turnip tops.

1 part per million in or on broccoli, brussel sprouts, cabbage, cauliflower, lettuce, strawberries.

0.5 part per million in or on cucumbers, eggplants, melons, peppers, pumpkins, rice, summer squash, tomatoes, winter squash.

Any person who will be adversely affected by the foregoing order may at any time within 30 days from the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER file with the Hearing Clerk, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, Room 5440, 330 Independence Avenue SW., Washington, D.C. 20201, written objections thereto, preferably in quintuplicate. Objections shall show wherein the person filing will be adversely affected by the order and specify with particularity the provisions of the order deemed objectionable and the grounds for the objections. If a hearing is requested, the objections must state the issues for the hearing. A hearing will be granted if the objections are supported by grounds legally sufficient to justify the relief sought. Objections may be accompanied by a memorandum or brief in support thereof.

Effective date. This order shall become effective on the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Under the authority vested in the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare by the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (sec. 507, 59 Stat. 463; as amended; 21 U.S.C. 357) and delegated by him to the Commissioner of Food and Drugs (21 CFR 2.120), the antibiotic drug regulation providing for certification of sodium cephalothin is amended to effect improvement in the test procedure by revising § 148w.1(b)(1)(i), (d), (g), and (k) to read as follows:

(i) * * *

(d) Preparation of sample. Dissolve an accurately weighed sample in sufficient

1 percent potassium phosphate buffer, pH 6.0, to give a stock solution of convenient concentration; and, if it is packaged for dispensing, reconstitute as directed in the labeling, remove an accurately measured representative portion with a suitable syringe fitted with a 22-gauge needle, and appropriately dilute in 1 percent potassium phosphate buffer, pH 6.0 to give a stock solution of convenient concentration. Further dilute the stock solutions with sufficient 1 percent potassium phosphate buffer, pH 6.0, to give a reference concentration of 1.0 microgram of cephalothin per milliliter (estimated).

* * * * *

(g) Standard curve. Prepare the daily standard curve by further diluting the 1,000 micrograms per milliliter stock solution in 1 percent potassium phosphate buffer, pH 6.0, to obtain concentrations of 0.64, 0.80, 1.00, 1.25, and 1.56 micrograms of cephalothin per milliliter. Use three plates for the determination of each point on the curve, except the 1.0 microgram per milliliter concentration, a total of 12 plates. On each of three plates, fill three cylinders with the 1.0 microgram per milliliter standard and the other three cylinders with the concentration under test. Thus, there will be 36 1.0-microgram determinations and nine determinations for each of the other points on the curve. After incubation, read the diameters of the circles of inhibition in the plates. Average the readings of the 1.0 microgram per milliliter concentration and the readings of the point tested for each set of three plates and average also all 36 readings of the 1.0 microgram per milliliter concentration. The average of the 36 readings of the 1.0 microgram per milliliter concentration is the correction point for the curve. Correct the average value obtained for each point to the figure it would be if the 1.0 microgram per milliliter reading for that set of three plates were the same as the correction point. Thus, if in correcting the 0.8 microgram concentration, the average of the 36 readings of the 1.0-microgram concentration were 20 millimeters, and the average of the 1.0-microgram concentration of this set of three plates were 19.8 millimeters, the correction would be +0.2 millimeter. If the average reading of the 0.8-microgram concentration of these same three plates were 19.0 millimeters, the corrected value would be 19.2 millimeters. Plot these corrected values, including the average of the 1.0 microgram per milliliter concentration, on 2-cycle semilog paper, using the concentration in micrograms per milliliter as the ordinate (the logarithmic scale) and the diameter of the zone of inhibition as the abscissa. Draw the standard curve through these points, either by inspection or by means of the following equations:

$$L = \frac{3a + 2b + c - d}{5},$$

$$H = \frac{3d + 2c + b - a}{5},$$

L = calculated zone diameter for the lowest concentration of the standard curve;

H = calculated zone diameter for the highest concentration of the standard curve;

c = average zone diameter of 36 readings of the 1.0 microgram per milliliter standard.

a, b, d, e = corrected average values for 0.64, 0.8, 1.25, and 1.56 micrograms per milliliter standard solutions, respectively.

Plot the values obtained for L and H and connect with a straight line.

(h) Assay. Use three plates for each sample. Fill three cylinders on each plate with the standard 1.0 microgram per milliliter solution and three cylinders with the 1.0 microgram per milliliter (estimated) sample, alternating standard and sample. Incubate all plates, including those containing the standard curve at 32° C.–35° C. overnight, and measure the diameter of each circle of inhibition. To estimate the potency of the sample, average the zone readings of the standard and the zone readings of the sample on the three plates used. If the sample gives a larger zone size than the average of the standard, add the difference between them to the 1.0 microgram per milliliter zone on the standard curve. If the average sample value is lower than the standard value, subtract the difference between them from the 1.0 microgram per milliliter value on the curve, and read the potencies corresponding to these corrected values of zone sizes.

This order, which effects certain technical changes in the subject regulation, is nonrestrictive and presents no points of controversy; therefore, notice and public procedure and delayed effective date are not prerequisites to this promulgation.

Effective date. This order shall be effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Title 29—LABOR

Chapter V—Wage and Hour Division, Department of Labor

PART 519—EMPLOYMENT OF FULL-TIME STUDENTS AT SPECIAL MINIMUM WAGES

As announced in the document making the present revision of 29 CFR Part 519 (32 F.R. 1088), this action was taken prior to full consideration of the comments received in response to the proposal (32 F.R. 148) so that there would be a valid basis for issuing certificates after February 1, 1967, the effective date of the Fair Labor Standards Amendments of 1966. It was stated at that time that the "comments received responsive to the proposal will be given the further consideration they deserve with a view to prompt action in making any needed amendment to 29 CFR Part 519 as fully as though there had been opportunity to give this measure of consideration prior to adopting the proposal." Such further consideration has indicated a need to, and I do hereby, further revise 29 CFR Part 519, effective immediately to read as follows:

Sec.

519.1 Applicability of the regulations in this part.
519.2 Definitions.
519.3 Application for a full-time student certificate.
519.4 Procedure for action upon an application.
519.5 Conditions governing issuance of full-time student certificates.
519.6 Terms and conditions of employment under full-time student certificates.
519.7 Records to be kept.
519.8 Amendment or replacement of a full-time student certificate.
519.9 Reconsideration and review.
519.10 Amendment or revocation of the regulations in this part.

AUTHORITY: The provisions of this Part 519 issued under secs. 11 and 14, 52 Stat. 1068; sec. 11, 75 Stat. 74; secs. 501 and 602, 80 Stat. 848, 844.

§ 519.1 Applicability of the regulations in this part.

(a) Statutory provisions. Under section 14 of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, as amended, and the authority and responsibility delegated to him by the Secretary of Labor (15 F.R. 3290), the Administrator of the Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions is authorized and directed, to the extent necessary in order to prevent curtailment of opportunities for employment, to provide by regulation or order for the employment of full-time students regardless of age but in compliance with applicable child labor laws on a part-time basis in retail or service establishments and in agriculture (not to exceed 20 hours in any workweek) or on a part-time or a full-time basis during school vacations, under special certificates issued pursuant to regulations promulgated by him at a wage rate not less than 85 per centum of the minimum wage applicable under section 6 of the Act, except that the proportion of student hours of employment to total hours of employment of all employees in any retail or service establishment may not exceed the proportion established in a detailed formula provided in section 14. Before a certificate of this type is issued, either for employment in a retail or service establishment or for employment in agriculture, the Administrator must find that such employment will not create a substantial probability of reducing the full-time employment opportunities of persons other than those employed under such certificates.

(b) Source of limitations. Some of the limitations expressed in this part are necessary to confine the certificates to those authorized by the formula referred to in paragraph (a) of this section. Special minimum wages on a broader basis than that expressed in §§ 519.4 (e), (f), and (g), and 519.5 (a), (c), (d), (e), and (f) are found to be not necessary to prevent curtailment of opportunities for employment. I cannot find that special minimum wages for employment proscribed by the limitations expressed in §§ 519.4 (e), (f), and (g), and 519.5 (b), (c), (d), and (e) will not create a substantial probability of reducing the full-time employment opportunities of persons other than those employed pursuant to certificates issued under this part.

§ 519.2 Definitions.

(a) Full-time students. A "full-time student" for the purpose of this part is defined as a student who receives primarily daytime instruction at the physical location of a bona fide educational institution, in accordance with the institution's accepted definition of a full-time student, and who is at least 14 years of age. A full-time student retains that status during Christmas, summer, and other vacations. An individual who was such a student immediately prior to vacation will be presumed not to have discontinued such status during vacation if local law requires his attendance at the end of the vacation. In the absence of such requirement, his status during vacation will be governed by his intention as last communicated to his employer. The term "full-time student" does not include a student learner covered by a certificate issued under Part 520 of this chapter.

(b) Bona fide educational institution. A "bona fide educational institution" is ordinarily an accredited institution. However, a school which is not accredited may be considered a "bona fide educational institution" in exceptional circumstances, such as when the school is too recently established to have received accreditation.

(c) Outside of their school hours. "Outside of their school hours" refers to periods outside the scheduled hours of instruction of the individual student.

(d) Retail or service establishment. "Retail or service establishment" means a retail or service establishment as defined in section 13(a)(2) of the Fair Labor Standards Act. The statutory definition is interpreted in Part 779 of this chapter.

(e) Agriculture. "Agriculture" means agriculture as defined in section 3(f) of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938. The statutory definition is interpreted in Part 780 of this chapter.

(f) Base year. The phrase "base year" shall mean:

(1) Except as provided in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph the base year for a retail or service establishment shall be the 12-month period preceding May 1, 1961.

(2) In the case of a farm or a retail or service establishment whose employees (other than employees engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce) are covered by the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 as amended, for the first time on or after February 1, 1967, the base year shall be the 12-month period immediately prior to February 1, 1967.

(3) In the case of a farm coming into existence after February 1, 1966, or a retail or service establishment coming into existence after May 1, 1960, in cases to which subparagraph (1) of this paragraph applies; or February 1, 1966, in cases to which subparagraph (2) of this paragraph applies, or a farm or a retail or service establishment for which records of student hours worked are not available, the base year shall be the 12-month period provided in subparagraph (1) or (2) of this paragraph, whichever is applicable, in (i) similar retail or service establishments of the same employer in the same general metropolitan area in which the establishment is located, (ii) similar retail or service establishments of the same employer in the same or nearby counties if the establishment is not in a metropolitan area, or (iii) other farms or retail or service establishments, as the case may be, of the same general character operating in the community or the nearest comparable community.

(g) Base period. (1) The base period shall be the calendar or fiscal month of the base year which corresponds to the month of full-time student certificated employment for which a base period comparison is required. For farms, the month of full-time student certificated employment may vary somewhat from the fiscal or calendar month in the base year, depending on seasonal factors.

§ 519.3 Application for a full-time student certificate.

(a) Whenever the employment of full-time students working outside of school hours in agriculture or in any retail or service establishment at wages lower than the minimum wage applicable under section 6 of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 is believed to be necessary to prevent curtailment of opportunities for employment and employment of them will not create a substantial probability of reducing the full-time employment opportunities of the other workers, an application for a certificate authorizing such employment may be filed by their employer with the appropriate Regional or District Office of the Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions. Such application shall be signed by an authorized representative of the employer.

(b) The application must be filed in duplicate on official forms or exact copies thereof. The forms are available at the offices mentioned in paragraph (a) of this section. The application must contain the information as to the type of products sold or services rendered by the establishment, base year data on occupations, hours of employment, and other information for which request is made on the form.

(c) Separate application must be made for each farm or establishment in which authority to employ full-time students at special minimum wage rates is sought.

(d) Application for renewal of a certificate shall be made on the same type of form as is used for a new application. No certificate in effect shall expire until action on such an application shall have been finally determined, provided that such application has been properly executed, and is received by the office specified in paragraph (a) of this section not less than 15 nor more than 30 days prior to the expiration date. A final determinations means either the initial grant, denial, or withdrawal of such application. A properly executed application is one which fully and accurately contains the information required on the form, and the required certification by an authorized representative of the employer.

§ 519.4 Procedure for action upon an application.

(a) Upon receipt of an application for a certificate, the officer authorized to act upon such application shall issue a certificate if the terms and conditions specified in this part are satisfied. To the extent he deems appropriate, the authorized officer may provide an opportunity to other interested persons to present data, views, or argument on the application prior to granting or denying a certificate.

(b) If a certificate is issued, there shall be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER a general statement of the terms of such certificate together with a notice that, pursuant to § 519.9, for thirty (30) days following such publication any interested person may file a written request for reconsideration or review.

(c) If a certificate is denied, notice of such denial shall be sent to the employer, stating the reason or reasons for the denial. Such denial shall be without prejudice to the filing of any subsequent application.

(d) Neither oppressive child labor as defined in section 3(l) of the Act and regulations issued under the Act nor any other employment in violation of a Federal, State, or local child labor law or ordinance shall come within the terms of any certificate issued under this part.

(e) Full-time students shall not be permitted to work at special minimum wages for more than 8 hours a day, nor for more than 40 hours a week when school is not in session, nor more than 20 hours a week when school is in session, except that when a full-day school holiday occurs on a day when the establishment is open for business, the weekly limitation on the maximum number of hours which may be worked shall be increased by 8 hours for each such holiday but in no event shall the 40-hour limitation be exceeded. Whenever a full-time student is employed for more than 20 hours in any workweek in conformance with this paragraph, the employer shall note in his payroll records that school was not in session during all or part of that workweek.

(f) Full-time students shall be employed at special minimum wages only in occupations of the same general classes as those in which the establishment (or the establishment(s) relied on in accordance with § 519.2(f)(3)) employed full-time student (as defined in § 519.2(a)) at wages below $1 per hour in the base year, except as provided in § 519.6(e).

(g) No full-time student shall be hired under a full-time student certificate while abnormal labor conditions, such as a strike or lockout, exist at the establishment or farm.

(h) No provision of any full-time student certificate shall excuse noncompliance with higher standards applicable to full-time students which may be established under the Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act or any other Federal law, State law, local ordinance, or union or other agreement. Thus, certificates issued under this law have no application to employments governed by the McNamara-O'Hara Service Contract Act.

§ 519.5 Conditions governing issuance of full-time student certificates.

Certificates authorizing the employment of full-time students at special minimum wage rates shall not be issued unless the following conditions are met:

(a) Full-time students are available for employment at special minimum rates; the granting of a certificate is necessary in order to prevent curtailment of opportunities for employment.

(b) The employment of full-time students will not create a substantial probability of reducing the full-time employment opportunities for persons other than those employed under such certificates.

(c) Abnormal labor conditions such as a strike or a lockout do not exist at the farm or establishment for which a full-time certificate is requested.

(d) The base year data given on the application are accurate and based on available records.

(e) The farms or establishments on whose base-year experience the applicant relies meet the requirements of § 519.2(f).

(f) There are no serious outstanding violations of the provisions of a full-time student certificate previously issued to the employer, nor have there been any serious violations of the Fair Labor Standards Act (including Child-Labor Regulation No. 3 and the Hazardous Occupations Orders published in Part 1500 of this title) which provide reasonable grounds to conclude that the terms of a certificate may not be complied with, if issued.

§ 519.6 Terms and conditions of employment under full-time student certificates.

(a) A full-time student certificate will not be issued for a period longer than 1 year, nor will it be issued retroactively. It shall specify its effective and expiration dates. A copy of the certificate shall be posted during its effective period in a conspicuous place or places in the establishment or at the farm readily visible to all employees, for example, adjacent to the time clock or on the bulletin board used for notices to the employees.

(b) Full-time students may not be employed under a certificate at less than 85 percent of the minimum wage applicable under section 6 of the Act. No such certificate shall have effect to any employee to whom a certificate issued under section 14 (a) or (d) of the Act has application.

(c)(1) During any month in which full-time students are to be employed at special minimum wages the percentage derived by the total number of hours worked by full-time students at special minimum wages divided by the total number of hours worked by all employees shall not exceed the same percentage computed for the base period, comparing total hours worked by full-time students at less than $1 per hour with total hours for all employees.

(2) For example, in retail Establishment A, with a base year as defined in § 519.2(f)(1), full-time students employed at less than $1 worked 900 hours in July 1960, and the total hours of employment of all employees in the establishment in that month were 10,000. The percentage of full-time student hours at less than $1 an hour to all hours of employment is therefore 9 percent. In July 1968, if the hours of employment of Establishment A are 12,000, then not more than 9 percent or 1,080 of these hours may be compensated at special minimum wages for full-time students.

(d) An overestimate of total hours of employment of all employees in the establishment for a current month resulting in the employment of the full-time students in excess of the hours authorized in paragraph (c) of this section may be corrected by compensating them for the difference between the special minimum wages actually paid and the applicable minimum under section 6 of the Act for the excess hours. This additional compensation shall be paid on the regular payday next after the end of the period.

(e) Where unusual conditions are demonstrated, a farm or retail or service establishment may be authorized by certificate to exceed the limitations contained in § 519.4(f).

(f) Full-time students shall be employed only outside of their school hours.

§ 519.7 Records to be kept.

(a) The employer shall designate each worker employed as a full-time student under a full-time student certificate at special minimum wages, as provided under Part 516 of this chapter.

(b)(1) In addition to the records required under Part 516 of this chapter and this part, the employer shall keep the records specified in subparagraph (2) and (3) of this paragraph specifically relating to full-time students employed at special minimum wages.

(2) The employer shall obtain at the time of hiring and keep in his records information from the school attended that the employee receives primarily daytime instruction at the physical location of the school in accordance with the school's accepted definition of a full-time student. During a period between attendance at different schools not longer than the usual summer vacation, a certificate from the school next to be attended that the student has been accepted as a full-time student for its next term will satisfy the requirements of this subparagraph.

(3) The employer operating any farm or retail or service establishment shall maintain records of the monthly hours of employment of full-time students at special minimum wages and of the total hours of employment during the month of all employees in the establishment, who, in cases of employment in agriculture, do not come within one of the other exemptions from the minimum wage provisions of the Act. The records shall show the total hours worked in the establishment by all full-time students of the type defined in § 519.2(a) at less than the minimum wage otherwise applicable under the Act, and the total hours of employment of all employees in the establishment, to whom, in cases of employment in agriculture, the minimum wage provision of the Act applies. They shall be based on payroll or other available records such as those used for social security and withholding income taxes.

(c) The records required in this section, including a copy of any full-time student certificate issued, shall be kept for a period of 3 years at the place and made available for inspection, both as provided in Part 516 of this chapter.

§ 519.8 Amendment or replacement of a full-time student certificate.

In the absence of an objection by the employer (which may be resolved in the manner provided in Part 528 of this chapter) the authorized officer upon his own motion may amend the provisions of a certificate when it is necessary by reason of the amendment of these regulations, or may withdraw a certificate and issue a replacement certificate when necessary to correct omissions or apparent defects in the original certificates.

§ 519.9 Reconsideration and review.

(a) Within 15 days after being informed of a denial of an application for a full-time student certificate or within 30 days after Federal Register publication of a statement of the terms of the certificate granted, any person aggrieved by the action of an authorized officer in denying or granting a certificate may: (1) File a written request for reconsideration thereof by the authorized officer who made the decision in the first instance, or (2) file with the Administrator a written request for review.

(b) A request for reconsideration shall be accompanied by a statement of the additional evidence which the applicant believes may materially affect the decision and a showing that there were reasonable grounds for failure to present such evidence in the original proceedings.

(c) Any person aggrieved by the reconsideration determination of an authorized officer may, within 15 days after such determination, file with the Administrator a written request for review.

(d) A request for review shall be granted where reasonable grounds for the review are set forth in the request.

(e) If a request for reconsideration or review is granted, the authorized officer or the Administrator may, to the extent he deems it appropriate, afford other interested persons an opportunity to present data, views, or argument.

§ 519.10 Amendment or revocation of the regulations in this part.

The Administrator may at any time upon his own motion or upon written request of any interested person or persons setting forth reasonable grounds therefor, and after opportunity has been given to interested persons to present data, views, or argument, amend or revoke any of the regulations of this part.

Signed at Washington, D.C., this 25th day of July 1967.

CLARENCE T. LUNDQUIST, Administrator.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

[47 CFR Part 73]

[Docket No. 16222]

STANDARD METHOD FOR CALCULATING RADIATION TO EVALUATE INTERFERENCE, COVERAGE AND OVERLAP OF CONTOURS

Order Extending Time for Filing Comments and Reply Comments

In the matter of amendment of Part 73 of the Commission rules to specify, in lieu of the existing MEOV concept, a standard method for calculating radiation for use in evaluating interference, coverage and overlap of mutually prohibited contours in the Standard Broadcast Service, Docket No. 16222.

1. The Commission on October 6, 1965 issued a notice of proposed rule making in the above-entitled matter inviting comments on a proposed revision of § 73.150 by January 14, 1966. In subsequent orders the time for filing comments was extended to July 14, 1967, and for replies to August 14, 1967.

2. On July 12, 1967, the Association of Federal Communications Consulting Engineers (Association) filed a petition for extension of time for filing comments in this proceeding for a further period of 6 months from July 15, 1967. The Association was one of the parties which previously requested the extensions granted by the Commission. It now urges the further extension on the grounds that additional time is needed to explore the effect on the allocations situation based upon a study of a new method for calculating radiation values for direction antenna systems on one or more channels.

3. We are of the view that an extension of time in this case is warranted and would serve the public interest. However, in view of the previous lengthy extensions we do not believe that 6-month extension is necessary or justified. It appears that an extension of 2 months should be sufficient to complete the indicated studies. Accordingly, it is ordered, That the time for filing comments in this proceeding is extended from July 14, 1967, to September 14, 1967, and the time for filing reply comments is extended from August 14, 1967, to October 16, 1967.

4. This action is taken pursuant to authority found in sections 4(i), 5(d)(1), and 303(r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, and § 0.281(d)(8) of the Commission's rules.

Adopted: July 17, 1967.

Released: July 25, 1967.

Secretary.

Provided, That the limiting amount in (A), (B), and (C) shall be $100,000 if the proposed disposition of the claim is opposed by the agency or agencies involved or if the case is subject to reference to the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation.

(A) When, for any reason, the compromise or administrative settlement or closing of a particular claim, as a practical matter, will control or adversely influence the disposition of other claims totaling more than the respective amounts designated in sections 2 and 3, the case shall be forwarded for review at the appropriate level.

(B) When the person otherwise authorized herein to take final action is of the opinion that, because of the importance of a question of law or policy presented, the position taken by the agency or agencies or by the U.S. attorney involved or any other considerations, the proposed disposition should be reviewed at a higher level, the case shall be forwarded for such review.

CIVIL AERONAUTICS BOARD

[Docket No. 18752]

BRANIFF AIRWAYS, INC.

Notice of Proposed Approval

Application of Braniff Airways, Inc., for approval of contingent agreement to purchase an aircraft, Docket 18752.

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to the statutory requirements of section 408(b), that the undersigned intends to issue the attached order under delegated authority. Interested parties are hereby afforded a period of 15 days from the date of service within which to file comments or request a hearing with respect to the action proposed in the order.

Dated at Washington, D.C., July 26, 1967.

[SEAL] A. M. ANDREWS,
Director,
Bureau of Operating Rights.

[Docket 18752]

ORDER APPROVING PURCHASE AGREEMENT

Application of Braniff Airways, Inc. for approval, pursuant to the third proviso of section 408(b) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958, as amended, of a contingent agreement to purchase an aircraft.

By application filed June 30, 1967, Braniff Airways, Inc. (Braniff), requested approval pursuant to the third proviso of section 408(b) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958, as amended (the Act), of an agreement whereby under certain circumstances Braniff undertakes to purchase from Compania de Aviacion "Faucett" S.A. (Faucett) one Boeing 727-63 jet aircraft, together with related spare parts. Faucett is a Peruvian foreign air carrier.[1]

The purchase agreement involves an aircraft and spares which Faucett has ordered from the Boeing Co. for a comprehensive price of about $6,500,000. Faucett's cost of such purchase is to be financed by a loan of $1,400,000 from Chase Manhattan Bank (N.A.), and further arrangements between the Export-Import Bank and Faucett for financing the remainder of the cost of the aircraft and parts are contemplated. Under the instant Braniff-Faucett agreement, should Faucett default in any of its obligations to Boeing or the financing institutions Braniff would, upon request of the financing institutions, purchase the aircraft and spares subject to Faucett's delivery of a bill of sale vesting in Braniff good title to the aircraft, the equipment installed therein and the related spares, in each case free and clear of any and all encumbrances thereon. Braniff will be obliged to pay a purchase price computed on the basis of Faucett's cost of the aircraft and spares, less deductions for depreciation over a 12-year useful life with a 10 percent residual value, and reserves for overhaul of engines and airframe at stipulated rates. It is represented that the aircraft is being manufactured in accordance with specifications which would make it compatible with the 24 B-727 aircraft now in operation or on order by Braniff.

Faucett is the principal carrier offering domestic services within Peru. Braniff believes that the availability of jet service by Faucett to interior points will be an important inducement for tourist travel to and from Peru. Braniff has a vital interest in the development of this traffic by reason of its authority to operate between points in the United States and Lima, Peru, and Braniff's present and contemplated plans to construct hotel and other facilities in Lima and other points in Peru served by Faucett.

Braniff contends that the transaction is the result of arm's length bargaining and is in the public interest.

No adverse comments or requests for a hearing have been received.

Notice of intent to dispose of the application without a hearing has been published in the FEDERAL REGISTER, and a copy of such notice has been furnished by the Board to the Attorney General not later than the day following the date of such publication, both in accordance with the requirements of section 408(b) of the Act.

Upon consideration of the foregoing, we conclude that the purchase transaction is subject to section 408 of the Act in that it may involve the acquisition by an air carrier of a substantial part of the properties of a person engaged in a phase of aeronautics, namely, Faucett. However, it is concluded that the acquisition, should it occur, would not affect the control of an air carrier directly engaged in the operation of aircraft in air transportation, would not result in creating a monopoly, and would not tend to restrain competition.[2] Furthermore, no person disclosing a substantial interest is currently requesting a hearing and we conclude that no hearing is required. It appears that approval of the instant agreement would not be inconsistent with the public interest. The agreement may assist Faucett in acquiring jet equipment and thereby improving its services.

Pursuant to authority duly delegated by the Board, in the Board's regulations, 14 CFR 385.13, it is found that the above-described transaction should be approved under section 408(b) of the Act without a hearing.

Accordingly, it is ordered:

1. That the agreement of purchase described above between Braniff and Faucett be and it hereby is approved under section 408 of the Act, and

2. That this action shall not be deemed an approval for rate-making purposes of the financial provisions of the transaction.

Persons entitled to petition the Board for review of this order pursuant to the Board's regulations, 14 CFR 385.50, may file such petitions within 10 days after the date of service of this order.

[Docket Nos. 17750, 18828; Order No. E-25457]

CITY AND COUNTY OF DENVER, COLO. ET AL.

Order Instituting Investigation

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D.C., on the 25th day of July 1967.

Petition of City and County of Denver, Colo. and the Denver Chamber of Commerce, Docket 17750; for new, improved, and additional air service; Denver-Twin Cities Service Investigation, Docket 18828.

On September 26, 1966, the city and county of Denver and the Denver Chamber of Commerce (hereinafter referred to collectively as Denver) filed a petition with the Board requesting an investigation into the need for authorization of "unrestricted direct single-carrier competitive authority" between Denver and Minneapolis/St. Paul, Omaha, Phoenix, and Las Vegas. On April 12, 1967, Denver filed a motion for an expedited hearing on its application with respect to new, improved, and additional service in the Minneapolis/St. Paul, Omaha and Phoenix markets,[3] contending that the traffic generation in these markets in fiscal 1966 increased 23 percent over the previous year and 126 percent since 1959, that unrestricted competitive authority in these markets has never been adjudicated by the Board, and that the volume of traffic warrants consideration of first competitive nonstop authority. In fiscal year 1966, Denver-Minneapolis/St. Paul generated a total of 210 passengers, Denver-Omaha 173 passengers, and Denver-Phoenix 219 passengers a day.

Frontier and North Central have filed answers to Denver's motion for an expedited hearing. Frontier and North Central support the motion insofar as the Denver-Minneapolis/St. Paul market is concerned. According to North Central, this market will generate over 140,000 passengers by 1968 and will be one of the largest markets in the country without the benefit of competitive air service. North Central also contends that an award of nonstop authority in this market would result in an "appreciable subsidy reduction." Frontier points out that improved service in the Denver-Omaha market is in issue in the Service to Omaha case, Docket 18401[4] and that the public interest would not be served by considering nonstop competitive issues at this time in the Denver-Phoenix market because it now provides one- and two-stop servicese with 727 aircraft in this market and there is pending an application for a change of service pattern which, if granted, would authorize Frontier to operate nonstop between Denver and Phoenix.

Upon consideration of the foregoing, the Board has decided to grant Denver's motion for an expedited hearing to the extent that it requests consideration of first competitive nonstop service issues in the Denver-Minneapolis/St. Paul market and institute herein an investigation to be designated as the Denver-Twin Cities Service Investigation. The remainder of the motion will be denied.

Although traffic generation in the Denver-Minneapolis/St. Paul market is large and has grown rapidly, Western is the only carrier authorized to provide nonstop service and the only carrier which provides any single-plane service in the market.[5] For the year ended September 30, 1966, the market generated a total of 78,000 passengers or 214 passengers a day in both directions. Since Western's service is essentially long-haul, it is quite possible that substantial traffic flow, not reflected in the Board's traffic surveys, is moving over the Denver-Minneapolis/St. Paul segment. Because Western's nonstop flights are part of a long-haul service, we deem it important to consider in this investigation whether the local traffic demands in the market are being served adequately and whether additional capacity and competitive authority is required for the convenience and continued development of local traffic.[6]

In evaluating Denver's motion and deciding to grant that portion which requests expedited consideration of air service requirements in the Denver-Minneapolis/St. Paul market, we also take note of North Central's contention that competitive nonstop service in the market can be provided economically with a possibility for significant subsidy reduction and the fact that service requirements in this market have not been examined for a considerable period of time.

We have decided not to hear the Denver-Phoenix market at this time. Although the Denver-Phoenix and Denver-Minneapolis/St. Paul markets are comparable in size, the Denver-Minneapolis/St. Paul market is a monopoly market while Denver-Phoenix is not. In addition to Western's Denver-Phoenix nonstop services, Frontier provides one and two-stop services in the market with 727 aircraft and multistop services with CV-580 aircraft and has attained a 15 percent participation in the market.[7] Under these circumstances the question of improved service in the Denver-Phoenix market is not of such urgent proportions as to warrant an immediate hearing.[8]

In order to assure that the scope of this investigation is limited to the consideration of first competitive nonstop service in the Denver-Minneapolis/St. Paul market, we will impose a pretrial restriction that any new certificate authority awarded herein shall be in the form of a new segment rather than an addition to an existing segment and that any new certificate authority awarded shall be without subsidy eligibility.

The Board will not search its dockets to sever out and consolidate with this investigation those applications or portions of applications which are within the scope of this proceeding. However, favorable consideration will be given to timely-filed motions which seek to consolidate herein applications or portions of applications which are within the clearly defined scope of this case.

Accordingly, it is ordered, That:

1. An investigation designated as the Denver-Twin Cities Service Investigation be and it hereby is instituted in Docket 18828 pursuant to sections 204(a) and 401(g) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958, as amended, to determine whether the public convenience and necessity require the alteration; amendment or modification of any carrier authorizations so as to authorize competitive nonstop service between Denver and Minneapolis/St. Paul;

2. The motion of Denver to the extent that it seeks expedited consideration of that portion of its application in Docket 17750 related to additional service between Denver and Minneapolis-St. Paul is granted and in all other respects the motion is denied;

3. In the event that any carrier is awarded certificate authority in this proceeding, such new authority will be granted in the form of a separate segment in the carrier's existing certificate and will be without subsidy eligibility;

4. Motions to consolidate, applications, and motions or petitions seeking modification or reconsideration of this order shall be filed no later than 20 days after the service date of this order and answers to such pleadings shall be filed no later than 20 days thereafter;

5. This proceeding shall be set down for hearing before an Examiner of the Board at a time and place hereafter designated; and

6. A copy of this order be served upon the city and county of Denver, Colo.; the Denver Chamber of Commerce; the cities of Minneapolis, St. Paul, Minn.; Omaha, Nebr.; and Phoenix, Ariz.; the Aeronautical Departments and/or Commissions of the States of Colorado, Minnesota, Nebraska, and Arizona; Braniff Airways, Inc., Central Airlines, Inc., Continental Air Lines, Inc., Frontier Airlines, Inc., Northwest Airlines, Inc., Trans World Airlines, Inc., United Air Lines, Inc., and Western Air Lines, Inc.

This order will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

By the Civil Aeronautics Board.

TRIFLURALIN

Notice of Establishment of Temporary Tolerance

Notice is given that at the request of the Elanco Products Co., a division of Eli Lilly and Co., Indianapolis, Ind. 46206, a temporary tolerance of 0.05 part per million is established for residues of the herbicide trifluralin (α,α,α-trifluoro-2,6-dinitro-N,N,-dipropyl-p-toluidine) in or on sugarcane. The Commissioner of Food and Drugs has determined that this temporary tolerance will protect the public health.

A condition under which this temporary tolerance is established is that the herbicide will be used in accord with the temporary permit issued by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Distribution will be under the Elanco Products Co. name.

This temporary tolerance expires July 21, 1968.

[1] Faucett has held a temporary foreign air carrier permit since 1961 to operate between Miami, Fla., and Lima, Peru, via Panama City, Panama. Its permit was extended for a further 5-year period by Order E-24787 Feb. 23, 1967. Faucett, however, has not yet inaugurated service over the route.

[2] Braniff, as a successor in interest to Panagra, owns 17.77 percent of Faucett's outstanding stock. In Docket 16187 the Examiner found that Faucett was substantially owned and effectively controlled by citizens of Peru, and in opinion and Order E-24787, Feb. 23, 1967, the Board adopted the Examiner's findings and conclusions. Braniff indicated that it may contract with Faucett to provide, for a limited period of time, purchasing and shipping services in connection with the subject aircraft. It may be that in view of the existing and contemplated transactions that new section 408 relationships may arise in the future. Of course, if such relationships should develop, Braniff would be required to seek appropriate relief. Further, Braniff alleged that it entered into the agreement without reliance on any representation by Faucett that it either will or will not use the aircraft on its route to the United States.

[3] Denver did not include the Las Vegas market because improved Denver-Las Vegas service is at issue in the Denver-Grand Junction-Las Vegas Investigation, Docket 17914.

[4] Order E-24977, Apr. 13, 1967.

[5] Western now offers three nonstop roundtrips in the Denver-Minneapolis/St. Paul market which are throughplane services to the west coast. Western also provides two one-stop roundtrips and one three-stop roundtrip in the market. Eastbound, two of these multistop flights originate in Denver and one originates in Los Angeles; westbound, two of the multistop flights operate beyond Denver to west coast points.

[6] Except for westbound flight 701, we note that Western's nonstop flights arrive at and depart from Denver at midday or later. OAG, June 1967.

[7] Based on 1966 O&D traffic.

[8] Since improved service in the Denver-Omaha market is now in issue in the Service to Omaha Case, Order E-24977, Apr. 13, 1967, questions of improved operating authority in this market will not be heard in this investigation.

This action is taken pursuant to the authority vested in the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare by the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (sec. 408(j), 68 Stat. 516; 21 U.S.C. 346a (j)) and delegated by him to the Commissioner (21 CFR 2.120).

GOSPEL BROADCASTING COMPANY OF FORT WAYNE, INC., AND FORT WAYNE BROADCASTING CO.

Order Designating Applications for Consolidated Hearing on Stated Issues

In re application of The Gospel Broadcasting Company of Fort Wayne, Inc., Fort Wayne, Ind. Requests: 101.7 mc, No. 269; 3 kw (horizontal) 2 kw (vertical); 300 feet, Docket No. 17594, File No. BPH-5561; Clarence C. Moore trading as Fort Wayne Broadcasting Co., Fort Wayne, Ind. Requests: 101.7 mc, No. 269; 3 kw; 299 feet, Docket No. 17595, File No. BPH-5672; for construction permits.

1. The Commission has under consideration the above captioned and described applications which are mutually exclusive in that operation by the applicants as proposed would result in mutually destructive interference.

2. According to its application, Fort Wayne Broadcasting Co. will require $40,000 to construct and operate for 1 year without revenue. To meet this need, Fort Wayne Broadcasting Co. has a $1,000 bank deposit, with the balance to be provided by the applicant directly or from a bank loan. No balance sheet or bank letter of commitment, however, has been submitted. Accordingly, we will specify an issue to determine whether the additional $39,000 is available.

3. The Gospel Broadcasting Company of Fort Wayne, Inc., will not be able to provide a 3.16 mv/m signal to the entire city of Fort Wayne, Ind., as required by § 73.315(a) of the Commission's rules, and it has requested waiver of this provision. Accordingly, we will specify an issue to determine whether under the circumstances described by Gospel waiver of this provision is warranted.

4. Full comparison of the programing proposals is warranted when one applicant proposes predominantly specialized programing and the other general market programing—Ward L. Jones, FCC 67-62 (1967); Policy Statement on Comparative Broadcast Hearings, 1 FCC 2d 393, footnote 9 at 397 (1965). In this case, the Gospel Broadcasting Company of Fort Wayne, Inc., proposes predominantly religious programing and Fort Wayne Broadcasting Co., general market programing. Therefore, the programing proposals of the applicants may be compared under the standard comparative issue.

5. Except as indicated below, the applicants are qualified to construct and operate as proposed. However, because of their mutual exclusivity, the Commission is unable to make the statutory finding that a grant of the applications would serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity, as is of the opinion that the applications must be designated for hearing on the issues set forth below.

6. It is ordered, That, pursuant to section 309(e) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the applications are designated for hearing in a consolidated proceeding, at a time and place to be specified in a subsequent order, upon the following issues:

1. To determine whether Fort Wayne Broadcasting Co. has available to it the additional $39,000 required to construct and operate for 1 year without revenue and thus demonstrate its financial qualifications.

2. To determine whether circumstances exist which would warrant waiver of § 73.315(a) of the Commission's rules.

3. To determine which of the proposals would better serve the public interest.

4. To determine in the light of the evidence adduced pursuant to the foregoing issues, which if either of the applications for construction permit should be granted.

7. It is further ordered, That to avail themselves of the opportunity to be heard, the applicants herein, pursuant to § 1.221(c) of the Commission's rules, in person or by attorney, shall, within twenty (20) days of the mailing of this order file with the Commission in triplicate, a written appearance stating an intention to appear on the date fixed for the hearing and present evidence on the issues specified in this order.

8. It is further ordered, That the applicants herein shall, pursuant to section 311(a)(2) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, and § 1.594 of the Commission's rules, give notice of the hearing, either individually or, if feasible and consistent with the rules, jointly, within the time and in the manner prescribed in such rule, and shall advise the Commission of the publication of such notice as required by § 1.594(g) of the rules.

Order Designating Applications for Consolidated Hearing on Stated Issues

In re applications of Piedmont Broadcasting Corp., Danville, Va., Requests: 103.3 mc, No. 277; 100 kw; 655 feet, Docket No. 17589, File No. BPH-5741; Baron Broadcasting Corp., Danville, Va., Requests: 103.3 mc, No. 277; 100 kw, 578 feet, Docket No. 17590, File No. BPH-5827; for construction permits.

1. The Commission has under consideration the above-captioned and described applications which are mutually exclusive in that operation by the applicants as proposed would result in mutually destructive interference.

2. According to the information in its application, Baron Broadcasting Corp. will require approximately $66,561 to construct and operate for 1 year without revenue. Since Baron Broadcasting Corp. has only shown the availability of $50,000 (from a bank loan) an issue will be specified to determine whether the additional $16,561 it requires is available.

3. Consideration of the programing proposals is required because of the substantial and material difference between the proposals in the amount of AM programing to be duplicated. Piedmont Broadcasting Corp. proposes 37 percent duplication of AM programing while Baron Broadcasting Corp. proposes independent programing. Therefore, evidence regarding program duplication will be admissible under the standard comparative issue. The showing permitted under the standard comparative issue when duplicated programing is proposed will be limited to evidence concerning the benefits to be derived from the proposed

QUEST FOR LIFE, INC., ET AL.

Order Designating Applications for Consolidated Hearing on Stated Issues

In re applications of Quest For Life, Inc., Rockford, Ill., Requests: 104.9 mc, No. 285; 3 kw; 300 feet, Docket No. 17591, File No. BPH-5601; Greater Rockford Sound, Inc., Rockford, Ill., Requests: 104.9 mc, No. 285; 3 kw; 149 feet, Docket No. 17592, File No. BPH-5647; Belvidere Broadcasting Co., Inc., Belvidere, Ill., Requests: 104.9 mc, No. 285; 3 kw (horizontal) 2.01 kw (vertical); 300 feet, Docket No. 17593, File No. BPH-5755; for construction permits.

1. The Commission has under consideration the above captioned and described applications which are mutually exclusive in that operation by the applicants as proposed would result in mutually destructive interference.

2. The respective proposals are for two different communities. Consequently, it will be necessary to determine pursuant to section 307(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, whether the proposals for Rockford or the proposal for Belvidere would better provide a fair, efficient, and equitable distribution of radio service.

3. Data submitted by the applicants indicate that there would be a significant difference in the size of the areas and populations which would receive service from the proposals. Consequently the areas and populations within the 1 mv/m contour together with the availability of other FM services of 1 mv/m or greater intensity in such areas will be considered under the 307(b) issue, and if necessary, under the contingent comparative issue, for the purpose of determining whether a comparative preference should accrue to any of the applicants.

4. Full comparison of the applicants' programing proposals is warranted when one applicant proposes predominantly specialized programing and the others, general market programing—Ward L. Jones, FCC 67–62 (1967); Policy Statement on Comparative Broadcast Hearings, 1 FCC 2d 393, footnote 9 at 397 (1965). In this case, Quest for Life, Inc., proposes extensive amounts of religious programing and Greater Rockford Sound, Inc., and Belvidere Broadcasting Co., Inc., both propose general market programing. Therefore, the specialized Quest for Life programing proposal may be compared under the contingent comparative issue with the general format proposals of the other applicants.

5. Since no determination has yet been reached on whether the antenna proposed by Belvidere Broadcasting Co., Inc., would constitute a menace to air navigation, an issue regarding this matter is required.

6. Quest for Life, Inc., has requested waiver of § 73.210(a)(2) of the Commission's rules to permit the main studio to be located outside the city limits of Rockford, Ill., at a point other than the transmitter site. The proposed main studio location in North Park, a nearby Rockford suburb, which would be on a major artery, would be convenient to Rockford residents. Under these circumstances, we believe that adequate justification has been provided for waiver if these applications are granted.

7. Except as indicated below, the applicants are qualified to construct and operate as proposed. However, because of their mutual exclusivity, the Commission is unable to make the statutory finding that a grant of the applications would serve the public interest, convenience and necessity, as is of the opinion that the applications must be designated for hearing on the issues set forth below.

It is ordered, That, pursuant to section 309(e) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the applications are designated for hearing in a consolidated proceeding, at a time and place to be specified in a subsequent order, upon the following issues:

1. To determine whether there is a reasonable possibility that the tower height and location proposed by Belvidere Broadcasting Co., Inc., would constitute a menace to air navigation.

2. To determine, in the light of section 307(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, which of the proposals would best provide a fair, efficient, and equitable distribution of radio service.

3. To determine, in the event it is concluded that a choice between applications should not be based solely on considerations relating to section 307(b), which of the proposals would best serve the public interest.

4. To determine, in the light of the evidence adduced pursuant to the foregoing issues which, if any, of the applications should be granted.

It is further ordered, That the Federal Aviation Administration is made a party to the proceeding.

It is further ordered, That if the Quest for Life, Inc., application is granted, the permit shall contain the following condition:

Section 73.210(a)(2) of the Commission's rules is waived to permit the establishment of the main studio outside the city limits of Rockford, Ill., at 6200 North Second Street, North Park, Ill.

It is further ordered, That to avail themselves of the opportunity to be heard, the applicants (and party respondent herein), pursuant to § 1.221(c) of the Commission's rules, in person or by attorney shall, within twenty (20) days of the mailing of this order, file with the Commission in triplicate, a written appearance stating an intention to appear on the date fixed for the hearing and present evidence on the issues specified in this order.

It is further ordered, That the applicants herein shall, pursuant to section 311(a)(2) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, and § 1.594 of the Commission's rules, give notice of the hearing, either individually or, if feasible and consistent with the rules, jointly, within the time and in the manner prescribed in such rule, and shall advise the Commission of the publication of such notice as required by § 1.494(g) of the rules.

Adopted: July 12, 1967.

Released: July 25, 1967.

E. O. SMITH (KRDS)

Memorandum Opinion and Order Designating Application for Hearing on Stated Issues

In re application of E. O. Smith (KRDS), Tolleson, Ariz., Has: 1190 kc, 250 w, DA-1, U, Requests: 1190 kc, 250 w, 10 kw-LS, DA-2, U, Class II, Docket No. 17587, File No. BP-17053; for construction permit.

1. The Commission has before it for consideration (a) the above application; (b) a petition to deny by Golden West Broadcasters, Inc., licensee of Station KEX, Portland, Oreg.; (c) a petition to deny, as supplemented, by Radio K–HAT, Inc., licensee of Station KHAT, Phoenix, Ariz.; and (d) pleadings in opposition and reply thereto.

2. KEX alleges that KRDS cannot avoid emitting excessive daytime skywave radiation in the direction of KEX's 0.1 mv/m contour, in contravention of § 73.187 of the Commission's rules. In opposition, KRDS denies that its proposal exceeds the maximum permissible radiation. Subsequently, on March 23, 1967, the two parties entered into an agreement pursuant to which KEX would dismiss its petition in return for KRDS agreeing to accept a condition limiting its radiation on an azimuth of 326° to a maximum inverse field of 800 mv/m.

3. The solution contemplated by KEX and KRDS appears to be reasonable under the circumstances. Accordingly, the condition agreed upon by the parties will be imposed if the application is granted and the KEX petition will be dismissed.

4. KHAT bases its claim of standing on the grounds that, since KRDS competes with it within the Phoenix, Ariz. market for listening audience and revenue, a grant of the above application would result in economic injury to its operation. The Commission finds that KHAT has standing as a "party in interest" within the meaning of section 309(d)(1) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, and § 1.580(i) of the Commission's rules. FCC v. Sanders Bros. Radio Station, 309 U.S. 470, 9 RR 2008 (1940).

5. In its petition, KHAT urges denial of the above application and alleges that the KRDS proposal comes within the purview of the Commission's 307(b) suburban communities policy [1] and should thus be considered as proposing realistically to serve Phoenix.

6. In opposition, E. O. Smith filed an amendment to his application, wherein he stated, in substance, that the application was filed for the purpose of increasing the service available to Tolleson; that Tolleson was a separate and distinct community with its own political and business activities; and that the programing of KRDS met the needs of Tolleson. In support of the last allegation, the applicant included letters from a number of organizations praising KRDS for its public service efforts.

7. The Commission finds that the application must be designated for hearing with 307(b) suburban communities issues specified. Tolleson has a population, according to the 1960 Census, of 3,886 and is located approximately 5 miles west of Phoenix, population 439,170. The existing 5 mv/m contour of KRDS penetrates approximately one-half of Phoenix. The proposed operation would result in the 5 mv/m contour encompassing virtually the entire city limits of Phoenix, thus raising a presumption under the Policy Statement that the applicant is realistically proposing to serve that city rather than Tolleson. We have examined the materials submitted by E. O. Smith and find that he has failed to overcome this presumption. In the main, his statement consists of unsupported, self-serving, and conclusional statements which do not directly tend to rebut the presumption. For instance, no attempt was made to show that the applicant, in designing the proposal, sought to avoid increasing the 5 mv/m coverage of Phoenix. Nor was any attempt made to show that ten kilowatts of power is necessary to provide adequate service to Tolleson and its immediate environs.

8. Except as indicated by the issues specified below, the applicant is qualified to construct and operate as proposed. However, in view of the foregoing, the Commission is unable to make the statutory finding that a grant of the subject application would serve the public interest convenience, and necessity, and is of the opinion that the application must be designated for hearing on the issues set forth below.

Accordingly, it is ordered, That, pursuant to section 309(e) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the application is designated for hearing, at a time and place to be specified in a subsequent order, upon the following issues:

1. To determine the areas and populations which may be expected to gain or lose primary service from the proposed operation of Station KRDS and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

2. To determine whether the proposal of KRDS will realistically provide a local transmission facility for its specified station location or for another larger community, in light of all the relevant evidence, including, but not necessarily limited to, the showing with respect to:

(a) The extent to which the specified station location has been ascertained by the applicant to have separate and distinct programing needs;

(b) The extent to which the needs of the specified station location are being met by existing standard broadcast stations;

(c) The extent to which the applicant's program proposal will meet the specific unsatisfied programing needs of its specified station location; and

(d) The extent to which the projected sources of the applicant's advertising revenues within its specified station location are adequate to support its proposal, as compared with its projected sources from all other areas.

3. To determine, in the event that it is concluded pursuant to the foregoing issue (2) that the proposal will not realistically provide a local transmission service for its specified station location, whether such proposal meets all of the technical provisions of the rules for standard broadcast stations assigned to the most populous community for which it is determined that the proposal will realistically provide a local transmission service, namely, Phoenix, Ariz.

4. To determine, in the light of the evidence adduced pursuant to the foregoing issues, whether a grant of the application would serve the public interest, convenience, and necessity.

It is further ordered, That, Radio K–HAT, Inc., licensee of Station KHAT, Phoenix, Ariz., is made a party to the proceeding.

It is further ordered, That the petition to deny by Radio K–HAT, Inc., is granted to the extent indicated above and is denied in all other respects.

It is further ordered, That the petition to deny by Golden West Broadcasting, Inc., licensee of Station KEX, Portland, Oreg., is dismissed.

It is further ordered, That in the event of a grant of the above application, the construction permit shall contain the following conditions:

Pending a final decision in Docket No. 14419 with respect to presunrise operation with daytime facilities, the present provisions of § 73.87 of the Commission's rules are not extended to this authorization, and such operation is precluded.

Before program tests are authorized, permittee shall submit field intensity measurement data made in accordance with § 73.186 of the rules to establish that the inverse distance field at 1 mile does not exceed 800 mv/m along an azimuth of 326° true.

Permittee shall submit new common point impedance measurements and sufficient field intensity measurement data to clearly show that adjustment of the daytime array has not adversely affected the nighttime directional radiation pattern.

It is further ordered, That, to avail themselves of the opportunity to be heard, the applicant, and party respondent herein, pursuant to § 1.221(c) of the Commission's rules, in person or by attorney, shall, within 20 days of the mailing of this order, file with the Commission in triplicate, a written appearance stating an intention to appear on the date fixed for the hearing and present evidence on the issues specified in this order.

It is further ordered, That the applicant herein shall, pursuant to section 311(a)(2) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, and § 1.594 of the Commission's rules, give notice of the hearing, within the time and in the manner prescribed in such rule, and shall advise the Commission of the publication of such notice as required by § 1.594(g) of the rules.

GENERAL SERVICES ADMINISTRATION

[Federal Procurement; Temporary Reg. No. 12]

FAIR LABOR STANDARDS AMENDMENTS OF 1966

Extension of Temporary Regulations

To Heads of Federal Agencies:

1. Purpose. This regulation continues in effect the provisions of paragraphs Nos. 1, 2, 3, and 5 of FPR Temporary Regulation No. 10, February 11, 1967 (32 F.R. 3029, February 17, 1967).

2. Effective date. This regulation is effective August 1, 1967.

3. Expiration date. This regulation will remain in effect until canceled. It is expected that the appropriate provisions of FPR Temporary Regulation No. 10 will be codified in the FPR together with the changes in rules and regulations concerning labor standards for Federal service contracts which are currently being considered by the Department of Labor (see 31 F.R. 12646, Sept. 27, 1966) and that this regulation and the provisions of FPR Temporary Regulation No. 10, continued in effect hereunder in paragraph No. 5, will be canceled at that time.

4. Background. FPR Temporary Regulation No. 10 provided interim procedures for the implementation of the Fair Labor Standards Amendments of 1966 (Public Law 89-601; 80 Stat. 830), which amended the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, as amended (29 U.S.C. 201 et seq.), insofar as the new legislation affects contracts for the furnishing of services to the Federal Government. Codification of these procedures in the Federal Procurement Regulations will be accomplished subsequent to the issuance of changes in rules and regulations by the Department of Labor concerning labor standards for service contracts generally. However, since the new regulations will not be issued by the Department prior to the expiration of FPR

Temporary Regulation No. 10, it is necessary to continue in effect the provisions of that regulation with the exception of paragraph No. 4. Paragraph No. 4 is no longer regarded as necessary since further implementation of its provisions will serve no useful purpose.

5. Agency implementation. Federal agencies shall be guided by and shall comply with, as appropriate, the provisions of paragraphs Nos. 1, 2, 3, and 5 of FPR Temporary Regulation No. 10 pending a formal revision of the Federal Procurement Regulations and/or cancellation of this regulation.

Dated: July 27, 1967.

Administrator of General Services.

LIST OF CFR SECTIONS AFFECTED

(The Codification Guide)

The List of CFR Sections Affected is published monthly on a cumulative basis. It lists by number the titles, parts, and sections of the Code of Federal Regulations amended or otherwise affected by documents published in the Federal Register since January 1, 1967. Entries indicate the nature of changes effected. Proposed rules are listed at the end of appropriate titles.

Daily numerical guides listing parts affected are carried following the Contents of each issue of the Federal Register, and within-the-month cumulations appear at the end of each issue.

A subject Index to the daily Federal Register is published separately, covering the contents of the Federal Register as follows: Monthly for the months of January, February, April, May, July, August, October, November, and December; quarterly for the quarters ending in March, June, and September; and annually for the calendar year.

THE FEDERAL REGISTER SUBJECT INDEX

The Subject Index to the daily Federal Register is published separately, covering the contents of the Federal Register as follows: Monthly for the months of January, February, April, May, July, August, October, November, and December; quarterly for the quarters ending in March, June, and September; and annually for the calendar year.

Entries in this index are carried primarily under the names of the issuing agencies, with the most significant subjects additionally carried in appropriate alphabetical position.

This Subject Index should be distinguished from the numerical codification guide (List of CFR Sections Affected) which is also published separately. The numerical guide is designed for quick checking in the Code of Federal Regulations numbering system of provisions whose numbers are already known or have been learned through use of the Subject Index.

AUTHORITY: The provisions of this Part 1001 issued under Executive Order 11222, 30 F.R. 6469, 3 CFR 1965 Supp., 5 CFR 735.101 et seq.

Subpart A—General

§ 1001.735–101 Purpose.

The maintenance of unusually high standards of honesty, integrity, impartiality, and conduct by employees and special Government employees is essential to assure the proper performance of the Commission's business and the maintenance of confidence by citizens in their Government. The avoidance of misconduct and conflicts of interest on the part of employees and special Government employees through informed judgment is indispensable to the maintenance of these standards. To accord with these concepts, this part sets forth the Commission's regulations prescribing standards of conduct and responsibilities and governing statements of employment and financial interests for employees and special Government employees.

§ 1001.735–102 Definitions.

In this part:

(a) "Employee" means an employee of the Civil Service Commission, but does not include a special Government employee.

(b) "Person" means an individual, a corporation, a company, an association, a firm, a partnership, a society, a joint stock company, or any other organization or institution.

(c) "Special Government employee" means a "special Government employee" as defined in section 202 of title 18 of the United States Code who is employed by the Commission.

§ 1001.735–103 Remedial action.

(a) A violation of this part by an employee or special Government employee may be cause for remedial action. Remedial action may include, but is not limited to:

(1) Changes in assigned duties;

(2) Divestment by the employee or special Government employee of his conflicting interest;

(3) Disciplinary action which may be in addition to any penalty prescribed by law; or

(4) Disqualification for a particular assignment.

(b) Remedial action, whether disciplinary or otherwise, shall be effected in accordance with any applicable laws, Executive orders, and regulations.

Subpart B—Conduct and Responsibilities of Employees

§ 1001.735–201 Proscribed actions.

An employee shall avoid any action which might result in, or create the appearance of:

(a) Using public office for private gain;

(b) Giving preferential treatment to any person;

(c) Impeding Government efficiency or economy;

(d) Losing complete independence or impartiality;

(e) Making a Government decision outside official channels; or

(f) Affecting adversely the confidence of the public in the integrity of the Government.

§ 1001.735–202 Gifts, entertainment, and favors.

(a) Except as provided in paragraphs (b) and (e) of this section, an employee shall not solicit or accept, directly or indirectly, any gift, gratuity, favor, entertainment, loan, or any other thing of monetary value, from a person who:

(1) Has, or is seeking to obtain, contractual or other business or financial relations with the Commission;

(2) Conducts operations or activities that are regulated by the Commission; or

(3) Has interests that may be substantially affected by the performance or nonperformance of his official duty.

(b) The restrictions set forth in paragraph (a) of this section do not apply to:

(1) Obvious family or personal relationships, such as those between the employee and his parents, children, or spouse, when the circumstances make it clear that those relationships rather than the business of the persons concerned are the motivating factors;

(2) The acceptance of food and refreshments of nominal value on infrequent occasions in the ordinary course of a luncheon or dinner meeting or an inspection tour where an employee may be properly in attendance;

(3) The acceptance of loans from banks or other financial institutions on customary terms to finance proper and usual activities of employees, such as home mortgage loans; and

(4) The acceptance of unsolicited advertising or promotional material, such as pens, pencils, note pads, calendars, and other items of nominal intrinsic value.

(c) An employee shall not solicit a contribution from another employee for a gift to an official superior, make a donation as a gift to an official superior, or accept a gift from an employee receiving less pay than himself (5 U.S.C. 7351). However, this paragraph does not prohibit a voluntary gift of nominal value or donation in a nominal amount made on a special occasion such as marriage, illness, or retirement.

(d) An employee shall not accept a gift, present, decoration, or other thing from a foreign government unless authorized by Congress as provided by the Constitution and in Public Law 89–673, 80 Stat. 952.

(e) Neither this section nor § 1001.735–203 precludes an employee from receipt of bona fide reimbursement, unless prohibited by law, for expenses of travel and such other necessary subsistence as is compatible with this part for which no Government payment or reimbursement is made. However, this paragraph does not allow an employee to be reimbursed, or payment to be made on his behalf, for excessive personal living expenses, gifts, entertainment, or other personal benefits, nor does it allow an employee to be reimbursed by a person for travel on official business under Commission orders when reimbursement is prescribed by Decision B–128517 of the Comptroller General dated March 7, 1967.

§ 1001.735–203 Outside employment and activity.

(a) An employee shall not engage in outside employment or other outside activity not compatible with the full and proper discharge of the duties and responsibilities of his Government employment. Incompatible activities include, but are not limited to:

(1) Acceptance of a fee, compensation, gift, payment of expense, or any other thing of monetary value in circumstances wherein acceptance may result in, or create the appearance of, a conflict of interest;

(2) Outside employment or activity which tends to impair his mental or physical capacity to perform the duties and responsibilities of his position in an acceptable manner;

(3) Outside employment or activity which may bring criticism of, or cause embarrassment to, the Commission; or

(4) Outside employment or activity which is in violation of a statute, Executive order, or regulation, including applicable State and local statutes and ordinances.

(b) Employees are encouraged to engage in teaching, lecturing, and writing that is not prohibited by law, Executive Order 11222, Part 735 of this chapter, or this part. However, an employee shall not, either for or without compensation, engage in teaching, lecturing, or writing that is dependent on information obtained as a result of his Government employment, except when that information has been made available to the general public or will be made available on request, or when the Chairman gives written authorization for the use of nonpublic information on the basis that such use is in the public interest.

(c) Employees are encouraged to serve as members of committees or boards which plan or advise on training courses or programs offered by non-Government organizations, especially when the courses or programs are designed for, or are of particular interest to, Federal employees. However, before an employee may accept membership on such a committee or board, he shall request in writing and secure the approval of the Commission official authorized to grant the request. Bureau directors, regional directors, and heads of staff offices are authorized to grant requests made by their employees. The Commissioners and the Executive Director are the approving authorities for employees who report directly to them. The authorizing official shall transmit a copy of each approved request for inclusion in the employee's Official Personnel Folder.

(d) Employees are encouraged to accept appointments as faculty members for after-hours teaching. However, before an employee may accept such an appointment, he shall request and secure approval, and the approved request shall be included in his Official Personnel Folder, as provided in paragraph (c) of this section.

(e) An employee shall not recieve any salary or anything of monetary value from a private source as compensation for his services to the Government.

(f) An employee shall not engage in outside employment under a State or local government except in accordance with Part 734 of this chapter.

(g) An employee who engages in any kind of outside paid employment on a substantially regular basis shall submit to his immediate supervisor a memorandum describing the employment and stating approximately how many hours per week he is so employed. The immediate supervisor shall forward the memorandum through his bureau director, regional director, or staff office head for inclusion in the employee's Official Personnel Folder.

(h) This section does not preclude an employee from:

(1) Participation in the activities of National or State political parties not proscribed by law;

(2) Participation in the local self-government activities in the community in which he resides to the extent permitted by law. However, an employee may not hold elective office in his local community government without the approval of the Executive Director; or

(3) Participation in the affairs of, or acceptance of an award for meritorious public contribution or achievement given by, a charitable, religious, professional, social, fraternal, nonprofit educational and recreational, public service, or civic organization.

§ 1001.735–204 Financial interests.

(a) An employee shall not:

(1) Have a direct or indirect financial interest that conflicts substantially, or appears to conflict substantially, with his Government duties and responsibilities; or

(2) Engage in, directly or indirectly, a financial transaction as a result of, or primarily relying on, information obtained through his Government employment.

(b) This section does not preclude an employee from having a financial interest or engaging in financial transactions to the same extent as a private citizen not employed by the Government so long as it is not prohibited by law, Executive Order 11222, Part 735 of this chapter, or this part.

§ 1001.735–205 Misuse of information.

For the purpose of furthering a private interest, an employee shall not, except as provided in § 1001.735–203(b), directly or indirectly use, or allow the use of, official information obtained through or in connection with his Government employment which has not been made available to the general public.

§ 1001.735–206 Support of Commission programs.

An employee may, therefore, properly make an address explaining and interpreting such a program, citing its achievements, defending it against uninformed or unjust criticism, pointing out the need for possible improvements, or soliciting views for improving it.

(b) An employee shall not, either directly or indirectly, use appropriated funds to influence a Member of Congress to favor or oppose legislation in violation of 18 U.S.C. 1913. However, an employee is not prohibited from:

In this interview he shall be instructed to pay the debt in full within 90 days, or within whatever longer period is specified by the Director of Personnel or regional director if he determines that a 90-day time limit would impose undue hardship on the employee, and informed that failure to do so will be grounds for removal.

(f) When an employee is the subject of a letter of complaint from a creditor who does not hold a legal judgment against the employee, the Director of Personnel or regional director shall forward a copy of the letter to the employee together with a memorandum calling the employee's attention to the provisions of this section.

This part was approved by the Civil Service Commission on July 19, 1967.

INTRODUCTION AND GENERAL PROGRAM PRINCIPLES

§ 701.1 Introduction and general program principles.

(a) Introduction. (1) Through the agricultural conservation program for 1968 and subsequent years (referred to in this subpart as the "program") administered by the Department of Agriculture, the Federal Government will share with farmers and ranchers in the United States, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands the cost of carrying out approved soil-building and soil and water conservation practices, including related wildlife conservation practices, in accordance with the provisions of this bulletin and such modifications thereof as may hereafter be made.

(2) Information with respect to the several practices for which costs will be shared when carried out on a particular farm or ranch, and the exact specifications and rates of cost-sharing for such practices, may be obtained from the county committee for the county in which the farm or ranch is located or from the State committee.

(b) General program principles. The national agricultural conservation program has been developed and is to be carried out on the basis of the following general principles:

(1) The national program contains broad authorities to help meet the varied conservation problems of the nation. County and State committees and participating agencies should develop within these authorities programs which will effectively meet conservation needs of the agricultural land, water, woodland, and wildlife resources of the county and State. They should annually establish goals, objectives, and priorities to help them direct the program toward the accomplishment of the broad resource use plans for the county or State in a manner consistent with National needs now and for the future.

(2) State and county programs should be so administered as to give particular encouragement to family-operated farms to undertake a comprehensive effort of conservation practices which provide the most enduring conservation benefits practicably attainable in the current program year on the lands where they are applied and to the community of which those lands are a part.

(3) The program should be used to reduce significantly the loss of agricultural soil, water, woodland, or wildlife resources and to improve the prospect of their efficient multipurpose use in providing an adequate supply of food, fiber, water, and wildlife for the future and for the general improvement of man's total environment.

(4) Assistance for conservation measures should be used to encourage better land use and a well-balanced effort to deal with all conservation problems of the farm or ranch.

(5) If the farmer or rancher is to bear the primary responsibility for maintaining our agricultural land, water, woodland, or wildlife resources in a manner which assures their availability for productive use for the benefit of future generations the public in fairness should assume responsibility for a part of the cost of the conservation measures needed to preserve those resources for the future while they are being used to meet our current needs.

DISTRIBUTION OF FUNDS

§ 701.2 State funds.

(a) Funds available for conservation practices for a program year will be distributed among States on the basis of conservation needs, but the proportion allocated for use in any State shall not be reduced more than 15 percent from its proportionate distribution for the preceding program year. The allocation of funds among the States for each program year shall be as provided by amendments to this section.

(b) The distribution made under this section will not include the amount set aside for administrative expenses, the amount required for increases in small Federal cost-shares in § 701.28, and the amount set aside for the naval stores conservation program.

§ 701.3 County funds.

The State committee will allocate the funds available for conservation practices among the counties within the State consistent with the needs for enduring conservation in the counties within the State and will give particular consideration to the furtherance of watershed conservation programs sponsored by local people and organizations.

STATE AND COUNTY AGRICULTURAL CONSERVATION PROGRAMS

§ 701.4 Agencies to participate in development of State programs.

(a) A State agricultural conservation program (referred to in this subpart as "State program") shall be developed in each State in accordance with the provisions contained in this subpart and such modifications thereof as may hereafter be made. The program shall be developed by the State ACP development group, which shall consist of the State committee (including the State director of extension), the State conservationist of the Soil Conservation Service, and the Forest Service official having jurisdiction of farm forestry in the State, and, in States in the Appalachian region in which a program is developed under section 203 of Public Law 89–4 with the assistance of the State ACP development group upon request of the Governor of the State, a representative recommended by the Governor and designated by the Secretary. The president of the land-grant college and the State director of the Farmers Home Administration shall be invited to designate representatives to counsel with the group in the formulation of the State program. The chairman of the State committee shall invite representatives of the State soil conservation committee (board or commission), the State agricultural extension service, the State agency having responsibility for wildlife conservation, and other State and Federal agricultural agencies, and may invite others with conservation interests, to participate in the deliberations on the State program.

(b) The program for the State shall be that recommended by the State ACP development group and approved by the Director, Farmer Programs Division, ASCS, after obtaining the recommendations of the Soil Conservation Service and the Forest Service.

§ 701.5 Agencies to participate in development of county programs.

(a) A county agricultural conservation program (referred to in this subpart as "county program") shall be developed in each county in accordance with the provisions of the State program and such modifications thereof as may be made. The county program shall be developed by the county ACP development group, which shall consist of the county committee, the designated representative of the Soil Conservation Service in the county, and the Federal Forest Service representative having jurisdiction of farm forestry in the county. The county ACP development group, working with the community committeemen, the governing body of the soil conservation district, the farm forestry representatives of the State, the county agricultural extension agent for the county (if he is not included in the foregoing group as ex officio member of the county committee), the county supervisor of the Farmers Home Administration, and others with conservation interests, shall develop recommendations for the county program.

(b) The program for the county then shall be formulated by the county ACP development group in consultation with the governing body of the soil conservation district on the overall conservation problems in the county and, especially, on the work plans of the soil conservation district and of the Federal agencies involved to assure the most effective use of the available technical assistance and funds for cost-sharing. The program as formulated shall be recommended to the State committee for approval by the State ACP development group. The program for the county shall be that recommended by the county ACP development group and approved by the State ACP development group. The program recommendation shall be signed by the chairman of the county committee, the Soil Conservation Service technician, and the Forest Service representative where present in the county, and shall state that the program was developed in consultation with the governing body of the soil conservation district, if any, or shall state that the governing body was invited to participate in developing the program but did not accept.

§ 701.6 Selection of practices.

Practices to be included in the State program or in the county program shall be only those practices for which cost-sharing is essential to permit accomplishment of needed conservation work which would not otherwise be carried out.

§ 701.7 Adaptation of practices.

(a) The practices included in the State program must meet all conditions and requirements of the national program. Additional conditions and requirements may be included where necessary for effective use in meeting the conservation problems in the State.

(b) The practices included in the county program must meet all conditions and requirements of the State program. Additional conditions and requirements may be included where necessary for effective use in meeting the conservation problems in the county.

§ 701.8 Practice specifications.

(a) Minimum specifications which practices must meet to be eligible for Federal cost-sharing shall be set forth in the State handbook or in the county program, or be incorporated therein by specific reference to a standard publication or other written document containing such specifications.

(b) For practices involving the establishment or improvement of vegetative cover, the specifications shall include, where appropriate, liming, fertilization, and seeding rates, eligible seeds and mixtures, seeding dates, requirements for cultural operations and inoculation, and other steps essential to the successful establishment or improvement of the vegetative cover. Eligible seeds and mixtures shall include a legume or legumes where recommended for inclusion by the State experiment station or the State extension service. For mechanical or construction type practices, the specifications shall include, where appropriate, the types and sizes of material, installation or construction requirements, and other steps essential to the proper functioning of the structure. For other practices, the specifications shall include those steps essential to the successful performance of the practice.

(c) Practice specifications shall provide minimum performance requirements which will qualify the practice for cost-sharing and, where applicable, may also provide maximum limits of performance which will be eligible for cost-sharing. The minimum performance requirements established for a practice shall represent those levels of performance which are necessary to assure a satisfactory practice. The maximum limits of performance for cost-sharing established for a practice shall represent those levels of performance which are needed in order for the practice to be most effective in meeting the conservation problem and which are not in excess of levels for which cost-sharing can be justified.

(d) Specifications for wildlife conservation practices shall be developed in consultation with the State agency having responsibility for wildlife conservation.

§ 701.9 Use of liming materials and commercial fertilizers for vegetative cover.

(a) For practices which authorize Federal cost-sharing for applications of liming materials and commercial fertilizers, the minimum application, and maximum application where applicable, on which cost-sharing is authorized shall, in each case, be determined on the basis of a current soil test: Provided, however, That if the State ACP development group determines that available facilities are not adequate to permit the desired use of these practices under the program, it shall authorize, to the extent necessary, an alternative basis for determination by the county committee of such applications. Such alternative basis shall be such as to insure beneficial use of Federal cost-sharing approved and shall be formulated by the State ACP development group in full consultation with the representatives of the State and Federal agencies participating in the development of the State program.

(b) The application of liming materials contained in commercial fertilizers, in rock phosphate, or in basic slag will not qualify for Federal cost-sharing. The application of manure will not qualify for Federal cost-sharing; however, manure may be used, where applicable, to meet all or a part of the fertilizer requirement for a practice. Liming material or fertilizer must be applied at such time and in such a manner that a conserving cover will be the primary beneficiary of the application.

§ 701.10 Responsibility for technical phases of practices.

(a) The Soil Conservation Service is responsible for the technical phases of practices A–3, B–7, C–4, C–5, C–6, C–7, C–8, C–9, C–10, C–11, C–12, C–13, C–15, C–16, G–2, and G–3 (§§ 701.53, 701.60, 701.69, to 701.78, 701.80, 701.81, 701.96 and 701.97). This responsibility shall include (1) a finding that the practice is needed and practicable on the farm, and with respect to drainage practices, a finding as to whether any land proposed for drainage is Wetland Type 3, 4, or 5, as described in U.S. Department of the Interior, Fish and Wildlife Service, Circular 39, "Wetlands of the United States," published in 1956, (2) necessary site selection, other preliminary work, and layout work of the practice, (3) necessary supervision of the installation, and (4) certification of performance for all requirements of the practice except those for which a certification by the farmer or rancher is to be accepted in accordance with instructions issued by the Deputy Administrator. For practice C–1 (§ 701.66), the Soil Conservation Service is responsible (i) for determining that the practice is needed and practicable on the farm, and (ii) for necessary site selection, other preliminary work, and layout work of the practice. For practices B–6, B–8, and C–3 (§§ 701.59, 701.61 and 701.68), the Soil Conservation Service is responsible for determining that the practice is needed and practicable on the farm. In addition, upon agreement of the State committee and the State conservationist of the Soil Conservation Service, responsibility for all or part of the unassigned technical phases of these or other practices may be assigned to the Soil Conservation Service for all counties in the State or for specified counties. The State conservationist of the Soil Conservation Service may utilize assistance from private, State, or Federal agencies in carrying out these assigned responsibilities. These assigned responsibilities will not apply in counties with respect to which the Deputy Administrator and the Administrator, SCS, agree that it would not be administratively practicable for the Soil Conservation Service to discharge these responsibilities. In such counties, these responsibilities shall be assumed by the county committees. The Soil Conservation Service will utilize to the full extent available resources of the State forestry agencies in carrying out its assigned responsibilities for practice A–8 (§ 701.53).

(b) The Forest Service is responsible for the technical phases of practices A–7 and B–10 (§§ 701.52 and 701.63). This responsibility shall include (1) providing necessary specialized technical assistance, (2) development of specifications for forestry practices, and (3) working through State and county committees, determining performance in meeting these specifications. The Forest Service may utilize assistance from private, State, or Federal agencies in carrying out these assigned responsibilities, but services of State forestry agencies will be utilized to the full extent such services are available.

§ 701.11 Rates of cost-sharing.

(a) The maximum Federal cost-share for each practice shall be the percentage of the average cost of performing the practice considered necessary to obtain the needed performance of the practice, but which will be such that the farmer or rancher will make a substantial contribution to the cost of performing the practice. Rates of cost-sharing shall not be in excess of 50 percent of the average cost of performing the practices, except that higher rates of cost-sharing may be approved by the Director, Farmer Programs Division, ASCS:

(1) For practices which have long lasting conservation benefits and from which the returns to farmer or rancher are remote;

(2) In situations where higher rates of cost-sharing are essential to bring about the use of a practice or to increase the use of a practice on a substantial number of farms or ranches; or

(3) In situations where the income prospects for the farmer or rancher are such that he reasonably could not be expected to bear as much as 50 percent of the cost of the practice. (A higher rate may be approved under this subparagraph (3) only where it is determined that the farmer or rancher is largely dependent on the farm or ranch for his livelihood, the estimated annual family income does not exceed $3,000, and an increased rate of cost-sharing is essential to permit the farmer or rancher to carry out needed practices.)

(b) For the purpose of establishing rates of cost-sharing, the average cost of performing a practice may be the average cost for a State, a county, a part of a county, or a farm or ranch, as determined by the State committee.

(c) The rates of cost-sharing for practices included in the county program may be lower than the rates approved for general use in the State.

§ 701.12 Items of cost on which rates of cost-sharing may be based.

Except as otherwise provided by the wording of the practices contained in this subpart or elsewhere in the program, the cost of any direct and significant factor in the performance of a practice may be considered in establishing the rate of cost-sharing for the practice.

§ 701.13 State handbooks, bulletins, instructions, and forms.

The Deputy Administrator is authorized to prepare and issue State handbooks, bulletins, instructions, and forms required in administering the program. Copies of State handbooks, bulletins, instructions, and forms containing detailed information with respect to the program as it applies to specific States, counties, areas, and farms and ranches will be available in the office of the State committee and the office of the county committee. Persons wishing to participate in the program should obtain from the State committee or county committee all information needed in order to comply with all provisions of the program.

APPROVAL OF CONSERVATION PRACTICES ON INDIVIDUAL FARMS OR RANCHES

§ 701.14 Opportunity for requesting cost-sharing.

Each farmer or rancher, regardless of his race, creed, color, or national origin, shall be given an opportunity to request that the Federal Government share in the cost of those practices on which he considers he needs such assistance in order to permit their performance on his farm or ranch. The county committee, taking into consideration the farmer's or rancher's request and any conservation plan developed by the farmer or rancher with the assistance of any State or Federal agency, and without regard to the race, creed, color, or national origin of the farmer or rancher, shall direct the available funds for cost-sharing to those farms and ranches and to those practices where cost-sharing is considered most essential to the accomplishment of the basic conservation objective of the Department—the use of each acre of agricultural land within its capabilities and the treatment of each acre in accordance with its needs for protection and improvement.

§ 701.15 Prior request for cost-sharing.

Costs will be shared only for those practices, or components of practices, for which cost-sharing is requested by the farmer or rancher before performance thereof is started, except that the Director, Farmer Programs Division, ASCS, may authorize the acceptance of requests for cost-sharing filed within a reasonable period after performance is started for (a) practices E–3, F–3, and F–4 (§§ 701.89, 701.93 and 701.94), and (b) other practices where the farmer or rancher establishes that he intended to file a prior request for cost-sharing but was prevented from doing so for reasons beyond his control. For practices for which (1) approval was given under the preceding year's program, (2) performance was started but not completed during that program year, and (3) the county committee believes the extension of the approval to the current year's program is justified under the current year's program regulations and provisions, the filing of the request for cost-sharing under the preceding year's program may be regarded as meeting the requirement of the current year's program that a request for cost-sharing be filed before performance of the practice is started.

§ 701.16 Method and extent of approval.

The county committee, in accordance with a method approved by the State committee, will determine the extent to which Federal funds will be made available to share the cost of each approved practice on each farm or ranch, taking into consideration the county allocation, the conservation problems in the county and of the individual farm or ranch, and the conservation work for which requested Federal cost-sharing is considered by the county committee as most needed in the current program year. The method approved shall provide for the issuance of notices of approval showing for each approved practice the number of units of the practice for which the Federal Government will share in the cost and the amount of the Federal cost-share for the performance of that number of units of the practice. To the extent practicable, notices of approved practices shall be issued before performance of the practices is started. No practice may be approved for cost-sharing except as authorized by the national, State, or county program, or in accordance with procedures incorporated therein. Available funds for cost-sharing shall not be allocated on a farm or acreage-quota basis, but shall be directed to the accomplishment of the most enduring conservation benefits attainable.

§ 701.17 Establishment or installation of practices.

Federal cost-sharing may be authorized under the program only for the establishment or installation of the practices contained in this subpart. The establishment or installation of a practice, for the purposes of the program, shall be deemed to include the replacement, enlargement, or restoration of practices for which cost-sharing has been allowed if the practice has served for its normal lifespan, or if all of the following conditions exist:

(a) Replacement, enlargement, or restoration of the practice is needed to meet the conservation problem.

(b) The failure of the original practice was not due to the lack of proper maintenance by the current operator.

(c) The county committee believes that the replacement, enlargement, or restoration of the practice merits consideration under the program to an equal extent with other practices for which cost-sharing has not been allowed under a previous program.

§ 701.18 Repair, upkeep, and maintenance of practices.

Federal cost-sharing is not authorized for repairs or for normal upkeep or maintenance of any practice.

§ 701.19 Pooling agreements.

Farmers or ranchers in any local area may agree in writing, with the approval of the county committee, to perform designated amounts of practices which, by conserving or improving the agricultural resources of the community, will solve a mutual conservation problem on the farms or ranches of the participants. For purposes of eligibility for cost-sharing, practices carried out under such an approved written agreement will be regarded as having been carried out on the farms or ranches of the persons who performed the practices.

PRACTICE COMPLETION REQUIREMENTS

§ 701.20 Completion of practices.

Federal cost-sharing for the practices contained in this subpart is conditioned upon the performance of the practices in accordance with all applicable specifications and program provisions. Except as provided in §§ 701.21 to 701.23, practices must be completed during the program year in order to be eligible for cost-sharing.

§ 701.21 Practices substantially completed during program year.

Approved practices may be deemed, for purposes of payment of cost-shares, to have been carried out during a program year, if the county committee determines that they are substantially completed by the end of that program year. However, no cost-shares for such practices shall be paid until they have been completed in accordance with all applicable specifications and program provisions, except as provided in § 701.22.

§ 701.22 Practices requiring more than one program year for completion.

Cost-shares approved under a program will not be considered as earned until all components of the approved practices are completed in accordance with all applicable specifications and program provisions. Cost-shares for completed components may be paid only after the practice is substantially completed, and only on the condition that the farmer or rancher will complete the remaining components of the practice within the time prescribed by the county committee which will afford the farmer or rancher a fair and reasonable opportunity to complete them, unless prevented from doing so for reasons beyond his control and regardless of whether cost-sharing therefor is offered, or refund the cost-shares paid to him.

§ 701.23 Practices involving the establishment or improvement of vegetative cover.

Costs for practices involving the establishment or improvement of vegetative cover, including trees, may be shared even though a good stand is not established, if the county committee determines, in accordance with standards approved by the State committee, that the practice was carried out in a manner which would normally result in the establishment of a good stand, and that failure to establish a good stand was due to weather or other conditions beyond the control of the farm or ranch operator. The county committee may require as a condition of cost-sharing in such cases that the area be reseeded or replanted or that other needed protective measures be carried out. Cost-sharing in such cases may be approved also for repeat applications of measures previously carried out or for additional eligible measures. Cost-sharing for such measures shall be approved to the extent such measures are needed to assure a good stand even though less than that required by the applicable practice wording for initial approvals.

§ 701.24 Failure to meet minimum requirements.

Notwithstanding other provisions of the program, costs may be shared for performance actually rendered even though the minimum requirements for a practice are not met, if the farmer or rancher establishes to the satisfaction of the county committee and the county representative of any other agency having responsibility for technical phases of the practice (a) that he made a reasonable effort to meet the minimum requirements, and (b) that the practice as performed adequately meets the conservation problem.

FEDERAL COST-SHARES

§ 701.25 Conservation materials and services.

(a) Availability. Part or all of the Federal cost-share for an approved practice may be in the form of conservation materials or services furnished through the program for use in carrying out the practice. Materials or services may not be furnished to persons who are indebted to the Federal Government, as indicated by the debt record maintained in the office of the county committee, except in those cases where the agency to which the debt is owed waives its rights to setoff in order to permit the furnishing of materials and services.

(b) Cost to farmer or rancher. The farmer or rancher will be responsible for paying that part of the cost of the material or service which is in excess of the amount to be advanced toward the purchase of the material or service. The maximum amount which may be advanced toward the purchase of the material or service is the Federal cost-share attributable to the use of the material or service, or, upon request by the farmer or rancher and approval by the county committee, the Federal cost-share for all components of the practice which likely will be completed during the program year, plus any applicable small cost-share increase, but not in excess of the cost of the material or service.

(c) Responsibility for materials and services. (1) If the material or service is properly used in carrying out the practice with respect to which it was furnished, recovery of the amount advanced toward the purchase of the material or service will be made from the persons who share in the cost-share payment for the practice, in the proportion in which they share in the cost-share payment. If the material or service is not used for the purpose for which it was furnished, the person to whom it was furnished shall be indebted to the Federal Government for the amount advanced toward the cost of the material or service.

(2) Any person to whom materials are furnished shall be responsible to the Federal Government for any damage to the materials, unless he shows that the damage was caused by circumstances beyond his control. If materials are abandoned or not used during the program year, they may, in accordance with instructions issued by the Deputy Administrator, be transferred to another person or otherwise disposed of at the expense of the person who abandoned or failed to use the material, or be retained by the person for use in a subsequent program year.

(d) Eligibility to furnish conservation materials and services. To be eligible to furnish conservation materials or services on the basis of purchase orders issued by the county committee, a vendor must agree that he will fill purchase orders without regard to the race, creed, color, or national origin of the farmer or rancher to whom the purchase order is issued.

§ 701.26 Practices carried out with aid from ineligible persons.

The entire Federal cost-share for a practice carried out with aid from an ineligible person, including a State or Federal agency, shall be credited to the eligible persons who contributed to the cost of carrying out the practice: Provided, That the cost-share credited to an eligible person shall not exceed his contribution to the cost of carrying out the practice.

§ 701.27 Division of Federal cost-shares.

(a) Federal cost-shares. The Federal cost-share for a practice shall be credited to the person who carried out the practice. If more than one person contributed to the carrying out of a practice, the Federal cost-share for the practice shall be divided among such persons in the proportion that the county committee determines they contributed to the carrying out of the practice. In making this determination, the county committee shall take into consideration the value of the labor, equipment, or material contributed by each person toward the carrying out of the practice, and shall assume that each contributed equally unless it is established to the satisfaction of the county committee that their respective contributions thereto were not in equal proportion. Advances toward the cost of materials or services under § 701.25, the furnishing of land, and the furnishing of the right to use water will not be considered as a contribution to the carrying out of any practice.

(b) Death, incompetency, or disappearance. In case of death, incompetency, or disappearance of any person, any Federal share of the cost due him shall be paid to his successor, determined in accordance with the provisions of the regulations in Part 707 of this chapter.

§ 701.28 Increase in small Federal cost-shares.

For practices other than practice F-4 (§ 701.94), the sum of the Federal cost-shares computed for any person with respect to any farm or ranch under the agricultural conservation program and the naval stores conservation program shall be increased as follows:

(a) Any Federal cost-share amounting to $0.71 or less shall be increased to $1.

(b) Any Federal cost-share amounting to more than $0.71, but less than $1, shall be increased by 40 percent.

(c) Any Federal cost-share amounting to $1 or more shall be increased in accordance with the following schedule:

§ 701.29 Maximum Federal cost-share limitation.

(a) For each program year, for practices other than practice F-4 (§ 701.94), the total of all Federal cost-shares to any person with respect to farms, ranching units, and turpentine places in the United States, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands for approved practices which are not carried out under pooling agreements shall not exceed the sum of $2,500, and for all approved practices, including those carried out under pooling agreements, shall not exceed the sum of $10,000. Lower cost-share limitations may be included in State and county programs where needed to provide more effective use of available funds in meeting the conservation problems in the State or county.

(b) All or any part of any Federal cost-share which otherwise would be due any person for a program year may be withheld, or required to be refunded, if, with respect to that program year, he has adopted, or participated in adopting, any scheme or device, including the dissolution, reorganization, revival, formation or use of any corporation, partnership, estate, trust, or any other means, designed to evade the provisions of this section.

(c) For the purpose of applying the maximum Federal cost-share limitation, the rules in subparagraphs (1) through (9) of this paragraph shall apply in determining whether certain individuals who may have an interest in the ownership or operation of a farm or ranch are to be considered as one person or as separate persons. In cases where more than one rule would appear to be applicable, the rule which is most restrictive as to the number of persons shall apply.

(1) Husband and wife. Husband and wife shall be considered as one person for all farms in which either has an interest except that a husband or wife shall be considered a separate person with respect to any farm as to which all of the conditions set forth in subparagraph (9) of this paragraph are met.

(2) Family groups. Members of the same family shall be considered as one person for all farms in which any member has an interest except that any member shall be considered a separate person with respect to any farm as to which all the conditions set forth in subparagraph (9) of this paragraph are met.

(3) Partnerships. A partnership and its members shall be considered as one person for all farms in which the partnership or any member thereof has an interest except that the partnership or any member thereof shall be considered a separate person with respect to any farm as to which all the conditions set forth in subparagraph (9) of this paragraph are met: Provided, That in no event shall cost-sharing be approved for both the partnership and the individual members thereof on the same farm.

(4) Corporations. A corporation (including a grazing association) and its shareholders or members shall be considered as one person for all farms in which the corporation or any shareholder or member has an interest except that the corporation or any shareholder or member thereof shall be considered a separate person with respect to any farm as to which all the conditions set forth in subparagraph (9) of this paragraph are met: Provided, That in no event shall cost-sharing be approved for both the corporation and the individual shareholders or members thereof on the same farm.

(5) Trusts. The trustee of a trust and the beneficiaries of the trust shall be considered as one person on all farms in which the trustee or any beneficiary of the trust has an interest except that the trustee or any beneficiary of the trust shall be considered a separate person with respect to any farm as to which all the conditions of subparagraph (9) of this paragraph are met: Provided, That in no event shall cost-sharing be approved for both the trustee and the beneficiaries of the trust on the same farm.

(6) Estates. The administrator or executor of an estate and the heirs thereof shall be considered as one person on all farms in which the administrator or executor or any heir thereof has an interest except that the administrator or executor or any heir of the estate shall be considered a separate person with respect to any farm as to which all the conditions of subparagraph (9) of this paragraph are met: Provided, That in no event shall cost-sharing be approved for both the administrator or executor and the heirs of the estate on the same farm.

(7) Tenants in common and joint tenants. All tenants in common and joint tenants on a farm shall be considered as one person with respect to such farm.

(8) Joint undertakings. Two or more individuals acting as a group under an arrangement which, although lacking the legal elements of a corporation or partnership, is in the nature of a joint undertaking shall be considered as one person with respect to any farm to which the joint undertaking applies. If any of the individuals has a separate interest in a farm with which the group is not involved, the payment limitation shall apply to the total of the payment earned by such individual and his share of the payment to the joint undertaking.

(9) Exception. The conditions which must be met in order for any individual or other entity referred to in subparagraph (1), (2), (3), (4), (5), or (6) of this paragraph to be considered a separate person are as follows:

(i) The interests of such individual or other entity in the farm and income therefrom must be separate and distinct from the interests therein of the other individuals or entity referred to in the applicable subparagraph.

(ii) Such individual or other entity must exercise, separate from the other individuals or entity referred to in the applicable subparagraph, responsibility for management of such separate interests.

(iii) The contribution of such individual or other entity to the cost of performing practices must be made from a fund or account separate from that of any other individual or entity referred to in the applicable subparagraph.

(d) For the purpose of applying the Federal cost-share limitation, a corporation or partnership shall be considered as a separate person from any other corporation or partnership which may participate in the program, even though there are common stockholders or members, with respect to any farm as to which all the following conditions are met: (1) The interests of such corporation or partnership in the farm and the income therefrom must be separate and distinct from the interests therein of the other corporation or partnership; (2) such corporation or partnership must exercise, separate from the other corporation or partnership, responsibility for management of such separate interests; and (3) the contribution of such corporation or partnership to the cost of performing practices must be made from a fund or account separate from that of the other corporation or partnership; Provided, That in no event shall cost-sharing be approved on the same farm for more than one corporation or partnership having common stockholders or members.

§ 701.30 Persons eligible to file application for payment of Federal cost-shares.

Any person who as owner, landlord, tenant, or sharecropper on a farm or ranch, bore a part of the cost of an approved conservation practice is eligible to file an application for payment of the Federal cost-share due him.

§ 701.31 Time and manner of filing application and required information.

(a) It shall be the responsibility of persons participating in the program to submit to the county office forms and information needed to establish the extent of the performance of approved conservation practices and compliance with applicable program provisions. Time limits with regard to the submission of such forms and information shall be established where necessary for efficient administration of the program. Such time limits shall afford a full and fair opportunity to those eligible to file the forms or information within the period prescribed. At least 2 weeks notice to the public shall be given of any general time limit prescribed. Such notice shall be given by mailing notice to the office of each county committee and making copies available to the press. Other means of notification, including radio announcements and individual notices to persons affected, shall be used to the extent practicable. Notice of time limits which are applicable to individual persons, such as time limits for reporting performance of approved practices, shall be issued in writing to the persons affected. Exceptions to time limits may be made in cases where failure to submit required forms and information within the applicable time limits is due to reasons beyond the control of the farmer or rancher.

(b) Payment of Federal cost-shares will be made only upon application submitted on the prescribed form to the county office by December 31, of the year following the current program year or such earlier date as is prescribed by the Deputy Administrator. Any application for payment may be rejected if any form or information required of the applicant is not submitted to the county office within the applicable time limit.

§ 701.32 Appeals.

Any person may obtain reconsideration and review of determinations affecting his participation in the program, in accordance with Part 780 of this chapter.

§ 701.33 Performance based upon advice or action of county or State committee.

Cases involving performance rendered in good faith in reliance upon action or advice of an authorized representative of a county committee or State committee shall be handled in accordance with Part 790 of this chapter.

GENERAL PROVISIONS RELATING TO FEDERAL COST-SHARING

§ 701.34 Compliance with regulatory measures.

Persons who carry out conservation practices under the program shall be responsible for obtaining the authorities, rights, easements, or other approvals necessary to the performance and maintenance of the practices in keeping with applicable laws and regulations. The person with whom the cost of the practice is shared shall be responsible to the Federal Government for any losses it may sustain because he infringes on the rights of others or fails to comply with applicable laws or regulations.

§ 701.35 Maintenance and use of practices.

(a) The sharing of costs, by the Federal Government, for the performance of approved conservation practices on any farm or ranch under the program will be subject to the condition that the person with whom the costs are shared will maintain and use such practices for the conservation purposes for which cost-sharing was authorized throughout their normal lifespans as determined by the county committee, as long as the land on which they are carried out is under his control, unless the State or county committee determines that good farming practice does not require such maintenance and use or that the failure to so maintain and use the practices was due to conditions beyond his control. If the State or county committee finds that there has not been compliance with this provision, with respect to any practice, the person with whom costs for the practice were shared shall be required to refund all of the Federal cost-share for the practice, or such part thereof as the State or county committee may determine.

§ 701.36 Practices defeating purposes of program.

If the county committee finds with the concurrence of the State committee, or if the State committee finds, that any person has adopted or participated in any practice which tends to defeat the purposes of the program, including, but not limited to, failure to maintain, in accordance with good farming practices, practices carried out during a previous program year, it may withhold, or require to be refunded, all or any part of the Federal cost-share which otherwise would be due him for the program year in which he adopted or participated in the practice which tends to defeat the purposes of the program.

§ 701.37 Depriving others of Federal cost-share.

If the State committee finds that any person has employed any scheme or device (including coercion, fraud, or misrepresentation), the effect of which would be or has been to deprive any other person of the Federal cost-share due that person under the program, it may withhold, in whole or in part, from the person participating in or employing such a scheme or device, or require him to refund in whole or in part, the Federal cost-share which otherwise would be due him for the program year in which the scheme or device was employed.

§ 701.38 Filing of false claims.

If the State committee finds that any person has knowingly supplied false information, or has knowingly filed a false claim, including a claim for payment of the Federal cost-share under the program for practices not carried out or for practices carried out in such a manner that they do not meet the required specifications therefor, such person shall not be eligible for any Federal cost-share under the program year with respect to which the false information or false claim was filed, and shall refund all amounts that may have been paid to him under that program year. The withholding or refunding of Federal cost-shares will be in addition to and not in substitution of any other penalty or liability which might otherwise be imposed.

§ 701.39 Misuse of purchase orders.

If the State committee finds that any person has knowingly used a purchase order issued to him for conservation materials or services for a purpose other than that for which it was issued and that such misuse of the purchase order tends to defeat the purpose for which it was issued, such person shall not be eligible for any Federal cost-share for the program year with respect to which the purchase order was issued, and shall refund all amounts that may have been paid to him under that program year. The withholding or refunding of Federal cost-shares will be in addition to and not in substitution of any other penalty or liability which might otherwise be imposed.

§ 701.40 Federal cost-shares not subject to claims.

Any Federal cost-share, or portion thereof, due any person shall be determined and allowed without regard to questions of title under State law; without deductions of claims for advances (except as provided in the following subsection, and except for indebtedness to the United States subject to setoff under orders issued by the Secretary); and without regard to any claim or lien against any crop, or proceeds thereof, in favor of the owner or any other creditor.

§ 701.41 Assignments.

Any person who may be entitled to any Federal cost-share under the program may assign his right thereto, in whole or in part, in accordance with the regulations governing the assignment of payments, Part 709 of this chapter.

DEFINITIONS

§ 701.42 Definitions.

For the purposes of the program:

(a) The terms "Secretary," "Deputy Administrator," "State committee," "county," "county committee," and "cropland," shall have the meaning assigned to them in the regulations governing reconstitution of farms, allotments, and bases, Part 719 of this chapter.

AVAILABILITY OF FUNDS, APPLICABILITY, AND DELEGATION OF AUTHORITY

§ 701.43 Availability of funds.

(a) The provisions of the program are necessarily subject to such legislation as the Congress of the United States may hereafter enact; the paying of the Federal cost-shares provided herein is contingent upon such appropriation as the Congress may hereafter provide for such purpose; and the amounts of such Federal cost-shares will necessarily be within the limits finally determined by such appropriation.

(b) The funds provided for a particular program year will not be available for paying Federal cost-shares for which applications are filed in the county office after December 31, of the year following that program year.

§ 701.44 Applicability.

(a) The provisions of the program contained herein are not applicable to (1) any department or bureau of the U.S. Government or any corporation wholly owned by the United States; (2) noncropland owned by the United States which was acquired or reserved for conservation purposes, or which is to be retained permanently under Government ownership, including, but not limited to, grazing lands administered by the Forest Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, or by the Bureau of Land Management (including lands administered under the Taylor Grazing Act) or the Fish and Wildlife Service of the U.S. Department of the Interior, except as indicated in paragraph (b)(7) of this section; and (3) nonprivate persons for performance on any land owned by the United States or a corporation wholly owned by it.

§ 701.45 Delegation of authority.

No delegation contained in this program to a State or county committee shall preclude the Deputy Administrator, or his designee, from determining any question arising under the program or from reversing or modifying any determination made by a State or county committee.

CONSERVATION PRACTICES WITH ENDURING BENEFITS WHERE PROPERLY APPLIED AND MAINTAINED

PRACTICES PRIMARILY FOR ESTABLISHMENT OF PERMANENT PROTECTIVE COVER

§ 701.46 Practice A–1: Establishment of a permanent vegetative cover in orchards and vineyards for control of erosion.

§ 701.47 Practice A–2: Establishment of a permanent vegetative cover for soil protection or as a needed land-use adjustment.

This practice is applicable only to land which should be established in permanent vegetative cover for protection against wind or water erosion, and to cropland which as part of a needed land-use adjustment, is being shifted to permanent protective vegetative cover other than as a part of a regular crop rotation. No Federal cost-sharing will be allowed under this practice for clearing land occupied by a merchantable stand of timber or pulpwood, or for clearing land which, if cleared, would be suitable for continued production of cultivated crops. Federal cost-sharing for fences shall be limited to permanent fences needed to protect the seeded area from grazing, excluding boundary and road fences.

§ 701.48 Practice A–3: Establishment of additional acreages of vegetative cover in crop rotation to retard erosion and to improve soil structure, permeability, or water-holding capacity.

This practice is applicable only to land which needs such cover to retard erosion or to improve soil structure, permeability, or water-holding capacity. Federal cost-sharing will be limited to that acreage which the county committee determines represents a desirable increase over what would be the normal plantings of eligible crops on the farm. In making this determination, consideration should be given to the need for this practice on cropland which the farmer or rancher intends to divert from the production of crop for which allotments are established for the farm.

§ 701.49 Practice A–4: Treatment of farmland to permit the use of legumes and grasses for soil improvement and protection.

This practice is applicable only to farmland devoted to legumes (other than vegetable or truck crops, soybeans, mungbeans, and peanuts) or perennial grasses, and to farmland which the county committee determines will be devoted to such eligible uses not later than the date specified in the State program. Federal cost-sharing will be limited to the application of liming materials, rock phosphate, and gypsum or other sulphur-bearing materials. Other forms of phosphate materials are eligible for cost-sharing under other practices involving the establishment or improvement of vegetative cover. Cost-shares paid or advanced for materials applied under this practice will not be considered as earned unless the land is devoted to eligible grasses and legumes at the time the materials are applied or is seeded to eligible grasses and legumes by the time specified in the State program, unless the farmer is prevented from seeding the eligible grasses and legumes within such period because of conditions beyond his control. The preceding sentence shall not be applicable if the land is needed to permit the planting of increased permitted acreage resulting from an increased crop acreage allotment or base.

§ 701.50 Practice A–5: Establishment of contour stripcropping to protect soil from wind or water erosion.

All cultural operations must be performed as nearly as practicable on the contour. The crop stubble or crop residue must be left standing over winter, or a winter cover crop established, or necessary protective tillage operations carried out, on acreage devoted to row crops. Federal cost-sharing may be authorized for removing stone walls or hedgerows where such removal is necessary to the establishment of an effective contour stripcropping system.

§ 701.51 Practice A–6: Establishment of field stripcropping to protect soil from wind or water erosion.

The crop stubble or crop residue must be left standing over winter, or a winter cover crop established, or necessary protective tillage operations carried out, on acreage devoted to row crops. Federal cost-sharing may be authorized for removing stone walls or hedgerows where such removal is necessary to the establishment of an effective field stripcropping system.

§ 701.52 Practice A–7: Establishment of a stand of trees or shrubs on farmland for purposes other than the prevention of wind or water erosion.

No Federal cost-sharing will be allowed for planting orchard trees, or for plantings for ornamental purposes. If shrubs are used, those that benefit wildlife should be given preference wherever practicable. Plantings must be protected from destructive fire and destructive grazing. Federal cost-sharing may be authorized for clearing land occupied largely by scrubby brush of no economic value to permit planting desirable tree species. Technical assistance must be utilized to determine the suitability of the land for clearing and the measures necessary to prevent erosion. Federal cost-sharing for fencing shall be limited to permanent fences needed to protect the planted area from grazing, excluding boundary and road fences.

§ 701.53 Practice A–8: Establishment of a stand of trees or shrubs on farmland to prevent wind or water erosion.

Prevention of wind or water erosion on farmland is defined as the use of (a) windbreaks, (b) shelterbelts, (c) gully stabilization, and (d) stabilization of streambanks. The use of this practice should include considerations of enhancement to wildlife habitat. No Federal cost-sharing will be allowed for planting orchard trees, or for plantings for ornamental purposes. Plantings must be protected from fire and grazing. Federal cost-sharing for fencing shall be limited to permanent fences needed to protect the planted area from grazing, excluding boundary and road fenses.

PRACTICES PRIMARILY FOR IMPROVEMENT AND PROTECTION OF ESTABLISHED VEGETATIVE COVER

§ 701.54 Practice B–1: Improvement of an established vegetative cover for soil or watershed protection.

This practice is applicable only to land in permanent vegetative cover which needs more than normal maintenance measures in order to provide adequate soil or watershed protection. The improvement measures approved for cost-sharing shall be those which will extend materially the life of the vegetative cover. Federal cost-sharing may not be approved for normal maintenance measures such as annual top dressings with fertilizer or other mineral elements. This practice is not applicable to land on which the needed improvement measures will constitute complete reestablishment of the vegetative cover.

§ 701.55 Practice B–2: Improvement or protection of vegetative cover on rangeland by artificial reseeding, deferred grazing or other measures to promote stand improvement or firebreaks.

No Federal cost-sharing will be allowed if it is determined that any area seeded is grazed before the stand is well established or that any rangeland in the unit is overgrazed.

§ 701.56 Practice B–3: Controlling competitive shrubs to permit growth of adequate desirable vegetative cover for soil protection on range or pasture land.

On areas where it is determined that the control of competitive shrubs will reduce the vegetative cover to such an extent as to induce erosion, the practice will not be approved unless followed by seeding or other approved erosion control measures.

§ 701.57 Practice B–4: Furrowing, chiseling, ripping, scarifying, pitting, or listing noncrop grazing land to prevent soil loss, retard runoff, and improve water penetration.

The operation must be performed as nearly as practicable on the contour.

§ 701.58 Practice B–5: Constructing wells for livestock water as a means of protecting vegetative cover or to make practicable the utilization of the land for vegetative cover.

The wells must be at locations which will bring about the desired protection of vegetative cover through proper distribution of grazing or better grassland management or make practicable the utilization of the land for vegetative cover. Adequate storage facilities must be provided. Pumping equipment must be installed, except for artesian wells. No Federal cost-sharing will be allowed for wells constructed primarily for the use of headquarters, or for costs other than for constructing or deepening wells and for water storage facilities.

§ 701.59 Practice B–6: Developing springs or seeps for livestock water as a means of protecting vegetative cover or to make practicable the utilization of the land for vegetative cover.

The springs or seeps must be at locations which will bring about the desired protection of vegetative cover through proper distribution of grazing or better grassland management or make practicable the utilization of the land for vegetative cover.

§ 701.60 Practice B–7: Constructing or sealing dams, pits or ponds to provide water for agricultural uses.

Structures providing multiple benefits will be encouraged. However, those to be used solely for recreation are not eligible. No Federal cost-sharing will be allowed for structures, the primary purpose of which is to bring additional land into agricultural production through irrigation.

§ 701.61 Practice B–8: Installing pipelines, supplemental water storage, cisterns, and artificial watersheds for livestock water as a means of protecting vegetative cover or to make practicable the utilization of the land for vegetative cover.

The installations must provide water at locations which will bring about the desired protection of vegetative cover through proper distribution of grazing or make practicable the utilization of the land for vegetative cover.

§ 701.62 Practice B–9: Constructing permanent fences as a means of protecting vegetative cover.

This practice may be approved only where fencing will contribute to better distribution of livestock and seasonal use of the forage. Fences between pasture and other land will not qualify for cost-sharing.

§ 701.63 Practice B–10: Improvement of a stand of forest trees on farmland.

Federal cost-sharing may be allowed for any of the following measures: (a) Thinning, (b) pruning crop trees, (c) release of desirable seedlings and young trees by removing or killing competing and undesirable vegetation, (d) site preparation for natural reseeding, (e) fencing, (f) erosion control measures on logging roads and trails, (g) firebreaks for woodland protection, and (h) ponds for woodland protection. The area must be protected from destructive fire. Where seedlings are present, or needed, the area must be protected from destructive grazing. Federal cost-sharing for site preparation will be limited to areas which have a sufficient number of desirable seed trees for natural reseeding, which will not restock unless brush, dense litter, and other material on the forest soil is broken up or removed so that soil is exposed, and on which the seed trees will be left until the area is restocked. Technical assistance shall be utilized, if available; otherwise the practice must be carried out in accordance with approved technical forestry standards. Federal cost-sharing for fencing shall be limited to permanent fences needed to protect the area from grazing, excluding boundary and road fences.

§ 701.64 Practice B–11: Constructing stock trails through brush, rock, or other natural barriers as a means of protecting established vegetative cover.

This practice may be approved only where stock trails will contribute to the protection of vegetative cover through proper distribution of grazing or better grassland management. No Federal cost-sharing will be allowed if the grazing land made accessible to livestock by the stock trails is overgrazed.

§ 701.65 Practice B–12: Controlling noxious weeds in order to protect soil or water resources.

This practice is limited to situations where control of weeds is necessary to the protection of the soil or water resource. Cost-sharing will be limited to control of perennial weeds (and also biennial weeds in permanent vegetative cover) designated as noxious by the State ACP development group with the approval of the Director, Farmer Programs Division, ASCS. The practice is applicable only in areas where weed control measures will be carried out on an organized basis which will minimize reinfestation.

PRACTICES PRIMARILY FOR THE CONSERVATION AND DISPOSAL OF WATER

§ 701.66 Practice C–1: Establishment of permanent sod waterways to dispose of excess water without causing erosion.

§ 701.67 Practice C–2: Establishment of permanent vegetation as protection against erosion.

Federal cost-sharing will be limited to the establishment of permanent vegetation on gullies, dams, dikes, levees, ditchbanks, farm roadsides, filter strips, field borders, and similar problem areas. Consideration should be given to choice of plants favorable to wildlife.

§ 701.68 Practice C–3: Establishment of orchards, vineyards, bush fruits, strawberries, or perennial vegetables on the contour to prevent erosion.

All cultural operations must be performed as nearly as practicable on the contour.

§ 701.69 Practice C–4: Constructing terraces to detain or control the flow of water and check soil erosion.

Necessary protective outlets or waterways must be provided. Federal cost-sharing may be authorized for removing stone walls or hedgerows where such removal is necessary to the establishment of an effective terrace system. Costs of construction may include necessary leveling and filling to permit installation of an effective system.

§ 701.70 Practice C–5: Constructing diversion terraces, ditches, or dikes to intercept runoff and divert excess water to protected outlets.

Necessary protective outlets or waterways must be provided. Federal cost-sharing may be authorized for removing stone walls or hedgerows where such removal is necessary to the establishment of an effective terrace system. Costs of contruction may include necessary leveling and filling to permit installation of an effective system.

§ 701.71 Practice C–6: Constructing erosion control, detention, or sediment retention dams, pits or ponds to prevent or heal gullying or to retard or reduce runoff of water.

§ 701.72 Practice C–7: Constructing channel lining, chutes, drop spillways, pipe drops, drop inlets, or similar structures for the protection of outlets and water channels that dispose of excess water.

§ 701.73 Practice C–8: Streambank or shore protection, channel clearance, enlargement or realinement, or construction of floodways, levees, or dikes, to prevent erosion or flood damage to farmland.

This practice shall not be approved in cases where there is any likelihood that it will create an erosion or flood hazard to other adjacent land, or where its primary purpose is to bring new land into agricultural production.

§ 701.74 Practice C–9: Constructing permanent open drainage systems to dispose of excess water.

Federal cost-sharing may be authorized for clearing the necessary minimum width right-of-way. Federal cost-sharing may be authorized for the spreading of spoil banks where this is necessary for the effective utilization of the drainage system. No Federal cost-sharing will be allowed for ditches, the primary purpose of which is to bring new land into agricultural production. This practice is not applicable to land other than that devoted to the production of cultivated crops or crops normally seeded for hay or pasture in the area during at least 2 of the last 5 years. No Federal cost-sharing will be allowed for cleaning a ditch or for installing structures primarily for the convenience of the farm operator. In the installation of drainage systems, due consideration shall be given to the maintenance of wildlife habitat. Cost-sharing or technical assistance shall not be authorized for draining land described as Wetland Type 3, 4, or 5 in the U.S. Department of the Interior, Fish and Wildlife Service Circular 39, "Wetlands of the United States," published in 1956. This practice is also subject to the provisions of Public Law 87–732.

§ 701.75 Practice C–10: Installing underground drainage systems to dispose of excess water.

No Federal cost-sharing will be allowed for systems, the primary purpose of which is to bring new land into agricultural production. This practice is not applicable to land other than that devoted to the production of cultivated crops or crops normally seeded for hay or pasture in the area during at least 2 of the last 5 years. In the installation of drainage systems, due consideration shall be given to the maintenance of wildlife habitat. Cost-sharing or technical assistance shall not be authorized for draining land described as Wetland Type 3, 4, or 5 in the U.S. Department of the Interior, Fish and Wildlife Service Circular 39, "Wetlands of the United States," published in 1956. This practice is also subject to the provisions of Public Law 87–732.

§ 701.76 Practice C–11: Shaping or land grading to permit effective surface drainage.

No Federal cost-sharing will be allowed for any shaping or grading which is performed through farming operations in connection with land preparation for planting or cultivation of crops. No Federal cost-sharing will be allowed for shaping or land grading on land which was not devoted to the production of cultivated crops or crops normally seeded for hay or pasture in the area during at least 2 of the last 5 years. Cost-sharing or technical assistance shall not be authorized for draining land described as Wetland Type 3, 4, or 5 in the U.S. Department of the Interior, Fish and Wildlife Service Circular 39, "Wetlands of the United States," published in 1956. This practice is also subject to the provisions of Public Law 87–732.

§ 701.77 Practice C–12: Installing or reorganizing irrigation systems in a manner which conserves water and prevents erosion.

The practice must be carried out in accordance with a plan approved by the responsible technician. No Federal cost-sharing will be allowed for cleaning a ditch or for installing structures primarily for the convenience of the farm operator or for portable pipe. No Federal cost-sharing will be allowed for installing or reorganizing an irrigation system if the primary purpose is to bring additional land into agricultural production.

§ 701.78 Practice C–13: Leveling land for more efficient use of irrigation water and to prevent erosion.

No Federal cost-sharing will be allowed for floating or restoration of grade; however, the leveling operation may be completed over a period of more than 1 program year on a component basis where the size of cuts and fills is such that a heavy leveling operation will be needed following settlement of the original fills. No Federal cost-sharing will be allowed for leveling land if the primary purpose of the leveling is to bring additional land into agricultural production. The leveling must be carried out in accordance with a plan approved by the responsible technician.

§ 701.79 Practice C–14: Constructing or lining dams, pits, or ponds for irrigation water.

Dams, pits, or ponds for irrigation water are included in practice B–7 (§ 701.60).

§ 701.80 Practice C–15: Lining irrigation ditches to prevent erosion and loss of water by seepage.

No Federal cost-sharing will be allowed for lining irrigation ditches if the primary purpose is to bring additional land into agricultural production.

§ 701.81 Practice C–16: Constructing spreader ditches or dikes to divert and spread water to prevent erosion, to permit beneficial use of runoff, or to replenish ground water supply.

§ 701.82 Practice C–17: Subsoiling to improve water penetration and retard runoff to control erosion.

CONSERVATION PRACTICES WITH BENEFITS OF LIMITED DURATION GENERALLY REQUIRING PERIODIC REPETITION

PRACTICES PRIMARILY FOR ESTABLISHING TEMPORARY PROTECTIVE VEGETATIVE COVER

§ 701.83 Practice D–1: Establishment of vegetative cover for winter protection from erosion.

A good stand and good growth must be obtained in sufficient time to protect the area in the fall and winter and must be maintained on the land to a date specified in the county program. Pasturing consistent with good management may be permitted, but none of the growth may be harvested for hay or seed, except that the State committee may authorize the harvesting of the growth for hay or silage in areas where it determines that a serious shortage of hay or silage exists due to adverse weather conditions and the growth harvested is needed for use on farms in the area. Volunteer stands will not qualify for cost-sharing.

A good stand and good growth must be obtained and left on the land or turned under. Pasturing consistent with good management may be permitted, but none of the growth may be harvested for hay or seed, except that the State committee may authorize the harvesting of the growth for hay or silage in areas where it determines that a serious shortage of hay or silage exists due to adverse weather conditions and the growth harvested is needed for use on farms in the area. Volunteer stands will not qualify for cost-sharing.

§ 701.85 Practice D–3: Establishment of vegetative cover for green manure and for protection from erosion.

Federal cost-sharing will be limited to acreages of biennial or perennial legumes or perennial grasses, or mixtures of such legumes with adapted grasses, seeded during the program year. A good stand and good growth must be obtained. Pasturing consistent with good management may be permitted, but none of the growth may be harvested for hay or seed, except that the State committee may authorize the harvesting of the growth for hay or silage in areas where it determines that a serious shortage of hay or silage exists due to adverse weather conditions and the growth harvested is needed for use on farms in the area. Volunteer stands will not qualify for cost-sharing.

§ 701.86 Practice D–4: Establishment of vegetative cover to protect cropland throughout the crop year.

This practice is applicable only to cropland which is being shifted for the entire crop year from crop production to green manure or cover crops. Eligible seedings may consist of single seedings or successive seedings of grasses, legumes, small grains, or other crops which will provide adequate soil protection for the required period. Where annuals alone are used, at least two successive seedings must be made. Pasturing consistent with good management may be permitted. No crop may be harvested for seed in the current program year. No annual crop seeded in the fall of the current program year may be harvested for seed in the succeeding year if such seeding is one of the two required seedings of such annual crops. No crop may be harvested for hay or silage in the current program year and no annual crop seeded in the fall of the current program year may be harvested for hay or silage in the succeeding year if such seeding is one of the two required seedings of such annual crops, except that the State committee may authorize the harvesting of the growth for hay or silage in areas where it determines that a serious shortage of hay or silage exists due to adverse weather conditions and the growth harvested is needed for use on farms in the area. One of the two required seedings of annuals may be a volunteer seeding which provides adequate soil protection, but no Federal cost-sharing may be allowed for the volunteer seeding.

PRACTICES PRIMARILY FOR THE TEMPORARY PROTECTION OF SOIL FROM WIND AND WATER EROSION

§ 701.87 Practice E–1: Stubble mulching to improve soil permeability and to protect soil from wind and water erosion.

Tillage operations must be such as to leave sufficient crop or weed residue on the surface or mixed in the upper part of the soil to provide protection against wind and water erosion.

§ 701.88 Practice E–2: Establishment of contour farming operations on nonterraced land to protect soil from wind or water erosion.

All cultural operations must be performed as nearly as practicable on the contour. The crop stubble or crop residue must be left standing over winter, or a winter cover crop established, or necessary protective tillage operations carried out, on acreage devoted to row crops. This practice is not applicable on any acreage for which Federal cost-sharing is approved under practice A–5 (§ 701.50). Federal cost-sharing may be authorized for removing stone walls or hedgerows where such removal is necessary to the establishment of an effective contour farming system.

§ 701.89 Practice E–3: Wind erosion control operations.

Eligible operations shall be confined to those having the most enduring benefits practicably attainable under existing conditions.

§ 701.90 Practice E–4: Mulching to control wind and water erosion and to improve soil structure and permeability.

Federal cost-sharing shall be limited to mulching material hauled onto the land. Mulching material containing manure will not qualify for cost-sharing.

CONSERVATION PRACTICES WITH LIMITED AREA APPLICABILITY

PRACTICES TO MEET SPECIAL COUNTY CONSERVATION NEEDS

§ 701.91 Practice F–1: Special conservation practices.

Consistent with the principles set forth in paragraph (b) of § 701.1, the county committee and designated representatives of the Soil Conservation Service and the Forest Service at the county level may recommend, and the State committee and designated representatives of the Soil Conservation Service and the Forest Service at the State level may approve, for use in a county, practices included in this subpart for which there is need locally on a substantial number of farms but which are not selected for use in the State. Such approval shall be subject to revit w by the Director, Farmer Programs Division, ASCS, as to compliance with the provisions contained in this subpart.

§ 701.92 Practice F–2: County conservation practices.

Consistent with the principles set forth in paragraph (b) of § 701.1, the Director, Farmer Programs Division, ASCS, may approve for use in a county, practices which are not included in this subpart which are needed to meet particular conservation problems in the county. Such approval may be given only upon the recommendation of the State and county committees and designated representatives of the Soil Conservation Service and the Forest Service at both the county and State levels, and upon their finding (a) that the conservation problem exists on a substantial number of farms in the county, (b) that the practices contained in the National Bulletin will not provide adequate treatment of the problem, (c) that the proposed practice will adequately meet the problem, (d) that the proposed practice would not be performed without Federal cost-sharing, (e) that the proposed practice will provide the most enduring solution to the problem practicably attainable under existing circumstances, (f) that the proposed practice is one on which the offering of financial assistance is fully justified as being in the public interest, and (g) that the proposed practice meets the standards and requirements of comparable practices contained in this subpart.

§ 701.93 Practice F–3: Practices to meet new conservation problems.

Consistent with the principles set forth in paragraph (b) of § 701.1, the Director, Farmer Programs Division, ASCS, may approve for use in a county, practices for the treatment of critical conservation problems, primarily those which have arisen subsequent to the initiation of the program in the county. Such approval may be given only upon the recommendation of the State and county committees and designated representatives of the Soil Conservation Service and the Forest Service at both the county and State levels, and upon their findings (a) that the conservation problem exists on a substantial number of farms in the county, (b) that the practices contained in the National Bulletin will not provide adequate treatment of the problem, (c) that the proposed practice will adequately meet the problem, (d) that the proposed practice would not be performed without Federal cost-sharing, (e) that the offering of Federal cost-sharing for the proposed practice is justified as within the scope of national conservation objectives, (f) that adequate facilities, including technical services, will be available to permit the practice to be carried out effectively, and (g) that treatment of the problem cannot be safely delayed until a subsequent program.

§ 701.94 Practice F–4: Emergency conservation measures to restore to productive use land damaged by natural disasters.

(a) This practice is applicable only in counties designated by the Secretary as counties in which wind erosion, floods, hurricanes, or other natural disasters have created new conservation problems which (1) if not treated will impair or endanger the land, (2) materially affect the productive capacity of the land, (3) represent damage which is unusual in character and, except for wind erosion, is not of the type which would recur frequently in the same area, and (4) will be so costly to rehabilitate that Federal assistance is required to return the land to productive agricultural use.

(b) Emergency conservation practices may be approved by the Director, Farmer Programs Division, ASCS, upon recommendation by the State and county committees and designated representatives of the Soil Conservation Service and Forest Service at both the State and county levels. Eligible measures shall be specified in the wording of the practice as approved for use in the county. Cost-sharing may be offered under this practice only for replacing a practice or restoring the land to its normal productive capacity and may not be offered for the solution of conservation problems existing prior to the disaster involved.

(c) The cost-share computed for any person for this practice shall not be increased in accordance with § 701.28, and shall not be included with the cost-shares computed for such person for other practices in applying the maximum Federal cost-share limitation in § 701.29. The total of all Federal cost-shares for this practice to any person with respect to farms and ranches in any one county shall not exceed the sum of $2,500, except that, with the written prior approval of the State committee, a higher maximum not to exceed $10,000 may be approved in individual cases upon justification by the farmer or rancher on the basis of exceptional need and his inability to otherwise carry out the work.

(d) Costs of this practice will be shared only for eligible measures carried out during the program year with respect to which the practice approval was issued, and only if cost-sharing is requested by the farm or ranch operator within 30 days after the practice is approved for use in the county or before the date on which performance of the eligible measures is started, whichever is the later. With the approval of the county committee, costs of performing this practice may be shared with farmers or ranchers who carry out eligible measures on their lands or, with the permission of the owners or operators of adjacent or nearby lands, on such adjacent or nearby lands.

CONSERVATION PRACTICES WITH BENEFITS PRIMARILY TO WILDLIFE

WILDLIFE CONSERVATION PRACTICES WITH SOIL AND WATER CONSERVATION BENEFITS

§ 701.95 Practice G–1: Establishment of vegetative cover providing wildlife food plots and habitat.

This practice is applicable only to farmland which is to be established in trees, shrubs, grasses, legumes, or other vegetative cover to provide food or habitat for wildlife. Federal cost-sharing for fencing shall be limited to permanent fences needed to protect the planted area from grazing by domestic livestock, excluding boundary and road fences.

§ 701.96 Practice G–2: Development or restoration of shallow water areas for wildlife.

This practice is applicable only to farmland which is suitably located and adapted to the development or restoration of shallow water areas for wildlife. Federal cost-sharing for plantings under this practice shall be limited to plantings within the floodable area and plantings on any embankments constructed. Federal cost-sharing for fencing shall be limited to permanent fences needed to protect the shallow water area from grazing by domestic livestock, excluding boundary and road fences.

§ 701.97 Practice G–3: Constructing ponds or dams for wildlife.

This practice is applicable only to permanent ponds or dams for wildlife constructed on farmland. No Federal cost-sharing will be allowed for ponds or dams which will impound water on areas which will be drained periodically for the production of crops, or for dams or ponds which are primarily for the commercial production of fish or other wildlife for food.

§ 701.98 Practice G–4: Other wildlife conservation practices with soil and water conservation benefits.

Consistent with the principles set forth in § 701.1, the Director, Farmer Programs Division, ASCS, may approve other wildlife conservation practices for inclusion in the State program upon recommendation of the State committee and designated representatives of the Soil Conservation Service and the Forest Service at the State level, or for inclusion in county programs upon the recommendation of the State and county committees and designated representatives of the Soil Conservation Service and the Forest Service at both the county and State levels. Such other wildlife conservation practices shall be subject to the same conditions as other practices in the program, shall meet the standards and requirements of comparable practices in the program, and shall specify the eligible measures on which Federal cost-sharing may be approved.

CONSERVATION PRACTICES WITH SUBSTANTIAL BEAUTIFICATION BENEFITS

§ 701.99 Practice H: Beautification-conservation practices.

Consistent with the principles set forth in § 701.1, the Director, Farmer Programs Division, ASCS, may approve beautification-conservation practices for inclusion in the State program upon recommendation of the State committee and designated representatives of the Soil Conservation Service and the Forest Service at the State level, or for inclusion in county programs upon the recommendation of the State and county committees and designated representatives of the Soil Conservation Service and the Forest Service at both the county and State levels. Such practices may include the establishment of protective vegetative cover of grasses, legumes, trees, or shrubs (including ornamental shrubs and perennial flowers); the construction of terraces, dikes, water impoundments, or other structures to control surface runoff, to prevent erosion, or to heal gullies; the establishment of vegetative cover to provide habitat, food, or shelter for wildlife; and other practices which provide substantial soil and water conservation benefits and which enhance the appearance of the area. The practices shall be subject to the same conditions as other practices in the program, shall meet the standards and the requirements of comparable practices in the program, and shall specify the eligible measures on which Federal cost-sharing may be approved. Additional measures on which Federal cost-sharing is not to be approved, which will increase the effectiveness or appearance of the practice, may be installed.

Chapter X—Consumer and Marketing Service (Marketing Agreements and Orders; Milk), Department of Agriculture

[Milk Order 73]

PART 1073—MILK IN WICHITA, KANS., MARKETING AREA

Order Suspending Certain Provisions

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), and of the order regulating the handling of milk in the Wichita, Kans., marketing area (7 CFR Part 1073), it is hereby found and determined that:

(a) The following provisions of the order no longer tend to effectuate the declared policy of the Act for the month of August 1967:

In § 1073.51(a) that portion of the first sentence reading as follows: ", subject to a supply-demand adjustment computed pursuant to subparagraphs (1) through (3) of this paragraph"; and subparagraphs (1), (2), and (3) relating to the supply demand adjustment to the Class I price.

(b) Notice of proposed rule making, public procedure thereon, and 30 days notice of the effective date hereof are impractical, unnecessary, and contrary to the public interest in that:

(1) This suspension order does not require of persons affected substantial or extensive preparation prior to the effective date.

(2) This suspension order is necessary to reflect current marketing conditions and to maintain orderly marketing conditions in the marketing area.

(3) This suspension will eliminate certain erratic movements of the supply-demand adjustor for August 1967 and improve Class I price alignment in this market. A Class I sales account to an outside market is no longer available and approximately 1.6 million pounds of milk is now being pooled locally thereby causing abnormal fluctuation in the supply-demand adjustor in this order.

(4) This suspension action was requested by producers at a public hearing held June 15, 1967, at Wichita, Kans. At the hearing a witness testified that emergency action in the form of a suspension order is necessary to obtain orderly marketing conditions in the area pending the time when an amended order can be issued. There was no opposition to the request. Upon this basis suspension of these provisions for the month of July 1967 was issued June 28, 1967. It is now evident amendment on the basis of the hearing cannot be effective for August 1967.

Therefore, good cause exists for making this order effective August 1, 1967.

It is therefore ordered, That the aforesaid provisions of the order are hereby suspended for the period August 1, 1967, through August 31, 1967.

(Secs. 1–19, 48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U.S.C. 601–674)

Effective date: August 1, 1967.

Signed at Washington, D.C., on July 27, 1967.

GEORGE L. MEHREN,
Assistant Secretary.

[Milk Order 90]

PART 1090—MILK IN CHATTANOOGA, TENN., MARKETING AREA

Order Amending Order

§ 1090.0 Findings and determinations.

The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order and of the previously issued amendments thereto; and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held upon certain proposed amendments to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order regulating the handling of milk in the Chattanooga marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order as hereby amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the Act;

(2) The parity prices of milk, as determined pursuant to section 2 of the Act, are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the said marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the order as hereby amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(3) The said order as hereby amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as, and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial or commercial activity specified in, a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

(b) Additional findings. It is necessary in the public interest to make this order amending the order effective not later than August 1, 1967. Any delay beyond that date would tend to disrupt the orderly marketing of milk in the marketing area.

The provisions of the said order are known to handlers. The recommended decision of the Deputy Administrator, Regulatory Programs, was issued June 30, 1967, and the decision of the Assistant Secretary containing all amendment provisions of this order, was issued July 18, 1967. The changes effected by this order will not require extensive preparation or substantial alteration in method of operation for handlers. In view of the foregoing, it is hereby found and determined that good cause exists for making this order amending the order effective August 1, 1967, and that it would be contrary to the public interest to delay the effective date of this order for 30 days after its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER. (Sec. 553(d), Administrative Procedure Act, 5 U.S.C. 551–559.)

(c) Determinations. It is hereby determined that:

(1) The refusal or failure of handlers (excluding cooperative associations specified in sec. 8c(9) of the Act) of more than 50 percent of the milk, which is marketed within the marketing area, to sign a proposed marketing agreement, tends to prevent the effectuation of the declared policy of the Act;

(2) The issuance of this order, amending the order, is the only practical means pursuant to the declared policy of the Act of advancing the interests of producers as defined in the order as herein amended; and

(3) The issuance of the order amending the order is approved or favored by at least two-thirds of the producers who during the determined representative period were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the marketing area.

Order relative to handling. It is therefore ordered, that on and after the effective date hereof, the handling of milk in the Chattanooga marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order, as amended and as hereby amended, as follows:

1. In § 1090.27(k), subparagraph (1) is revised to read as follows:

§ 1090.27 Duties.

* * * * * *

(k) * * *

(1) The 6th day of each month, the Class I price and Class I butterfat differential, both for the current month; and the Class II price and Class II butterfat differential, both for the preceding month, and

* * * * * *

2. Section 1090.51 is revised to read as follows:

§ 1090.51 Class prices.

Subject to the provisions of §§ 1090.52 and 1090.53, the minimum prices per hundredweight of milk containing 3.5 percent butterfat, to be paid by each handler for milk received at his pool plant from producers during the month, shall be as follows:

(a) Class I milk price. The price per hundredweight for Class I milk for the month shall be the basic formula price for the preceding month, subject to the adjustments provided in subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph:

(1) Add $1.75, and plus 20 cents through April 1968;

(2) Add if the utilization percentage calculated pursuant to subparagraph (3) of this paragraph is less than, or subtract if it is more than, the standard utilization range, an amount determined by multiplying the net utilization percentage calculated pursuant to subparagraph (4) of this paragraph by 2 cents: Provided, That any addition or subtraction shall be limited to 50 cents per hundredweight;

(3) Calculate a utilization percentage for each month by dividing the net hundredweight of Class I milk (excluding the skim milk and butterfat in fluid milk products received during the month in the same product and same package from a plant fully regulated pursuant to Order No. 101 (Part 1101 of this chapter) regulating the handling of milk in the Knoxville marketing area) disposed of from all pool plants for the second and third preceding months into the total hundredweight of producer milk for the same months, multiplying by 100, and rounding the resultant figure to the nearest whole number;

(4) Calculate a net utilization percentage by determining the amount by which the utilization percentage calculated pursuant to subparagraph (3) of this paragraph exceeds the higher figure or is less than the lower figure of the standard utilization range in the following table:

Month for which price applies	Months for which utilization is computed	Standard utilization range
		Minimum	Maximum
January	October–November	114	118
February	November–December	117	121
March	December–January	117	121
April	January–February	117	121
May	February–March	119	123
June	March–April	124	128
July	April–May	134	138
August	May–June	134	138
September	June–July	128	132
October	July–August	115	119
November	August–September	110	114
December	September–October	114	118

(b) Class II milk price. The Class II milk price shall be the basic formula price for the month.

3. Section 1090.52(b) is revised to read as follows:

§ 1090.52 Butterfat differentials to handlers.

* * * * * *

(b) Class II milk price. Multiply the Chicago butter price for the month by 0.115.

(Secs. 1–19, 48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U.S.C. 601–674)

[Milk Order 103]

PART 1103—MILK IN MISSISSIPPI MARKETING AREA

Order Amending Order

§ 1103.0 Findings and determinations.

The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order and of the previously issued amendments thereto; and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held upon certain proposed amendments to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order regulating the handling of milk in the Mississippi marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order as hereby amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the Act;

(2) The parity prices of milk, as determined pursuant to section 2 of the Act, are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the said marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the order as hereby amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(3) The said order as hereby amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as, and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial or commercial activity specified in, a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

(b) Additional findings. It is necessary in the public interest to make this order amending the order effective not later than August 1, 1967. Any delay beyond that date would tend to disrupt the orderly marketing of milk in the marketing area.

The provisions of the said order are known to handlers. The recommended decision of the Administrator, was issued May 12, 1967, and the decision of the Secretary containing all amendment provisions of this order was issued July 17, 1967. The changes effected by this order will not require extensive preparation or substantial alteration in method of operation for handlers. In view of the foregoing, it is hereby found and determined that good cause exists for making this order amending the order effective August 1, 1967, and that it would be contrary to the public interest to delay the effective date of this amendment for 30 days after its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER. (5 U.S.C. 553(d) (1966))

(c) Determinations. It is hereby determined that:

(1) The refusal or failure of handlers (excluding cooperative associations specified in sec. 8(c)(9) of the Act) of more than 50 percent of the milk, which is marketed within the marketing area, to sign a proposed marketing agreement, tends to prevent the effectuation of the declared policy of the Act;

(2) The issuance of this order, amending the order, is the only practical means pursuant to the declared policy of the Act of advancing the interests of producers as defined in the order as hereby amended; and

(3) The issuance of the order amending the order is approved or favored by at least two-thirds of the producers who during the determined representative period were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the marketing area.

Order relative to handling. It is therefore ordered, that on and after the effective date hereof, the handling of milk in the Mississippi marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order, as amended and as hereby further amended, as follows:

1. Under § 1103.15 paragraphs, (b), (c), (d) and (e) are revised.

2. Under § 1103.44, the introductory text and paragraphs (c) and (d) are revised.

1. Section 1103.11(a) is revised to read as follows:

§ 1103.11 Pool plant.

* * * * *

(a) A distributing plant, other than that of a producer-handler or one described in § 1103.61, from which during the month route disposition of fluid milk products is not less than 50 percent of its total receipts of Grade A milk and the volume so disposed of in the marketing area is at least 20 percent of the total route disposition of fluid milk products or a daily average during the month of 7,000 pounds, whichever is less;

* * * * *

2. In § 1103.15, paragraphs (b), (c), (d) and (e) are revised to read as follows:

§ 1103.15 Producer.

(b) Diverted to a nonpool plant(s) (except that diversion to an other order plant shall be limited to Class II use) by the operator of a pool plant or by a cooperative association as a handler pursuant to § 1103.13(c) during any of the months of December through August: Provided, That this diversion privilege shall be applicable only to the milk of those dairy farmers whose milk was delivered for 10 days of production during each of the 2 immediately preceding months to pool plants, or who held producer status throughout the entire 2 immediately preceding months, or a dairy farmer who does not meet these qualifications but has made a delivery of milk to a pool plant during the current December-August period on a farm pickup route on which all other dairy farmers on such route have diversion eligibility on the basis of the preceding provisions of this paragraph; except that only for the purpose of determining eligibility for diversion during any month of December through August a dairy farmer who was in noncompliance with the Grade A requirements of a duly constituted health authority during any part of the 2 immediately preceding months shall be considered to have maintained producer status during the period of such noncompliance;

(c) Diverted to a nonpool plant(s) (except that diversion to an other order plant shall be limited to Class II use) for not more than 10 days' production during any month of September through November except that this paragraph shall not be applicable if: (1) In the case of a cooperative association all of the diversion of milk of member producers by such cooperative association during the month fall within the limits prescribed in paragraph (d) of this section, or (2) in the case of a pool handler (other than a cooperative association) diverting milk of nonmember producers, all of such diversions from such plant fall within the limits prescribed in paragraph (e) of this section;

(d) Diverted during any month of September through November to a nonpool plant(s) (except that diversion to an other order plant shall be limited to Class II use) as milk of a member of a cooperative association for the account of such association if the amount of milk so diverted does not exceed 30 percent of the volume of Grade A milk from all producer members of such cooperative association received at pool plants during such month; or

(e) Diverted during any month of September through November to a nonpool plant(s) (except that diversion to an other order plant shall be limited to Class II use) of a producer who is not a member of a cooperative association, for the account of a handler in his capacity as the operator of a pool plant from which the quantity of milk of nonmember producers so diverted does not exceed 30 percent of the total Grade A receipts of milk at such plant from nonmember producers.

Location:	Rate per hundredweight (cents)
(1) For milk received at a pool plant located in the Mississippi marketing area except that part in Harrison County	16.0
(2) For milk received at a pool plant located outside the marketing area, and:
(i) More than 60 but not more than 160 miles from the courthouse in Gulfport, or Pascagoula, Miss., whichever is nearer	10.0
(ii) For each additional 10 miles or fraction thereof, an additional	1.5

(b) For purposes of calculating such adjustment, transfers between pool plants shall be assigned Class I disposition at the transferee plant, in excess of the sum of 95 percent of receipts at such plant from producers and receipts from a cooperative association in its capacity as a handler pursuant to § 1103.13 (d) and the pounds assigned as Class I to receipts from other order plants and unregulated supply plants, such assignment to be made first to transferor plants at which no location adjustment credit is applicable and then in sequence beginning with the plant at which the least location adjustment would apply.

§ 1103.70 Computation of the net pool obligation of each pool handler.

* * * * *

(c–1) Add an amount determined by multiplying the difference between the Class I price for the preceding month, and the Class I price for the current month by the hundredweight of skim milk and butterfat subtracted from Class I pursuant to § 1103.46(a) (2–a) and the corresponding step of § 1103.46(b). If the Class I price for the current month is less than the Class I price for the preceding month, the result shall be a minus amount;

[Milk Orders 106, 126]

PART 1106—MILK IN OKLAHOMA METROPOLITAN MARKETING AREA

PART 1126—MILK IN NORTH TEXAS MARKETING AREA

Order Suspending Certain Provisions

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), and of the orders regulating the handling of milk in the Oklahoma Metropolitan and North Texas marketing areas (7 CFR Parts 1106 and 1126), it is hereby found and determined that:

(a) The following provisions of the orders no longer tend to effectuate the declared policy of the Act for the month of August 1967:

(1) In § 1106.51(a) of the order regulating the handling of milk in the Oklahoma Metropolitan marketing area, the last sentence of the introductory text reading as follows: "To this price add or subtract a 'supply-demand adjustment' of not more than 50 cents, computed as follows:" and subparagraphs (1), (2), and (3).

(2) In § 1126.51(a) of the order regulating the handling of milk in the North Texas marketing area, that portion of the last sentence of the introductory text reading as follows: "and subject to a supply-demand adjustment of not more than 50 cents computed as follows:" and subparagraphs (1), (2), (3), (4), (5), and (6).

(b) Notice of proposed rule making, public procedure thereon, and 30 days' notice of the effective date hereof is impractical, unnecessary, and contrary to the public interest in that:

(1) This suspension order does not require of persons affected substantial or extensive preparation prior to the effective date.

(2) This suspension order is necessary to reflect current marketing conditions and to maintain orderly marketing conditions in the marketing area.

(3) This suspension will continue for the month of August 1967 the elimination of the effect of supply-demand adjustors in the Oklahoma Metropolitan and North Texas orders that was provided for June and July 1967 by suspension order issued May 25, 1967.

(4) This suspension action was requested by both producers and handlers at a public hearing held May 15, 1967, at Oklahoma City, Okla. At the hearing, witnesses testified that emergency action in the form of a suspension order is necessary to maintain orderly marketing conditions pending the time when an amended order can be issued. No testimony was offered in opposition to this request. It is now evident that amendatory action based upon this hearing will not be completed so that an amended order could be effective for August 1967.

Therefore, in view of the foregoing reasons, good cause exists for making this order effective August 1, 1967.

It is therefore ordered, That the aforesaid provisions of the orders are hereby suspended for the period August 1, 1967, through August 31, 1967.

(Secs. 1–19, 48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U.S.C. 601–674)

[Milk Order 128]

PART 1128—MILK IN CENTRAL WEST TEXAS MARKETING AREA

Order Amending Order

§ 1128.0 Findings and determinations.

The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order and of the previously issued amendments thereto; and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held upon certain proposed amendments to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order regulating the handling of milk in the Central West Texas marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order as hereby amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the Act;

(2) The parity prices of milk, as determined pursuant to section 2 of the Act, are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the said marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the order as hereby amended are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(3) The said order as hereby amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as, and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial or commercial activity specified in, a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

(b) Additional findings. It is necessary in the public interest to make this order amending the order effective not later than August 1, 1967. Any delay beyond that date would tend to disrupt the orderly marketing of milk in the marketing area.

The provisions of the said order are known to handlers. The recommended decision of the Deputy Administrator, Regulatory Programs, issued March 27, 1967, and the decision of the Assistant Secretary containing all amendment provisions of this order was issued July 5, 1967. The changes effected by this order will not require extensive preparation or substantial alteration in method of operation for handlers. In view of the foregoing, it is hereby found and determined that good cause exists for making this order amending the order effective August 1, 1967, and that it would be contrary to the public interest to delay the effective date of this amendment for 30 days after its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER. (5 U.S.C. 553(d) (1966))

(c) Determinations. It is hereby determined that:

(1) The refusal or failure of handlers (excluding cooperative associations specified in sec. 8c(9) of the Act) of more than 50 percent of the milk, which is marketed within the marketing area, to sign a proposed marketing agreement, tends to prevent the effectuation of the declared policy of the Act;

(2) The issuance of this order, amending the order, is the only practical means pursuant to the declared policy of the Act of advancing the interests of producers as defined in the order as hereby amended; and

(3) The issuance of the order amending the order is approved or favored by at least two-thirds of the producers who during the determined representative period were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the marketing area.

ORDER RELATIVE TO HANDLING

It is therefore ordered, That on and after the effective date hereof the handling of milk in the Central West Texas marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order, as amended and as hereby amended, as follows:

§ 1128.53 [Amended]

1. Section 1128.53(a) is revoked and paragraphs (b), (c), and (d) are redesignated (a), (b), and (c), respectively.

2. Section 1128.91 (a) is revised to read as follows:

§ 1128.91 Location adjustments to producers.

(a) In making payments to producers pursuant to § 1128.90, the uniform price for all milk computed pursuant to § 1128.72 for milk received from producers at an approved plant shall be adjusted at the rates set forth in § 1128.53, applicable at the location of such plant.

[Milk Order 113S]

PART 1138—MILK IN RIO GRANDE VALLEY MARKETING AREA

Order Suspending Certain Provision

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), and of the order regulating the handling of milk in the Rio Grande Valley marketing area (7 CFR Part 1138), it is hereby found and determined that:

(a) The proviso in § 1138.10(a) of the order will not tend to effectuate the declared policy of the Act for the months of July and August 1967. The proviso reads as follows: ": Provided, That the total quantity of Class I milk disposed from such plant during the month is not less than 50 percent of such plant's receipts of Grade A milk, which receipts shall include all milk diverted from such pool plant to a nonpool plant by the handler operating such pool plant".

(b) Notice of proposed rule making, public procedure thereon, and 30 days notice of the effective date hereof are impractical, unnecessary, and contrary to the public interest in that:

(1) This suspension order does not require of persons affected substantial or extensive preparation prior to the effective date.

(2) This suspension order is necessary to reflect current marketing conditions and to maintain orderly marketing conditions in the marketing area.

(3) The suspension action would remove for the months of July and August 1967 the requirement that a distributing plant must dispose of 50 percent of the receipts of Grade A milk as Class I milk each month in order to be a pool plant. A distributing plant which has met this requirement each month currently has use for additional milk for manufacturing use in quantities which would cause loss of pool status unless this suspension is effective. This milk is available in the area and if not used for manufacturing locally will need be transported to distant manufacturing plants at additional cost to local producer associations.

(4) Request for this suspension was made on behalf of cooperative associations representing a large percentage of all producers currently supplying the market and major handlers regulated by the order.

Therefore, good cause exists for making this order effective July 1, 1967.

It is therefore ordered, That the aforesaid provision of the order is hereby suspended for the period July 1, 1967, through August 31, 1967.

Title 9—ANIMALS AND ANIMAL PRODUCTS

Chapter III—Consumer and Marketing Service (Meat Inspection), Department of Agriculture

SUBCHAPTER A—MEAT INSPECTION REGULATIONS

PART 310—POST-MORTEM INSPECTION

Contamination of Head Meat of Animals Stunned by Bullets

Pursuant to the authority conferred by the Meat Inspection Act, as amended and extended (21 U.S.C. 71–96) and section 306 of the Tariff Act of 1930, as amended (19 U.S.C. 1306), § 310.19 of the Meat Inspection Regulations (9 CFR 310.19) is hereby amended by adding an "(a)" before the text of present § 310.19 and by adding a new paragraph (b) reading as follows:

§ 310.19 Contamination of carcasses, organs or parts.

* * * * *

(b) Brains, cheek meat and head trimmings from animals stunned by lead, sponge iron, or frangible bullets shall not be saved for use as human food but shall be handled as described in § 314.1 or § 314.4 of Part 314 of this subchapter.

(Sec. 306, 46 Stat. 689, as amended; 34 Stat. 1264, 41 Stat. 241; 19 U.S.C. 1306; 21 U.S.C. 89, 96; 29 F.R. 16210, as amended; 31 F.R. 13249, as amended)

Statement of considerations. Stunning of animals by lead or sponge iron bullets, or frangible type bullets (i.e., those constructed of molded, powdered metal and plastic) has been a rather common practice in federally inspected slaughtering establishments. Some time ago, because of consumer complaints concerning foreign material identified as fragments of bullets in processed sausage containing cheek meat, the Livestock Slaughter Inspection Division carried out a nationwide survey to determine the incidence of such contamination in the edible portions of animals stunned by bullets of various types.

In conducting the survey, the leading manufacturers of bullets used for stunning, and meatpackers and their national organization representatives, were freely consulted. Advice given by bullet manufacturers intended to lessen contamination of product was carefully followed in controlled tests supervised by Meat Inspection Program personnel in many inspected plants. Attempts were made to have collateral tests initiated by some of the large packer organizations and some work along these lines was actually done.

The results of this survey show convincingly that regardless of the type of bullet or the method of shooting used, approximately 10 percent of all cheek meat and head trimmings from animals stunned by shooting contain whole or fragmented bullets. The percentage of brains contaminated approaches 100 percent. Such contaminants range from almost microscopic size particles to complete bullets. Because the contamination frequently occurs deep in the musculature or other tissue of the head with little or no apparent hemorrhage or other external evidence of such contamination, its detection by usual or feasible inspection techniques is impossible.

Contamination of meat by metal is highly objectionable to consumers and is considered a health hazard. In view of the significant percentage of contaminated head tissues detected during the survey and the impracticability of eliminating such contaminated product by any feasible inspection technique, the Consumer and Marketing Service believes that steps must be taken to prevent the use for human food of such potentially contaminated product.

The restrictions against the use of head meat from bullet-stunned animals should not seriously affect the economics of the meat packing industry. Other alternative methods of stunning that do not produce contamination of edible product are approved for use by the Meat Inspection Program and are officially designated methods of humane slaughter. These methods are set forth in Part 380, Subchapter D, Chapter III of Title 9 of the Code of Federal Regulations.

The foregoing amendment is intended to prevent the use in interstate or foreign commerce of meat and meat food products which are contaminated with bullets or fragments of bullets and therefore are unfit for use as human food. In order to accomplish this purpose and because of the nature of the problem and the urgency of the need for providing consumer protection at the earliest practical time, the amendment should be made effective as soon as possible. Therefore, under the administrative procedure provisions of 5 U.S.C. 553, it is found upon good cause that notice and other public procedure concerning the amendment are impracticable and contrary to the public interest and good cause is found for making it effective less than 30 days after publication hereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Effective date. The foregoing amendment shall become effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER: Provided, however, That any federally inspected slaughterer who heretofore stunned particular kinds of animals only by gunshot at any official establishment, upon request to the Officer in Charge of the Meat Inspection Program for the area in which such slaughterer is located, may be allowed to continue to use such stunning method for such animals for such reasonable period of time (not to exceed 30 days) as is necessary for him to obtain other stunning equipment, if during such period a careful and thorough piece-by-piece inspection of cheeks and head trimmings from bullet-stunned animals is made by a competent employee of such slaughterer under supervision of an inspector.

Done at Washington, D.C., this 27th day of July 1967.

R. K. SOMERS,
Deputy Administrator, Consumer Protection, Consumer and Marketing Service.

AUTHORITY: The provisions of this Part 19 issued under 12 U.S.C. 1818, 80 Stat. 1061; 5 U.S.C. 553, 80 Stat. 383.

§ 19.1 Scope.

The rules and procedures set forth in this part are applicable to proceedings by the Comptroller of the Currency to determine whether to order a national bank or a District bank to cease and desist from practices and violations described in section 8 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act (12 U.S.C. 1818), as amended, and enumerated in § 19.2. The procedures for issuing such orders prescribed in section 8 of such Act will be followed and hearings required thereunder will be conducted in accordance with the rules and procedures set forth in this part.

§ 19.2 Grounds for cease-and-desist orders.

If, in the opinion of the Comptroller of the Currency, any national bank or District bank is engaging in or has engaged, or the Comptroller of the Currency has reasonable cause to believe that the bank is about to engage, in an unsafe or unsound practice in conducting the business of such bank, or is violating or has violated, or the Comptroller has reasonable cause to believe that the bank is about to violate, a law, rule, or regulation, or any condition imposed in writing by the Comptroller in connection with the granting of an application or other request by the bank, or any written agreement entered into with the Comptroller, the Comptroller may issue and serve upon the bank a notice of charges in respect thereof.

§ 19.3 Notice of charges and hearing.

The notice referred to in § 19.2 shall contain a statement of the facts constituting the alleged violation or violations or the unsafe or unsound practice or practices, and shall fix a time and place at which a hearing will be held to determine whether an order to cease and desist therefrom should issue against the bank. Such hearing shall be set for a date not earlier than 30 days nor later than 60 days after service of such notice unless an earlier or a later date is set by the Comptroller at the request of the bank. Unless the bank appears at the hearing by a duly authorized representative, it shall be deemed to have consented to the issuance of the cease-and-desist order.

§ 19.4 Issuance of order.

In the event of the consent described in § 19.3, or if upon the record made at any such hearing, the Comptroller finds that any violation or unsafe or unsound practice specified in the notice of charges has been established, the Comptroller may issue and serve upon the bank an order to cease and desist from any such violation or practice. Such order may by provisions which may be mandatory or otherwise, require the bank and its directors, officers, employees, and agents to cease and desist from the same and to take affirmative action to correct the conditions resulting from any such violation or practice.

§ 19.5 Effective date.

A cease-and-desist order shall become effective at the expiration of 30 days after the service of such order upon the bank (except in the case of a cease-and-desist order issued upon consent, which shall become effective at the time specified therein), and shall remain effective and enforceable as provided therein, except to such extent as it is stayed, modified, terminated, or set aside by action of the Comptroller or a reviewing court.

§ 19.6 Temporary cease-and-desist orders.

Whenever the Comptroller determines that the violation or threatened violation or the unsafe or unsound practice or practices, specified in the notice of charges served upon the bank and referred to in § 19.3, or the continuation thereof, is likely to cause insolvency or substantial dissipation of assets or earnings of the bank, or is likely to otherwise seriously prejudice the interests of its depositors, the Comptroller may issue a temporary order requiring the bank to cease and desist from any such violation or practice.

§ 19.7 Effective date of temporary order.

Such order referred to in § 19.6 shall become effective upon service upon the bank and, unless set aside, limited, or suspended by a court in proceedings authorized under section 8 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act, as amended, shall remain effective and enforceable pending the completion of the administrative proceedings held pursuant to such notice and until such time as the Comptroller shall dismiss the charges specified in such notice, or if a cease-and-desist order is issued against the bank pursuant to § 19.4, until the effective date of any such order.

§ 19.8 Representation and suspension.

(a) Appearance before a hearing examiner. Any person who is a member in good standing of the bar of the highest court of any State, possession, territory, Commonwealth, or the District of Columbia, may represent others with respect to a cease-and-desist proceeding upon filing with the Administrative Assistant to the Comptroller a written declaration that he is currently qualified as provided by this paragraph and is authorized to represent the particular party on whose behalf he acts. Any other person desiring to represent others before a hearing examiner may be required to file with the Administrative Assistant a power of attorney showing his authority to act in such capacity, and he may be required to show to the satisfaction of such examiner that he has the requisite qualifications. Attorneys or other representatives of parties to any proceeding provided for in this part shall file a written notice of appearance with the Administrative Assistant.

(b) Summary suspension. Contemptuous conduct at any hearing before the Comptroller or a hearing examiner shall be grounds for exclusion from any such hearing and suspension for the duration thereof.

§ 19.9 Notice of hearing.

Whenever a hearing is ordered by the Comptroller pursuant to section 8 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act, a notice of hearing shall be given by the designated officer acting for the Comptroller to the party afforded the hearing. Such notice shall state the time, place, and nature of the hearing, the hearing examiner, and the legal authority and jurisdiction under which the hearing is to be held, and shall contain a statement of the matters of fact or law constituting the grounds for the hearing, and shall be delivered by personal service or by registered mail to the last known address, or other appropriate means, sufficiently in advance of the date set for hearing to comply with the provisions of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act, as amended, and § 19.3.

§ 19.10 Answer.

(a) When required. In any notice of hearing issued by the Comptroller, the Comptroller may direct the party afforded the hearing to file an answer to the allegations contained in the notice, and any party to any proceeding may file an answer. Except where a different period of not less than 10 days after service of a notice of hearing is specified by the Comptroller, a party directed to file an answer, or a party who elects to file an answer, shall file the same with the Administrative Assistant within 20 days after service upon him of the notice of hearing.

(b) Requirements of answer; effect of failure to deny. An answer filed under this section shall specifically admit, deny, or state that the party does not have and is unable to obtain sufficient information to admit or deny each allegation in the notice of hearing. A statement of lack of information shall have the effect of a denial. Any allegation not denied shall be deemed to be admitted. When a party intends in good faith to deny only a part or a qualification of an allegation, he shall specify so much of it as is true and shall deny only the remainder.

(c) Admitted allegations. If a party filing an answer under this section elects not to contest the allegations of fact set forth in the notice of hearing, his answer shall consist of a statement that he admits all of the allegations to be true. Such an answer shall constitute a waiver of hearing as to the facts alleged in the notice, and together with the notice will provide a record basis on which the hearing examiner shall file with the Administrative Assistant his recommended decision and his findings of fact and conclusions of law. Any such party may, however, reserve the right to file with the Administrative Assistant exceptions to such recommended decision, findings, and conclusions as provided in § 19.16.

(d) Effect of failure to answer. Failure of a party to file an answer required by this section within the time provided shall be deemed to constitute a waiver of his right to appear and contest the allegations of the notice of hearing and to authorize the hearing examiner, without further notice to the party, to find the facts to be as alleged in the notice and to file with the Administrative Assistant a recommended decision containing such findings and appropriate conclusions. The Comptroller or the hearing examiner may, for cause shown, permit the filing of a delayed answer after the time for filing the answer has expired.

(e) Opportunity for informal settlement. Any interested party may at any time submit to the Administrative Assistant, for consideration by the Comptroller, written offers or proposals for settlement of a proceeding, without prejudice to the rights of the parties. No such offer or proposal, or counteroffer or proposal, shall be admissible in evidence over the objection of any party in any hearing in connection with such proceeding. The foregoing provisions of this section shall not preclude settlement of any proceeding through the regular adjudicatory process by the filing of an answer as provided in this section, or by submission of the case to the trial examiner on a stipulation of facts and an agreed order.

§ 19.11 Conduct of hearings.

(a) Authority of hearing examiner. All hearings governed by this part shall be conducted in accordance with the provisions of chapter 5 of title 5 of the United States Code. The hearing examiner designated by the Comptroller to preside at any such hearing shall have complete charge of the hearing, and he shall have the duty to conduct it in a fair and impartial manner and to take all necessary action to avoid delay in the disposition of proceedings. Such examiner shall have all powers necessary to that end, including the following:

(1) To administer oaths and affirmations:

(2) To issue subpenas and subpenas duces tecum, as authorized by law, and to revoke, quash, or modify any such subpena:

(3) To receive relevant evidence and to rule upon the admission of evidence and offers of proof:

(4) To take or cause depositions to be taken:

(5) To regulate the course of the hearing and the conduct of the parties and their counsel:

(6) To hold conferences for the settlement or simplification of issues or for any other proper purpose; and

(7) To consider and rule upon, as justice may require, all procedural and other motions appropriate in an adversary proceeding, except that a hearing examiner shall not have power to decide any motion to dismiss the proceedings or other motion which results in final determination of the merits of the proceedings.

Without limitation on the foregoing provisions of this paragraph, the hearing examiner, shall subject to the provisions of this part, have all the authority of section 556(c) of title 5 of the United States Code.

(b) Prehearing conference. The hearing examiner may, on his own initiative or at the request of any party, direct counsel for all parties to meet with him at a specified time and place prior to the hearing, or to submit suggestions to him in writing, for the purpose of considering any or all of the following:

(1) Simplification and clarification of the issues:

(2) Stipulations, admissions of fact and of the contents and authenticity of documents:

(3) Matters of which official notice will be taken: and

(4) Such other matters as may aid in the orderly disposition of the proceeding, including disclosure of the names of witnesses and of documents or other physical exhibits which will be introduced in evidence in the course of the proceeding.

Such conferences, in the discretion of the hearing examiner, need not be recorded, but the hearing examiner shall enter in the record an order which recites the results of the conference. Such order shall include the examiner's rulings upon matters considered at the conference, together with appropriate directions to the parties, if any; and such order shall control the subsequent course of the proceedings, unless modified at the hearing to prevent manifest injustice. Except as authorized by law, the hearing examiner shall not consult any person or party on any fact in issue unless upon notice and opportunity for all parties to participate, nor be responsible to or subject to the supervision or direction of any officer, employee, or agent engaged in the performance of investigative or prosecuting functions. No officer, employee, or agent engaged in the performance of investigative or prosecuting functions in any case shall, in that case or a factually related case, participate or advise in the decision of the hearing examiner except as a witness or counsel in the proceedings.

(c) Attendance at hearings. A hearing shall be private and shall be attended only by the parties, their representatives or counsel, witnesses while testifying, and other persons having an official interest in the proceedings: Provided, however, That where the Comptroller in his discretion, after fully considering the views of the party afforded the hearing, determines that a public hearing is necessary to protect the public interest, he may order the hearing be public.

(d) Transcript of testimony. Hearings shall be recorded and transcripts will be made available to any party upon payment of the cost thereof and, in the event the hearing is public, shall be furnished on similar payment to other interested persons. A copy of the transcript of the testimony taken at any hearing, duly certified by the reporter, together with all exhibits, all papers and requests filed in the proceeding, and any briefs or memoranda of law theretofore filed in the proceeding, shall be filed with the Administrative Assistant to the Comptroller, who shall transmit the same to the hearing examiner. The Administrative Assistant shall promptly serve notice upon each of the parties of such filing and transmittal. The hearing examiner shall have authority to rule upon motions to correct the record.

(e) Order of procedure. The counsel for the Comptroller shall open and close.

(f) Continuances and changes or extensions of time and changes of place of hearing. Except as otherwise expressly provided by law, the Comptroller may by the notice of hearing or subsequent order provide time limits different from those specified in this part, and the Comptroller may, on his own initiative or for good cause shown, change or extend any time limit prescribed by these rules or the notice of hearing, or change the time and place for beginning any hearing hereunder. The hearing examiner may continue or adjourn a hearing from time to time and, as permitted by law or agreed to by the parties, from place to place. Extensions of time for making any filing or performing any act required or allowed to be done within a specified time in the course of a proceeding may be granted by the hearing examiner for good cause shown.

(g) Call for further evidence, oral argument, briefs, reopening of hearing. The hearing examiner may call for the production of further evidence upon any issue, may permit oral argument and submission of briefs at the hearing and, upon appropriate notice, may reopen any hearing at any time prior to the certification of his recommended decision to the Administrative Assistant. The Comptroller may order the reopening of any hearing at any time prior to the entry of his order disposing of the matter.

§ 19.12 Subpenas.

(a) Issuance. The hearing examiner or, in the event he is unavailable, the Comptroller, shall issue subpenas at the request of any party, requiring the attendance of witnesses or the production of documentary evidence at any designated place of hearing; except that where it appears to the hearing examiner or the Comptroller that the subpena may be unreasonable, oppressive, excessive in scope, or unduly burdensome, the party seeking the subpena may be required, as a condition precedent to the issuance of the subpena, to show the general relevance and reasonable scope of the testimony or other evidence sought. In the event the hearing examiner or the Comptroller, after consideration of all the circumstances, determines that the subpena or any of its terms are unreasonable, oppressive, excessive in scope, or unduly burdensome, he or it may refuse to issue the subpena, or issue it only upon such conditions as fairness requires.

(b) Motion to quash. Any person to whom a subpena is directed may, prior to the time specified therein for compliance but in no event more than five days after the date of service of such subpena, with notice to the party requesting the subpena, apply to the hearing examiner, or, if he is unavailable, to the Comptroller, to revoke, quash, or modify such subpena, accompanying such application with a statement of the reasons therefor.

(c) Service of subpena. Service of a subpena upon a person named therein shall be made by delivering a copy of the subpena to such person and by tendering the fees for one day's attendance and the mileage as specified in paragraph (d) of this section, except that when a subpena is issued at the request of the Comptroller of the Currency's counsel fees and mileage need not be tendered at the time of service of the subpena. If service is made by a United States marshal, or his deputy, or an employee of the Office of the Comptroller, such service shall be evidenced by his return thereon. If made by any other person, such person shall make affidavit thereto, describing the manner in which service is made, and return such affidavit on or with the original subpena. In case of failure to make service, reasons for the failure shall be stated on the original subpena. The original subpena, bearing or accompanied by the required return, affidavit, or statement, shall be returned without delay to the hearing examiner.

(d) Attendance of witnesses. The attendance of witnesses and the production of documents pursuant to a subpena, issued in connection with a hearing, may be required from any place in any State or in any territory at any designated place where the hearing is being conducted. Witnesses subpenaed in any proceeding under this part shall be paid the same fees and mileage that are paid witnesses in the district courts of the United States.

(e) Depositions. The Comptroller or hearing examiner, by subpena or subpena duces tecum, may order evidence to be taken by deposition in any proceeding at any stage thereof. Such depositions may be taken by the hearing examiner or before any person designated by the Comptroller or hearing examiner and having power to administer oaths. Unless notice is waived, no deposition shall be taken except after at least five days' notice to the parties to the proceeding.

(f) Application and order to take oral deposition. Any party desiring to take the oral deposition of a witness, in connection with any hearing provided for in this part, shall make application in writing to the hearing examiner or, in the event he is unavailable, to the Comptroller setting forth the reasons why such deposition should be taken, the name and post office address of the witness, the matters concerning which the witness is expected to testify, its relevance, and the time when, the place where, and the name and post office address of the person before whom it is desired the deposition be taken. A copy of such application shall be served upon every other party to the proceeding by the party making such application. Upon a showing that (1) the proposed witness will be unable to attend or may be prevented from attending the hearing because of age, sickness or infirmity, or will otherwise be unavailable at the hearing, (2) his testimony will be material, and (3) the taking of the deposition will not result in any undue burden to any other party or in undue delay of the proceeding, the hearing examiner or the Comptroller may, in his discretion, by such subpena or subpena duces tecum, order the oral deposition to be taken. Such subpena will name the witness whose deposition is to be taken and specify the time when, the place where, and the person before whom the witness is to testify, but such time and place, and the person before whom the deposition is ordered to be taken, may or may not be the same as those named in the application. Notice of the issuance of such subpena shall be served upon each of the parties a reasonable time, and in no event less than five days, in advance of the time fixed for the taking of the deposition.

(g) Procedure on deposition; objections. Each witness testifying upon oral deposition shall be duly sworn, and the adverse party shall have the right to cross-examine. Objections to questions or documents shall be in short form, stating the grounds of objection relied upon; but the person taking the deposition shall not have power to rule upon questions of competency or materiality or relevance of evidence. Failure to object to questions or evidence shall not be deemed a waiver unless the ground of the objection is one which might have been obviated or removed if presented at that time. The questions propounded and the answers thereto, together with all objections made (but not including argument or debate) shall be recorded by the person taking the deposition, or under his direction. The deposition shall be subscribed by the witness, unless the parties by stipulation waived the signing or the witness is ill or cannot be found or refused to sign, and certified as a true and complete transcript thereof by the person taking the deposition. If the deposition is not subscribed to by the witness, such person shall state on the record this fact and the reason therefor. Such person shall promptly send the original and two copies of such deposition, together with the original and two copies of all exhibits, by registered mail to the Administrative Assistant to the Comptroller unless otherwise directed in the order authorizing the taking of the deposition. Interested parties shall make their own arrangements with the person taking the deposition for copies of the testimony and the exhibits.

(h) Introduction as evidence. Subject to appropriate rulings by the hearing examiner on such objections and answers as were noted at the time the deposition was taken or as would be valid were the witness personally present and testifying, the deposition or any part thereof may be read in evidence by any party to the proceeding. Only such part or the whole of a deposition as is received in evidence at a hearing shall constitute a part of the record in such proceeding upon which a decision may be based.

(i) Payment of fees. Witnesses whose oral depositions are taken shall be entitled to the same fees as are paid for like services in the courts of the United States. Fees of persons taking such depositions and the fees of the reporter shall be paid by the person upon whose application the deposition was taken.

§ 19.13 Rules of evidence.

(a) Evidence. Every party shall have the right to present his case or defense by oral and documentary evidence, to submit rebuttal evidence and to conduct such cross-examination as may be required for a full and true disclosure of the facts. Irrelevant, immaterial, or unduly repetitious evidence shall be excluded.

(b) Objections. Objections to the admission or exclusion of evidence shall be in short form, stating the grounds of objections relied upon, and the transcript shall not include argument thereon except as ordered by the hearing examiner. Rulings on such objections and on any other matters shall be a part of the transcript. Failure to object to admission or exclusion of evidence or to any ruling shall be considered a waiver of such objection.

(c) Official notice. All matters officially noticed by the hearing examiner shall appear on the record.

§ 19.14 Motions.

(a) In writing. An application or request for an order or ruling not otherwise specifically provided for in this part shall be made by motion. After a hearing examiner has been designated to preside at a hearing and before the filing with the Administrative Assistant of his recommended decision, pursuant to § 19.28, such applications or requests shall be addressed to and filed with him. At all other times motions shall be addressed to the Comptroller and filed with the Administrative Assistant. Motions shall be in writing, except that a motion made at a session of a hearing may be made orally upon the record unless the hearing examiner directs that it be reduced to writing. All written motions shall state with particularity the order or relief sought and the grounds therefor.

(b) Objections. Within 5 days after service of any written motion, or within such other period of time as may be fixed by the hearing examiner or the Comptroller, any party may file a written answer or objection to such motion. The moving party shall have no right to reply, except as permitted by the hearing examiner or the Comptroller. As a matter of discretion, the hearing examiner or the Comptroller may waive the requirements of this section as to motions for extensions of time, and may rule upon such motions ex parte.

(c) Oral argument. No oral argument will be heard on motions except as otherwise directed by the hearing examiner or the Comptroller. Written memoranda or briefs may be filed with motions or answers or objections thereto, stating the points and authorities relied upon in support of the position taken.

(d) Rulings on motions. Except as otherwise provided in this part, the hearing examiner shall rule upon all motions properly addressed to him and upon such other motions as the Comptroller may direct, except that if the hearing examiner finds that a prompt decision by the Comptroller on a motion is essential to the proper conduct of the proceeding, he may refer such motion to the Comptroller for decision. The Comptroller shall rule upon all motions properly submitted to him for decision.

(e) Appeal from rulings on motions. All motions and answers or objections thereto and rulings thereon shall become part of the record. Rulings of a hearing examiner on any motion may not be appealed to the Comptroller prior to its consideration of the hearing examiner's recommended decision, findings and conclusions except by special permission of the Comptroller; but they shall be considered by the Comptroller in reviewing the record. Requests to the Comptroller for special permission to appeal from such rulings of the hearing examiner shall be filed promptly, in writing, and shall briefly state the grounds relied on. The moving party shall immediately serve a copy thereof on every other party to the proceeding.

(f) Continuation of hearing. Unless otherwise ordered by the hearing examiner or the Comptroller, the hearing shall continue pending the determination of any motion by the Comptroller.

§ 19.15 Proposed findings and conclusions and recommended decision.

(a) Proposed findings and conclusions and supporting briefs. Within 15 days after the filing of the transcript with the Administrative Assistant (or within 15 days after the party's receipt of a copy of such transcript, if ordered before the conclusion of the hearing) a party may file with the Administrative Assistant for submission to the hearing examiner proposed findings and conclusions of law, which may be accompanied by a brief in support thereof. A copy of such proposals and brief in support thereof shall be delivered by the Administrative Assistant to the hearing examiner and a copy shall be served upon the other parties to the proceedings. All such proposals, briefs, and memoranda shall become part of the record.

(b) Recommended decision and filing of record. The hearing examiner shall, within 30 days after the expiration of the time allowed for the filing of proposed findings and conclusions, or within such further time as the Comptroller for good cause shall determine, file with the Administrative Assistant and certify to the Comptroller for decision the entire record of the hearing, which shall include his recommended decision and findings of fact and conclusions of law, the transcript, exhibits (including on request of any of the parties any exhibits excluded from evidence or tenders of proof), exceptions, rulings, and all briefs and memoranda filed in connection with the hearing. Promptly upon such filing the Administrative Assistant shall serve upon each party to the proceeding a copy of the hearing examiner's recommended decision, and findings and conclusions.

§ 19.16 Exceptions.

(a) Filing. Within 15 days after receipt of a copy of the recommended decision of the hearing examiner, any party may file with the Administrative Assistant exceptions to the recommended decision of the hearing examiner or any portion thereof or to his failure to adopt a proposed finding or conclusion, or to the admission or exclusion of evidence or to any other ruling, which exceptions may be accompanied by a supporting brief. A copy of such exceptions and brief shall be forthwith delivered by the Administrative Assistant to the hearing examiner and a copy shall also be served on the other parties to the proceedings.

(b) Waiver. Failure to file exceptions to the recommended decision of the hearing examiner or any portion thereof, or to his failure to adopt a proposed finding or conclusion, or to the admission or exclusion of evidence or to any ruling, within the time so required, shall be deemed to be a waiver of the objections thereto.

§ 19.17 Briefs.

(a) Contents. All briefs shall be confined to the particular matters in issue. Each exception or proposed finding or conclusion which is briefed shall be supported by a concise argument or by citation of such statutes, decisions or other authorities and by page reference to such portions of the record or recommended decision of the hearing examiner as may be relevant. If the exception relates to the admission or exclusion of evidence, the substance of the evidence admitted or excluded shall be set forth in the brief with appropriate references to the transcript.

(b) Reply briefs. Reply briefs may be filed within 10 days after service of briefs and shall be confined to matters in original briefs of opposing parties. Further briefs may be filed only with the permission of the Comptroller.

(c) Delays. Briefs not filed on or before the time fixed in this subpart will be received only upon special permission of the Comptroller.

§ 19.18 Oral argument before the Comptroller.

Upon his own initiative, or upon the written request of any party made within the time prescribed for the filing of exceptions, a brief in support thereof, or a reply brief, if any, for oral argument on the findings, conclusions and recommended decision of the hearing examiner, the Comptroller, if it considers justice will best be served, may order the matter to be set down for oral argument before the Comptroller. Oral argument before the Comptroller shall be recorded unless otherwise ordered by the Comptroller.

§ 19.19 Notice of submission to the Comptroller.

Upon the filing of the record with the Administrative Assistant and upon the expiration of the time for the filing of exceptions and all briefs permitted by the Comptroller and upon the hearing of oral argument by the Comptroller, if ordered by the Comptroller, the Administrative Assistant shall notify the parties that the case has been submitted to the Comptroller for final decision.

§ 19.20 Decision of Comptroller.

Appropriate members of the staff, who are not engaged in the performance of investigative or prosecuting functions in the case, or in a factually related case, may advise and assist the Comptroller in the consideration of the case. Copies of the decision and order of the Comptroller shall be furnished by the Administrative Assistant to the parties to the proceedings and to the bank involved.

§ 19.21 Filing papers.

Recommended decisions, exceptions, briefs and other papers required to be filed with the Comptroller or his Administrative Assistant in any proceedings shall be filed with the Administrative Assistant to the Comptroller of the Currency, Washington, D.C. 20220. Any such papers may be sent to the Administrative Assistant by mail or express but must be received in the office of the Comptroller in Washington, D.C., or postmarked by a post office, within the time limit for such filing.

§ 19.22 Service.

(a) By the Comptroller. All documents or papers required to be served by the Comptroller upon any party afforded a hearing shall be served by the Administrative Assistant unless some other person shall be designated for such purpose by the Comptroller. Such service, except for service on counsel for the Comptroller, shall be made by personal service or by registered mail, addressed to the last known address as shown on the records of the Comptroller, on the attorney or representative of record of such party, provided that if there is no attorney or representative of record, such service shall be made upon such party at the last known address as shown on the records of the Comptroller. Such service may also be made in such other manner reasonably calculated to give actual notice as the Comptroller may by regulation or otherwise provide.

(b) By the parties. Except as otherwise expressly provided in this part, all documents or papers filed in a proceeding under this part shall be served by the party filing the same upon the attorneys or representatives of record of all other parties to the proceeding, or, if any party is not so represented, then upon such party. Such service may be made by personal service or by registered, certified, or regular first-class mail addressed to the last known address of such parties, or their attorneys or representatives of record. All such documents or papers shall, when tendered to the Comptroller or the hearing examiner for filing, show that such service has been made.

§ 19.23 Copies.

Unless otherwise specifically provided in the notice of hearing, an original and seven copies of all documents and papers required or permitted to be filed or served upon the Administrative Assistant under this part, except the transcript of testimony and exhibits, shall be furnished to the Administrative Assistant.

§ 19.24 Computing time.

(a) General rule. In computing any period of time prescribed or allowed by this part, the date of the act, event or default from which the designated period of time begins to run is not to be included. The last day so computed is to be included, unless it is a Saturday, Sunday or legal holiday in the District of Columbia, in which event the period shall run until the end of the next day which is neither a Saturday, Sunday nor legal holiday. Intermediate Saturdays, Sundays and legal holidays shall be included in the computation unless the time within which the act is to be performed is 10 days or less in which event Saturdays, Sundays and legal holidays shall not be included.

(b) Service by mail. Whenever any party has the right or is required to do some act or take some proceeding, within a period of time prescribed in this part, after the service upon him of any document or other paper of any kind, and such service is made by mail, three days shall be added to the prescribed period from the date when the matter served is deposited in the United States mail.

§ 19.25 Documents in proceedings confidential.

Unless and until otherwise ordered by the Comptroller, the notice of hearing, the transcript, the recommended decision of the hearing examiner, exceptions thereto, proposed findings and conclusions of the Comptroller and other papers which are filed in connection with any hearing shall not be made public, and shall be for the confidential use only of the Comptroller, the hearing examiner, and the parties.

§ 19.26 Formal requirements as to papers filed.

(a) Form. All papers filed under this subpart shall be printed, typewritten, or otherwise reproduced. All copies shall be clear and legible.

(b) Signature. The original of all papers filed by a bank shall be signed by an officer thereof, and if filed by another party shall be signed by said party, or by the duly authorized agent or attorney of the bank or other party, and in all such cases shall show the signer's address. Counsel for the Comptroller shall sign the original of all papers filed by him.

(c) Caption. All papers filed must include at the head thereof, or on a title page, the name of the Comptroller, the name of the party, and the subject of the particular paper.

Any other person desiring to appear before or transact business with the Board in a representative capacity may be required to file with the Secretary a power of attorney showing his authority to act in such capacity, and he may be required to show to the satisfaction of the Board that he has the requisite qualifications. Attorneys and other representatives of parties to proceedings shall file a written notice of appearance with the Secretary or with the presiding officer.

(b) Summary suspension. Contemptuous conduct at any hearings to which these Rules are applicable, by any person, shall be ground for exclusion from any such hearing and for such further period as the Board may prescribe.

§ 263.4 Notice of hearing.

Whenever a hearing is ordered by the Board, notice of such hearing (together with a copy of any document incorporated therein by reference) shall be given by the Secretary or other designated officer acting for the Board to the party or parties to the proceeding and to the appropriate financial institution supervisory authority where required by law. The Board may give whatever additional notice is deemed appropriate in any given hearing. Such notice shall state the time, place, and nature of the hearing, the legal authority and jurisdiction under which the hearing is to be held, and the name and address of the presiding officer, if one has been designated, and shall also contain, or incorporate by appropriate reference, a statement of the matters of fact or law constituting the grounds for the hearing. Unless otherwise provided by law or ordered by the Board, notice of any hearing shall be given not less than 20 days prior to the date set for hearing and shall be given general circulation by publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER and, where practical, by release to the press. The Board may amend a notice of hearing in any manner and to the extent consistent with provisions of applicable law.

§ 263.5 Answer.

(a) When required. In any notice of hearing issued by the Board, the Board may direct the party or parties afforded the hearing to file an answer to the allegations contained in the notice or referenced documents, and any party to any proceeding may file an answer. Except where a different period is provided by law or specified by the Board, a party directed to file an answer, or a party who elects to file an answer, shall file the same with the Secretary within 20 days after service upon him of the notice of hearing.

(b) Requirements of answer; effect of failure to deny. An answer filed under this section shall specifically admit, deny, or state that the party does not have sufficient information to admit or deny each allegation in the notice of hearing. A statement of lack of information shall have the effect of a denial. Any allegation not denied shall be deemed to be admitted. When a party intends to deny only a part or a qualification of an allegation, he shall admit so much of it as is true and shall deny only the remainder.

(c) Admitted allegations. If a party filing an answer under this section elects not to contest the allegations of fact set forth in the notice of hearing or referenced documents, his answer shall consist of a statement that he admits all of the allegations to be true. Such an answer shall constitute a waiver of hearing as to the facts alleged, and together with the notice and any referenced documents will provide a record basis on which the presiding officer shall file with the Secretary his recommended decision and his findings of fact and conclusions of law. Such admission shall not constitute a waiver of the right of such party to file with the Secretary exceptions to such recommended decision, findings and conclusions.

(d) Effect of failure to answer. Failure of a party to file an answer required by this section within the time provided shall constitute a waiver of his right to appear and contest the allegations of the notice of hearing and shall constitute authorization for the presiding officer, without further notice to the party, to find the facts to be as alleged in the notice and to file with the Secretary a recommended decision containing such findings and appropriate conclusions. The Board or the presiding officer may, for cause shown, permit the filing of an answer after the prescribed time.

(e) Opportunity for informal settlement. Any interested party may at any time submit to the Secretary, for consideration by the Board, written offers or proposals for settlement of a proceeding, without prejudice to the rights of the parties. No offer or proposal shall be admissible in evidence over the objection of any party in any hearing in connection with such proceeding. The foregoing provisions of this paragraph shall not preclude settlement of any proceeding through the regular adjudicatory process by the filing of an answer as provided in paragraph (c) of this section, or by the submission of the case to the presiding officer on a stipulation of facts and an agreed order.

§ 263.6 Conduct of hearings.

(a) Designation of presiding officer. When evidence is to be taken in a hearing, either the Board or, when duly designated for that purpose, one or more of its members, a hearing examiner, or other lawfully appointed hearing officer may preside at the hearing. All such hearings, unless otherwise provided in the notice of hearing, shall be conducted as hereinafter provided. Except as authorized by law, the presiding officer shall not consult any person or party on any fact in issue unless upon notice and opportunity for all parties to participate, nor shall he be responsible to or subject to the supervision or direction of any officer, employee, or agent of the Board engaged in the performance of investigative or prosecutive functions. A designated presiding officer may at any time withdraw if he deems himself disqualified; and, upon filing of a timely and sufficient affidavit of personal bias or disqualification of such presiding officer, the Board will determine the matter as a part of the record and decision in the case.

(b) Authority of presiding officer. All hearings governed by this part shall be conducted in accordance with the provisions of chapter 5 of title 5 of the United States Code. The presiding officer shall have complete charge of the hearing, and he shall have the duty to conduct it in a fair and impartial manner and to take all necessary action to avoid delay in the disposition of proceedings. Such officer shall have all powers necessary to that end, including but not limited to the following:

(1) To administer oaths and affirmations;

(2) To issue subpenas and subpenas duces tecum, as authorized by law, and to revoke, quash, or modify any such subpena;

(3) To receive relevant evidence and to rule upon the admission of evidence and offers of proof;

(4) To take or cause depositions to be taken;

(5) To regulate the course of the hearing and the conduct of the parties and their counsel;

(6) To hold conferences for the settlement or simplification of issues or for any other proper purpose; and

(7) To consider and rule upon, as justice may require, all procedural and other motions appropriate in an adversary proceeding, except that a presiding officer other than the Board shall not have power to decide any motion to dismiss the proceedings or other motion which would result in final determination of the merits of the proceedings.

Without limitation on the foregoing, the presiding officer shall, subject to the provisions of this part, have all the authority set forth in section 556(c) of title 5 of the United States Code.

(c) Prehearing conference. The presiding officer may, on his own initiative or at the request of Board counsel or of any party, direct all parties or counsel to meet with him at a specified time and place prior to the hearing, or to submit suggestions to him in writing, for the purpose of considering any or all of the following:

(1) Simplification and clarification of the issues;

(2) Stipulations and admissions of fact and of the contents and authenticity of documents;

(3) Matters of which official notice will be taken; and

(4) Such other matters as may aid in the orderly disposition of the proceeding, including disclosure of the names of witnesses and of documents or other physical exhibits which will be introduced in evidence in the course of the proceeding. Such conferences, in the discretion of the presiding officer, need not be recorded, but the presiding officer shall enter in the record an order which recites the results of the conference. Such order, a copy of which shall be served on each party and Board counsel, shall include the officer's rulings upon matters considered at the conference, together with appropriate directions, if any, to the parties and Board counsel; and such order shall control the subsequent course of the proceedings, unless modified at the hearing, for good cause found, by appropriate order of the presiding officer.

(d) Attendance at hearings; representation of the Board. Unless otherwise specifically provided by statute or by rule of the Board, a hearing shall ordinarily be private and shall be attended only by the parties, their representatives or counsel, representatives of the Board, witnesses while testifying, and other persons having an official interest in the proceedings: Provided, however, That on written request by a party or a representative of the Board, or on the Board's own motion, the Board, in its discretion and to the extent permitted by law, may permit other persons to attend or may order the hearing to be public. In connection with any such hearing or proceeding related thereto, the Board may designate as board counsel an attorney from its staff or other attorney who shall represent the Board. For the purposes of these Rules, any attorney so designated is referred to as "Board counsel." In case of adjudication other than initial licensing proceedings, neither Board counsel nor any officer or employee of the Board who has engaged in the performance of any investigative or prosecutive function in the case, or a factually related case, may participate in or advise as to the presiding officer's recommended decision or the Board's decision, except as witness or counsel in such hearing or related proceeding. Proceedings with respect to applications for initial licenses shall include, but not be limited to, applications for Board approval under section 3 of the Bank Holding Company Act of 1956 (12 U.S.C. 1842) and such proceedings as may be ordered by the Board with respect to applications under section 18(c) of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act (12 U.S.C. 1828(c)). In such initial licensing proceedings, Board counsel shall represent the Board in an nonadversary capacity for the purpose of developing for the record information relevant to the issues to be determined by the presiding officer and the Board.

(e) Transcript of testimony. Hearings shall be recorded and transcripts will be made available at prescribed rates to any party and, in the event the hearing is public, to any other interested persons. The presiding officer shall have authority to order the record corrected, either upon motion to correct, upon stipulation of the parties, or, following notice to the parties, upon the presiding officer's initiative. The transcript of testimony taken at any hearing, duly certified by the reporter, together with all exhibits, papers, and requests, briefs or memoranda of law filed in connection with the hearing shall be filed in duplicate with the Secretary by the presiding officer. The Secretary shall promptly serve notice upon each of the parties of such filing and transmittal. Following the service of notice of filing of the record, the record shall be returned to the presiding officer.

(f) Continuances and changes or extensions of time and changes of place of hearing. Except as otherwise expressly provided by law, the Board may by the notice of hearing or subsequent order provide time limits different from those specified in this part, and may, on its own initiative or for good cause shown, change or extend any time limit prescribed by these rules or the notice of hearing, or change the time or place for beginning any hearing hereunder. The presiding officer may, for good cause shown, and as permitted by law, change the time or place for beginning such hearing and may continue or adjourn a hearing from time to time or from place to place. Extensions of time for making any filing or performing any act required or allowed to be done within a specified time in the course of a hearing may be granted by the presiding officer for good cause shown.

(g) Call for further evidence, oral argument, briefs, reopening of hearing. The presiding officer may call for the production of further evidence upon any issue, may permit oral argument, the submission of briefs at the hearing and, upon appropriate notice, may reopen any hearing at any time prior to the certification of his recommended decision to the Secretary. The Board may reopen the record at any time permitted by law.

§ 263.7 Subpenas.

(a) Issuance. Where authorized by law, subpenas for the attendance of witnesses or for the production of documentary evidence, unless directed by the Board upon its own motion, will issue only upon application in writing to the presiding officer or, in the event he is unavailable, to the Board, except that during sessions of a hearing, such application may be made orally on the record before the presiding officer. The person seeking the subpena may be required, as a condition precedent to the issuance of the subpena, to show the general relevance and reasonable scope of the testimony or other evidence sought. In the event the presiding officer or the Board, after consideration of all the circumstances, determines that the requested subpena or any of its terms is unreasonable, oppressive, excessive in scope, unduly burdensome, or otherwise improper, he or it may refuse to issue the subpena, or issue it only upon such conditions as fairness requires.

(b) Motion to quash. Any person to whom a subpena is directed may, prior to the time specified therein for compliance, but in no event more than 5 days after the date of service of such subpena, with notice to the party requesting the subpena, apply to the presiding officer or, if he is unavailable, to the Board, to revoke, quash, or modify such subpena, accompanying such application with a statement of the reasons therefor.

(c) Service of subpena. In making service of a subpena, a copy thereof shall be exhibited to and left with the person named therein. If service is made by a U.S. marshal or his deputy, such service shall be evidenced by his return thereon. If made by any other person, such person shall make affidavit thereto, describing the manner in which service was made, and return such affidavit on or with the original subpena. In case of failure to make service, the reasons for the failure shall be stated on the original subpena. The original subpena, bearing or accompanied by the required return, affidavit or statement, shall be returned without delay to the Secretary or, if so directed on the subpena, to the presiding officer before whom the person named in the subpena is required to appear.

(d) Attendance of witnesses. The attendance of witnesses and the production of documents pursuant to a subpena, issued in connection with a hearing provided for in Subparts B and C of this part, may be required from any place in any State or in any territory at any designated place where the hearing is being conducted. Witnesses subpenaed in any proceeding under this part shall be paid the same fees and mileage that are paid witnesses in the district courts of the United States, except that when a subpena is issued upon the Board's own motion or at the request of Board counsel, fees and mileage need not be tendered at the time of service of the subpena. Fees required by this paragraph shall be paid by the person upon whose application the subpena is issued.

§ 263.8 Depositions.

(a) When permissible. The Board or presiding officer, upon its or his own motion or upon appropriate application by a party to the proceeding or Board counsel, may, by subpena or subpena duces tecum, order evidence to be taken by deposition at any stage of any proceeding in which such depositions are authorized. Depositions may be taken before the presiding officer or before any person designated in the subpena and having the power to administer oaths.

(b) Notice and application. Unless notice is waived, no deposition shall be taken except after at least 5 days' written notice to Board counsel and the parties to the proceeding or their attorneys of record and to the Board. In such notice and application to take evidence by deposition, the party desiring to take the deposition shall state the name and post office address of the witness, the subject matter concerning which the witness is expected to testify, its relevance, the time, place, and the name and post office address of the person before whom it is desired the deposition be taken, and the reason why such deposition should be taken. Thereupon, the presiding officer or the Board may, in his or its discretion, by subpena or subpena duces tecum, order the oral deposition to be taken. Such subpena will name the witness whose deposition is to be taken and specify the time when, the place where, and the person before whom the witness is to testify, but such time and place, and the person before whom the deposition is ordered to be taken, may or may not be the same as those named in the notice and application. Notice of the issuance of such subpena shall be served upon each of the parties a reasonable time in advance of the time fixed for the taking of the deposition, but in no event less than 5 days in advance of such time.

(c) Procedure on deposition; objections. Each witness testifying upon oral deposition shall be duly sworn, and Board counsel and any adverse party shall have the right to cross-examine. Objections to questions or documents shall be in short form, stating the grounds of objection relied upon; but the person recording the deposition shall not have power to rule upon questions of competency or materiality or relevancy of evidence. Failure to object to questions or evidence shall not be deemed a waiver unless the ground of the objection is one which might have been obviated or removed if presented at that time. The questions propounded and the answers thereto, together with all objections made (but not including argument or debate), shall be recorded by the officer before whom the deposition is to be taken, or under his direction. The deposition shall be subscribed by the witness, unless the parties by stipulation waive the signing or the witness is ill, cannot be found, or refuses to sign, and certified as a true and complete transcript thereof by the person recording the testimony. If the deposition is not subscribed to by the witness, the person recording the testimony shall state on the record this fact and the reason therefor. The officer before whom the deposition is taken shall promptly send the original and two copies of such deposition, together with the original and two copies of all exhibits, by registered mail to the Secretary unless otherwise directed in the order authorizing the taking of the deposition or in the notice of the issuance thereof. Interested parties shall make their own arrangements with the person recording the testimony for copies of the testimony and the exhibits.

(d) Introduction as evidence. Subject to appropriate rulings by the presiding officer on such objections and answers as were noted at the time the deposition was taken or as would be valid were the witness personally present and testifying, the deposition or any part thereof may be received in evidence by the presiding officer. Only such part of a deposition as is received in evidence at a hearing shall constitute a part of the record in such proceeding upon which a decision may be based.

(e) Payment of fees. Deponents whose oral depositions are taken and the reporter taking the same shall be entitled to the same fees as are paid for like services in the courts of the United States, which fees shall be paid by the person upon whose application the deposition is taken.

§ 263.9 Rules of evidence.

(a) Evidence. Every party shall have the right to present his case or defense by oral and documentary evidence, to submit rebuttal evidence and to conduct such cross-examination as may be required for a full and true disclosure of the facts. Irrelevant, immaterial, or unduly repetitious evidence shall be excluded.

(b) Objections. Objections to the admission or exclusion of evidence shall be in short form, stating the grounds of objections relied upon, and the transcript shall not include argument except as ordered by the presiding officer. Rulings on such objections and on any other matters shall be a part of the transcript. Failure to object to admission or exclusion of evidence or to any ruling shall be considered a waiver of such objection, but no exception to a ruling on an objection need be noted before the presiding officer in order to urge the same in the consideration of the matter by the Board.

(c) Stipulations. Independently of the orders or rulings issued as provided by § 263.6(c), the parties and Board counsel may stipulate as to any relevant matters of fact or the authenticity of any relevant documents. Such stipulations may be received in evidence at a hearing, and when so received shall be binding on the parties and Board counsel with respect to the matters therein stipulated.

(d) Official notice. All matters officially noticed by the presiding officer shall appear on the record.

§ 263.10 Motions.

(a) In writing. An application or request for an order or ruling not otherwise specifically provided for in this part shall be made by motion. After a presiding officer has been designated and before the filing with the Secretary of his recommended decision, pursuant to § 263.11, such applications or requests shall be addressed to and filed with him. At all other times motions shall be addressed to the Board and filed with the Secretary. Motions shall be in writing, except that a motion made at a session of a hearing may be made orally upon the record unless the presiding officer directs that it be reduced to writing. All written motions shall state with particularity the order or relief sought and the grounds therefor. When a motion is addressed to the presiding officer, an original and two copies of such motion shall be filed.

(b) Objections. Within 5 days after service of any written motion, or within such other period as may be fixed by the presiding officer or the Board, any party may file a written answer or objection to such motion, together with two copies thereof. The moving party shall have no right to reply, except as permitted by the presiding officer or the Board. The presiding officer or the Board, in his or its discretion, may waive the requirements of this section as to motions for extensions of time, and may rule upon such motions ex parte.

(c) Oral argument; briefs. No oral argument will be heard on motions except as otherwise directed by the presiding officer or the Board. Written memoranda or briefs may be filed with motions or answers or objections, stating the points and authorities relied upon in support of the position taken.

(d) Rulings on motions. Except as otherwise provided in this part, the presiding officer shall rule upon all motions properly addressed to him and upon such other motions as the Board may direct, except that if the presiding officer finds that a prompt decision by the Board on a motion is essential to the proper conduct of the proceeding, he may refer such motion to the Board for decision. The Board shall rule upon all motions properly submitted to it for decision.

(e) Appeal from rulings on motions. All motions and answers or objections and rulings thereon shall become part of the record. The rulings of a presiding officer on any motion may not be appealed to the Board prior to its consideration of the presiding officer's recommended decision, findings, and conclusions except by special permission of the Board, but shall be considered by the Board in reviewing the record. Requests to the Board for special permission to appeal from such rulings of the presiding officer shall be filed promptly, in writing, and shall briefly state the grounds relied on.

(f) Continuation of hearing. Unless otherwise ordered by the presiding officer or the Board, the hearing shall continue pending the determination of any motion by the Board.

(g) Closing of hearing. The record of the hearing shall be closed by announcement to that effect by the presiding officer when the taking of evidence has been concluded. In the discretion of the presiding officer, the record may be closed as of a future date in order to permit the admission into the record, under circumstances determined by the presiding officer, of exhibits to be prepared.

§ 263.11 Proposed findings and conclusions and recommended decision.

(a) Proposed findings and conclusions and supporting briefs. Board counsel or any party who may wish to file with the presiding officer proposed findings and conclusions of law shall file the same, with two copies thereof, within 15 days after the receipt of written notice from the Secretary advising that the transcript has been filed with the Secretary. Proposed findings and conclusions shall be supported by citation to any relevant authorities and by page references to any relevant portions of the record and, in addition, may be accompanied by a brief in support thereof. In initial licensing proceedings, in lieu of proposed findings and conclusions of law, and within such time as the presiding officer may allow, Board counsel may submit comments with respect to the evidence of record and/or proposed findings and conclusions of law submitted by any party. All such proposed findings and conclusions of law, briefs, and other submissions shall become part of the record.

(b) Recommended decision and filing of record. In a proceeding in which the Board or one or more of its members has not presided at the reception of evidence, the presiding officer shall, within 45 days after the expiration of the time allowed for the filing of proposed findings and conclusions, or within such other time as the Board for good cause shall prescribe, file with the Secretary and certify to the Board for decision the entire record of the hearing, which shall include his recommended decision and findings of fact and conclusions of law, the transcript, exhibits (including on request of any of the parties any exhibits excluded from evidence or tenders of proof), exceptions, rulings, and all briefs and memoranda filed in connection with the hearing. Promptly upon such filing the Secretary shall serve upon each party to the proceeding a copy of the presiding officer's recommended decision, and findings and conclusions.

(c) Board as presiding officer. In proceedings in which the Board or one or more of its members has presided at the reception of evidence, the presiding officer's recommended decision, findings of fact, and conclusions of law will be omitted. In such proceedings the proposed findings and conclusions of law, briefs, and other submissions permitted under paragraph (a) of this section shall be filed with the Secretary for consideration by the Board.

§ 263.12 Exceptions.

(a) Filing. Within 15 days after service of the recommended decision and findings and conclusions of the presiding officer, or such further time as the Board for good cause shall determine, any party or Board counsel may file with the Secretary exceptions thereto or to any part thereof, or to the failure of the presiding officer to make any recommendation, finding, or conclusion, or to the admission or exclusion of evidence, or other ruling of the presiding officer, supported by such brief as may appear advisable. In any proceeding where the Board or one or more of its members is the presiding officer, the provisions of this section will not be applicable.

(b) Waiver. Failure to file exceptions to the recommended decision of the presiding officer or any portion thereof, or to his failure to adopt a proposed finding or conclusion, or the admission or exclusion of evidence or other ruling of the presiding officer, within the time prescribed in paragraph (a) of this section, shall be deemed to be a waiver of objection.

§ 263.13 Briefs.

(a) Contents. All briefs shall be confined to the particular matters in issue. Each proposed finding, conclusion, or exception which is briefed shall be supported by a concise supporting statement or by citation of relevant statutes, regulations, decisions, or other authorities and by page reference of relevant portions of the record or recommended decision of the presiding officer. If the exception relates to the admission or exclusion of evidence, the substance of the evidence admitted or excluded shall be set forth in the brief with appropriate page references to the transcript.

(b) Answering briefs. Answering briefs may be filed within 10 days after service of briefs and shall be confined to matters in the original briefs of opposing parties. Further briefs may be filed with the presiding officer only with his permission or that of the Board, and may be filed with the Board only with its permission.

§ 263.14 Oral argument before the Board.

Upon its own initiative, or upon written request by any party or Board counsel, the Board, in its discretion, may order the matter to be set down for oral argument before the Board or one or more members thereof. Any request for oral argument by a party filing exceptions shall be made within the time prescribed for filing such exceptions, or by any other party, within the time prescribed for the filing of an answering brief. Oral argument before the Board shall be recorded unless otherwise ordered by the Board.

§ 263.15 Decision of Board.

Appropriate members of the Board's staff who are not engaged in the performance of investigative or prosecuting functions in the case, or in a factually related case, may advise and assist the Board in the consideration of the case and in the preparation of appropriate documents for its disposition. Copies of the decision and order of the Board shall be served by the Secretary upon the parties to the proceedings and furnished to such other persons as the Board may direct or the law may require.

§ 263.16 Filing papers.

Recommended decisions, exceptions, briefs and other papers required to be filed with the Board or Secretary in any proceedings shall be filed with the Secretary, Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, Washington, D.C. 20551. Any such papers may be sent to the Secretary by mail or express but must be received in the office of the Board in Washington, D.C., within the time limit for such filing.

§ 263.17 Service.

(a) By the Board. All documents or papers required to be served by the Board shall be served by the Secretary unless some other person shall be designated for such purpose by the Board. Such service, except for service on Board counsel, shall be made by personal service or by registered mail on the attorney or representative of record of the party, addressed to the last known address as shown on the records of the Board, provided that if there is no attorney or representative of record, such service shall be made upon such party at the last known address as shown on the records of the Board. Such service may also be made in such other manner reasonably calculated to give actual notice as the Board may by regulation or otherwise provide.

(b) By the parties. All documents or papers filed in a proceeding under this part shall be served by the party filing the same upon Board counsel and the attorneys or representatives of record of all other parties, or, if any party is not so represented, then upon such party. Such service may be made by personal service or by registered, certified, or regular first-class mail addressed to the last known address of such parties, or their attorneys or representatives of record. All such documents or papers, when tendered to the Board or the presiding officer for filing, shall contain a certificate of service.

§ 263.18 Copies.

Unless otherwise specifically provided in the notice of hearing, an original and seven copies of all documents and papers required or permitted to be filed or served upon the Secretary under this part shall be furnished to the Secretary, except that an original and only one copy of the transcript of testimony and exhibits shall be filed with the Secretary by the presiding officer. All documents and papers filed with the presiding officer shall be filed in duplicate.

§ 263.19 Computing time.

(a) General rule. In computing any period of time prescribed or allowed by this part, the date of the act, event or default from which the designated period of time begins to run is not to be included. The last day so computed is to be included, unless it is a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday in the District of Columbia, in which event the period shall run until the end of the next day which is neither a Saturday, Sunday, nor legal holiday. Intermediate Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays shall be included in the computation unless the time within which the act is to be performed is 10 days or less, in which event Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays shall not be included. Half holidays shall not be considered as holidays.

(b) Service by mail. Whenever any party has the right or is required to do some act within a period of time prescribed in this part, after the service upon him of any document or other paper of any kind, and such service is made by mail, 3 days shall be added to the prescribed period from the date when the matter served is deposited in the U.S. mail.

§ 263.20 Documents in proceedings confidential.

Unless and until otherwise ordered by the Board or unless otherwise provided by statute or by Board regulation, the notice of hearing, the transcript, the proposed findings and conclusions, the recommended decision of the presiding officer, exceptions thereto, the findings and conclusions of the Board and other papers which are filed in connection with any hearing shall not be made public, and shall be for the confidential use only of the Board and its staff, the presiding officer, the parties and, where appropriate, other supervising authorities.

§ 263.21 Formal requirements as to papers filed.

(a) Form. All papers filed under this subpart shall be printed, typewritten, or otherwise reproduced. All copies shall be clear and legible.

(b) Signature. All papers shall be dated and signed by the party filing the same, or his duly authorized agent or attorney, or Board counsel, and, except in the case of Board counsel, shall indicate the address of the signer.

(c) Caption. All papers filed must include at the head thereof, or on a title page, the name of the Board and of the filing party, the title of the proceeding, and the subject of the particular paper.

Subpart B—Rules and Procedures Applicable to Proceedings Relating to Cease-and-Desist Orders

AUTHORITY: The provisions of this Subpart B issued under sec. 202(n), 80 Stat. 1052; 12 U.S.C. 1818(n).

§ 263.22 Scope.

The rules and procedures set forth in this subpart are applicable to proceedings by the Board with a view to ordering a State member bank (other than a District bank) to cease and desist from practices and violations described in section 8 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act (12 U.S.C. 1818) and enumerated in § 263.23. The procedures for issuing such orders prescribed in section 8 of said Act will be followed and hearings required thereunder will be conducted in accordance with the rules and procedures set forth in this subpart and Subpart A of this part. In connection with any proceeding under this subpart, the Board will provide the appropriate State supervisory authority with timely notice of intent to institute such a proceeding and the grounds therefor. Unless within such time as the Board deems appropriate in the circumstances of the case (which time will be specified in the notice) satisfactory corrective action is affectuated by action of the State supervisory authority, the Board will proceed as provided herein. Copies of any notice or order served upon any State bank in connection with such proceedings will also be sent to the appropriate State supervisory authority.

§ 263.23 Grounds for cease-and-desist orders.

If, in the opinion of the Board, any State member bank (other than a District bank) is engaging or has engaged or the Board has reasonable cause to believe that the bank is about to engage, in an unsafe or unsound practice in conducting the business of such bank, or is violating or has violated, or the Board has reasonable cause to believe that the bank is about to violate, a law, rule, or regulation, or any condition imposed in writing by the Board in connection with the granting of an application or other request by the bank, or any written agreement entered into with the Board, the Board may issue and serve upon the bank a notice of charges in respect thereof.

§ 263.24 Notice of charges and hearing.

The notice referred to in § 263.23 will contain a statement of the facts constituting the alleged violation or violations or the unsafe or unsound practice or practices, and fix a time and place at which a hearing will be held to determine whether an order to cease and desist therefrom should issue against the bank. The hearing will be fixed for a date not earlier than 30 days nor later than 60 days after service of such notice unless an earlier or a later date is set by the Board at the request of the bank, and shall be held in the Federal judicial district or in the territory in which the home office of the bank is located, unless the bank consents to another place. Unless the bank appears at the hearing by a duly authorized representative, it will be deemed to have consented to the issuance of the cease-and-desist order.

§ 263.25 Issuance of order.

In the event of such consent, or if upon the record made at any such hearing, the Board finds that any violation or unsafe or unsound practice specified in the notice of charges has been established, the Board may issue and serve upon the bank an order to cease and desist from any such violation or practice. Such order may, by provisions which may be mandatory or otherwise, require the bank and its directors, officers, employees, and agents to cease and desist from the same and, further, to take affirmative action to correct the conditions resulting from any such violation or practice.

§ 263.26 Effective date.

A cease-and-desist order will become effective at the expiration of 30 days after the service of such order upon the bank concerned (except in the case of a cease-and-desist order issued upon consent, which will become effective at the time specified therein), and will remain effective and enforceable as provided therein, except to such extent as it is stayed, modified, terminated, or set aside by action of the Board or a reviewing court.

§ 263.27 Temporary cease-and-desist orders.

Whenever the Board determines that the violation or threatened violation or the unsafe or unsound practice or practices, specified in the notice of charges referred to in § 263.23, or the continuation thereof, is likely to cause insolvency or substantial dissipation of assets or of earnings of the bank, or is likely to otherwise seriously prejudice the interests of its depositors, the Board may issue a temporary order requiring the bank to cease and desist from any such violation or practice.

§ 263.28 Effective date of temporary order.

Such order will become effective upon service upon the bank, and, unless set aside, limited, or suspended by a court in proceedings authorized under section 8(h)(2) of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act, will remain effective and enforceable pending the completion of the administrative proceedings held pursuant to such notice and until such time as the Board dismisses the charges specified in such notice, or if a cease-and-desist order is issued against the bank pursuant to § 263.25, until the effective date of any such order.

Subpart C—Rules and Procedures Applicable to Proceedings Relating to Removal and Suspension Orders

AUTHORITY: The provisions of this Subpart C issued under sec. 202(n), 80 Stat. 1052; 12 U.S.C. 1818(n).

§ 263.29 Scope.

The rules and procedures set forth in this subpart are applicable to proceedings by the Board to remove or suspend a director, officer, or any other person participating in the conduct of the affairs of a State member bank (other than a District bank) or of a national banking association or a District bank where the facts are certified to the Board pursuant to 12 U.S.C. 1818(e)(2), 12 U.S.C. 1818(e)(4), or 12 U.S.C. 1818(e)(6), and/or prohibit such director, officer, or other person from further participation in the conduct of the affairs of such a bank, upon the grounds set forth in section 8 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act (12 U.S.C. 1818) and enumerated in this subpart. The procedures for issuing such orders prescribed in section 8 of said Act will be followed and hearings required thereunder will be conducted in accordance with the rules and procedures set forth in this subpart and Subpart A of this part. In connection with any proceeding under this subpart relating to a director, officer, or other person participating in the affairs of a State member bank (other than a District bank), the Board will provide the appropriate State supervisory authority with timely notice of intent to institute such a proceeding and the grounds therefor. Unless within such time as the Board deems appropriate in the circumstances of the case (which time will be specified in the notice) satisfactory corrective action is effectuated by action of the State supervisory authority, the Board will proceed as provided herein. Copies of any notice or order served upon any State bank in connection with such proceedings will also be sent to the appropriate State supervisory authority. In connection with any proceeding under this subpart relating to a director, officer, or other person participating in the affairs of a national banking association or a District bank where the facts are certified to the Board pursuant to 12 U.S.C. 1818(e)(2), 12 U.S.C. 1818(e)(4), or 12 U.S.C. 1818(e)(6), the Comptroller of the Currency shall be entitled to sit as a member of the Board and to participate in its deliberations on any such case and to vote thereon in all respects as a member of the Board.

§ 263.30 Grounds for removal order.

(a) Whenever, in the opinion of the Board, any director or officer of a State member bank (other than a District bank) or of a national banking association or a District bank where the facts are certified to the Board pursuant to 12 U.S.C. 1818(e)(2) has committed any violation of law, rule, or regulation, or of a cease-and-desist order which has become final, or has engaged or participated in any unsafe or unsound practice in connection with the bank, or has committed or engaged in any act, omission, or practice which constitutes a breach of his fiduciary duty as such director or officer, and the Board determines that the bank has suffered or will probably suffer substantial financial loss or other damage or that the interests of its depositors could be seriously prejudiced by reason of such violation or practice or breach of fiduciary duty, and that such violation or practice or breach of fiduciary duty is one involving personal dishonesty on the part of such director or officer, the Board may serve upon such director or officer a written notice of its intention to remove him from office.

(b) Whenever, in the opinion of the Board, any director or officer of a State member bank (other than a District bank) or of a national banking association or a District bank where the facts are certified to the Board pursuant to 12 U.S.C. 1818(e)(4), by conduct or practice with respect to another insured bank or other business institution which resulted in substantial financial loss or other damage, has evidenced his personal dishonesty and unfitness to continue as a director or officer, and whenever, in the opinion of the Board, any other person participating in the conduct of the affairs of such bank, by conduct or practice with respect to such bank or other insured bank or other business institution which resulted in substantial financial loss or other damage, has evidenced his personal dishonesty and unfitness to participate in the conduct of the affairs of such bank, the Board may serve upon such director, officer, or other person a written notice of its intention to remove him from office and/or to prohibit his further praticipation in any manner in the conduct of the affairs of the bank.

§ 263.31 Grounds for suspension order.

In respect to any director or officer of a State member bank (other than a District bank) or any other person referred to in § 263.30 (a) and (b) and in respect to any such director or officer of, or other person participating in the conduct of the affairs of, a national banking association or a District bank where the facts are certified to the Board pursuant to 12 U.S.C. 1818(e)(6), the Board may, if it deems it necessary for the protection of the bank or the interests of its depositors, by written notice to such effect served upon such director, officer, or other person, suspend him from office and/or prohibit him from further participation in any manner in the conduct of the affairs of the bank.

§ 263.32 Effective date of suspension order.

Any suspension and/or prohibition which is subject to the notice prescribed in § 263.31 shall become effective upon service of such notice and, unless stayed by a court in proceedings authorized by section 8(f) of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act, shall remain in effect pending the completion of the administrative proceedings held pursuant to the notice served under § 263.30 (a) and (b) and until such time as the Board shall dismiss the charges specified in such notice, or, if an order of removal and/or prohibition is issued against the director or officer or other person, until the effective date of any such order. Copies of any such notice will also be served upon the bank of which he is a director or officer or in the conduct of whose affairs he has participated.

§ 263.33 Notice of intention to remove and hearing.

A notice of intention to remove a director, officer, or other person from office and/or to prohibit his participation in the conduct of the affairs of an insured bank will contain a statement of the facts constituting grounds therefor and will fix a time and place at which a hearing will be held thereon. Such hearing will be fixed for a date not earlier than 30 days nor later than 60 days after the date of service of such notice, unless an earlier or a later date is set by the Board at the request of (a) such director or officer or other person, and for good cause shown, or (b) the Attorney General of the United States. Such hearing shall be held in the Federal judicial district or in the territory in which the home office of the bank involved is located, unless the person afforded the hearing consents to another place. Unless such director, officer, or other person appears at the hearing in person or by a duly authorized representative, he shall be deemed to have consented to the issuance of an order of such removal and/or prohibition.

§ 263.34 Issuance of removal order and effective date.

In the event of such consent, or if upon the record made at any such hearing the Board finds that any of the grounds specified in such notice has been established, the Board may issue such orders of suspension or removal from office, and/or prohibition from participation in the conduct of the affairs of the bank, as it may deem appropriate. Any such order shall become effective at the expiration of 30 days after service upon such bank and the director, officer, or other person concerned (except in the case of an order issued upon consent, which shall become effective at the time specified therein). Such order shall remain effective and enforceable except to such extent as it is stayed, modified, terminated, or set aside by action of the Board or a reviewing court.

§ 263.35 Suspension and removal where felony charged.

(a) Whenever any director or officer of an insured State member bank (other than a District bank), or other person participating in the conduct of the affairs of such bank, is charged in any information, indictment, or complaint authorized by a U.S. attorney, with the commission of or participation in a felony involving dishonesty or breach of trust, the Board may, by written notice served upon such director, officer, or other person, suspend him from office and/or prohibit him from further participation in any manner in the conduct of the affairs of the bank. A copy of such notice will also be served upon the bank. Such suspension and/or prohibition shall remain in effect until such information, indictment, or complaint is finally disposed of or until such suspension and/or prohibition is terminated by the Board.

(b) In the event that a judgment of conviction with respect to such offense is entered against such director, officer, or other person, at such time as such judgment is not subject to further appellate review, the Board may issue and serve upon such director, officer, or other person an order removing him from office and/or prohibiting him from further participation in any manner in the conduct of the affairs of the bank except with the consent of the Board. A copy of such order will also be served upon such bank, whereupon such director or officer shall cease to be a director or officer of such bank. A finding of not guilty or other disposition of the charge will not preclude the Board from thereafter instituting proceedings to remove such director, officer, or other person from office and/or to prohibit further participation in bank affairs, pursuant to other provisions of this subpart.

2. The provision of section 553 of title 5, United States Code, relating to deferred effective date, is not followed in connection with the adoption of this action because the rules involved are procedural in nature and accordingly do not constitute substantive rules subject to the requirements of such section.

Dated at Washington, D.C. the 14th day of July 1967.

By order of the Board of Governors.

[SEAL] MERRITT SHERMAN, Secretary.

Subpart A—Rules of Practice Applicable to All Hearings

§ 308.1 Scope.

(a) This subpart prescribes rules of practice and procedure followed by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation in hearings held pursuant to the provisions of section 8 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act pertaining to (1) involuntary termination of the insured status of any bank, (2) the issuance of cease-and-desist orders against any insured State nonmember bank, and (3) the issuance of orders removing or suspending from office and/or prohibiting from further participation in the conduct of the bank's affairs, any director or officer of an insured State nonmember bank or any other person participating in the conduct of the affairs of such a bank.

(b) In connection with any proceeding under Subpart C or D of this part, the Corporation will provide the appropriate State supervisory authority with timely notice of its intent to institute such a proceeding and the grounds therefor. Unless within such time as the Corporation deems appropriate in the light of the circumstances of the case (which time will be specified in the notice) satisfactory corrective action is effectuated by action of the State supervisory authority, the Corporation will proceed as provided in Subparts C and D of this part.

§ 308.2 Appearance and practice before the Corporation.

(a) Power of attorney and notice of appearance. Any person who is a member in good standing of the bar of the highest court of any State, possession, territory, Commonwealth, or the District of Columbia, may represent others before the Corporation upon filing with the Secretary a written declaration that he is currently qualified as provided by this paragraph, and is authorized to represent the particular party on whose behalf he acts. Any other person desiring to appear before or transact business with the Corporation in a representative capacity may be required to file with the Secretary of the Corporation a power of attorney showing his authority to act in such capacity, and he may be required to show to the satisfaction of the Board of Directors that he has the requisite qualifications. Attorneys and representatives of parties to proceedings shall file a written notice of appearance with the Secretary or with the trial examiner.

(b) Summary suspension. Contemptuous conduct at an argument before the Board of Directors or at a hearing before a trial examiner shall be ground for exclusion therefrom and suspension for the duration of the argument or hearing.

§ 308.3 Notice of hearing.

Whenever a hearing is ordered by the Board of Directors in any proceeding pursuant to section 8 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act, a notice of hearing shall be given by the Secretary or other designated officer acting for the Board of Directors to the party afforded the hearing and to the appropriate supervisory authority. Such notice shall state the time, place, and nature of the hearing, the trial examiner, and the legal authority and jurisdiction under which the hearing is to be held, and shall contain a statement of the matters of fact or law constituting the grounds for the hearing, and shall be delivered by personal service, by registered or certified mail to the last known address, or other appropriate means, sufficiently in advance of the date set for hearing to comply with the provisions of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act. The term "party" means a person or agency named or admitted as a party, or any person or agency who has filed a written request and is entitled as of right to be admitted as a party; but a person or agency may be admitted for a limited purpose.

§ 308.4 Answer.

(a) When required. In any notice of hearing issued by the Board of Directors, the Board of Directors may direct the party or parties afforded the hearing to file an answer to the allegations contained in the notice, and any party to any proceeding may file an answer. Except where a different period of not less than 10 days after service of a notice of hearing is specified by the Board of Directors, a party directed to file an answer, or a party who elects to file an answer, shall file the same with the Secretary within 20 days after service upon him of the notice of hearing.

(b) Requirements of answer; effect of failure to deny. An answer filed under this section shall specifically admit, deny, or state that the party does not have sufficient information to admit or deny each allegation in the notice of hearing. A statement of lack of information shall have the effect of a denial. Any allegation not denied shall be deemed to be admitted. When a party intends to deny only a part or a qualification of an allegation, he shall specify so much of it as is true and shall deny only the remainder.

(c) Admitted allegations. If a party filing an answer under this section elects not to contest any of the allegations of fact set forth in the notice of hearing, his answer shall consist of a statement that he admits all of the allegations to be true. Such an answer shall constitute a waiver of hearing as to the facts alleged in the notice, and together with the notice will provide a record basis on which the trial examiner shall file with the Secretary his recommended decision containing his findings of fact, conclusions of law and proposed order. Any such party may, however, upon service of the recommended decision, findings, conclusions and proposed order of the trial examiner, file exceptions thereto within the time provided in § 308.10(a).

(d) Effect of failure to answer. Failure of a party to file an answer required by this section within the time provided shall be deemed to constitute a waiver of his right to appear and contest the allegations of the notice of hearing and to authorize the trial examiner, without further notice to the party, to find the facts to be as alleged in the notice and to file with the Secretary a recommended decision containing such findings and appropriate conclusions. The Board of Directors or the trial examiner may, for cause shown, permit the filing of a delayed answer after the time for filing the answer has expired.

(e) Opportunity for informal settlement. Any interested party may at any time submit to the Secretary, for consideration by the Board of Directors, written offers or proposals for settlement of a proceeding, without prejudice to the rights of the parties. No such offer or proposal, or counteroffer or proposal, shall be admissible in evidence over the objection of any party in any hearing in connection with such proceeding. The foregoing provisions of this section shall not preclude settlement of any proceeding through the regular adjudicatory process by the filing of an answer as provided in this section, or by submission of the case to the trial examiner on a stipulation of facts and an agreed order.

§ 308.5 Conduct of hearings.

(a) Selection of trial examiner. Any hearing shall be held before a trial examiner selected by the Civil Service Commission and designated by the Board of Directors and, unless otherwise provided in the notice of hearing, shall be conducted as hereinafter provided.

(b) Authority of trial examiner. All hearings governed by this part shall be conducted in accordance with the provisions of chapter 5 of title 5 of the United States Code. The trial examiner designated by the Board of Directors to preside at any such hearing shall have complete charge of the hearing, and he shall have the duty to conduct it in a fair and impartial manner and to take all necessary action to avoid delay in the disposition of proceedings. Such examiner shall have all powers necessary to that end, including the following:

(1) To administer oaths and affirmations;

(2) To issue subpenas and subpenas duces tecum, as authorized by law, and to revoke, quash, or modify any such subpena;

(3) To receive relevant evidence and to rule upon the admission of evidence and offers of proof;

(4) To take or cause depositions to be taken;

(5) To regulate the course of the hearing and the conduct of the parties and their counsel;

(6) To hold conferences for the settlement or simplification of issues or for any other proper purpose; and

(7) To consider and rule upon, as justice may require, all procedural and other motions appropriate in an adversary proceeding, except that a trial examiner shall not have power to decide any motion to dismiss the proceedings or other motion which results in final determination of the merits of the proceedings.

Without limitation on the foregoing provisions of this paragraph, the trial examiner shall, subject to the provisions of this part, have all the authority of section 556(c) of title 5 of the United States Code.

(c) Prehearing conference. The trial examiner may, on his own initiative or at the request of any party, direct counsel for all parties to meet with him at a specified time and place prior to the hearing, or to submit suggestions to him in writing, for the purpose of considering any or all of the following:

(1) Simplification and clarification of the issues;

(2) Stipulations, admissions of fact and of the contents and authenticity of documents;

(3) Matters of which official notice will be taken; and

(4) Such other matters as may aid in the orderly disposition of the proceeding, including disclosure of the names of witnesses and of documents or other physical exhibits which will be introduced in evidence in the course of the proceeding.

Such conferences shall, at the request of any party, be recorded and at the conclusion thereof the trial examiner shall enter in the record an order which recites the results of the conference. Such order shall include the examiner's rulings upon matters considered at the conference, together with appropriate directions to the parties, if any; and such order shall control the subsequent course of the proceedings, unless modified at the hearing to prevent manifest injustice. Except as authorized by law, the trial examiner shall not consult any person or party on any fact in issue unless upon notice and opportunity for all parties to participate, nor be responsible to or subject to the supervision or direction of any officer, employee, or agent engaged in the performance of investigative or prosecuting functions. No officer, employee, or agent engaged in the performance of investigative or prosecuting functions in any case shall, in that case or a factually related case, participate or advise in the decision of the trial examiner except as a witness or counsel in the proceedings.

(d) Attendance at hearings. A hearing shall ordinarily be private and shall be attended only by the parties, their representatives or counsel, witnesses while testifying, and other persons having an official interest in the proceedings: Provided, however, That on written request by a party or representatives of the Board of Directors, or on the Board's own motion, the Board, in its discretion and to the extent permitted by law, may permit other persons to attend or may order the hearing to be public.

(e) Transcript of testimony. Hearings shall be recorded and transcripts will be made available to any party upon payment of the cost thereof and, in the event the hearing is public, shall be furnished on similar payment to other interested persons. A copy of the transcript of the testimony taken at any hearing, duly certified by the reporter, together with all exhibits, all papers and requests filed in the proceeding, and any briefs or memoranda of law theretofore filed in the proceeding, shall be filed with the Secretary of the Corporation, who shall transmit the same to the trial examiner. The Secretary shall promptly serve notice upon each of the parties of such filing and transmittal. The trial examiner shall have authority to rule upon motions to correct the record.

(f) Order of procedure. The counsel for the Corporation shall open and close.

(g) Continuances and changes or extensions of time and changes of place of hearing. Except as otherwise expressly provided by law, the Board of Directors may by the notice of hearing or subsequent order provide time limits different from those specified in this part, and the Board of Directors may, on its own initiative or for good cause shown, change or extend any time limit prescribed by these rules or the notice of hearing, or change the time and place for beginning any hearing hereunder. The trial examiner may continue or adjourn a hearing from time to time and, as permitted by law or agreed to by the parties, from place to place. Extensions of time for making any filing or performing any act required or allowed to be done within a specified time in the course of a proceeding may be granted by the trial examiner for good cause shown.

(h) Call for further evidence, oral argument, briefs, reopening of hearing. The trial examiner may call for the production of further evidence upon any issue, may permit oral argument and submission of briefs at the hearing and, upon appropriate notice, may reopen any hearing at any time prior to the certification of his recommended decision to the Secretary. The Board of Directors shall render its decision within 90 days after the Secretary has notified the parties, pursuant to § 308.13, that the case has been submitted to the Board of Directors for final decision, unless within such 90-day period the Board of Directors shall order that such notice be set aside and the case reopened for further proceedings.

§ 308.6 Subpenas.

(a) Issuance. The trial examiner, or in the event he is unavailable, the Board of Directors, shall issue subpenas at the request of any party, requiring the attendance of witnesses or the production of documentary evidence at any designated place of hearing; except that where it appears to the trial examiner or the Board of Directors that the subpena may be unreasonable, oppressive, excessive in scope, or unduly burdensome, the party seeking the subpena may be required, as a condition precedent to the issuance of the subpena, to show the general relevance and reasonable scope of the testimony or other evidence sought. In the event the trial examiner or the Board of Directors, after consideration of all the circumstances, determines that the subpena or any of its terms are unreasonable, oppressive, excessive in scope, or unduly burdensome, he or it may refuse to issue the subpena, or issue it only upon such conditions as fairness requires.

(b) Motion to quash. Any person to whom a subpena is directed may, prior to the time specified therein for compliance but in no event more than five days after the date of service of such subpena, with notice to the party requesting the subpena, apply to the trial examiner, or, if he is unavailable, to the Board of Directors, to revoke, quash, or modify such subpena, accompanying such application with a statement of the reasons therefor.

(c) Service of subpena. Service of a subpena upon a person named therein shall be made by delivering a copy of the subpena to such person and by tendering the fees for 1 day's attendance and the mileage as specified in paragraph (d) of this section, except that when a subpena is issued at the instance of the Board of Directors fees and mileage need not be tendered at the time of service of the subpena. If service is made by a U.S. marshal, or his deputy, or an employee of the Corporation, such service shall be evidenced by his return thereon. If made by any other person, such person shall make affidavit thereto, describing the manner in which service is made, and return such affidavit on or with the original subpena. In case of failure to make service, reasons for the failure shall be stated on the original subpena. The original subpena, bearing or accompanied by the required return, affidavit or statement, shall be returned without delay to the trial examiner.

(d) Attendance of witnesses. The attendance of witnesses and the production of documents pursuant to a subpena, issued in connection with a hearing provided for in Subpart B, C, or D of this part, may be required from any place in any State or in any territory at any designated place where the hearing is being conducted. Witnesses subpenaed in any proceeding under this part shall be paid the same fees and mileage that are paid witnesses in the district courts of the United States.

(e) Depositions. The Board of Directors or trial examiner, by subpena or subpena duces tecum, may order evidence to be taken by deposition in any proceeding at any stage thereof. Such depositions may be taken by the trial examiner or before any person designated by the Board of Directors or trial examiner and having power to administer oaths. Unless notice is waived, no deposition shall be taken except after at least 5 days' notice to the parties to the proceeding.

(f) Application and order to take oral deposition. Any party desiring to take the oral deposition of a witness, in connection with any hearing provided for in this part, shall make application in writing to the trial examiner or, in the event he is unavailable, to the Board of Directors, setting forth the reasons why such deposition should be taken, the name and post office address of the witness, the matters concerning which the witness is expected to testify, its relevance, and the time when, the place where, and the name and post office address of the person before whom it is desired the deposition be taken. A copy of such application shall be served upon every other party to the proceeding by the party making such application. Upon a showing that (1) the proposed witness will be unable to attend or may be prevented from attending the hearing because of age, sickness or infirmity, or will otherwise be unavailable at the hearing, (2) his testimony will be material, and (3) the taking of the deposition will not result in any undue burden to any other party or in undue delay of the proceeding, the trial examiner or the Board of Directors may, in his or its discretion, by such subpena or subpena duces tecum, order the oral deposition to be taken. Such subpena will name the witness whose deposition is to be taken and specify the time when, the place where, and the person before whom the witness is to testify, but such time and place, and the person before whom the deposition is ordered to be taken, may or may not be the same as those named in the application. Notice of the issuance of such subpena shall be served upon each of the parties a reasonable time, and in no event less than five days, in advance of the time fixed for the taking of the deposition.

(g) Procedure on deposition; objections. Each witness testifying upon oral deposition shall be duly sworn, and the adverse party shall have the right to cross-examine. Objections to questions or evidence shall be in short form, stating the grounds of objection relied upon; but the person taking the deposition shall not have power to rule upon questions of competency or materiality or relevance of evidence. Failure to object to questions or evidence shall not be deemed a waiver except where the ground of the objection is one which might have been obviated or removed if presented at that time. The questions propounded and the answers thereto, together with all objections made (but not including argument or debate) shall be recorded by the person taking the deposition, or under his direction. The deposition shall be subscribed by the witness, unless the parties by stipulation waived the signing or the witness is ill or cannot be found or refused to sign, and certified as a true and complete transcript thereof by the person taking the deposition. If the deposition is not subscribed to by the witness, such person shall state on the record this fact and the reason therefor. Such person shall promptly send the original and two copies of such deposition, together with the original and two copies of all exhibits, by registered mail to the Secretary of the Corporation unless otherwise directed in the order authorizing the taking of the deposition. Interested parties shall make their own arrangements with the person taking the deposition for copies of the testimony and the exhibits.

(h) Introduction as evidence. Subject to appropriate rulings on such objections to questions of evidence as were noted at the time the deposition was taken or as would be valid were the witness personally present and testifying (except objections waived under the third sentence of paragraph (g) of this section), the deposition or any part thereof may be read in evidence by any party to the proceeding. Only such part or the whole of a deposition as is received in evidence at a hearing shall constitute a part of the record in such proceeding upon which a decision may be based.

(i) Payment of fees. Witnesses whose oral depositions are taken shall be entitled to the same fees as are paid for like services in the courts of the United States. Fees of persons taking such depositions and the fees of the reporter shall be paid by the person upon whose application the deposition was taken.

§ 308.7 Rules of evidence.

(a) Evidence. Every party shall have the right to present his case or defense by oral and documentary evidence, to submit rebuttal evidence and to conduct such cross-examination as may be required for a full and true disclosure of the facts. Irrelevant, immaterial, or unduly repetitious evidence shall be excluded.

(b) Objections. Objections to the admission or exclusion of evidence shall be in short form, stating the grounds of objections relied upon, and the transcript shall not include argument thereon except as ordered, allowed, or requested by the trial examiner. Rulings on such objections and on any other matters shall be a part of the transcript. Failure to object to admission or exclusion of evidence or to any ruling shall be considered a waiver of such objection.

(c) Official notice. All matters officially noticed by the trial examiner shall appear on the record.

§ 308.8 Motions.

(a) In writing. An application or request for an order or ruling not otherwise specifically provided for in this part shall be made by motion. After a trial examiner has been designated to preside at a hearing and before the filing with the Secretary of his recommended decision, pursuant to § 308.9, such applications or requests shall be addressed to and filed with him. At all other times motions shall be addressed to the Board of Directors and filed with the Secretary. Motions shall be in writing, except that a motion made at a session of a hearing may be made orally upon the record unless the trial examiner directs that it be reduced to writing. All written motions shall state with particularity the order or relief sought and the grounds therefor.

(b) Objections. Within 5 days after service of any written motion, or within such other period of time as may be fixed by the trial examiner or the Board of Directors, any party may file a written answer or objection to such motion. The moving party shall have no right to reply, except as permitted by the trial examiner or the Board of Directors. As a matter of discretion, the trial examiner or the Board of Directors may waive the requirements of this section as to motions for extensions of time, and may rule upon such motions ex parte.

(c) Oral argument. No oral argument will be heard on motions except as otherwise directed by the trial examiner or the Board of Directors. Written memoranda or briefs may be filed with motions or answers or objections thereto, stating the points and authorities relied upon in support of the position taken.

(d) Rulings on motions. Except as otherwise provided in this part, the trial examiner shall rule upon all motions properly addressed to him and upon such other motions as the Board of Directors may direct, except that if the trial examiner finds that a prompt decision by the Board of Directors on a motion is essential to the proper conduct of the proceeding, he may refer such motion to the Board of Directors for decision. The Board of Directors shall rule upon all motions properly submitted to it for decision.

(e) Appeal from rulings on motions. All motions and answers or objections thereto and rulings thereon shall become part of the record. Rulings of a trial examiner on any motion may not be appealed to the Board of Directors prior to its consideration of the trial examiner's recommended decision, findings and conclusions except by special permission of the Board of Directors; but they shall be considered by the Board of Directors in reviewing the record. Requests to the Board of Directors for special permission to appeal from such rulings of the trial examiner shall be filed promptly, in writing, and shall briefly state the grounds relied on. The moving party shall immediately serve a copy thereof on every other party to the proceeding.

(f) Continuation of hearing. Unless otherwise ordered by the trial examiner or the Board of Directors, the hearing shall continue pending the determination of any motion by the Board of Directors.

§ 308.9 Proposed findings and conclusions and recommended decision.

(a) Proposed findings and conclusions by parties. Each party to a hearing shall have a period of 15 days after service of the Secretary's notice of the filing and transmittal of the record, as provided in paragraph (e) of § 308.5, or such further time as the trial examiner for good cause shall determine, to file with the trial examiner proposed findings of fact, conclusions of law and order, which may be accompanied by a brief or memorandum in support thereof. Such proposals shall be supported by citation of such statutes, decisions and other authorities, and by page references to such portions of the record, as may be relevant. All such proposals, briefs and memoranda shall become a part of the record.

(b) Recommended decision and filing of record. The trial examiner shall, within 30 days after the expiration of the time allowed for the filing of proposed findings, conclusions, and order, or within such further time as the Board of Directors for good cause shall determine, file with the Secretary and certify to the Board of Directors for decision the entire record of the hearing, which shall include his recommended decision, findings of fact, conclusions of law, and proposed order, the transcript, exhibits (including on request of any of the parties any exhibits excluded from evidence or tenders of proof), exceptions, rulings, and all briefs and memoranda filed in connection with the hearing. Promptly upon such filing the Secretary shall serve upon each party to the proceeding a copy of the trial examiner's recommended decision, findings, conclusions, and proposed order. The provisions of this paragraph and § 308.10 shall not apply, however, in any case where the hearing was held before the Board of Directors.

§ 308.10 Exceptions.

(a) Filing. Within 15 days after service of the recommended decision, findings, conclusions, and proposed order of the trial examiner, or such further time as the Board of Directors for good cause shall determine, any party (other than a party who has not filed an answer in accordance with paragraphs (a) and (d) of § 308.4, unless no answer was required of such party by the Board of Directors) may file with the Secretary exceptions thereto or any part thereof, or to the failure of the trial examiner to make any recommendation, finding, or conclusion, or to the admission or exclusion of evidence, or other ruling of the trial examiner, supported by such brief as may appear advisable.

(b) Waiver. Failure of a party to file exceptions to the recommended decision, findings, conclusions, and proposed order of the trial examiner or any portion thereof, or to his failure to adopt a proposed finding or conclusion, or to the admission or exclusion of evidence or other ruling of the trial examiner, within the time prescribed in paragraph (a) of this section, shall be deemed to be a waiver of objection thereto.

§ 308.11 Briefs.

(a) Contents. All briefs shall be confined to the particular matters in issue. Each exception or proposed finding or conclusion which is briefed shall be supported by a concise argument or by citation of such statutes, decisions or other authorities and by page reference to such portions of the record or recommended decision of the trial examiner as may be relevant. If the exception relates to the admission or exclusion of evidence, the substance of the evidence admitted or excluded shall be set forth in the brief with appropriate references to the transcript.

(b) Reply briefs. Reply briefs may be filed with the Secretary of the Corporation within 10 days after service of briefs and shall be confined to matters in original briefs of opposing parties. Further briefs may be filed only with the permission of the Board of Directors.

(c) Delays. Briefs not filed on or before the time fixed in this subpart will be received only upon special permission of the Board of Directors.

§ 308.12 Oral argument before the Board of Directors.

Upon its own initiative, or upon the written request of any party made within the time prescribed for the filing of exceptions, a brief in support thereof, or a reply brief, if any, for oral argument on the findings, conclusions, and recommended decision of the trial examiner, the Board of Directors, if it considers justice will best be served, may order the matter to be set down for oral argument before the Board of Directors or one or more members thereof. Oral argument before the Board of Directors shall be recorded unless otherwise ordered by the Board of Directors.

§ 308.13 Notice of submission to the Board of Directors.

Upon the filing of the record with the Secretary of the Corporation, and upon the expiration of the time for the filing of exceptions and all briefs, including reply briefs or any further briefs permitted by the Board of Directors and upon the hearing of oral argument by the Board of Directors, if ordered by the Board of Directors, the Secretary shall notify the parties that the case has been submitted to the Board of Directors for final decision.

§ 308.14 Decision of Board of Directors.

Appropriate members of the staff, who are not engaged in the performance of investigative or prosecuting functions in the case, or in a factually related case, may advise and assist the Board of Directors in the consideration of the case and in the preparation of appropriate documents for its disposition. Copies of the decision and order of the Board of Directors shall be furnished by the Secretary of the Corporation to the parties to the proceedings, the bank involved and to the appropriate State supervisory authority, in the case of a State bank. Where the proceedings involve the involuntary termination of the insured status of a bank, copies of the decision and order shall also be furnished to the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System in the case of a State member bank, or to the Comptroller of the Currency in the case of a national bank or a District bank.

§ 308.15 Filing papers.

Recommended decisions, exceptions, briefs and other papers required to be filed with the Board of Directors or Secretary in any proceedings shall be filed with the Secretary, Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, Washington, D.C. 20429. Any such papers may be sent to the Secretary by mail or express but must be received in the office of the Corporation in Washington, D.C., or postmarked by a post office, within the time limit for such filing.

§ 308.16 Service.

(a) By the Board of Directors. All documents or papers required to be served by the Board of Directors upon any party afforded a hearing shall be served by the Secretary of the Corporation unless some other person shall be designated for such purpose by the Board of Directors. Such service, except for service on counsel for the Board of Directors, shall be made by personal service or by registered mail, addressed to the last known address as shown on the records of the Board of Directors, on the attorney or representative of record of such party, provided that if there is no attorney or representative of record, such service shall be made upon such party at the last known address as shown on the records of the Board of Directors. Such service may also be made in such other manner reasonably calculated to give actual notice as the Board of Directors may by regulation or otherwise provide.

(b) By the parties. Except as otherwise expressly provided in this part, all documents or papers filed in a proceeding under this part shall be served by the party filing the same upon the attorneys or representatives of record of all other parties to the proceeding, or, if any party is not so represented, then upon such party. Such service may be made by personal service or by registered, certified, or regular first-class mail addressed to the last known address of such parties, or their attorneys or representatives of record. All such documents or papers shall, when tendered to the Board of Directors or the trial examiner for filing, show that such service has been made.

§ 308.17 Copies.

Unless otherwise specifically provided in the notice of hearing, an original and seven copies of all documents and papers required or permitted to be filed or served upon the Secretary of the Corporation under this part, except the transcript of testimony and exhibits, shall be furnished to the Secretary of the Corporation.

§ 308.18 Computing time.

(a) General rule. In computing any period of time prescribed or allowed by this part, the date of the act, event or default from which the designated period of time begins to run is not to be included. The last day so computed shall be included, unless it is a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday in the District of Columbia, in which event the period shall run until the end of the next day which is neither a Saturday, Sunday, nor such legal holiday. Intermediate Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays shall be included in the computation unless the time within which the act is to be performed is 10 days or less in which event Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays shall not be included.

(b) Service by mail. Whenever any party has the right or is required to do some act or take some proceeding, within a period of time prescribed in this part, after the service upon him of any document or other paper of any kind, and such service is made by mail, 3 days shall be added to the prescribed period from the date when the matter served is deposited in the United States mail.

§ 308.19 Documents in proceedings confidential.

Unless and until otherwise ordered by the Board of Directors, the notice of hearing, the transcript, the recommended decision of the trial examiner, exceptions thereto, proposed findings or conclusions, the findings and conclusions of the Board of Directors and other papers which are filed in connection with any hearing shall not be made public, and shall be for the confidential use only of the Board of Directors, the trial examiner, the parties and appropriate supervising authorities.

§ 308.20 Formal requirements as to papers filed.

(a) Form. All papers filed under this subpart shall be printed, typewritten, or otherwise reproduced. All copies shall be clear and legible.

(b) Signature. The original of all papers filed by a bank shall be signed by an officer thereof, and if filed by another party shall be signed by said party, or by the duly authorized agent or attorney of the bank or other party, and in all such cases shall show the signer's address. Counsel for the Corporation shall sign the original of all papers filed by him.

(c) Caption. All papers filed must include at the head thereof, or on a title page, the name of the Corporation, the name of the party, and the subject of the particular paper.

Subpart B—Rules and Procedures Applicable to Proceedings for the Involuntary Termination of Insured Status

§ 308.21 Scope.

Under the authority of section 8 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act, the Board of Directors of the Corporation may terminate the insured status of an insured bank upon the grounds set forth therein and enumerated in §§ 308.22 and 308.27. The procedure for terminating the insured status of a bank as therein prescribed will be followed and hearings required thereunder will be conducted in accordance with the rules and procedures set forth in this subpart and Subpart A of this part.

§ 308.22 Grounds for termination of insurance.

Whenever the Board of Directors finds that an insured bank or its directors or trustees have engaged or are engaging in unsafe or unsound practices in conducting the business of such bank, or that such bank is in an unsafe or unsound condition to continue operations as an insured bank, or that such bank or its directors or trustees have violated an applicable law, rule, regulation or order, or any condition imposed in writing by the Corporation in connection with the granting of any application or other request by the bank, or any written agreement entered into with the Corporation, the Board of Directors will first give to the Comptroller of the Currency in the case of a national bank or a District bank, to the authority having supervision of the bank in the case of a State bank, and to the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System in the case of a State member bank, a statement with respect to such practices or violations for the purpose of securing the correction thereof and will forward a copy thereof to the bank.

§ 308.23 Notice of intention to terminate insured status.

Unless correction of the practices, condition or violations set forth in the statement prescribed in § 308.22 is made within 120 days, or such shorter period not less than 30 days fixed by the Corporation in any case where the Board of Directors in its discretion has determined that the insurance risk of the Corporation is unduly jeopardized, or fixed by the Comptroller of the Currency in the case of a national bank, or the State authority in the case of a State bank, or Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System in the case of a State member bank, as the case may be, the Board of Directors, if it determines to proceed further, will give to the bank not less than 30 days' written notice of its intention to terminate the status of the bank as an insured bank, and will fix a time and place for a hearing before the Board of Directors or before a person designated by it to conduct such hearing, at which evidence may be produced, and upon such evidence the Board of Directors will make written findings which shall be conclusive.

§ 308.24 Order terminating insured status.

If the Board of Directors finds that any unsafe or unsound practice or condition or violation specified in such statement has been established and has not been corrected within the time prescribed under § 308.23, in which to make such corrections, the Board of Directors may order that the insured status of the bank be terminated on a date subsequent to such finding and to the expiration of the time specified in the notice of intention issued under § 308.23.

§ 308.25 Consent to termination of insured status.

Unless the bank appears at the hearing designated in the notice of hearing by a duly authorized representative, it shall be deemed to have consented to the termination of its status as an insured bank. In the event the bank fails to appear at such hearing, the trial examiner shall forthwith report the matter to the Board of Directors and the Board may thereupon issue an order terminating the bank's insured status.

§ 308.26 Notice of termination of insured status.

Prior to the effective date of the termination of the insured status of a bank under section 8(a) of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act and at such time as the Board of Directors shall specify, the bank shall mail to each depositor at his last address of record on the books of the bank and publish in not less than two issues of a local newspaper of general circulation and shall furnish the Corporation with proof of publication of notice of such termination of insured status. The notice shall be as follows:

Whenever the Board of Directors shall have evidence indicating that an insured banking institution is not engaged in the business of receiving deposits, other than trust funds, it will give notice in writing to the banking institution of such fact, and will direct the banking institution to show cause why the insured status of the banking institution should not be terminated under the provisions of section 8(p) of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act. The banking institution shall have 30 days, or such greater period of time as the Board of Directors shall prescribe, after receipt of such notice to submit affidavits or other written proof that it is engaged in the business of receiving deposits, other than trust funds. The Board of Directors may, in its discretion, upon written request of the banking institution, authorize a hearing before it or any person designated by it. If upon consideration of the evidence, the Board of Directors finds that the banking institution is not engaged in the business of receiving deposits, other than trust funds, such finding shall be conclusive and the Corporation will notify the banking institution that its insured status will terminate at the expiration of the first full semiannual assessment period following such notice. Subpart C—Rules and Procedures Applicable to Proceedings Relating to Cease-and-Desist Orders

§ 308.28 Scope.

The rules and procedures set forth in this subpart are applicable to proceedings by the Board of Directors with a view to ordering an insured State nonmember bank (other than a District bank) to cease and desist from practices and violations described in section 8 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act and enumerated in § 308.29. The procedures for issuing such orders prescribed in section 8 of said Act will be followed and hearings required thereunder will be conducted in accordance with the rules and procedures set forth in this subpart and Subpart A of this part.

§ 308.29 Grounds for cease-and-desist orders.

If, in the opinion of the Board of Directors, any insured State nonmember bank (other than a District bank) or bank which has insured deposits is engaging or has engaged, or the Board of Directors has reasonable cause to believe that the bank is about to engage, in an unsafe or unsound practice in conducting the business of such bank, or is violating or has violated, or the Board of Directors has reasonable cause to believe that the bank is about to violate, a law, rule, or regulation, or any condition imposed in writing by the Board of Directors in connection with the granting of an application or other request by the bank, or any written agreement entered into with the Corporation, the Board of Directors may issue and serve upon the bank a notice of charges in respect thereof.

§ 308.30 Notice of charges and hearing.

The notice referred to in § 308.29 will contain a statement of the facts constituting the alleged violation or violations or the unsafe or unsound practice or practices, and fix a time and place at which a hearing will be held to determine whether an order to cease and desist therefrom should issue against the bank. The hearing will be fixed for a date not earlier than 30 days nor later than 60 days after service of such notice unless an earlier or a later date is set by the Board of Directors at the request of the bank. Unless the bank appears at the hearing by a duly authorized representative, it will be deemed to have consented to the issuance of the cease-and-desist order.

§ 308.31 Issuance of order.

In the event of such consent, or if upon the record made at any such hearing, the Board of Directors finds that any violation or unsafe or unsound practice specified in the notice of charges has been established, the Board of Directors may issue and serve upon the bank an order to cease and desist from any such violation or practice. Such order may, by provisions which may be mandatory or otherwise, require the bank and its directors, officers, employees, and agents to cease and desist from the same and, further, to take affirmative action to correct the conditions resulting from any such violation or practice.

§ 308.32 Effective date.

A cease-and-desist order will become effective at the expiration of 30 days after the service of such order upon the bank concerned (except in the case of a cease-and-desist order issued upon consent, which will become effective at the time specified therein), and will remain effective and enforceable as provided therein, except to such extent as it is stayed, modified, terminated, or set aside by action of the Board of Directors or a reviewing court.

§ 308.33 Temporary cease-and-desist orders.

Whenever the Board of Directors determines that the violation or threatened violation or the unsafe or unsound practice or practices, specified in the notice of charges referred to in § 308.28, or the continuation thereof, is likely to cause insolvency or substantial dissipation of assets or earnings of the bank, or is likely to otherwise seriously prejudice the interests of its depositors, the Board of Directors may issue a temporary order requiring the bank to cease and desist from any such violation or practice.

§ 308.34 Effective date of temporary order.

Such order will become effective upon service upon the bank and, unless set aside, limited, or suspended by a court in proceedings authorized under the Federal Deposit Insurance Act will remain effective and enforceable pending the completion of the administrative proceedings held pursuant to such notice and until such time as the Board of Directors dismisses the charges specified in such notice, or if a cease-and-desist order is issued against the bank pursuant to § 308.29, until the effective date of any such order.

Subpart D—Rules and Procedures Applicable to Proceedings Relating to Removal and Suspension Orders

§ 308.35 Scope.

The rules and procedures set forth in this subpart are applicable to proceedings by the Board of Directors to remove or suspend directors or officers of an insured State nonmember bank (other than a District bank) or any other person participating in the conduct of the affairs of such a bank, and/or prohibit such director, officer or other person from further participation in the conduct of the affairs of such a bank, upon the grounds set forth in section 8 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act and enumerated in this subpart. The procedures for issuing such orders prescribed in section 8 of said Act will be followed and hearings required thereunder will be conducted in accordance with the rules and procedures set forth in this subpart and Subpart A of this part.

§ 308.36 Grounds for removal order.

(a) Whenever, in the opinion of the Board of Directors, any director or officer of an insured State nonmember bank (other than a District bank) has committed any violation of law, rule, or regulation, or of a cease-and-desist order which has become final, or has engaged or participated in any unsafe or unsound practice in connection with the bank, or has committed or engaged in any act, omission, or practice which constitutes a breach of his fiduciary duty as such director or officer, and the Board of Directors determines that the bank has suffered or will probably suffer substantial financial loss or other damage or that the interests of its depositors could be seriously prejudiced by reason of such violation or practice or breach of fiduciary duty, and that such violation or practice or breach of fiduciary duty is one involving personal dishonesty on the part of such director or officer, the Board of Directors may serve upon such director or officer a written notice of its intention to remove him from office.

(b) Whenever, in the opinion of the Board of Directors, any director or officer of an insured State nonmember bank (other than a District bank), by conduct or practice with respect to another insured bank or other business institution which resulted in substantial financial loss or other damage, has evidenced his personal dishonesty and unfitness to continue as a director or officer and, whenever, in the opinion of the Board of Directors, any other person participating in the conduct of the affairs of an insured State nonmember bank (other than a District bank), by conduct or practice with respect to such bank or other insured bank or other business institution which resulted in substantial financial loss or other damage, has evidenced his personal dishonesty and unfitness to participate in the conduct of the affairs of such insured bank, the Board of Directors may serve upon such director, officer, or other person a written notice of its intention to remove him from office and/or to prohibit his further participation in any manner in the conduct of the affairs of the bank.

§ 308.37 Grounds for suspension order.

In respect to any director or officer of an insured State nonmember bank (other than a District bank) or any other person referred to in paragraph (a) or (b) of § 308.36 the Board of Directors may, if it deems it necessary for the protection of the bank or the interests of its depositors, by written notice to such effect served upon such director, officer, or other person, suspend him from office and/or prohibit him from further participation in any manner in the conduct of the affairs of the bank.

§ 308.38 Effective date of suspension order.

Any suspension and/or prohibition which is subject to the notice prescribed in § 308.37, shall become effective upon service of such notice and, unless stayed by a court in proceedings authorized by the Federal Deposit Insurance Act, shall remain in effect pending the completion of the administrative proceedings held pursuant to the notice served under paragraph (a) or (b) of § 308.36 and until such time as the Board of Directors shall dismiss the charges specified in such notice, or, if an order of removal and/or prohibition is issued against the director or officer or other person, until the effective date of any such order. Copies of any such notice will also be served upon the bank of which he is a director or officer or in the conduct of whose affairs he has participated.

§ 308.39 Notice of intention to remove and hearing.

A notice of intention to remove a director, officer, or other person from office and/or to prohibit his participation in the conduct of the affairs of an insured bank, will contain a statement of the facts constituting grounds therefor and will fix a time and place at which a hearing will be held thereon. Such hearing will be fixed for a date not earlier than 30 days nor later than 60 days after the date of service of such notice, unless an earlier or a later date is set by the Board of Directors at the request of (a) such director or officer or other person, and for good cause shown, or (b) the Attorney General of the United States. Unless such director, officer, or other person appears at the hearing in person or by a duly authorized representative, he shall be deemed to have consented to the issuance of an order of such removal and/or prohibition.

§ 308.40 Issuance of removal order and effective date.

In the event of such consent, or if upon the record made at any such hearing the Board of Directors finds that any of the grounds specified in such notice has been established, the Board of Directors may issue such orders of suspension or removal from office, and/or prohibition from participation in the conduct of the affairs of the bank, as it may deem appropriate. Any such order shall become effective at the expiration of 30 days after service upon such bank and the director, officer, or other person concerned (except in the case of an order issued upon consent, which shall become effective at the time specified therein). Such order shall remain effective and enforceable except to such extent as it is stayed, modified, terminated, or set aside by action of the Board of Directors or a reviewing court.

§ 308.41 Suspension and removal where felony charged.

(a) Whenever any director or officer of an insured State nonmember bank (other than a District bank), or other person participating in the conduct of the affairs of such bank, is charged in any information, indictment, or complaint authorized by a U.S. attorney, with the commission of or participation in a felony involving dishonesty or breach of trust, the Board of Directors may, by written notice served upon such director, officer, or other person suspend him from office and/or prohibit him from further participation in any manner in the conduct of the affairs of the bank. A copy of such notice will also be served upon the bank. Such suspension and/or prohibition shall remain in effect until such information, indictment, or complaint is finally disposed of or until terminated by the Board of Directors.

(b) In the event that a judgment of conviction with respect to such offense is entered against such director, officer, or other person, and at such time as such judgment is not subject to further appellate review, the Board of Directors may issue and serve upon such director, officer, or other person an order removing him from office and/or prohibiting him from further participation in any manner in the conduct of the affairs of the bank except with the consent of the Board of Directors. A copy of such order will also be served upon such bank, whereupon such director or officer shall cease to be a director or officer of such bank. A finding of not guilty or other disposition of the charge will not preclude the Board of Directors from thereafter instituting proceedings to remove such director, officer, or other person from office and/or to prohibit further participation in bank affairs, pursuant to the provisions of this subpart.

Effective date. This revision shall become effective on the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Dated this 14th day of July 1967.

Title 14—AERONAUTICS AND SPACE

Chapter I—Federal Aviation Administration, Department of Transportation

[Docket No. 8172; Amdt. 39-454]

PART 39—AIRWORTHINESS DIRECTIVES

Graviner Automatic Fire Extinguishers

Amendment 39-422 (32 F.R. 7443), AD 67-17-4, requires repetitive inspections and replacement of defective Graviner Automatic Single Headed Fire Extinguisher Containers P/N's 147A and 1147A. Subsequent to the issuance of Amendment 39-422, the FAA has been advised that stress corrosion has been found in other models of Graviner fire extinguisher containers. Based on further investigation, the FAA has determined that all Graviner fire extinguishers must be inspected and replaced as necessary. The FAA has also determined that after the initial inspections, fire extinguisher containers with a stamp date later than October 1965 must be reinspected between 1,400 and 1,500 hours' time in service after the initial inspection. Therefore, this AD is being superseded by a new AD that requires all Graviner fire extinguisher containers to be inspected in accordance with Graviner Alert Service Bulletin No. 26-A30, Issue No. 2, dated April 21, 1967, and the replacement of defective containers before further flight.

In view of the possible seriousness of the failure of the fire extinguisher containers, a situation exists that requires immediate adoption of this regulation, and it is found that notice and public procedure hereon are impracticable and good cause exists for making this amendment effective on less than 30 days' notice.

In consideration of the foregoing, and pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (25 F.R. 6489), § 39.13 of Part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations is amended as follows:

GRAVINER. Applies to automatic fire extinguishers installed on, but not necessarily limited to, the airplanes listed: P/N's 112A, 147A, and 1147A installed on BAC 1-11 200 and 400 Series airplanes; P/N 132A installed on Short Bros. Skyvan SC-7, Series 2 Variant 200; and P/N 142A installed on Hawker Siddeley DH-125 Series airplanes.

Compliance required as indicated.

To prevent failure of Graviner fire extinguisher containers, accomplish the following:

(a) Within the next 26 hours' time in service after the effective date of this AD, unless already accomplished within the last 100 hours' time in service, visually inspect Graviner automatic fire extinguisher containers for cracks or leaks and weight in accordance with Graviner Alert Service Bulletin No. 26-A30, Issue No. 2, dated April 21, 1967, or later ARB-approved issue, or FAA-approved equivalent.

(b) Repeat the inspection specified in paragraph (a) at intervals not to exceed 500 hours' time in service from the last inspection for fire extinguisher containers with a stamp date October 1965 or before. For fire extinguisher containers with a stamp date later than October 1965, reinspect in accordance with paragraph (a) once between 1,400 and 1,500 hours' time in service after the initial inspection.

(c) Replace all defective fire extinguisher containers with fire extinguisher containers of the same part number with a stamp date later than October 1965 before further flight.

This supersedes Amendment 39-422 (32 F.R. 7443), AD 67-17-4.

This amendment becomes effective August 1, 1967.

PART 39—AIRWORTHINESS DIRECTIVES

Rolls Royce Model Spey Mark Engines

Amendment 39-363 (32 F.R. 3690), AD 67-8-6 requires inspections at intervals of not more than 25 hours' time in service of certain Avica fuel tube clamps on Rolls Royce Model Spey Mark 506-14, 510-14, and 511-14 engines until the incorporation of specified Rolls Royce modifications, at which point the repetitive inspection interval is extended to 100 hours' time in service or discontinued depending on the modification accomplished. Based on service experience and tests conducted subsequent to the issuance of the AD, the FAA has determined that the repetitive inspections may be discontinued when either of the specified modifications is accomplished. Therefore, the AD is being amended to require inspection of the Avica fuel tube clamps until Part 1 or Part 2 of Rolls Royce Modification 2939 and 2512PP, or later ARB-approved equivalent has been incorporated.

Since this amendment relieves a restriction and imposes no additional burden on any person, notice and public procedure hereon are unnecessary and the amendment may be made effective in less than 30 days.

In consideration of the foregoing, and pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (25 F.R. 6489), § 39.13 of Part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations, Amendment 39-363 (32 F.R. 3690), AD 67-8-6, is amended by deleting present paragraph (b), by redesignating paragraph (c) as paragraph (b), and by amending the new paragraph (b) by inserting the words "or Part 2" immediately after the words "Part 1".

This amendment becomes effective August 1, 1967.

PART 71—DESIGNATION OF FEDERAL AIRWAYS, CONTROLLED AIRSPACE, AND REPORTING POINTS

Alteration of Federal Airways

On March 4, 1967, a notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (32 F.R. 3750) stating that the Federal Aviation Agency was considering amendments to Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations that would realign V-68 from Corpus Christi, Tex., 12 AGL INT Corpus Christi 178° and McAllen, Tex., 039° radials; 12 AGL McAllen including a 12 AGL south alternate from INT Corpus Christi 178° and McAllen 039° radials to McAllen via Harlingen, Tex. The airspace above 14,000 feet MSL to be excluded on the segment of the main airway from the intersection of Corpus Christi 178° and McAllen 039° radials to McAllen. V-163 would be realigned from Brownsville, Tex., 12 AGL direct to Corpus Christi, including a 12 AGL west alternate from Brownsville to the INT of Harlingen 023° and Corpus Christi 178° radials via Harlingen.

Subsequent to publication of the notice, it was determined that there was a requirement for a holding pattern at Corpus Christi. To provide adequate separation from operations at NAS Corpus Christi, it is necessary to establish this holding pattern on the Corpus Christi 181° True radial. To provide compatability between the holding pattern radial and V-68/163, the agency is altering the alignments of V-68/163, as proposed in the notice, as follows:

1. V-68 From Corpus Christi 12 AGL INT Corpus Christi 181° T (172° Mag.) and McAllen 039° T (030° Mag.) radials; 12 AGL McAllen, including a 12 AGL South alternate from INT Corpus Christi 181° T (172° Mag.) and McAllen 039° T (030° Mag.) radials to McAllen via Harlingen. The main airway would exclude the airspace above 14,000 feet MSL from 49 miles northeast of McAllen to McAllen.

2. V-163 From Brownsville 12 AGL INT Brownsville 356° T (347° Mag.) and Corpus Christi 181° T (172° Mag.) radials, 12 AGL Corpus Christi, including a 12 AGL West alternate from Brownsville to INT Brownsville 356° T (347° Mag.) and Corpus Christi 181° radials via Harlingen, Tex.

Interested persons were afforded an opportunity to participate in the proposed rule making through the submission of comments. The amended proposal was discussed with representatives of the Department of the Navy and the Air Transport Association of America. All comments received were given due consideration.

The Department of the Air Force objected to the revised proposal as it might require adjustment of the Air Force training area. This objection was later withdrawn.

The Air Transport Association of America objected to the reduced ceiling on V-68 as it would restrict climb and descent capability of DC-9 aircraft in and out of Harlingen. They stated a requirement for a direct airway between Harlingen and Corpus Christi. However, to accommodate military training requirements, they would not object to the proposed airway alignments until such time as provision could be made to incorporate military training missions into the common system and provide a more efficient airway structure in this area.

The airway alignments considered in the notice were a compromise structure designed to fulfill civil requirements and also provide additional airspace for military training missions. The ceiling on V-68 was proposed to provide minimum civil requirements to McAllen and at the same time release airspace above 14,000 feet MSL for the military training. The altered airway alignments considered herein will satisfy civil requirements by providing for holding pattern airspace south of Corpus Christi that will not interfere with operations at NAS Corpus Christi and that will not derogate DC-9 aircraft climb and descent capabilities at McAllen. The action taken herein is not considered as unduly restricting the military training operations.

Since the airway alignments considered herein are minor in nature and in the interest of safety, the Administrator has determined that notice and public procedure thereon is impractical.

In consideration of the foregoing, Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations is amended, effective October 12, 1967, as hereinafter set forth.

Section 71.123 (32 F.R. 2009) is amended as follows:

1. In V-68 all after "12 AGL Corpus Christi;" is deleted and "12 AGL INT Corpus Christi 181° and McAllen, Tex., 039° radials; 12 AGL McAllen, including a 12 AGL south alternate from INT Corpus Christi 181° and McAllen 039° radials to McAllen via Harlingen, Tex. The airspace on the main airway above 14,000 feet MSL from 49 miles northeast of McAllen to McAllen and the airspace within Mexico is excluded." is substituted therefor.

2. In V-163 all before "12 AGL INT Corpus Christi 313°" is deleted and "From Brownsville, Tex., 12 AGL INT Brownsville 356° and Corpus Christi 181° radials; 12 AGL Corpus Christi, including a 12 AGL west alternate from Brownsville to INT Brownsville 356° and Corpus Christi 181° radials via Harlingen, Tex.;" is substituted therefor.

PART 71—DESIGNATION OF FEDERAL AIRWAYS, CONTROLLED AIRSPACE, AND REPORTING POINTS

Designation of Reporting Point

The purpose of this amendment to Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations is to designate the Tuna DME high altitude reporting point.

Since this amendment is minor in nature and involves a subject in which the public is not particularly interested, notice and public procedure are unnecessary. However, since it is necessary that sufficient time be allowed to permit appropriate changes to be made on aeronautical charts, this amendment will become effective more than 30 days after publication.

In consideration of the foregoing, Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations is amended, effective 0001 e.s.t., October 12, 1967, as hereinafter set forth.

Section 71.207 (32 F.R. 2282) is amended by adding:

Tuna DME INT: Kennedy, N.Y., VORTAC 143° radial, 128 nautical miles from Kennedy VORTAC.

PART 71—DESIGNATION OF FEDERAL AIRWAYS, CONTROLLED AIRSPACE, AND REPORTING POINTS

Alteration of Transition Area

On June 13, 1967, a notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (32 F.R. 8422) stating that the Federal Aviation Administration was considering an amendment to Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations that would alter the Greenwood, Miss., transition area.

Interested persons were afforded an opportunity to participate in the rule making through the submission of comments. All comments received were favorable.

Subsequent to the publication of the notice, it was determined that the direction "N" used in describing an extension predicated on the Greenwood VOR 063° radial should have read "NE." Additionally, the geographic coordinate (latitude 33°29'20" N., longitude 90°05'00" W.) for the Greenwood-Le Flore Airport was obtained from Coast and Geodetic Survey. Accordingly, action is taken herein to correct the technical discrepancy and to add the geographic coordinate for the airport in the description of this transition area.

In consideration of the foregoing, Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations is amended, effective 0001 e.d.s.t., October 12, 1967, as hereinafter set forth.

In § 71.181 (32 F.R. 2148) the Greenwood, Miss., transition area is amended to read:

GREENWOOD, MISS.

That airspace extending upward from 700 feet above the surface within a 10-mile radius of the Greenwood-Le Flore Airport (latitude 33°29'20" N., longitude 90°05'00" W.); within 2 miles each side of the Greenwood VOR 243° and 063° radials, extending from the Greenwood control zone to 8 miles southwest of the VOR; and that airspace extending upward from 1,200 feet above the surface within 8 miles southeast and 5 miles northwest of the Greenwood VOR 243° and 063° radials, extending from 5 miles northeast of the VOR to 14 miles southwest, and within 5 miles each side of the Greenwood VOR 063° radial, extending from 5 miles northeast of the VOR to 18 miles northeast.

PART 71—DESIGNATION OF FEDERAL AIRWAYS, CONTROLLED AIRSPACE, AND REPORTING POINTS

Revocation of Control Area Extension

The purpose of this amendment to Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations is to revoke a control area extension that is no longer required as designated controlled airspace.

Since this action imposes no additional burden on any person, notice and public procedure hereon are unnecessary.

In consideration of the foregoing, effective 0001 e.s.t., October 12, 1967, Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations is amended as hereinafter set forth:

In § 71.165 (32 F.R. 2068), the following control area extension is revoked: Battle Mountain, Nev.

(a) In presenting his complaint, the complainant shall be free from restraint, interference, coercion, discrimination, or reprisal and shall have the right to be accompanied, represented, and advised by a representative of his choosing. A reasonable amount of official time shall be allowed for an employee to present his complaint if he is otherwise in an active duty status.

(b) If an employee is designated to represent a complainant, the representative shall be free from restraint, interference, coercion, discrimination, or reprisal and shall have a reasonable amount of official time to present the complaint if he is otherwise in an active duty status.

§ 7.14 Acceptability.

(a) The Equal Employment Opportunity Officer shall determine whether the complaint comes within the purview of this subpart and shall advise the complainant in writing of the acceptance or rejection of his complaint.

(b) If the Equal Employment Opportunity Officer determines that the complaint is to be rejected, he shall also notify the complainant in writing of the reasons for the rejection and of his right to appeal the rejection to the Civil Service Commission.

§ 7.15 Processing of complaint.

The Deputy Equal Employment Opportunity Officer for each organizational unit shall serve as processing officer for complaints involving the organizational unit for which he is responsible. The Equal Employment Opportunity Officer may, as he deems necessary, assume jurisdiction of any case. This may include the designation as processing officer of a Deputy Equal Employment Opportunity Officer other than the Deputy Equal Employment Opportunity Officer for the organizational unit concerned. In the latter case, the Equal Employment Opportunity Officer shall so notify all interested parties.

§ 7.16 Investigation.

(a) Subject to the concurrence of the Equal Employment Opportunity Officer, the processing officer shall be responsible for promptly investigating the complaint. The Equal Employment Opportunity Officer may, as he deems necessary, assume jurisdiction in the conduct of the investigation; this may include requesting that the investigation be conducted by the Inspection Division.

(b) In conducting the investigation, the processing officer in his discretion may waive or terminate the investigation if at any point the complaint is resolved in accordance with § 7.17.

(c) The investigation shall include a thorough review of the circumstances under which the alleged discrimination occurred, the treatment of members of the complainant's group identified by his complaint as compared with the treatment of other employees in the organizational segment in which the alleged discrimination occurred, and any policies and practices related to the work situation which may constitute, or appear to constitute, discrimination even though they have not been expressly cited by the complainant.

(d) The processing officer shall furnish the complainant and his representative a written summary which contains all the information in the investigation that is material to the resolution of the complaint.

§ 7.17 Informal adjustment of complaint.

After the complainant or his representative has been furnished the written summary of the investigation, the officer processing the complaint shall endeavor to adjust the complaint on an informal basis. This subpart does not prohibit a processing officer, at any stage during the processing of a complaint, from discussing the matter with the complainant with a view to resolving the matter on an informal basis. If such informal negotiation results in a resolution satisfactory to the complainant, the case may be closed if the complainant voluntarily submits a written request for the withdrawal of his complaint and upon approval of the Equal Employment Opportunity Officer.

§ 7.18 Hearing.

(a) Offer of hearing. In any case which is not disposed of informally, the processing officer shall advise the complainant in writing of the tentative findings of the processing officer, of the complainant's right to a hearing, and of the importance on his part to indicate within 10 days, and preferably on a form to be provided, whether or not he desires a hearing. If the complainant indicates that he does not desire a hearing, or if after 10 days from the date of delivery of the tentative findings to the complainant the processing officer has received no indication as to whether or not the complainant desires a hearing, he shall then transmit his findings with the complete case file to the Equal Employment Opportunity Officer, simultaneously furnishing a copy of the findings to the appropriate Assistant Secretary, the General Counsel, the President of FNMA, Regional Administrator, or other head of office reporting directly to the Secretary.

(b) Hearing officer. A hearing officer shall be selected by the processing officer with the approval of the Equal Employment Opportunity Officer and shall be an employee specially selected and trained to conduct hearings. The hearing officer shall not be a person who either investigated the complaint or took or reviewed an action or decision giving rise to the complaint.

(c) Prehearing conference. In arranging for the hearing, the hearing officer shall set up a prehearing conference at which he shall seek to clarify the issues, accept stipulations on facts to which both parties agree, establish schedule for the proceedings, and explain his role in the proceedings.

(d) Conduct of hearing. The hearing officer shall conduct the hearing so as to bring out pertinent facts, including the production of pertinent documents. Rules of evidence shall not be applied strictly, but the hearing officer shall exclude irrelevant or unduly repetitious evidence. Information having a bearing on the complaint or an employment policy or practice relevant to the complaint shall be received in evidence. The complainant, his representative, and the representatives of the Department at the hearing shall be given the opportunity to cross-examine witnesses who appear and testify. Testimony shall be under oath or affirmation.

(e) Witnesses. (1) Department employees shall be made available as witnesses upon a showing satisfactory to the hearing officer of the reasonable necessity therefor, when the complainant makes such a request and when it is administratively practicable to comply with the request. Requests for the attendance of witnesses shall be made in writing to the hearing officer at least 10 calendar days prior to the date of the hearing.

(2) Employees shall be in a duty status during the time they are made available as witnesses; all witnesses shall be free from restraint, interference, coercion, discrimination, or reprisal in presenting testimony.

(3) Reasons for a denial of a request for the appearance of an employee as a witness shall be documented in the record of the complaint.

(f) Right to counsel at hearing. A complainant in proceedings under this subpart shall have the right, in connection with the hearing, to be accompanied, represented, and advised by counsel, or by any other representative of his choosing.

(g) Record of hearing. (1) The hearing officer shall record the hearing on a verbatim basis or prepare a written summary of the hearing. When the hearing is recorded by a voice-recording machine and the Department does not furnish the complainant a transcript, the Department shall give the complainant and his representative an opportunity to listen to the recording, together with a copy of the summary of the hearing. When the hearing is summarized, the summary of the hearing shall, as a minimum, identify each witness and summarize his testimony. The Department shall include with the verbatim transcript or written summary of the hearing all documents submitted to and accepted by the hearing officer. The Department shall give the complainant a copy of the transcript when the hearing is transcribed on a verbatim basis or a copy of the summary of the hearing. If a summary of a hearing is made, the parties shall be entitled to submit written exceptions to the summary and any exceptions so submitted shall be made part of the record of the hearing.

(2) The hearing officer shall transmit the record of hearing, together with appropriate findings thereon, to the Equal Employment Opportunity Officer, simultaneously furnishing a copy of the record of the hearing, together with a copy of the findings, through the Deputy Equal Employment Opportunity Officer to the appropriate Assistant Secretary, the President of FNMA, Regional Administrator, or other head of office reporting directly to the Secretary.

§ 7.19 Final decision.

(a) The Equal Employment Opportunity Officer shall make the final decision on a complaint processed under this subpart, except with respect to an employee in his jurisdiction, in which case the matter will be referred to the Secretary or Under Secretary. The decision shall be in writing and shall resolve the issue of discrimination raised by the complainant. Any required remedial action determined to be necessary or desirable to resolve the issue shall be incorporated in the notice of final decision. Copies of the decision shall be sent to the complainant and his representative, to the processing officer, and to the appropriate Assistant Secretary, the President of FNMA, Regional Administrator, or other head of office reporting directly to the Secretary.

(b) The written notice of decision shall advise the complainant of his right to appeal to the Civil Service Commission if he is not satisfied with the resolution of the complaint. The notice shall also advise him of the time limit within which an appeal may be filed.

(c) A decision by the Equal Employment Opportunity Officer may be reopened and reconsidered by the Secretary, who may affirm, modify, or reverse the decision, request further investigation, or grant a new hearing.

§ 7.20 Avoidance of delay.

(a) Complaints shall be processed expeditiously and within 60 calendar days from the date of receipt when no hearing is held, or within 90 calendar days if a hearing is held. The processing officer shall keep the Equal Employment Opportunity Officer advised of the progress being made with regard to each complaint and shall inform him immediately of any unforeseen or undue delay. When a complaint has not been processed within the prescribed time limits, the complainant may appeal to the Civil Service Commission for a review of the reasons for the processing delay.

(b) The Equal Employment Opportunity Officer may cancel a complaint if the complainant fails to pursue a complaint without undue delay. The complainant must be notified in writing of any such cancellation and of his right to appeal such cancellation to the Civil Service Commission. In lieu of cancellation, the complaint may be adjudicated if sufficient information is available for that purpose.

§ 7.21 Complaint file.

A file for each complaint shall be established in the Office of the Equal Employment Opportunity Officer, and as a minimum shall include copies of:

(a) The complaint;

(b) A written summary of the investigation;

(c) A record of the hearing (if a hearing was held);

(d) The decision; and

(e) If the complaint is reopened by the Secretary, the decision of the Secretary showing the reconsideration given the complaint. The complaint file shall not contain any document that has not been made available to the complainant.

APPEAL TO THE CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION

§ 7.31 Entitlement.

(a) A complainant may appeal to the Civil Service Commission a final decision made under this subpart that:

(1) Rejects his complaint because it was not filed within the prescribed time limits, or determined not to meet the requirements of this subpart; or

(2) Cancels his complaint because of the complainant's failure to prosecute the complaint, or because of the complainant's voluntary separation for reasons not related to the complaint; or

(3) Does not resolve the complaint to his satisfaction.

(b) An appeal under paragraph (a) of this section must be presented in writing and filed with the Board of Appeals and Review, U.S. Civil Service Commission, Washington, D.C. 20415.

(c) A complainant may not appeal to the Civil Service Commission under paragraph (a) of this section when the issue of discrimination giving rise to the complaint is being considered, or has been considered, in connection with any other appeal by the complainant to the Commission.

§ 7.32 Time limit.

(a) An appeal to the Commission may be filed at any time after the receipt of notice of final decision, but no later than 10 calendar days after receipt of that notice.

(b) The Commission may extend the prescribed time limits upon a showing by the complainant that he was not advised of the time limit or that he was otherwise unaware of it or that circumstances beyond his control prevented him from filing within the prescribed time limit.

Subpart B—Equal Opportunity Without Regard to Politics, Marital Status, or Physical Handicap

§ 7.41 Policy.

(a) In determining the merit and fitness of a person for competitive appointment or appointment by noncompetitive action to a position in the competitive service within the Department, appointing officers, selecting officials, and other employees who participate in the selection process shall not discriminate on the basis of the person's political affiliations (except when required by statute) or marital status, nor shall they discriminate on the basis of a physical handicap with respect to any position the duties of which may be performed efficiently by a person with the physical handicap.

(b) No officer or employee of the Department shall take an adverse action against an employee covered by the Civil Service Commission regulations, nor shall action be taken to terminate a probationer under the Commission's regulations, (1) for political reasons, except when required by statute; (2) that is based on discrimination because of marital status; or (3) because of a physical handicap with respect to any position the duties of which may be performed efficiently by a person with the physical handicap.

Subpart C—Equal Opportunity Without Regard to Sex

§ 7.51 Policy.

It is the policy of the Department to pursue and maintain a positive program to assure equal opportunity in employment and advancement without regard to sex.

§ 7.52 Specific prohibitions.

(a) In determining the merit and fitness of a person for competitive appointment, for appointment by noncompetitive action to a position in the competitive service within the Department, or for any other position change in the competitive service, appointing officers, selecting officials, or other employees who participate in the selection process shall not discriminate on the basis of the person's sex.

(b) An appointing officer, selecting official, or other employee who participates in the selection process shall not restrict his consideration of eligibles or employees for competitive appointment or appointment by noncompetitive action to positions in the competitive service within the Department to one sex, except in unusual circumstances when the Civil Service Commission finds the action justified. Any request for Commission approval to so restrict the consideration of eligibles must be based upon objective nondiscriminatory standards.

(c) At the direction of the Director of Personnel of the Department, designated personnel officers shall establish such procedures as may be necessary to assure that there shall be no discrimination because of sex in the selection of employees for training under the Civil Service Commission regulations and that a supervisor may not restrict his consideration of employees for selection for training to one sex, except in unusual circumstances when the Commission finds the action justified.

(d) Sex may not be used as a basis for assigning a position to a competitive level under the Civil Service Commission reduction-in-force regulations, except for a position for which restriction of certification of eligibles by sex is found justified by the Commission. The sex of an employee may not be considered as a factor in determining the employee's qualifications for a position under the Civil Service Commission reduction-in-force regulations, except where the position is one for which restriction of certification of eligibles by sex is found justified by the Commission.

(e) An adverse action shall not be taken against an employee covered by the Civil Service Commission adverse action regulations, nor may action be taken to terminate a probationer, because of the sex of the employee or of the probationer.

§ 7.53 Appeal to the Civil Service Commission.

(a) When a complaint of discrimination because of sex is not resolved under appropriate administrative appeal procedures to the satisfaction of the complainant, the complainant may, within a reasonable time, file an appeal with the Civil Service Commission.

(b) When the basis of the complaint of discrimination because of sex of the complainant involves an action that is otherwise appealable to the Civil Service Commission, the case will be processed under the regulations appropriate to that appeal when the complainant makes a timely appeal in accordance with the regulations in this part.

Effective date. The regulations in this part shall be effective as of May 1, 1967.

Title 32—NATIONAL DEFENSE

Chapter I—Office of the Secretary of Defense

SUBCHAPTER O—MILITARY POSTAL SERVICE

PART 280—USE OF MILITARY POSTAL SERVICE

The following revision to Part 280 was approved by the Deputy Secretary of Defense on July 10, 1967:

Sec.
280.1 Purpose and applicability.
280.2 Scope and definitions.
280.3 Policy and principles.
280.4 Responsibilities.

AUTHORITY: The provisions of this Part 280 issued under 5 U.S.C. 301.

§ 280.1 Purpose and applicability.

This part reissues DoD Directive 4605.1, "Use of Military Postal Service," dated January 8, 1955, designates the organizations, agencies, and personnel entitled to use the facilities of the military postal service, and prescribes policies and procedures governing the furnishing of uniform postal support by the Military Departments.

§ 280.2 Scope and definitions.

The military postal service includes the postal facilities of the Army, Navy, and the Air Force established under DoD Directive 5030.11,[1] "Postal Agreement Between the Post Office Department and the Department of Defense," dated March 5, 1959.

(a) These facilities are maintained and operated for the purpose of providing complete postal services for the U.S. Armed Forces in areas where the U.S. Civil Postal Service does not operate and in any other place where the military situation requires.

(b) This service is an extension of the U.S. domestic postal system and operates in conformity with the U.S. Postal Manual, published under Title 39, "Postal Service," Code of Federal Regulations; other Post Office Department instructions, and military directives.

§ 280.3 Policy and principles.

(a) As outlined in DoD Directive 5030.11,[1] "Postal Agreement Between the Post Office Department and the Department of Defense," dated March 5, 1959 (Enclosure 1, sec. 1, par. 4) the establishment, operation, and use of the U.S. Military Postal Service in sovereign foreign countries "in peace-time" is contingent upon agreement with the host government, since it is customary among nations to preserve a monopoly of postal service, including postage revenue and control of customs.

(1) International agreements permitting establishment of military postal facilities usually limit the use of such facilities to the Armed Forces and certain civilian agencies and organizations serving with or related to the Armed Forces.

(2) The cost of operating military postal facilities overseas is borne by the Military Departments. Currently, that cost includes the transportation of Army and Air Post Office/Fleet Post Office (APO/FPO) mail, inter- and intra-command, between the United States and overseas areas, exclusive of territories and possessions, both by air and surface transport, commercial as well as military.

(b) The Secretaries of the Military Departments are authorized to (1) furnish postal support to the eligible individuals and agencies listed in this part in accordance with the principles specified herein, and (2) make determinations as to the eligibility of other agencies or individuals to receive postal support under such policies and principles.

(c) Postal support will be furnished only when all of the following conditions are met:

(1) Agencies and individuals requesting postal support are providing services to the U.S. Armed Forces which are essential or of substantial assistance to the accomplishment of the U.S. Government mission. Commercial activities requesting postal support must serve the U.S. Forces exclusively.

(2) The furnishing of postal support to agencies and individuals:

(i) Will not interfere with the accomplishment of the U.S. military mission.

(ii) Is consistent with the terms of any agreements which the United States has entered into with the government of the nation concerned.

(iii) Will not place the privileges and immunities of the U.S. Forces in jeopardy.

(d) Postal support furnished in accordance with this part will be periodically reviewed by commanders with the purpose of adjusting such support to conform with current missions.

(e) Where more than one Military Department has postal facilities within an area, postal support policies shall be coordinated to attain uniformity of application.

(f) The following personnel and organizations are entitled to use the military postal facilities:

(1) Members and units of the U.S. Armed Forces on active duty, including the U.S. Coast Guard.

(2) U.S. citizen employees of the Department of Defense, who are serving with U.S. military activities in a foreign country, or any area, territory, or possession of the United States where no U.S. civil post office is available.

(3) U.S. citizen representatives of the American Red Cross who are attached to and accompanying U.S. Armed Forces.

(4) U.S. contractors and their U.S. citizen employees engaged in work under contract with the U.S. Government. (When postal support is not provided for in the contract, it will be furnished in accordance with the policy and principles of this part.)

(5) American dependent schools and their U.S. citizen employees, when such schools are operated from appropriated U.S. Government funds.

(6) Civilian religious representatives or religious groups visiting overseas commands in the interest of and to assist the U.S. forces, provided such persons have obtained an official invitation to travel as specified in DoD Instruction 1330.1 "Visits of Civilian Religious Leaders to Military Installations in Overseas Areas," dated August 11, 1966.

(7) Celebrities and entertainers; athletic clinic instructors; representatives of educational institutions or other social agencies, whose purpose is to provide a service to the United States (such individuals shall have been officially invited to travel to overseas under provisions of DoD Instruction 1330.13,[1] "Armed Forces Professional Entertainment Program Overseas," dated August 20, 1959.

(8) United Service Organizations, Inc. (USO), and their U.S. citizen employees when established in overseas areas, under provisions of DoD Directive 1330.12,[1] "United Service Organizations, Inc.," dated December 6, 1960.

(9) Foreign military nationals on duty or training with a U.S. military organization or unit.

(i) Such individuals may utilize the military postal facilities for purchase of stamps, and receipt and dispatch of mail to and from their home country only.

(ii) In correspondence with persons in their home country, mail will be addressed in the same manner as it would be if they were in their home country. The use of a U.S. military postal address in home country is not authorized.

(10) U.S. military banking facilities designated by the Secretary of the Treasury as a Depository and Financial Agent of the U.S. Government in overseas areas.

(i) Postal support is limited to transactions emanating from official operations for the benefit of the military activities and their personnel.

(ii) U.S. citizen employees of such banking facilities are authorized use of the Military Postal Service.

(11) Nonappropriated fund activities and their U.S. citizen employees, when such activities have been defined as instrumentalities of the U.S. Government.

(12) U.S. universities and colleges (and their U.S. citizen employees) operating in oversea areas by authority of the Secretaries of the Military Departments to provide education to members of the military service and their authorized dependents.

(13) Dependents of the personnel in Item 12, above, when accompanying the principal (postal privileges will be withdrawn ninety (90) days subsequent to the departure of the sponsor when the dependent remains overseas or when sponsorship is terminated for any other reason).

(14) U.S. citizen correspondent and public information agencies who have been accredited by The Assistant Secretary of Defense (Public Affairs) under DoD Directive 5122.5,[1] "Assistant Secretary of Defense (Public Affairs," dated July 10, 1961 (26 F.R. 7111)), and subject to approval of the oversea unified commander.

(15) Masters and civilian crews of Military Sea Transportation Service nucleus fleet ships, and merchant ships operating for the account of the Military Sea Transportation Service, including contract operated, time chartered, consecutive voyage chartered and General Agency Agreement vessels, under conditions prescribed by the Military Departments.

(16) International Military Commands and agencies of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) (as specified in DoD Instruction 2010.1,[1] "Support of International Military Activities," dated Mar. 1, 1961), for official mail only.

(g) The following personnel and organizations are entitled to use U.S. military postal facilities located in foreign countries to the extent that military postal facilities of the command permit; or, in areas where the military Commander-in-Chief deems the local civil postal service to be inadequate:

(1) Members of the Armed Forces of Allies or contingents thereof assigned or attached to the U.S. Armed Forces corresponding to and from their home country only.

(2) U.S. Government departments and independent agencies, U.S. citizen employees thereof, and their dependents, when accompanying the principal.

(3) Retired personnel of the U.S. Armed Forces and their dependents when accompanying the principal.

(4) U.S. nonprofit, service, social, civic, and fraternal type organizations providing all individual members are authorized privileges in their own right.

(5) U.S. Federal employee organizations at overseas bases for the conduct of labor union business.

(h) Upon request of the foreign government concerned, foreign military units serving with the U.S. Armed Forces may be authorized to transmit closed mails through U.S. military postal channels when adequate international postal facilities are not available.

(i) Vessels under U.S. Navy operational control being transferred to foreign governments under military assistance programs may be authorized to use the Military Postal Service while enroute to their home country.

(j) Other allied warships participating in U.S. naval maneuvers or operating in U.S. waters may be authorized to use the facilities of the Navy Postal Service for receiving closed mail on request, provided that the mail is transported at the requesting country's expense to the appropriate Fleet Post Office.

(k) Request for authority for persons and organizations not enumerated in paragraphs (a) through (j) of this section to use military postal facilities in time of peace, or request for exceptions to the above, may be submitted to appropriate departmental headquarters which, through mutual coordination and agreement with the other military departments, will approve or disapprove each request.

(i) Such individuals must be in overseas areas where international postal service is not available or adequate.

(2) If adequate international postal service becomes available subsequent to the authorization, use of the Military Postal Service will be withdrawn.

§ 280.4 Responsibilities.

In carrying out the provisions of this part the Secretaries of the Military Departments will assure that:

(a) The provisions of the U.S. Post Office Department Manual (Title 39, "Postal Service," Code of Federal Regulations) and local restrictions are enforced to prevent military post offices from accepting prohibited items of mail.

(g) Organizations, agencies, and individuals no longer eligible to use the postal service discontinue such use not later than ninety (90) days subsequent to the date they are notified of ineligibility.

§ 14.608 Collection action; damage to or loss of Government property.

(b) The Chief Attorney may collect, compromise, suspend, or terminated collection action on any such claim not exceeding $2,500 in conformity with the standards in § 1.900 series of this chapter. Whenever a motor pool system vehicle is involved in an accident, resulting in damage to the property of, or injury to the person of, a third party, and the third party asserts a claim against the Veterans Administration based upon the alleged negligence of the vehicle operator, the claim will be considered under § 14.600 et seq.

(a) When overages, shortages, or damages are incurred in shipments of stock items on which GSA pays the transportation charge, agencies shall document such discrepancies with sufficient information to enable initiation and processing of claims against carriers for shortages and damages and the disposition of any overages in shipment.

Discrepancies which are incurred in shipments on which GSA does not pay the transportation charge will be processed in accordance with instructions contained in § 101-47.702 of this chapter.

(b) Standard Form 361, Discrepancy in Shipment Report (illustrated at § 101-40.4906-3 of this chapter), shall be used to report discrepancies in accordance with instructions contained in this § 101-26.307 and the GSA Handbook, Over, Short, or Damaged Shipments from GSA Supply Depots, promulgated by the Commissioner, Federal Supply Service.

* * * * *

§ 101-26.307-2 Adjustments.

GSA will adjust any damage or other discrepancy resulting from over or under deliveries or from over or under charges. When the difference involved represents an amount of $5 or less on any one invoice, no adjustment in billing or payment is required. (GAO Manual, Title 7, par. 4220.30.) However, agencies are not relieved from the requirement to report discrepancies on Standard Form 361 when the value involved is less than $5.

§ 101-26.309 Cancellation of orders for GSA stock items.

When an agency determines that material ordered from GSA is not required, GSA will accept requests for cancellation as long as the items ordered have not been shipped. However, since processing cancellations is costly and interferes with normal order processing, agencies are cautioned to use discretion in requesting cancellation of low dollar value orders. Cancellation of orders may be accomplished by agencies through written, telegraphic, or telephonic communication with the GSA regional office to which the order was sent. However, telephonic communication should be used whenever feasible to forestall shipment of material and subsequent billing by GSA. If material has been shipped, GSA will advise that cancellation cannot be effected and agency requests for return for credit will be processed under the provisions of §§ 101-26.310 and 101-26.311.

§ 101-26.4902-1052 [Deleted]

Section 101-26.4902-1052, which illustrates GSA form 1052, Over, Short, and/or Damage Report, is deleted.

Proposed Rule Making

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Consumer and Marketing Service

[7 CFR Part 987]

[Docket No. AO 269-A4]

DOMESTIC DATES PRODUCED OR PACKED IN DESIGNATED AREA OF CALIFORNIA

Decision and Referendum Order With Respect to Proposed Amendment of Marketing Agreement and Order, as Amended

Pursuant to the rules of practice and procedure governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held in Indio, Calif., on April 12, 1967, after notice thereof published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (32 F.R. 4417) on proposals to amend the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 987, as amended (7 CFR Part 987), regulating the handling of domestic dates produced or packed in a designated area of California. The amended marketing agreement and the amended order are effective pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601–674).

On the basis of the evidence adduced at the hearing, and the record thereof, the recommended decision in this proceeding was filed on June 1, 1967, with the Hearing Clerk, U.S. Department of Agriculture, and notice thereof, affording opportunity to file written exceptions thereto, was published June 7, 1967, in the FEDERAL REGISTER (F.R. Doc. 67–6309; 32 F.R. 8171).

The material issues, findings and conclusions, and general findings of the recommended decision set forth in the FEDERAL REGISTER (F.R. Doc. 67–6309; 32 F.R. 8171) are hereby approved and adopted as the material issues, findings and conclusions, and general findings of this decision as if set forth in full herein, except as they are modified by the ruling on the exception as hereinafter set forth.

Ruling on exception. An exception to the recommended decision was filed, within the prescribed time, by Billy J. Peightal, for California Date Growers Association, Indio, Calif. This exception has been considered carefully and fully, in conjunction with the evidence in the record and the proposed findings and conclusions of the recommended decision, in arriving at the findings and conclusions set forth herein.

The exception, and the ruling thereon, is as follows:

Exception was taken to the recommended decision because it did not conclude that § 987.51 should be revised to require dates certified for handling, which are transferred to, and repacked by, a handler who also packs field-run dates, to be recertified following the repacking. While this requirement is evident from the several provisions of the order, it would be helpful to specifically state it. Therefore, the exception is granted. At the end of the discussion (32 F.R. 8172) on material issue (1) in the recommended decision, a paragraph reading as follows is added: "However, if dates certified for handling are transferred to, and repacked by, a handler who also packs and handles dates received as field-run dates, the certified dates received and repacked should be recertified prior to handling. Such has been the practice under the program based on an interpretation of the present provisions on inspection and transfer, and this should be clarified within the provisions of the marketing agreement and order. These transfers occur among regular handlers within the area of production. Recertification is the necessary means of assuring that any commingling of certified dates with uncertified dates, in operations involving repacking, will not result in packed dates failing to meet grade requirements. Accordingly, § 987.51 should be amended by adding thereto the following: 'Except for packed dates inspected and certified for handling prior to transfer and which are not repacked, any receiving handler (other than a repacker not otherwise a handler, who shall comply with § 987.53) shall comply with the requirements of § 987.41 on all dates, but this shall apply to repacked dates previously inspected and certified for handling only if the handler also packs dates received as field-run dates'". Section 987.51 is amended to effect this conclusion.

Amendment of the amended marketing agreement and order. Annexed hereto and made a part hereof are two documents entitled, respectively, "Marketing Agreement, as Amended, Regulating the Handling of Domestic Dates Produced or Packed in a Designated Area of California" and "Order Amending the Order, as Amended, Regulating the Handling of Domestic Dates Produced or Packed in a Designated Area of California" which have been decided upon as the appropriate and detailed means of effecting the foregoing conclusions. These documents shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the aforesaid rules of practice and procedure governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders have been met.

Referendum order. Pursuant to the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601–674), it is hereby directed that a referendum be conducted among producers who, during the period August 1, 1966, through May 31, 1967 (which period is hereby determined to be a representative period for the purpose of such referendum), have been engaged in the production of the Deglet Noor, Zahidi, Halawy, or Khadrawy variety of domestic dates produced or packed in the area of production (i.e., the Counties of Riverside, Orange, and Los Angeles, and that portion of San Bernardino County lying west of 116° W. longitude, located within the State of California) to ascertain whether such producers favor the issuance of the said annexed order amending the order, as amended, regulating the handling of domestic dates produced or packed in a designated area of California.

Warren C. Noland, Edmund J. Blaine, and Joseph C. Genske, of the Fruit and Vegetable Division, Consumer and Marketing Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, are hereby designated referendum agents of the Secretary of Agriculture to conduct said referendum severally or jointly.

The procedure applicable to the referendum shall be the "Procedure for the Conduct of Referenda in Connection with Marketing Orders for Fruits, Vegetables, and Tree Nuts Pursuant to the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as Amended" (30 F.R. 15414).

The ballots used in the referendum shall contain a summary describing the terms and conditions of the proposed amendatory order.

Any producer entitled to vote in the referendum who does not receive a copy of the aforesaid annexed order, voting instructions, or a ballot or other necessary information will be able to obtain the same from Warren C. Noland, Los Angeles Marketing Field Office, Fruit and Vegetable Division, Consumer and Marketing Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, 1031 South Broadway, Los Angeles, Calif. 90015.

It is hereby ordered, That all of this decision and referendum order, except the annexed marketing agreement, as amended, be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The regulatory provisions of the said marketing agreement, as amended, are identical with those contained in the said order, as amended, and as further amended by the annexed order which will be published with this decision.

Dated: July 27, 1967.

GEORGE L. MEHREN,
Assistant Secretary.

Order[1] Amending the Order, as Amended, Regulating the Handling of Domestic Dates Produced or Packed in a Designated Area of California

§ 987.0 Findings and determinations.

(a) Previous findings and determinations. The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary, and in addition, to the findings and determinations made in connection with the issuance of the order and previously issued amendments thereto; and all of said prior findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed except insofar as such prior findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein. (For prior findings and determinations see 20 F.R. 5056; 23 F.R. 6904; 27 F.R. 6817; 29 F.R. 9706.)

(b) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601–674), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure effective thereunder (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held in Indio, Calif., on April 12, 1967, on a proposed amendment of the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 987, as amended (7 CFR Part 987), regulating the handling of domestic dates produced or packed in a designated area of California. On the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order, as amended and as hereby further amended, and all the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(2) The said order, as amended and as hereby further amended, regulates the handling of domestic dates produced or packed in a designated area of California in the same manner as, and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of commercial or industrial activity specified in, the marketing agreement and order upon which hearings have been held;

(3) The said order, as amended and as hereby further amended, is limited in application to the smallest regional production area which is practicable, consistently with carrying out the declared policy of the act, and the issuance of several orders applicable to subdivisions of the area of production would not effectively carry out the declared policy of the act;

(4) There are no differences in the production and marketing of domestic dates in the area of production covered by the order, as amended and as hereby further amended, which would require different terms applicable to different parts of such area; and

(5) All handling of domestic dates produced or packed in the area of production is in the current of interstate or foreign commerce or directly burdens, obstructs, or affects such commerce.

It is therefore, ordered, That, on and after the effective date hereof, all handling of domestic dates produced or packed in the area of production shall be in conformity to, and in compliance with, the terms and conditions of the said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended as follows:

DEFINITIONS

1. Revise § 987.8 to read:

§ 987.8 Handler.

"Handler" means any person handling dates which have not been inspected and certified for handling in the hands of a previous holder and any repacker: Provided, That for the purposes of §§ 987.22 and 987.24 a person shall qualify as a handler only if he has acquired the dates directly from producers.

2. Add a new section, § 987.8a, as follows:

§ 987.8a Repacker.

"Repacker" means any wholesaler or jobber who receives packed dates certified for handling pursuant to § 987.41(a), repackages them in containers other than those in which received, and handles such repackaged dates.

DATE ADMINISTRATIVE COMMITTEE

3. Revise §§ 987.21 and 987.22 to read:

§ 987.21 Establishment of Date Administrative Committee.

A Date Administrative Committee composed of seven members is hereby established to administer the terms and conditions of this part: Provided, That the number of members may be changed pursuant to § 987.22 (b) and (c). For each member there shall be an alternate member, and the provisions of this part applicable to the number, nomination, and selection of members shall also apply to the number, nomination, and selection of alternate members.

§ 987.22 Membership representation.

(a) Members shall be selected by the Secretary from the following groups:

(1) The group comprised of (i) handlers each of whom produced during the then current crop year through February at least 51 percent of all the dates handled by him during such period, and (ii) producers each of whom delivered to such handlers during such period at least 50 percent of his deliveries to all handlers during the period.

(2) The group comprised of cooperative marketing associations.

(3) The group comprised of all other handlers and producers.

(b) Each such group shall have, for each term of office, one member for each quantity of dates handled in the group that represents 14.28 percent of the tonnage handled by all groups: Provided, That each group shall have at least one member. For each term of office, the tonnages handled shall be those handled through February of the crop year in which the selection occurs. In computing the number of members for a group, the group may have, in addition to one member for each full 14.28 percent, one member for any remaining fractional part more than one-half of the basic 14.28 percent. To provide a member for any such fractional part and at least one member for each group, the Secretary may increase the total number of members of the Committee beyond seven. When a group specified in paragraph (a) (1) or (3) of this section is entitled to an even number of members, one-half of the members shall be handler members and one-half shall be producer members; and when such a group is entitled to an odd number of members other than one, there shall be one more handler member than producer members. At least one of the members for the group specified in paragraph (a)(2) of this section shall be an employee of a cooperative marketing association in such group and serve as a handler member, and the remainder of the members for the group shall be producer members of such associations.

(c) The members of the Committee serving on the effective date of this amended subpart shall, subject to the limitations in § 987.25, continue to serve during the remainder of the term of office ending May 14, 1968, and as provided in § 987.23. The number of members as provided in § 987.122 prior to such effective date for each of the various groups (i.e., one member for the group specified in paragraph (a)(1) of this section, five members for the group specified in paragraph (a)(2) of this section, and one member for the group specified in paragraph (a)(3) of this section) shall continue applicable so long as the number of members for each group meets the requirements prescribed in paragraph (b) of this section. Whenever it is determined pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section that a change of representation is required for the ensuing term of office, the Secretary shall, on the basis of information submitted by the Committee and other available information, revise the representation consistent with the provisions of said paragraph (b) of this section.

4. Revise § 987.24 to read:

§ 987.24 Nomination and selection.

(a) Each group specified in § 987.22 (a) may nominate, at a nomination meeting or meetings held during each crop year on or before April 15, nominees for members to represent the group during the ensuing term of office. For any group specified in § 987.22(a) (1) or (3) entitled to more than one member, separate meetings of producers and of handlers shall be held. For any such group which is not entitled to more than one member, joint meetings of producers and handlers shall be held. Except as otherwise set forth in this section, in any of such meetings each producer and each handler shall be entitled to one vote for each position to be filled, and the individual receiving the highest number of votes for the position shall be the nominee. Whenever there is more than one cooperative marketing association in the group specified in § 987.22(a)(2), the associations shall jointly select their nominees. In case of lack of agreement among the associations, and in the voting by handlers separately from producers of the group specified in § 987.22 (a) (3), the vote for each position shall be weighted by the tonnage of dates each association or handler acquired from producers and had certified for handling or for further processing during the then current crop year through February.

(b) Immediately after the completion of the meetings covered by this section, the Committee shall report to the Secretary the nominees for each position together with a certificate of all necessary tonnage data and other information deemed by the Committee to be pertinent or which is required by the Secretary. The Secretary shall select, in his discretion, members from such nominees or from other qualified persons; but any such selection shall be from the groups, and on the basis, prescribed in § 987.22. However, the Secretary shall allow a reasonable time for nominations to be received before proceeding with any selection without regard to nominations.

MARKET DEVELOPMENT

5. Revise § 987.33 to read:

§ 987.33 Research and promotion.

(a) The Committee, with the approval of the Secretary, may establish or provide for the establishment of marketing research and development projects, including marketing promotion and paid advertising, designed to assist, improve, or promote the marketing, distribution, and consumption of dates. The expenses of such projects shall be paid from funds collected pursuant to § 987.72. However, no program of paid advertising nor major program of marketing promotion shall be adopted unless favored by at least six Committee members when the total membership is seven, or seven members when the total is eight. Upon conclusion of each program, but at least annually, the Committee shall summarize and report on the program status and accomplishments, to its members and the Secretary. A similar report to the Committee shall be required of any contracting party on any paid advertising or major program. Also, for each advertising or major program the contracting party shall be required to maintain records of money received and expenditures and such shall be available to the Committee and the Secretary. The Committee shall, with the approval of the Secretary, establish criteria which will determine such major program.

§ 987.39 [Amended]

6. At the end of the first sentence of § 987.39 insert before the period "for any variety of dates."

§ 987.51 [Amended]

7. At the end of § 987.51 add: "Except for packed dates inspected and certified for handling prior to transfer and which are not repacked, any receiving handler (other than a repacker not otherwise a handler, who shall comply with § 987.53) shall comply with the requirements of § 987.41 on all dates, but this shall apply to repacked dates previously inspected and certified for handling only if the handler also packs dates received as field-run dates."

8. Add a new section, § 987.53, as follows:

§ 987.53 Application of regulations to repackers.

Repackers shall be exempt from those requirements of this part, including reporting requirements, with respect to packed dates which had been certified for handling, pursuant to § 987.41(a), prior to receipt, except that: (a) A repacker who processes such dates by machine pitting shall comply with the grade, size, inspection, certification, and identification requirements, and (b) a repacker who repackages such dates in containers other than those in which received, shall comply with the then effective container regulations established pursuant to § 987.48.

Federal Aviation Administration

[14 CFR Part 39]

[Docket No. 8300]

AIRWORTHINESS DIRECTIVES

BAC 1-11 Model 212AR, 401AK, and 410AQ Airplanes

The Federal Aviation Administration is considering amending Part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations by adding an airworthiness directive applicable to British Aircraft Corp., BAC 1-11 Model 212AR, 401AK, and 410AQ airplanes which have a center fuel tank fitted with Thompson Ramo fuel pumps P/N 248800/4 or pumps manufactured under license by Plessey which include additional part numbers 570/1/21221/004. It has been determined that failure or disengagement of a fuel pump retaining screw in the center fuel tank installation would permit movement of the pump unit. The movement of this unit would allow fuel leakage due to the displacement of the peripheral seals and might also break the electrical power supply connection to the pump. In view of the seriousness of such a failure and to ensure that failsafe design requirements are maintained, the proposed AD would require inspection of the center fuel tank installation within the next 200 hours' time in service after the effective date of this AD and its modification in accordance with BAC Service Bulletin No. 28-PM 2701 within the next 1,000 hours' time in service after the effective date of this AD.

Interested persons are invited to participate in the making of the proposed rule by submitting such written data, views, or arguments as they may desire. Communications should identify the docket number and be submitted in duplicate to the Federal Aviation Administration, Office of the General Counsel, Attention: Rules Docket, 800 Independence Avenue SW., Washington, D.C. 20590. All communications received on or before August 31, 1967, will be considered by the Administrator before taking action upon the proposed rule. The proposals contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received. All comments will be available, both before and after the closing date for comments, in the Rules Docket for examination by interested persons.

This amendment is proposed under the authority of sections 313(a), 601, and 603 of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (49 U.S.C. 1354(a), 1421, and 1423).

In consideration of the foregoing, it is proposed to amend § 39.13 of Part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations by adding the following new airworthiness directive:

BRITISH AIRCRAFT. Applies to BAC 1-11 airplanes Model/Type 212AR, 401AK, 410AQ, which have a center fuel tank fitted with Thompson Ramo fuel pumps P/N 248800/4 or pumps manufactured under license by Plessey which include additional part numbers 570/1/21221/004.

Compliance required as indicated.

To prevent fuel pump movement and consequent fuel leakage, accomplish the following:

(a) Within the next 200 hours' time in service after the effective date of this AD, unless already accomplished, inspect the center tank fuel pump installation in accordance with BAC 1-11 Alert Service Bulletin 28-A-PM 2701, Issue 1, or later ARB-approved issue, or FAA-approved equivalent.

(b) If leaks are found when conducting the inspection required by paragraph (a), before further flight stop the leaks by repositioning the fuel booster pump and, if necessary, replacing the seals between the pump and cannister.

(c) Within the next 1,000 hours' time in service after the effective date of this AD, modify the center tank fuel booster pumps in accordance with British Aircraft Corp. Service Bulletin No. 28-PM 2701 or later ARB-approved issue, or an equivalent approved by the Chief, Aircraft Certification Staff, European Region.

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 24, 1967.

AIRWORTHINESS DIRECTIVES

Piper PA-28 and PA-32 Series Airplanes

The Federal Aviation Administration is considering amending Part 39 of the Federal Aviation Regulations by adding an airworthiness directive applicable to Piper PA-28 and PA-32 series airplanes. There have been reports of problems in the fuel system which have caused fuel interruptions and inadvertent fuel spillage. Since this condition is likely to exist or develop in other airplanes of the same type design, the proposed airworthiness directive would require modifications to be made to the fuel selector quadrant, quick drain valve operating lever and installation of new fuel lines from the outboard tip tanks.

Interested persons are invited to participate in the making of the proposed rule by submitting such written data, views, or arguments as they may desire. Communications should identify the docket number and be submitted in duplicate to the Federal Aviation Administration, Office of the Regional Counsel, Attention: Rules Docket, Post Office Box 20636, Atlanta, Ga. 30320. All communications received within 30 days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER will be considered by the Administrator before taking action upon the proposed rule. The proposals contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received. All comments will be available, both before and after the closing date for comments, in the Rules Docket for examination by interested persons. This amendment is proposed under the authority of sections 313(a), 601, and 603 of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (49 U.S.C. 1354(a), 1421, 1423). In consideration of the foregoing, it is proposed to amend § 39.13 of the Federal Aviation Regulations by adding the following airworthiness directive:

PIPER. Applies to Piper PA-28 and PA-32 series airplanes. Serial numbers affected are noted below:

Compliance is required within the next 100 hours' time in service after the effective date of this AD unless already accomplished.

To prevent—

(a) Possible sticking of the quick drain in the fuel selector valve;

(b) Improper positioning of the fuel selector valve between detents;

(c) Rotation of the fuel selector lever knob; and

(d) Excessive time delay in reestablishing fuel flow from a tip tank after all of the usable fuel from that tank has been used, accomplish the following:

(a) On Model PA 28-235 airplanes, Serial Nos. 28-10001 through 28-10651; Model PA-32-260 airplanes, Serial Nos. 32-04, 32-1 through 32-14, 32-16 through 32-853; Models PA-32-300 and PA-32S-300 airplanes, Serial Nos. 32-15, 32-40000 through 32-40163:

(1) Install a new manual-return quick-drain valve operating lever, P/N 65289-00;

(2) Install pin in the fuel selector knob;

(3) Install indicators on the fuel selector quadrant to indicate the exact position of the selector valve.

Installation instructions and all necessary parts are contained in Piper Kit No. 757139V and Service Bulletin No. 249.

(b) On Model PA-28-235 airplanes, Serial Nos. 28-10001 through 28-10719: Install new fuel lines at the wing tip tanks in accordance with Piper Service Bulletin 253 and Piper Kit No. 757151V. All necessary parts and installation instructions are contained in this kit.

(c) On Model PA-28-235 airplanes, Serial Nos. 28-10720 through 28-10851; Model PA-32-260 airplanes, Serial Nos. 32-04, 32-1 through 32-14, 32-16 through 32-853; Model PA-32-300, PA-32S-300 airplanes, Serial Nos. 32-15, 32-40000 through 32-40163:

Install new fuel lines at the wing tip tanks in accordance with Piper Service Bulletin 253 and Piper Kit No. 757152V. All necessary parts and installation instructions are contained in this kit.

Other means of compliance with the requirements of this directive may be utilized, if approved by the Chief, Engineering and Manufacturing Branch, Federal Aviation Administration, Southern Region.

Compliance time may be adjusted up to a maxium of 20 hours to coincide with aircraft annual or 100-hour scheduled inspections.

(Piper Service Bulletins No. 249 dated May 16, 1967, and No. 253 dated July 7, 1967, cover this same subject.)

Proposed Alteration

The Federal Aviation Administration is considering amending Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations so as to alter the control zone and the transition area at Alpena, Mich.

Interested persons may participate in the proposed rule making by submitting such written data, views, or arguments as they may desire. Communications should be submitted in triplicate to the Director, Central Region, Attention: Chief, Air Traffic Division, Federal Aviation Administration, Federal Building, 601 East 12th Street, Kansas City, Mo. 64106. All communications received within 45 days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER will be considered before action is taken on the proposed amendments. No public hearing is contemplated at this time, but arrangements for informal conferences with Federal Aviation Administration officials may be made by contacting the Regional Air Traffic Division Chief. Any data, views, or arguments presented during such conferences must also be submitted in writing in accordance with this notice in order to become part of the record for consideration. The proposals contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received.

A public docket will be available for examination by interested persons in the Office of the Regional Counsel, Federal Aviation Administration, Federal Building, 601 East 12th Street, Kansas City, Mo. 64106.

Since designation of the Alpena, Mich., control zone and transition area the airport coordinates for the Phelps-Collins Airport have been changed. In addition, the Federal Aviation Administration has determined that it is necessary to establish two holding patterns for turbojet aircraft operating in the Alpena terminal area. Therefore, it is necessary to alter the Alpena control zone and transition area to reflect the changes in coordinates and to further alter the 1,200-foot floor transition area to protect turbojet aircraft in the holding patterns.

In consideration of the foregoing, the Federal Aviation Administration proposes to amend Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations as hereinafter set forth:

(1) In § 71.171 (32 F.R. 2071), the following control zone is amended to read:

ALPENA, MICH.

That airspace within a 5-mile radius of Phelps-Collins Airport, Alpena, Mich. (latitude 45°05'00" N., longitude 83°33'00" W.); within 2 miles each side of the Alpena VORTAC 346° radial, extending from the 5-mile radius zone to 8 miles north of the VORTAC; within 2 miles each side of the Alpena VORTAC 166° radial, extending from the 5-mile radius zone to 8 miles south of the VORTAC; within 2 miles each side of the Alpena VORTAC 306° radial extending from the 5-mile radius zone to 8 miles northwest of the VORTAC; and within 2 miles each side of the 180° bearing from the Alpena RBN, extending from the 5-mile radius zone to the RBN. This control zone is effective during the specific dates and times established in advance by a Notice to Airmen. The effective date and time will thereafter be continuously published in the Airman's Information Manual.

(2) In § 71.181 (32 F.R. 2148) the following transition area is amended to read:

ALPENA, MICH.

That airspace extending upward from 700 feet above the surface within a 7-mile radius of Phelps-Collins Airport, Alpena, Mich. (latitude 45°05'00" N., longitude 83°33'00" W.); within 5 miles east and 8 miles west of the 180° and 360° bearings from the Alpena RBN, extending from 2 miles south to 12 miles north of the RBN, within 5 miles west and 8 miles east of the Alpena VORTAC 186° radial, extending from the VORTAC to 12 miles south of the VORTAC, within 5 miles east and 8 miles west of the Alpena VORTAC 346° radial, extending from the VORTAC to 22 miles north of the VORTAC, and within 5 miles northeast and 8 miles southwest of the Alpena VORTAC 306° radial, extending from the VORTAC to 12 miles northwest of the VORTAC, and that airspace extending upward from 1,200 feet above the surface within a 21-mile radius of Phelps-Collins Airport, within the arc of a 29-mile radius circle centered on the Alpena RBN, extending from a line 5 miles west of and parallel to the 360° bearing from the RBN clockwise to a line 5 miles east of and parallel to the 021° bearing from the RBN, within 6 miles southeast and 9 miles northwest of the Alpena VORTAC 232° radial extending from the 21-mile radius area to 48 miles southwest of the VORTAC, and within 6 miles northeast and 9 miles southwest of the Alpena VORTAC 305° radial extending from the 21-mile radius area to 48 miles northwest of the VORTAC, excluding the portion which coincides with the Oscoda, Mich., transition area.

These amendments are proposed under the authority of section 307(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (49 U.S.C. 1348).

Issued at Kansas City, Mo., on July 13, 1967.

CONTROL ZONE AND TRANSITION AREA

Proposed Alteration

The Federal Aviation Administration is considering amendments to Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations which would alter the controlled airspace in the Hoquiam, Wash., terminal area.

Interested persons may participate in the proposed rule-making by submitting such written data, views, or arguments as they may desire. Communications should be submitted in triplicate to the Director, Western Region, Attention: Chief, Air Traffic Division, Federal Aviation Administration, 5651 West Manchester Avenue, Post Office Box 90007, Airport Station, Los Angeles, Calif. 90009. All communications received within 30 days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER will be considered before action is taken on the proposed amendments. No public hearing is contemplated at this time, but arrangements for informal conferences with Federal Aviation Administration officials may be made by contacting the Regional Air Traffic Division Chief. Any data, views, or arguments presented during such conferences must also be submitted in writing in accordance with this notice in order to become part of the record for consideration. The proposals contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received.

A public docket will be available for examination by interested persons in the office of the Regional Counsel, Federal Aviation Administration, 5651 West Manchester Avenue, Los Angeles, Calif. 90045.

A new VOR/DME approach procedure has been developed for Runway 24 at Bowerman Field, Hoquiam, Wash. The new approach is predicated on 18-mile DME arc transitions from the Hoquiam VORTAC 046° M (V-27W) and 066° M (V-394) radials to the 058° M final approach radial. The proposed approach will require additional 700-foot transition area to provide controlled airspace for those portions of the transition routings conducted below 1,500 feet above the surface. In addition, a 5-mile control zone extension will be required east of the current Hoquiam control zone to provide protection for that portion of the approach conducted below 1,000 feet above the surface.

In view of the foregoing, the FAA proposes the following airspace actions:

In § 71.171 (32 F.R. 2101) the Hoquiam, Wash., control zone is amended to read as follows:

HOQUIAM, WASH.

Within a 5-mile radius of Bowerman Field, Hoquiam, Wash. (latitude 46°58'15" N., longitude 123°56'05" W.), within 2 miles each side of the Hoquiam VORTAC 081° radial, extending from the 5-mile radius zone to the VORTAC, and within 2 miles each side of the Hoquiam VORTAC 060° radial, extending from the 5-mile radius zone to 20.5 miles east of the VORTAC.

In § 71.181 (32 F.R. 2199) the Hoquiam, Wash., transition area is amended to read as follows:

That airspace extending upward from 700 feet above the surface east of Bowerman Field, bounded on the north by a line 2 miles north of and parallel to the Hoquiam VORTAC 068° radial, on the south by a line 2 miles south of and parallel to the Hoquiam 060° radial, extending eastward between the arcs of 8- and 13-mile radius circles centered on Bowerman Field (latitude 46°58'15" N., longitude 123°56'05" W.); that airspace extending upward from 1,200 feet above the surface, within 8 miles north and 8 miles south of the Hoquiam VORTAC 060° and 249° radials, extending from 13 miles west to 15 miles east of the VORTAC.

These amendments are proposed under the authority of section 307(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958, as amended (72 Stat. 749; 49 U.S.C. 1348).

Issued in Los Angeles, Calif., on July 24, 1967.

LEE E. WARREN,
Acting Director, Western Region.

TRANSITION AREA

Proposed Alteration and Designation

The Federal Aviation Administration is considering amending Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations so as to alter the transition area at Independence, Kans., and designate a transition area at Coffeyville, Kans.

Interested persons may participate in the proposed rule making by submitting such written data, views, or arguments as they may desire. Communications should be submitted in triplicate to the Director, Central Region, Attention: Chief, Air Traffic Division, Federal Aviation Administration, Federal Building, 601 East 12th Street, Kansas City, Mo. 64106. All communications received within 45 days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER will be considered before action is taken on the proposed amendments. No public hearing is contemplated at this time, but arrangements for informal conferences with Federal Aviation Administration officials may be made by contacting the Regional Air Traffic Division Chief. Any data, views, or arguments presented during such conferences must also be submitted in writing in accordance with this notice in order to become part of the record for consideration. The proposals contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received.

A public docket will be available for examination by interested persons in the Office of the Regional Counsel, Federal Aviation Administration, Federal Building, 601 East 12th Street, Kansas City, Mo. 64106.

As the result of the development of a public instrument approach procedure to serve McGuigin Municipal Airport, Coffeyville, Kans., utilizing the city-owned nondirectional beacon as a navigational aid, it is necessary to designate a 700-foot floor transition area at Coffeyville to protect aircraft executing this approach procedure. In addition, the public instrument approach procedure for Independence, Kans., Municipal Airport is being realigned. Therefore, it is necessary to alter the Independence transition area to protect aircraft executing this revised approach procedure.

In consideration of the foregoing, the Federal Aviation Administration proposes to amend Part 71 of the Federal Aviation Regulations as hereinafter set forth:

In § 71.181 (32 F.R. 2148), the following transition area is amended to read:

INDEPENDENCE, KANS.

That airspace extending upward from 700 feet above the surface within an 8-mile radius of Independence Municipal Airport (latitude 37°09'30" N., longitude 96°46'30" W.); and that airspace extending upward from 1,200 feet above the surface within 8 miles west and 8 miles east of the 193° bearing from Independence Municipal Airport, extending from the airport to 12 miles south of the airport.

In § 71.181 (32 F.R. 2148), the following transition area is added:

COFFEYVILLE, KANS.

That airspace extending upward from 700 feet above the surface within a 6-mile radius of McGuigin Municipal Airport (latitude 37°06'48" N., longitude 95°34'27" W.), excluding the portion which overlies the Independence, Kansas transition area.

These amendments are proposed under the authority of section 307(a) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (49 U.S.C. 1348).

Issued in Kansas City, Mo., on July 13, 1967.

IFR LANDINGS

Pilot in Command Experience Requirements

The Federal Aviation Administration is considering amending Part 121 of the Federal Aviation Regulations to provide that the 100 hours of pilot in command experience required by §§ 121.651(e) and 121.653(d) may be reduced (not to exceed 50 percent) by substituting one landing in Part 121 operations for one required hour of pilot in command experience.

Interested persons are invited to participate in the making of the proposed rule by submitting such written data, views, or arguments as they may desire. Communications should identify the regulatory docket or notice number and be submitted in duplicate to: Federal Aviation Administration, Office of the General Counsel, Attention: Rules Docket GC-24, 800 Independence Avenue SW., Washington, D.C. 20590. All communications received on or before October 2, 1967, will be considered by the Administrator before taking action on the proposed rule. The proposal contained in this notice may be changed in the light of comments received. All comments submitted will be available, both before and after the closing date for comments, in the Rules Docket for examination by interested persons.

When the 100 hour pilot in command experience requirement was adopted in 1961, the FAA stated: "The safe execution of an instrument approach to the lowest minimums requires the highest degree of pilot familiarity with the airplane, its controls, instruments, and performance characteristics. One hundred hours of experience in a new type of airplane as pilot in command in air carrier or commercial operations is necessary in order to achieve this degree of familiarity so essential to safe operations at the lowest landing minimums."

For domestic and flag air carriers, § 121.651(e) now provides that, if a pilot in command of an airplane has not served 100 hours as pilot in command in air carrier or commercial operations in the type of airplane he is operating, the ceiling and visibility landing minimums in the air carrier operations specifications for each regular, provisional, or refueling airport are increased by 100 feet and one-half mile, respectively. Section 121.653(d) contains a similar requirement for supplemental air carriers and commercial operators.

The Air Transport Association (ATA), on behalf of its member airlines, has requested an amendment to § 121.651(e) providing "for a reduction of the 100 hour requirement, to not less than 50 hours, by giving 1-hour credit for each landing accomplished." In its request, ATA states that it was the airlines' opinion that the 100 hour requirement was inequitable because: "Pilots serving on aircraft operating over a short-haul route structure acquire experience in the pertinent phases of flight at a much faster rate than do those operating over longer route segments." The FAA is issuing this notice in response to the ATA request.

The FAA still believes that the highest degree of pilot familiarity with the type of aircraft is necessary to safe operations at the lowest landing minimums. While the FAA believes that the deletion of the 100 hour requirement is not justified at this time, it also believes that the basic purpose of the 100 hour requirement would not be compromised by authorizing the substitution that ATA requests. Pilot familiarity with new types of aircraft is increasing, in part because of the improved quality of training programs since the adoption of Amdt. 121-7. Also, the FAA has had favorable experience with similar substitutions authorized in the programed hours of initial flight assignment under § 121.414(c)(3). Therefore, the FAA, proposes to grant the ATA request, and to extend the authority to make the substitution to all Part 121 certificate holders by deleting §§ 121.651(e) and 121.653(d) and adding a new § 121.652 applicable to all Part 121 certificate holders.

Present § 121.651(e) requires 100 hours of experience as pilot in command in "air carrier or commercial operations", while present § 121.653(d) requires that experience in "operations under this part". Both paragraphs are intended to require the 100 hours experience in actual Part 121 operations (not including training or ferry flights), and proposed new § 121.652 uses the phrase "in operations under this part" to resolve any apparent difference on this point. Also, § 121.652(b) would continue to prohibit use of the sliding scale (if authorized) until the pilot meets the requirements of § 121.652(a).

In consideration of the foregoing, it is proposed to amend Part 121 as follows:

§ 121.651 [Amended]

1. By deleting paragraph (e) of § 121.651.

2. By adding the following new § 121.652:

§ 121.652 Landing weather minimums: IFR: all certificate holders.

(a) If the pilot in command of an aircraft has not served 100 hours as pilot in command in operations under this part in the type of aircraft he is operating, the ceiling and visibility landing minimums in the certificate holder's operations specifications for regular, provisional, or refueling airports are increased by 100 feet and one-half mile, respectively. The ceiling and visibility minimums need not be increased above those applicable to the airport when used as an alternate airport. The 100 hours of pilot in command experience required by this paragraph may be reduced (not to exceed 50 percent) by substituting one landing in operations under this part in the type of airplane for one required hour of pilot in command experience.

(b) The sliding scale when authorized in the certificate holder's operations specifications does not apply until the pilot in command meets the requirements of paragraph (a) of this section in the type of airplane he is operating.

§ 121.653 [Amended]

3. By deleting paragraph (d) of § 121.653.

This proposal is made under the authority of sections 313(a) and 601 of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 (49 U.S.C. 1354(a) and 1421).

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 24, 1967.

Flight Standards Service.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION

[49 CFR Part 276]

[Ex Parte No. MC-19 (Sub-No. 4)]

MOTOR CARRIERS OF HOUSEHOLD GOODS

Accessorial or Terminal Services; Tariffs Providing Therefor; Packaging and Uncrating Charges

At a general session of the Interstate Commerce Commission, held at its office in Washington, D.C., on the 13th day of July 1967.

It appearing that the Commission in Common Carriers of Household Goods, 17 M.C.C. 467, 505-506 (1939), promulgated a set of rules governing the practices of motor common carriers of household goods, including rule 4, § 276.4[1] of the Code of Federal Regulations, 49 CFR 276.4 (Accessorial or terminal services; tariffs providing therefor; packing and uncrating charges), as hereinafter described;

It further appearing, that freight forwarders that are exempt from regulation under section 402(b)(2) of the Interstate Commerce Act and motor common carriers acting in that capacity, have made extensive use of containerization in transporting used household goods;

It further appearing, that numerous certificated motor common carriers have been rendering accessorial or terminal services in connection with containerized shipments of used household goods for or on behalf of exempt freight forwarders under tariffs that fail to conform with rule 4 of Ex Parte No. MC-19;

And it further appearing, that the use of containerization was not in vogue at the time of the Commission's investigation in Ex Parte No. MC-19, and it is desirable that the Commission determine whether the rendition of said accessorial or terminal services in connection with containerization shipments of used household goods for or on behalf of exempt freight forwarders or motor common carriers acting in that capacity, should be excepted from the application of rule 4:

It is ordered, That a proceeding be, and it is hereby, instituted under authority of part II of the Interstate Commerce Act (section 217) and section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act for the purpose of determining whether § 276.4 should be amended. As here pertinent said section reads as follows:

(a) Such common carriers shall establish in the manner prescribed in section 217 of part II of the Interstate Commerce Act, and the rules and regulations issued pursuant thereto, the charges to be made for each accessorial or terminal service rendered in connection with the transportation of household goods by motor vehicle. The tariffs establishing such charges shall separately state each service to be rendered and the charge therefor * * *. This section shall apply only where the line-haul transportation is performed by a motor carrier. * * *

It is proposed that the period following "carrier" be stricken and the following language, preceded by a comma, added: "except that local transportation services by certificated motor common carriers, within or without terminal areas, for or on behalf of freight forwarders exempt from regulation under section 402(b)(2) of the Interstate Commerce Act, in connection with through movements of used household goods in interstate or foreign commerce, shall not constitute line-haul transportation within the purview of this rule."

It is further ordered, That any person desiring to become a party to this proceeding shall notify the Commission of that fact and whether he is for or against the proposed amendment not later than 15 days from the date of publication of this order in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Thereafter, the Secretary of the Commission shall serve a service list upon all parties to this proceeding within 30 days from the date of this publication.

It is further ordered, That this proceeding be handled under modified procedure, the filing and serving of pleadings to be as follows: (a) Opening statement of facts and argument by any parties in support of the proposed amendment on or before 60 days from the date of service of this order; (b) 30 days thereafter, statement of facts and argument by any party in opposition; and (c) 10 days thereafter, replies by any supporting parties.

And it is further ordered, That a copy of this order be served on the Public Utility Commissions or Boards, or similar regulatory bodies, of each State having jurisdiction over transportation by motor common carrier; that a copy be posted in the Office of the Secretary of the Interstate Commerce Commission for public inspection, and that a copy be delivered to the Director, Office of the Federal Register, for publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER as notice to all interested parties.

Date of service, July 27, 1967.

Rural Community Development Service

ORGANIZATION AND FUNCTIONS

Notice is hereby given for the guidance of the public as to the organization and functions of the Rural Community Development Service, pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 552, 559.

Organization and functions. The Rural Community Development Service (RCDS) is located in Washington, D.C. It is an agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) established on February 24, 1965, by Secretary's Memorandum No. 1570. It is under the general direction and supervision of the Assistant Secretary for Rural Development and Conservation. It does not have a field organization.

The RCDS provides staff assistance to the Secretary of Agriculture and the Assistant Secretary for Rural Development and Conservation at the Washington level in the implementation and coordination of rural development programs. It cooperates with USDA agencies and other Federal departments on all phases of rural development. One of its chief functions is to assist in implementing the "outreach" activities of USDA. It does this by (1) identifying Federal programs outside USDA that are still not effectively reaching rural areas because of difficulties of communicating with a dispersed rural population; and (2) working with Federal departments and agencies having such programs to develop effective means for overcoming these difficulties by appropriate adjustments in the programs and by devising appropriate methods of utilizing the services of the Farmers Home Administration and other USDA agencies to facilitate rural development programs which supplement the regular programs of these agencies in rural areas.

Material and records maintained by the RCDS are available to the public in accordance with regulations published in 32 F.R. 9723.

Done in Washington, D.C., this 26th day of July 1967.

KENNETH M. BIRKHEAD,
Administrator of the Rural Community Development Service.

INSTITUTE OF MARINE SCIENCE, UNIVERSITY OF MIAMI

Notice of Decision on Application for Duty-Free Entry of Scientific Articles

The following is a decision on an application for duty-free entry of a scientific article pursuant to section 6(c) of the Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Materials Importation Act of 1966 (Public Law 89-651; 80 Stat. 897) and the regulations issued thereunder (32 F.R. 2433 et seq.).

A copy of the record pertaining to this decision is available for public review during ordinary business hours of the Department of Commerce, at the Office of Scientific and Technical Equipment, Department of Commerce, Room 5123, Washington, D.C. 20230.

Docket No. 67-00033-55-83500. Applicant: Institute of Marine Science, University of Miami, 1 Rickenbacker Causeway, Virginia Key, Miami, Fla. 33149. Article: Deep Sea Reversing Thermometers, Type I—Protected, Type II—Unprotected. Manufacturer: Watanabe Keiki Manufacturing Co., Ltd., Tokyo, Japan. Intended use of article: Research studies to determine the properties of the environmental features of the ocean will be conducted with this article.

Comments: No comments have been received with respect to this application.

Decision: Application denied. An instrument of equivalent scientific value to the foreign article, for the purposes for which such article is intended to be used, is being manufactured in the United States. Reasons: Applicant acknowledges that there are two domestic manufacturers of deep sea reversing thermometers—Walter H. Kessler Co., Inc. and Kahl Scientific Instrument Co. (See attachment number 6 to application.) The sole basis for the applicant's belief that no instruments of equivalent scientific value are being manufactured in the United States is that the foreign article is more reliable than the domestic instruments. The claim for superior reliability of the foreign article is based on the relative rate of rejects experienced with the domestic and foreign deep sea reversing thermometers. (See attachment number 7 to application.)

However, there are differences of opinion as to the merits of thermometers of various manufacturers in regard to the question of reliability. In order to establish the superiority of either instrument over the other in this respect, it is necessary to have performance data obtained under carefully controlled conditions which are validly representative of the conditions of the intended use and are derived from statistically valid samples certified by the manufacturers to be representative of their production. We find that neither the data submitted by the applicant nor other available data is sufficient to support a scientifically valid finding of the superior reliability of thermometers of one manufacturer over those manufactured by other firms.

A comparison between the other pertinent characteristics and pertinent specifications of the instruments offered by the aforementioned domestic manufacturers and the similar pertinent characteristics and pertinent specifications of the foreign article, warrants the conclusion that the domestic instruments are scientifically equivalent to the foreign article for the purposes for which such article is intended to be used.

We have also ascertained that at least one domestic manufacturer—Walter H. Kessler Co., Inc.—can deliver the required deep sea reversing thermometers within a reasonable time following the placement of a firm order with the company.

CHARLEY M. DENTON,
Director, Office of Scientific and Technical Equipment, Business and Defense Services Administration.

Notice of Decision on Application for Duty-Free Entry of Scientific Articles

The following is a decision on an application for duty-free entry of a scientific article pursuant to section 6(c) of the Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Materials Importation Act of 1966 (Public Law 89-651; 80 Stat. 897) and the regulations issued thereunder (32 F.R. 2433 et seq.).

A copy of the record pertaining to this decision is available for public review during ordinary business hours of the Department of Commerce, at the Office of Scientific and Technical Equipment, Department of Commerce, Room 5123, Washington, D.C. 20230.

Docket No. 67-00044-55-83500. Applicant: University of South Florida, 4202 Fowler Avenue, Tampa, Fla. 33620. Article: Deep Sea Reversing Thermometers. Manufacturer: Watanabe Keiki Manufacturing Co., Ltd., Japan. Intended use of article: Applicant states:

Deep sea water temperature oceanography research program. Measurement of thermometric depth during hydrocasts, i.e., accurate measurement of effects of pressure (depth) on thermometer readings.

Comments: No comments were received with respect to this application.

Decision: Application denied. An instrument of equivalent scientific value to the foreign article, for the purposes for which such article is intended to be used, is being manufactured in the United States. Reasons: Although the applicant states that to its knowledge no deep sea reversing thermometers are being made in the United States (See answer to question 13 on application), there are two known U.S. manufacturers of such instruments: (1) Kahl Scientific Instrument Corp., and (2) Walter H. Kessler Co., Inc. The domestic instruments, when compared with the foreign article with respect to the characteristics and specifications that are pertinent to the purposes for which such article is intended to be used, are considered to be scientifically equivalent to the foreign article. We have also ascertained that Walter H. Kessler Co., Inc., can supply up to 20 of the deep sea reversing thermometers within 3 months, which is considered to be reasonably normal industry delivery time for these instruments.

On February 3, 1967, the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) issued a Notice of Grant of Petition for Discretionary Review, Opinion and Order relative to a proposal by WTCN-TV, Inc., United TV Inc., and Midwest Radio TV, Inc., to construct two guyed television towers in an area near Shoreview, Minn., that is considered to be an antenna farm.

By letter dated June 9, 1967, United Television, Inc. (KMSP-TV) advised that because of zoning problems it was necessary to locate the tower proposed for site No. 2 approximately 700 feet southwest of its original location. It is proposed that site No. 2 be changed from latitude 45°03'34", longitude 93°07'20", to latitude 45°03'29'5", longitude 93°-07'27".

At the new location the structure will remain within the area the FAA considers to be an antenna farm with a height not to exceed 2,375 feet above mean sea level. Therefore, the new site is also acceptable from an aviation standpoint.

Order. The Grant of Petition for Discretionary Review, Opinion and Order issued in Washington, D.C., on February 3, 1967, is hereby revised to conform to the above decision.

Issued in Washington, D.C., on July 24, 1967.

C. W. WALKER,
Acting Associate Administrator for Programs.

[Docket Nos. 16965, 16966; FCC 67R-314]

Memorandum Opinion and Order Enlarging Issues

2. The subject petition was filed approximately 6 months after the expiration of the time for filing specified in § 1.229 of the rules. To show good cause for this tardiness, Du Page County merely states that "the facts presented have only recently come to the attention of the petitioner." The Board does not regard this statement as adequate to establish good cause for the delay; therefore, under the test set forth by the Board in The Edgefield-Saluda Radio Co.,[2] the Board has examined the pleadings to determine whether (a) serious public interest questions are presented, and (b) the likelihood of proving the respective allegations is so substantial as to outweigh the public interest benefits inherent in the orderly and fair administration of the Commission's business. Based upon this examination, we find that, except for the matter discussed in the paragraph next below, Du Page County's allegations do not meet these standards. The requested character issues are based primarily on allegations that Howard Enstrom, one of Central Du Page's principals, attempted to jeopardize the availability of Du Page County's proposed transmitter site by offering to purchase that site; and that Central Du Page's representations to the Commission concerning the location of its proposed studio conflict with representations made to local zoning authorities. Central Du Page has adequately explained the alleged inconsistent statements regarding the location of its proposed studio; and, although there is some conflict between the affidavit from the owner of Du Page County's proposed site and the affidavit submitted by Enstrom, we do not believe that an attempt to resolve this conflict at a hearing would be productive of evidence of decisional value, particularly in light of the fact that in a second affidavit submitted with the reply pleading, the owner of the site equivocates from the position taken in the original affidavit.[3] The requested § 73.30 issue is overcome by material submitted with the opposition, and the requested financial issue, as pointed out by the Broadcast Bureau, is premature until such time as it appears that Central Du Page must acquire additional land for its transmitter site and that this acquisition will affect its financial qualifications.

3. The requested issues pertaining to Central Du Page's proposed transmitter site are supported by the allegation that Central Du Page's amended application reflects that its proposed tower would be constructed on land it now owns and land on property adjacent to that which it owns; and an affidavit, executed on May 4, 1967, of Mrs. Katharine Cline, president of the organization which owns the adjacent property, stating that she has not given permission to utilize this property for the construction of a radio

[1] The following related pleadings are also before the Board: (a) Opposition, filed on June 16, 1967, by Central Du Page; (b) Broadcast Bureau's comments, filed on June 16, 1967; and (c) reply to (a), filed on July 10, 1967, by Du Page County.

[2] 5 FCC 2d 148, 4 RR 2d 611 (1966). Also see Bovan Television, Inc., FCC 67R-291, released July 12, 1967.

[3] In her original affidavit, the owner of the site stated that Enstrom "had a definite desire to obtain that property," and "offered us a premium price over and above that which was contained in our agreement with (Du Page County)." In reply to the opposition (in which Enstrom stated, among other things, that he did not know the price agreed upon) the owner in another affidavit states that Enstrom "said he was interested in building on the property" and "gave me to understand that he could pay more for the property than our existing contract."

tower, and that at present she "has no plans" to permit such a use. In opposition, Central Du Page submits an affidavit from Enstrom, who states that he had several conversations with Mrs. Cline (and her husband) concerning an exchange of property which would have permitted the utilization of the adjacent land as proposed, and that these discussions led him to believe that the land would be available. Regardless of what Mrs. Cline appeared to have been willing to do regarding the disputed property in the past, it is clear from her May 4 affidavit that she does not now intend to permit Central Du Page to use the property. We are therefore constrained to add an issue to determine whether Central Du Page has sufficient land available to build its tower as proposed.[4]

Accordingly, it is ordered, That the petition to enlarge issues, filed on May 23, 1967, by Du Page County Broadcasting, Inc., is granted to the extent indicated herein, and denied in all other respects; and

It is further ordered, That the issues in this proceeding are enlarged by the addition of the following issue: To determine what land is available to Central Du Page County Broadcasting, Inc., for a transmitter site, and whether the land available is sufficient to effectuate its proposal.

Adopted: July 24, 1967.

Released: July 26, 1967.

CIGARETTES

Testing for Tar and Nicotine Content

The Federal Trade Commission, having been advised by the staff that the cigarette testing laboratory has satisfactorily completed its trial tests, hereby issues directions to its staff to commence the first formal test, under the following conditons:

1. Smoke cigarettes to a 23 mm. butt length, or to the length of the filter and overwrap plus 3 mm. if in excess of 23 mm.,

2. Base results on a test of 100 cigarettes per brand, or type,

3. Cigarettes to be tested will be selected on a random basis, as opposed to "weight selection",

4. Determine particulate matter on a "dry" basis employing the gas chromatography method published by C. H. Sloan and B. J. Sublett in Tobacco Science 9, page 70, 1965, as modified by F. J. Schultz' and A. W. Spears' report published in Tobacco Vol. 162, No. 24, page 32, dated June 17, 1966, to determine the moisture content,

5. Determine and report the "tar" content after subtracting moisture and alkaloids as nicotine) from particulate matter,

6. Report tar content to the nearest whole milligram and nicotine content to the nearest 1/10 milligrams.

The Commission directs that the test cover approximately 50 of the major brands and types (many brands are sold as regular, and king size, or filter, etc.) and all brands for which any tar or nicotine statement appears on the label or in the advertising. [Docket No. CP68-21]

LONE STAR GAS CO.

Notice of Application

JULY 25, 1967.

Take notice that on July 19, 1967, Lone Star Gas Co. (Applicant), 301 South Harwood Street, Dallas, Tex. 75201, filed in Docket No. CP68-21 an application pursuant to subsection (b) of section 7 of the Natural Gas Act for permission and approval of the Commission to abandon certain natural gas facilities, all as more fully set forth in the application which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

Specifically, Applicant seeks permission and approval to abandon the operation of its 1,020 horsepower Fox Compressor Station No. 1 located in Carter County, Okla., consisting of six 170 horsepower compressor units together with dehydrator, buildings, piping, valves, headers, fittings, and other appurtenances.

Applicant states that said compressor facilities, installed in 1921 and 1922, have not been in operation for approximately 3 years and are no longer needed because of diminished natural gas supplies and operational changes in this area. Applicant further states that the proposed abandonment would not affect the service now being rendered to any customer in any way as its Fox Compressor Station No. 2 will continue in operation and has sufficient capacity to handle the volumes of natural gas in that portion of its pipeline system.

Applicant estimates the total cost of removal of the facilities proposed to be abandoned at approximately $11,500. Applicant further estimates the salvage value of said facilities at approximately $18,000.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) and the regulations under the Natural Gas Act (§ 157.10) on or before August 21, 1967.

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Power Commission by sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, a hearing will be held without further notice before the Commission on this application if no protest or petition to intervene is filed within the time required herein, if the Commission on its own review of the matter finds that permission and approval for the proposed abandonment is required by the public convenience and necessity. If a protest or petition for leave to intervene is timely filed, or if the Commission on its own motion believes that a formal hearing is required, further notice of such hearing will be duly given.

Under the procedure herein provided for, unless otherwise advised, it will be unnecessary for Applicant to appear or be represented at the hearing.

Secretary.

TAMARACK PETROLEUM CO., INC.

Order Accepting Contract and Agreements, Providing for Hearing on and Suspension of Proposed Change in Rate

JULY 21, 1967.

On June 26, 1967, Tamarack Petroleum Co., Inc. (Tamarack) [1] tendered for filing a proposed change in its presently effective rate schedule for sales of natural gas subject to the jurisdiction of the Comission. The proposed change, which constitutes an increased rate and charge, is designated as follows:

[1] Address is: 413 First Savings and Loan Building, Midland, Tex. 79704.

[2] Supplemental Agreement dated May 23, 1967, which releases all dedicated acreage from basic contract dated Sept. 15, 1958, except acreage in section 15, Block AB which was the only proven productive acreage.
[3] The stated effective date is the effective date proposed by Respondent.
[4] Contract dated May 24, 1967. Renegotiated contract which covers acreage released from Sept. 15, 1958, contract, plus additional acreage. Rate under renegotiated contract is 16.0 cents per Mcf.
[5] Interim Agreement date May 25, 1967, provides for lower rate-of-take from Smith 1-15 Unit until completion of Northern's facilities, and a deduction of ¾ cent per Mcf for treating gas from such unit.
[6] Applies only to acreage released from Sept. 15, 1958, contract.
[7] Renegotiated rate increase.
[8] Pressure base is 14.65 p.s.i.a.
[9] Rate provided for in renegotiated contract dated May 24, 1967 (Supplement No. 5).

Tamarack Petroleum Co., Inc. (Tamarack) proposes a renegotiated rate increase from 11.0 cents to 16.5 cents per Mcf, amounting to $660 annually, for a sale of gas to Northern Natural Gas Co. (Northern Natural) from the Buckhorn (Ellenburger) Field, Crockett County, Tex. (Railroad District No. 7-C) (Permian Basin Area). The proposed increased rate exceeds the applicable area base rate of 14.5 cents per Mcf prescribed by Opinion Nos. 468 and 468-A. Tamarack has not submitted a quality statement establishing the applicable area ceiling rate for the subject sale. Under the circumstances, we believe that Tamarack's proposed rate increase to 16.5 cents per Mcf should be suspended for 5 months from July 25, 1967, the proposed effective date, as herein ordered.

The proposed changed rate and charge may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, or preferential, or otherwise unlawful.

Concurrently with the filing of its notice of change in rate, Tamarack submitted a supplemental agreement dated May 23, 1967, which releases all dedicated acreage, except that in Section 16,[10] from a previous contract with Northern Natural dated September 15, 1958,[11] and a renegotiated contract dated May 24, 1967, which covers the acreage released from the 1958 contract and provides for the proposed rate increase from 11.0 cents to 16.5 cents per Mcf.[12] Tamarack also filed an interim agreement dated May 25, 1967, covering the Smith 1-15 Unit. The interim agreement provides for a lower rate-of-take from this unit until completion of Northern Natural's related facilities, and a deduction of 0.75 cent per Mcf for treating gas from such unit.[13] We believe that it would be in the public interest to accept for filing Tamarack's aforementioned contract and agreements to become effective on July 25, 1967, the proposed effective date, but not the proposed rate contained therein which will be suspended as indicated below.

Except for the stay of the moratorium in Opinion No. 468, Tamarack's proposed rate increase would be rejectable because it is in excess of the applicable area ceiling determined in Opinion No. 468. If the moratorium is ultimately upheld upon judicial review, Tamarack rate increase will be rejected ab initio.

The Commission finds:

(1) Good cause has been shown for accepting for filing Tamarack's proposed contract and agreements, designated as Supplement Nos. 4, 5, and 6 to Tamarack's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 13, and for permitting such supplements to become effective on July 25, 1967, the proposed effective date.

(2) It is necessary and proper in the public interest and to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of the Natural Gas Act that the Commission enter upon a hearing concerning the lawfulness of the proposed change, and that Supplement No. 7 to Tamarack's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 13 be suspended and the use thereof deferred as hereinafter ordered.

The Commission orders:

(A) Tamarack's proposed contract and agreements, designated as Supplement Nos. 4, 5, and 6 to Tamarack's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 13 are accepted for filing and permitted to become effective on July 25, 1967.

(B) Pursuant to the authority of the Natural Gas Act, particularly sections 4 and 15 thereof, the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, and the regulations under the Natural Gas Act (18 CFR Ch. I), a public hearing shall be held upon a date to be fixed by notice from the Secretary concerning the lawfulness of the proposed increased rate and charge contained in Supplement No. 7 to Tamarack's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 13.

(C) Pending a hearing and decision thereon, the above-designated rate supplement is hereby suspended and the use thereof deferred until December 25, 1967, and thereafter until such further time as it is made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act.

(D) Neither the supplement hereby suspended, nor the rate schedule sought to be altered thereby, shall be changed until this proceeding has been disposed of or until the period of suspension has expired, unless otherwise ordered by the Commission.

(E) Tamarack shall file with the Commission as a condition of this order within 45 days of the date of issuance of this order a statement setting forth either that the old gas-well gas sold under the subject rate schedule accords with all pipeline quality standards established in Opinion No. 468 and 468-A, or in which respects the old gas-well gas deviates from such standards; the agreed cost to the purchaser to bring it to the pipeline quality standards established there with respect to each quality deviation; any upward and downward B.t.u. adjustment; and the resulting applicable area rate for the gas. Such statement shall be signed by both the seller and the purchaser. If the seller and the purchaser are unable to agree upon any or all of the particulars entering into the computation of the applicable area rate, the seller shall file the statement herein required which shall indicate the absence of agreement and supply the information required to compute the applicable area rate as well as the contentions of the parties with respect to the quality and amount of the adjustment for any item in dispute. The purchaser may file a separate statement setting forth its views within the period herein provided.

(F) Notices of intervention or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington, D.C. 20426, in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.37 (f)) on or before September 6, 1967.

By the Commision.

FEDERAL RADIATION COUNCIL

RADIATION PROTECTION GUIDANCE FOR FEDERAL AGENCIES

Memorandum for the President

JULY 21, 1967.

Pursuant to Executive Order 10831 and Public Law 86-373 the Federal Radiation Council transmits to you its findings and recommendations for the guidance of Federal agencies in the conduct of their radiation protection activities as they apply to the underground mining of uranium ore.

In prior memorandums and reports the Council has expressed the philosophy that guidance for radiation protection involves achieving a balance between the risk of radiation-induced injury and the benefits derived from the practice causing the exposure to radiation. An implicit part of such a balance is a necessity for considering the relation between the difficulties involved in reducing radiation exposures by a given amount and the risk that might be associated with that amount of exposure.

Assessment of radiation hazards in underground uranium mines. The Council has reviewed available information on the radiological factors involved in the underground mining of uranium ore. The findings of immediate interest for establishing radiation protection guidance for this activity are:

1. It has been observed that underground uranium miners have a higher incidence of lung cancer than is found in the male population in the same geographic area. Continued exposure to the radioactive decay products of the naturally occurring gas radon 222 has been implicated as an important cause of this increased incidence. The decay products of radon 222 (radon daughters) of interest are: Polonium 218, lead 214, bismuth 214, and polonium 214. For purposes of this memorandum, the radiation dose from radon itself is not considered.

2. The principal radiation hazard is associated with the inhalation of mine air containing radionuclides that irradiate lung tissue nonuniformly. The most serious result is the development of lung cancer, which generally does not appear for 10 to 20 years after the individual started uranium mining.

3. In most domestic underground uranium mines the measurement of radon daughter concentration is obtained by using a specific field method. The results are then compared to the "Working Level" (WL), a unit which is defined as any combination of radon daughters in one liter of air that will result in the ultimate emission of 1.3×10^5 MeV of potential alpha energy. The concentration of radon daughters in the air of unventilated underground uranium mines ranges from a fraction of a WL to several hundred WL. Exposure to radon daughters over a period of time may be expressed in terms of cumulative "Working Level Months" (WLM). Inhalation of air containing a radon daughter concentration of 1 WL for 170 working hours results in an exposure of 1 WLM.

4. Observations on U.S. uranium miners who started underground mining before 1955 clearly demonstrate that an association exists between exposure to radon daughters and a higher than expected incidence of lung cancer when the cumulative exposures are more than about 1,000 WLM. The degree of risk at lower levels of cumulative exposure cannot be determined from currently available epidemiological data. It is prudent to assume that some degree of risk exists at any level of exposure, even though possible effects may not now be evident at the lower levels of cumulative exposure.

5. The highest incidence of lung cancer is occurring now in the group of miners: (1) Who worked in mines in which the average concentration of radon daughters was usually higher than 10 WL; (2) whose total cumulative exposures were estimated to range upward from about a thousand WLM; (3) who started mining uranium ore more than 10 years ago; and (4) who were moderate to heavy cigarette smokers. These observations suggest that additional cases of lung cancer can be expected to develop, even in individuals who may have already left underground mining.

Factors related to the evaluation of benefit or control capability. The Council has also reviewed available information on the benefits to be derived from the mining of uranium ores; on the difficulties that have been encountered in reducing radon daughter concentrations from previous levels to current levels, and the additional difficulties that can be anticipated if further reductions are required. The findings of immediate interest to the derivation of guidance for radiation protection in uranium mining are as follows:

1. Uranium is currently the basic fuel needed for the development of nuclear energy, and all projections point to an increasingly important role for nuclear energy in meeting national electric power requirements.

2. Uranium mining is an important economic asset to the states in which the ore is mined. In addition to the value of the ore, mining provides important opportunities for employment. It is estimated that the work-force will vary between 2,000–5,000 men in the next decade.

3. A significant reduction in the concentrations of radon daughters in the air of underground mines has been achieved by the industry since 1960. Estimates of probable exposures of 2,177 miners in a five-state area during the third quarter of 1966 indicate that about 31 percent of the miners were exposed to levels of 1 WL or less; 55 percent were being exposed to the range of 1–3 WL; and about 14 percent were exposed to levels higher than 3 WL.

4. Ventilation with fresh air is presently considered the most feasible technique for controlling the concentrations of radon daughters in mine air. The highest concentrations are usually found in the stope areas where some work must be done before ventilation can be brought directly to the miner's working area. This suggests that there are practical limits to the degree by which radon daughter concentrations in mine air can be controlled by ventilation alone. Information made available to the Council indicates that it will probably be physically impossible to maintain the radon daughter concentration in all parts of the mines to as low as 1 WL at all times.

5. Research studies have been made on possible procedures that might be used to block the diffusion of radon from the rock into mine air. The use of positive pressure ventilation can be useful if the rock is porous enough to permit air to flow into it. Coating the rock surface might be useful if it is capable of blocking the diffusion of radon.

6. The effectiveness, feasibility, and safety of various types of auxiliary respiratory protection equipment, as they might be used in underground uranium mining, deserve the most thorough study.

7. It is common practice to limit the highest radon daughter concentrations in which normal mining operations are allowed without determining the radiation exposure at lower concentrations. This procedure makes it possible to estimate the maximum exposure rate, but does not provide the information necessary for estimating the true average exposure, and hence radiation risk for any one individual or group.

Guidance for radiation protection in underground mines. On the basis of the preceding findings, the Federal Radiation Council has concluded that radon and its radioactive daughter products occur in sufficient concentrations in underground uranium mines to require actions to control the potential radiation exposure associated with working in such environments. Although primary emphasis has been placed on underground uranium mining, the guidance contained in this memorandum may be applied, as necessary, to any type of mine where similar concentrations of radon daughter products may be found.

In reaching its recommendations the Council has considered: (1) The apparent relationship between cumulative exposure to radon daughters and the risk of subsequent development of lung cancer as shown by presently available epidemiological data; (2) the range of annual exposures received by various categories of miners now engaged in uranium mining; (3) the technological problems involved in achieving control to various levels of annual exposure, and the ability of present technology as practiced by the industry to reduce radon concentrations to different levels; (4) improvements that might be introduced by the application of a more advanced technology, and the length of time such improvements might take; and (5) the magnitude of the radiation risk in the light of the other risks that are faced in underground mining, and the impact the Council's recommendations might have on efforts to reduce these risks simultaneously. In balancing these considerations, it is recommended that:

1. Occupational exposure to radon daughters in underground uranium mines be controlled so that no individual miner will receive an exposure of more than six WLM in any consecutive 3-month period and no more than 12 WLM in any consecutive 12-month period. Actual exposures should be kept as far below these values as practicable.

2. Areas in underground uranium mines, whether normally or occasionally occupied, be monitored for the concentration of radon daughters in mine air. The location and frequency of taking samples should be determined in relation to compliance with recommendation number 1.

3. Appropriate records of the exposure from radon daughters in the mine air received by individuals working in uranium mines be established and maintained.

The Federal Radiation Council recognizes that current mining conditions are much better than those prevailing 10 years ago. However, it also considers that more improvement is needed to provide proper control of exposure to radon daughters. Steps to make improvements should be initiated immediately and made operational as soon as possible.

The practical determination of what is needed to implement the recommendations should take cognizance of the following reasons for making the necessary measurements and the compilation of appropriate records: (1) Data needed to indicate compliance with recommendation number 1, (2) the evidentiary record needed to support or deny claims for occupational disability, (3) permit future evaluation of possible causal relationships between exposure to radon daughters and respiratory cancer at the lower cumulative exposure levels, and (4) to develop a basis for estimating the cumulative occupational exposure that the average miner might receive in the future under this guidance.

The control of an airborne hazardous agent, such as radon and its radioactive daughters, can be achieved either by controlling the environment by appropriate ventilation or by providing auxiliary procedures and equipment to offset exposure from the environment. Examples of such procedures are limiting the time individuals are allowed to work in the environment, or the use of respiratory protection devices capable of removing most of the radon daughters present in the mine air.

These procedures should also be accompanied by an educational program under the direction of mine management so that the miner may be advised on the necessity for taking these precautionary measures and to emphasize the miner's responsibility in reducing his exposure to radioactive materials.

The Council urges the appropriate Federal agencies to cooperate fully with the states and the uranium mining industry in providing realistic and coordinated programs in the following areas:

1. The development of technology directed to the control and more reliable estimates of individual exposures to radon daughters.

2. The registration and compilation of individual exposure records.

3. Research on causal relationships involving varying exposure to radon daughters and the subsequent development of disability.

4. Research and development directed toward better mining practices.

5. Development of adequate compensation procedures.

6. Educational opportunities and training programs wherever needed.

In approximately 1 year the Federal Radiation Council intends to review its guidance for radiation protection in uranium mining. At that time, if it is indicated, the recommendations in this memorandum will be changed accordingly.

If the foregoing recommendations are approved by you for the guidance of Federal agencies in the conduct of their radiation protection activities, it is further recommended that this memorandum be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

JOHN W. GARDNER,
Chairman.

Recommendations 1, 2, and 3 in the preceding memorandum are approved for the guidance of Federal agencies, and the memorandum shall be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

[812-2113]

CAL-WESTERN SEPARATE ACCOUNT A AND CALIFORNIA-WESTERN STATES LIFE INSURANCE CO.

Notice of Application for Exemptions

JULY 25, 1967.

Notice is hereby given that California-Western States Life Insurance Co. ("Insurance Company") 2020 L Street, Sacramento, Calif. 95814, and Cal-Western Separate Account A ("Separate Account") (herein collectively called "Applicants") have filed an application pursuant to section 6(c) of the Investment Company Act of 1940, 15 U.S.C. sec. 80a-1, et seq., ("Act") for an order exempting Applicant from the provisions of sections 14(a), 15(a), 16(a), 17(f), 22(d), 22(e), 27(a)(4), 27(c)(1), 27(c)(2), and 32(a) of the Act. Separate Account is an open-end diversified management investment company registered under the Act. All interested persons are referred to the application on file with the Commission for a statement of the representations which are summarized below.

Insurance Company established Separate Account in order to offer contracts designed for annuity purchase plans adopted by public school systems and certain tax-exempt organizations. The contracts qualify as tax-deferred annuities under section 403(b) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, as amended ("Code").

Section 14(a)(1) provides, in pertinent part, that no registered investment company shall make a public offering of a security of which such company is the issuer, unless such company has a net worth of at least $100,000.

Applicants state that the only contracts which will be offered initially are tax-sheltered variable annuity contracts which initially meet the requirements of section 403(b) of the Code. Applicants declare that since Separate Account will only hold assets of tax sheltered contracts, it is not feasible to raise the minimum capital requirement through a non-public offering because the limitations under the Code on tax deferred contributions on behalf of a single participant make it unlikely that $100,000 could be raised from fewer than 75 persons which would involve several hundred offers.

Applicants further state, among other things, that it is not feasible to raise the minimum capital requirement through the sale of nontax sheltered contracts since to combine in a single separate account assets pertaining to tax sheltered contracts and assets pertaining to nontax sheltered contracts could result in the imposition of tax liabilities which might not otherwise be incurred or in the misallocation of tax benefits.

Finally, Applicants state that under California insurance law Separate Account is an integral part of Insurance Company (which has over $347 million of admitted assets and has capital stock and surplus of over $48 million) and the contractual obligations of Insurance Company under the variable annuity contracts cannot be abandoned by it until such obligations are discharged.

Sections 15(a), 16(a), and 32(a), in substance, require shareholder approval of the investment advisory agreement, the election of directors by shareholders, and shareholder ratification of the selection of an independent public accountant, respectively. Applicants state that since there will be no contract owners, hence no holders of voting securities, until after the registration statement under the Securities Act of 1933 becomes effective, the requirements of the aforesaid sections cannot be complied with. Applicants represent, however, that the first meeting of contract owners will take place on the fourth Tuesday of March of 1968. Applicants state that by that time it is expected that some variable annuity contracts will have been sold so that the participants therein can then vote on such matters. The Applicants request a temporary exemption from the requirements of sections 15(a), 16(a), and 32(a) to allow Separate Account to operate until the first annual meeting of contract owners, at which time the requirements of those sections can be met.

Section 17(f)(3) provides, in pertinent part, that a registered management investment company may maintain its securities and investments in its own custody in accordance with such rules, regulations, and orders as may be adopted by the Commission in the interests of investors. Rule 17f-2 under the Act requires, among other things, that such assets be placed in a bank subject to the other requirements of the rule. One of such other requirements limits the persons who shall have access to such assets to only certain specified individuals.

Applicants request an exemption from the provisions of section 17(f)(3) and rule 17f-2 to the extent necessary to permit not more than five officers or responsible employees of Insurance Company as well as duly authorized representatives of the Insurance Commissioner of California to have access to the assets of Separate Account. Such assets will be deposited by Insurance Company with Wells Fargo Bank, Sacramento, Calif. Insurance Company is subject to supervision and inspection by the Insurance Commission of California. Further, all officers and employees having access to the securities will be covered by a bond in the face amount of $250,000.

Section 22(d) provides, in pertinent part, that no registered investment company shall sell any redeemable security of which it is the issuer except at a current public offering price described in the prospectus. The contracts which will be issued by Applicants provide for a combined 5.25 percent charge for sales and administrative services. The combined charge is appropriate because of the impossibility of determining in advance of the sale of the contract the proportions of such combined charge which will be incurred by the Insurance Company for each type of expense. Such proportions will vary from case to case depending on the amount of assistance provided by the employer-purchaser of the contract in connection with the sale and administration of such contract. Since on the basis of actual experience the proportions of sales charges and accordingly the current public offering price will vary from contract to contract for the reasons referred to above, Applicants request an exemption from the requirements of section 22(d).

Applicants request a further exemption to permit the allocation of an experience rating provision for the tax sheltered contracts initially meeting the requirements of section 403(b) of the Code. The combined sales and administrative expenses applicable to each contract will be determined annually. If the actual expenses exceed the amount previously deducted for such expenses, no additional deduction will be made. On the other hand, if the actual expenses are less than the amount deducted, Insurance Company, in its discretion, may allocate all, a portion, or none of such excess as an experience rating credit to the participants in the Separate Account. Any excess so allocated will be applied in one of two ways: (a) By a reduction in the amount deducted from subsequent contributions for sales and administrative services; or (b) by the crediting to participants under the group policy of a number of additional accumulation units or annuity units, as applicable, without deduction of any amount for sales or administrative expenses.

Sections 22(e) and 27(c)(1) provide, in pertinent part, that (1) a registered investment company may not suspend the right of redemption or postpone the date of payment upon redemption of any redeemable security in accordance with its terms for more than seven days after the tender of such security for redemption and (2) a registered investment company issuing periodic payment plan certificates may not sell such certificates unless such certificates are redeemable securities. Applicants represent that prior to their maturity dates the contracts are redeemable and satisfy the redemption provisions of the Act. However, on their respective maturity dates, the then value of the contracts is determined and applied to provide for lifetime annuity payments of either fixed or variable amounts. Applicants state that because the amount of annuity payments under the variable option are calculated actuarially, based upon the life expectancies of the purchasers of the contracts, if a purchaser were permitted to redeem his contract after the maturity date, it would upset the actuarial computations made with respect to the remaining purchasers. Applicants request exemption from sections 22(e) and 27(c)(1) to the extent that once a purchaser begins to receive annuity payments he cannot redeem the value credited to his contract. Such prohibitions shall only apply after annuity payments to the purchaser commence.

Section 27(a)(4) provides, in pertinent part, that the first payment on a periodic payment plan certificate be not less than $20. In order to minimize the administrative and accounting burdens involved for employers in making payroll deductions, Applicants request an exemption to permit the first payment to be in an amount of not less than $10 in the case of its group variable annuity contracts meeting the requirements of section 403(b) of the Code.

Section 27(c)(2) prohibits a registered investment company or a depositor or underwriter for such company from selling periodic payment plan certificates unless the proceeds of all payments, other than the sales load, are deposited with a bank as trustee or custodian and held under an indenture or agreement containing, in substance, the provisions required by sections 26(a)(2) and (3) for a unit investment trust. Section 26(a)(2) requires that the trustee or custodian segregate and hold in trust all securities and cash of the trust and places certain restrictions on charges which may be made against the trust income and corpus and excludes from expenses which the trustee or custodian may charge against the trust any payments to the depositor or principal underwriter, other than a fee not exceeding such reasonable amount as the Commission may prescribe, for performing bookkeeping and other administrative services delegated to them by the trustee or custodian. Section 26(a)(3) governs the circumstances under which the trustee or custodian may resign.

Applicants state that Insurance Company functions as a regulated insurance company and is subject to extensive and detailed supervision and inspection by the Insurance Commissioner of California in all of its dealings with the contract purchasers. Insurance Company states that such control provides ample assurance against misfeasance and adequately protects the interest of the contract purchasers. Accordingly, Applicants state that such authority and jurisdiction affords the essential protection which the trusteeship or custodianship under section 26(a)(2) is designed to provide. Moreover, in addition to the supervision and inspection by the Insurance Commissioner, Insurance Company states that it will undertake binding commitments to contract owners which it may not legally abrogate. Such supervision, inspection and undertakings will effectively prevent orphanage of separate Account by Insurance Company which the trusteeship under section 27(c)(2) is designed to protect against.

Applicants have consented to the requested exemptions being subject to the condition that the charges under the contracts for administrative services shall not exceed such reasonable amounts as the Commission shall prescribe, and that the Commission shall reserve jurisdiction for such purpose.

Section 6(c) authorizes the Commission to exempt any person, security or transaction, or any class or classes or persons, securities, or transactions, from the provisions of the Act and Rules promulgated thereunder if and to the extent that such exemption is necessary or appropriate in the public interest and consistent with the protection of investors and the purposes fairly intended by the policy and provisions of the Act.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than August 11, 1967, at 5:30 p.m., submit to the Commission in writing a request for a hearing on the matter accompanied by a statement as to the nature of his interest, the reason for such request and the issues of fact or law proposed to be controverted, or he may request that he be notified if the Commission shall order a hearing thereon. Any such communication should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington, D.C. 20549. A copy of such request shall be served personally or by mail (airmail if the person being served is located more than 500 miles from the point of mailing) upon Applicants at the address stated above. Proof of such service (by affidavit or in case of an attorney at law by certificate) shall be filed contemporaneously with the request. At any time after said date, as provided by rule 0-5 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the Act, an order disposing of the application herein may be issued by the Commission upon the basis of the information stated in said application unless an order for hearing upon said application shall be issued upon request or upon the Commission's own motion. Persons who request a hearing or advice as to whether a hearing is ordered, will receive notice of further developments in this matter, including the date of the hearing (if ordered) and any postponements thereof.

For the Commission (pursuant to delegated authority).

LOUISIANA POWER & LIGHT CO.

Notice of Proposed Issue and Sale of Bonds and Increase in Authorized Shares of Preferred Stock

JULY 25, 1967.

Notice is hereby given that Louisiana Power & Light Co. ("Louisiana"), 142 Delaronde Street, New Orleans, La. 70114, a registered holding company and an electric utility subsidiary company of Middle South Utilities, Inc., also a registered holding company, has filed a declaration, pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("Act"), designating sections 6(a) and 7 of the Act and rule 50 thereunder as applicable to the proposed transactions. All interested persons are referred to the declaration, which is summarized below, for a complete statement of the proposed transactions.

Louisiana proposes to issue and sell, subject to the competitive bidding requirements of rule 50 under the Act, $18 million principal amount of First Mortgage Bonds, ____ percent Series due 1997 ("new bonds"). The interest rate of the new bonds (which will be a multiple of ⅛ of 1 percent) and the price, exclusive of accrued interested to be paid to Louisiana (which will be not less than 100 percent nor more than 102¾ percent of the principal amount thereof) will be determined by competitive bidding. The new bonds will be issued under Louisiana's Mortgage and Deed of Trust dated as of April 1, 1944, to The Chase Manhattan Bank ("National Association"), successor to The Chase National Bank of the City of New York and Milton J. Redlich, successor to Carl E. Buckley, as Trustees, as heretofore supplemented by various indentures and as to be further supplemented by a Tenth Supplemental Indenture to be dated September 1, 1967.

Louisiana also proposes to amend its charter so as to authorize 80,000 shares of a new series of cumulative preferred stock, $100 par value ("new preferred stock"), and to issue and sell such shares subject to the competitive bidding requirements of Rule 50 under the Act. The dividend rate of the new preferred stock (which will be a multiple of ⅛ of 1 percent) and the price to be paid to Louisiana (which will be not less than $100 nor more than $102.75 per share) will be determined by competitive bidding.

Louisiana will apply the net proceeds derived from the issue and sale of the new bonds and new perferred stock to the payment of short-term bank loans outstanding prior to the issue and sale of such bonds and preferred stock and to its 1967 construction program. Louisiana expects to provide for the balance needed for such 1967 construction by using funds on hand and to be generated internally.

It is stated that no State commission and no Federal commission, other than this Commission, has jurisdiction over the proposed transactions. Fees and expenses to be incurred by Louisiana in connection with the new bonds are estimated at $70,000, including legal fees of $19,000 and auditor's fees of $2,500. Fees and expenses in connection with the new preferred stock are estimated at $30,000, including legal fees of $15,000 and auditor's fees of $1,000. The fees of counsel for the underwriters, to be paid by the successful bidders, are estimated at $6,000 in connection with the new bonds and at $5,000 in connection with the new preferred stock.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than August 25, 1967, request in writing that a hearing be held on such matter, stating the nature of his interest, the reasons for such request, and the issues of fact or law raised by said declaration which he desires to controvert; or he may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington, D.C. 20549. A copy of such request should be served personally or by mail (airmail if the person being served is located more than 500 miles from the point of mailing) upon the declarant at the above-stated address, and proof of service (by affidavit or, in case of an attorney at law, by certificate) should be filed with the request. At any time after said date, the declaration, as filed or as it may be amended, may be granted as provided in Rule 23 of the general rules and regulations promulgated under the Act, or the Commission may grant exemption from such rules as provided in Rules 20(a) and 100 thereof or take such other action as it may deem appropriate. Persons who request a hearing or advice as to whether a hearing is ordered will receive notice of further developments in this matter, including the date of the hearing (if ordered) and any postponements thereof.

For the Commission (pursuant to delegated authority).

(g) "Grazing capacity" means the total animal-unit months of forage available from a tract or tracts of forage land during a given period without inducing damage to vegetation or related resources.

(h) "Lease land" or "public land" means the land administered by the Bureau of Land Management for grazing purposes under the regulations in this Part 4120 including the vacant, unappropriated, and unreserved public land of the United States; withdrawn public lands wherein the administration by the BLM of grazing use is not precluded by the terms of the withdrawal order; State, county, and privately owned lands leased for such administration; and lands so administered pursuant to a cooperative agreement with the Federal department or agency having jurisdiction over such land; and the O&C lands. Subpart 4121—Awards of Grazing Leases

§ 4121.1 Qualifications of applicants.

§ 4121.1–1 Minimum qualification requirements.

An applicant for a grazing lease is qualified if:

(a) He is a person engaged in the livestock business, has a continuing need for the grazing use of the land, and is a citizen of the United States or has on file before a court of competent jurisdiction a valid declaration of intention to become a citizen or a valid petition for naturalization, or;

(b) It is a group or association authorized to conduct business under the laws of the State in which the grazing privileges sought are to be exercised, all members of which are qualified under paragraph (a) of this section, provided that the agreement or articles of association under which the association has been formed are approved by the State Director, or;

(c) It is a corporation, the controlling interest in which is vested in persons qualified under paragraph (a) of this section and which is authorized to do business under the laws of the State in which grazing privileges sought are to be exercised: Provided, That the articles of incorporation have been approved by the Authorized Officer.

§ 4121.2 Adjudication of application for grazing leases.

§ 4121.2–1 Minimum requirements, rating and classification of lease land.

(a) Land resource consideration. The Authorized Officer will determine the availability of public land for grazing leases and the amount of forage available for use by livestock after considering reservations for watershed protection, wildlife, and other multiple use demands.

(b) Grazing capacity, seasons of use, and maximum annual period of use. The Authorized Officer will establish the grazing capacity, determine the kind and class of livestock use to be proper for each management area and classify each area for the proper seasons of use and for the maximum period of time for which the lessee will be allowed to use the lease land therein during any one year, except that where the lease land consists chiefly of isolated or fragmented tracts of land which are not proposed for long-term retention and management, Authorized Officer may establish the grazing capacity only.

(c) Applicants. Grazing leases may be issued to qualified applicants to the extent that public land is available in the following order and amounts:

(1) To applicants who are the owners, lessees, or other lawful occupants of contiguous lands to the extent necessary to permit proper use of such contiguous lands. When the public lands consists of isolated or disconnected tracts embracing 760 acres or less, owners, lessees, or other lawful occupants of lands contiguous thereto or cornering thereon shall have a preference-right to lease the whole of such tract, upon terms and conditions prescribed by the Secretary: Provided, The preference-right is asserted during a period of 90 days after such tract is initially offered for lease.[1]

(2) To applicants owning, leasing, or lawfully occupying noncontiguous lands to the extent necessary to permit the proper livestock use of such noncontiguous lands.

(d) Conflicting applications. When more than one qualified applicant applies for the same public land and:

(1) It appears that a division of the area may be made and will not result in improper land use, the Authorized Officer will allow the applicants an opportunity, within a specified time limit which he shall set, to agree to a division of the lands. A division of the lands may be made either by agreement between the conflicting applicants which is acceptable to the Authorized Officer, or by determination of the Authorized Officer where no acceptable agreement is submitted; or

(2) It appears that a division of the land would result in improper land use or where proper land use management will be advanced thereby, the Authorized Officer may require that joint use be made of a management area.

(3) The Authorized Officer will allocate the use of the public land on the basis of any or all of the following factors: (i) historical use, (ii) proper range management, (iii) proper use of the preference lands, (iv) general needs of the applicants, (v) topography, (vi) public ingress and egress across preference lands to public lands, and (vii) other land use requirements.

§ 4121.2–2 Leases of withdrawn or reserved lands; preference right leases for lands restored from withdrawal.

(a) The Authorized Officer may issue grazing leases for public lands withdrawn for resurvey, or withdrawn and reserved in aid of legislation, or for power sites, classification or other public purposes,[2] if the use of the land for grazing is consistent with the purposes of the withdrawal. Lands included in stock driveway and public water reserve withdrawals may be leased in accordance with § 2321.–3–2(c) of this chapter. Any lease issued covering withdrawn lands must contain the stipulations which have been prescribed for the protection and use of the land for the purpose for which it was withdrawn or reserved.

(b) Where public lands are restored from a withdrawal and the Authorized Officer determines that a grazing lease for the lands may be issued, the party using such lands or part thereof for grazing purposes under authority of the agency which had jurisdiction over the land immediately prior to their restoration, shall have a superior preference right to lease the restored public lands previously used by him. The preference right must be asserted by an application for a grazing lease on a form approved by the Director (see § 4125.1–1(a)(1)), and must be filed within 90 days after the date of signing of the order of revocation of the withdrawal, or within 90 days after the end of the current lease year under which the land is being used, whichever is the later. The application must be accompanied by a copy of the prior grazing lease, license, permit or other authority upon which the superior preference claim is based.

§ 4121.3 Adjustments of grazing use.

§ 4121.3–1 Increases.

Increases in grazing capacity, when determined by the Authorized Officer will be apportioned in a manner that will assist in the stabilization of the livestock operations after consideration of other land uses.

§ 4121.3–2 Decreases.

(a) Downward adjustments in authorized grazing use may be imposed during the term of a grazing lease when the lease has been improperly issued, or to the extent to which it authorizes use in excess of the grazing capacity of the lease land, or if so required to facilitate other proper multiple uses on the area.

(b) Adjustments to balance authorized use with the proper stocking rate of the management area will be apportioned equitably or as agreed to among the lessees and the Authorized Officer. Such adjustments may be made either by authorizing fewer livestock or a shorter grazing season or by both methods as determined by the Authorized Officer.

(c) The Authorized Officer will notify each affected lessee by certified mail of his decision to make an adjustment in authorized use to reach the proper stocking rate of any lease area and of the manner in which the adjustment is to be made, and will allow 30 days from receipt thereof in which the lessee may file an appeal in accordance with § 4125.1–3. If no appeal is filed within the 30-day period, the adjustment will be made in accordance with the decision and no further appeal will be allowed. If a timely appeal is filed, the adjustment for the leased land in the entire management area under consideration will be deferred pending a final decision on such appeal. Any adjustment provided by the final decision will be applied to its full extent for the next grazing season immediately following the effective date of the decision.

(d) Public lands under a grazing lease are subject to classification, withdrawal, or other disposal under the Taylor Act, the O&C Act, or other public land laws. Reasonable notice of a pending or proposed classification, withdrawal, or other disposal which might result in a diminution of the available public land will be given to the lessee, consistent with Subpart 2411 of this chapter and subject to the right of protest or appeal to the Director and to the Secretary of the Interior as may be provided in such notice and the rules of practice, Part 1840 of this chapter.

Subpart 4122—Management Practices

§ 4122.1 Management considerations.

§ 4122.1–1 Multiple use.

All use and management practices, including grazing and the issuance of [1] The Taylor Grazing Act of June 28, 1934, afforded a special preference for the leasing of tracts embracing 760 acres or less for a period of 90 days after such tracts were offered for lease. By Departmental notice of July 31, 1937, all vacant, unreserved and unappropriated public lands, exclusive of Alaska, not included in an established grazing district, were as of that date offered for lease under section 15; all lands not then subject to lease under section 15 because of their appropriation or reservation, were offered for lease as of the date any such lands first became subject to lease.

[2] Certain lands withdrawn for reclamation purposes are, pursuant to the cooperative agreement of February 26, 1945, between the Bureau of Reclamation and the Bureau of Land Management, leased in accordance with principles of section 15 leases, under authority of subsection (I) of section 4, Act of Dec. 5, 1924 (43 Stat. 703, 43 U.S.C. Sec. 501). Those lands withdrawn for reclamation purposes which are not subject to the cooperative agreement of Feb. 26, 1945, will upon restoration from the reclamation withdrawal, become subject to the provisions of paragraph (b) of this section.

grazing leases shall be in conformance with the concepts of multiple use and sustained yield.

§ 4122.1–2 Allotment management plans.

The Authorized Officer before or after the grazing lease is issued may, pursuant to these regulations or where leases provide for the issuance of management plans, establish a grazing management plan as a condition of the lease, to provide for the proper use, conservation, and protection of the public lands. The Authorized Officer will consult the lease applicant or lessee during the development of the management plan.

§ 4122.2 Designations of grazing areas for exclusive use by specified classes of animals.

Prior to issuance of a lease or a renewal thereof, the Authorized Officer may designate certain areas for use exclusively by a certain kind or class of livestock, for wildlife or both when necessary for the proper use or orderly administration of the lease area.

§ 4122.3 General rules of the range.

The acts prohibited and rules of fair range practice as detailed in §§ 4112.3–1 and 4112.3–2 of this chapter shall apply to all leases issued under the regulations in Part 4120.

Subpart 4123—Supervision and Inspection

§ 4123.1 Procedures for enforcement of rules and regulations.

A grazing lease may be suspended, reduced, or revoked, or renewal thereof denied for a clearly established violation of the terms or conditions of the grazing lease, or for a violation of the Taylor Act as amended, or of the O&C Act as amended, or of any of the provisions of this part. (See §§ 9239.3–1, 9239.3–2(e), (f) and (h) of this chapter for detailed trespass regulations.) The lease of public lands for livestock grazing under these regulations in no way limits the Bureau's trespass authority for both leased and unleased lands.

Subpart 4124—Local Associations

§ 4124.1 Local Associations of stockmen.

Grazing associations formed by lessees will be recognized in accordance with regulations detailed in § 4114.4.

Subpart 4125—Records and Administrative Procedures

§ 4125.1 Procedures.

§ 4125.1–1 Leasing procedures; requirements and conditions.

(a) Filing and action on lease applications. (1) An application for a grazing lease shall be executed on a form approved by the Director and filed in the district office of the Bureau of Land Management having management responsibility over the public lands applied for in the application.[1] Proof of ownership or control of contiguous or cornering lands may be required by the Authorized Officer.

(2) A service fee of $10 will be charged for each application to lease public lands including initial applications and those pursuant to assignments and consolidations with the exception that no fee will be charged for consolidations requested by the Authorized Officer.

(3) An application to lease lands included in an existing grazing lease, including lease renewals, must be filed not less than 30 days nor more than 90 days prior to the expiration of the current lease. An application not filed within this period may be rejected by the Authorized Officer as not timely filed. Applications for land not under lease may be filed at any time.

(4) A timely filed application for renewal of an existing grazing lease does not confer on the lessee any preference right to a renewal but will authorize the continued grazing use of the lands by the lessee in accordance with the provisions of the existing lease, pending final action on the application for renewal. The fee for such extended use shall be consistent with the then current fee schedule.

(5) An application for a grazing lease must describe the proposed lease land by legal subdivision or where unsurveyed by a natural or artificial grazing boundary, or by a clear and concise metes and bounds description.

(6) An application for a grazing lease may include O&C lands or public lands or combinations thereof.

(b) No right is conferred by application prior to lease. Since the issuance of a grazing lease is discretionary, the filing of an application for lands not then under lease will not create any right in the applicant to use the lands applied for pending the issuance of a grazing lease. Any such unauthorized use constitutes a trespass.

(c) Action on defective and nonallowable applications. (1) The Authorized Officer may require any defects in an application be corrected or additional information be furnished. The Authorized Officer may reject any application if the applicant fails to correct defects in the application or fails to provide the additional information within the time allowed, which period shall be not less than fifteen (15) days from the date of receipt by the applicant of notice of such defects or required information.

(2) The Authorized Officer shall reject the application if the land applied for is in an allowed entry, is otherwise appropriated or reserved and not subject to lease under the Taylor Act or the O&C Act, is not public land, or is under existing grazing lease, or the Authorized Officer has determined that livestock grazing would be detrimental to the resources or other uses of the land.

(d) Consolidations. A consolidation of leases held by the lessee may be requested by the lessee on a renewal application or may be initiated by the Authorized Officer. The term of the consolidated lease shall not exceed the date of the earliest expiration date of the leases involved.

(e) Protests and appeals.—(1) Protests. Protests against the approval of an application for a lease should be filed in the same office where the application for a grazing lease is filed; it should describe the lands involved in such protests; contain a complete disclosure of all facts upon which the protest is based; and be accompanied by evidence of service of a copy of the protests on the applicant. The Authorized Officer will consider the protest, and will serve a copy of his decision on the affected parties in person or by certified mail, and in accordance with § 4126.2–3 will advise the protestant or other parties of their privilege to appeal to the Director.

(2) Appeal by Applicant. The lease will be executed by the Authorized Officer and transmitted to the lessee only after final action is taken on any protest or timely appeals which may have been filed. The applicant's signature to the application shall also constitute his signature to, and his acceptance of the lease when executed by the Authorized Officer, without prejudice, however, to the applicant's right to appeal any adverse action taken against his application.

(f) Additional requirements and stipulations. In addition to the provisions set forth in the standard Grazing lease form, the lease will provide for the multiple use requirements of the area, the number of livestock to be grazed, proper grazing seasons, reservation for authorized trailing, and any other conditions or requirements which the Authorized Officer may deem necessary and proper, except as provided under 4121.2–1(b).

(g) Sublease. No part of the lease land may be subleased by the lessee. The grazing on the lease area of livestock not owned or controlled by the lessee with or without the lessee's consent is prohibited.

(h) Cancellation or reduction of leases; show cause, appeal to Director. Leases are subject to cancellation or reduction for failure to comply with the terms of the lease or any provision or regulation of this part or to the extent that they have been improperly issued or to the extent that their continued effectiveness is adversely affected pursuant to any of the provisions of § 4121.1, § 4122.1–2, § 4125.1–1(f), § 4125.1–1m, or § 4125.1–4(a) (2), (5), (6), and (7). In any such case or in any case that a lease confers grazing use in excess of that properly allowable, the Authorized Officer will notify the lessee that the lease is thereby held for cancellation or reduction in whole or in part, and will allow the lessee fifteen (15) days from receipt of the notice within which to show cause why such action should not be made final. Such notice will set forth fully the reasons for the proposed action, specifically referring to the pertinent provisions of this part, and will be served on the lessee by certified mail or in person. The Authorized Officer will consider any cause shown and, if not satisfied as to its sufficiency, or if no cause is shown, he will notify the lessee in person or by certified mail that the cancellation or reduction will become final. Such decision is subject to appeal to the Director in accordance with § 4125.1–3.

(i) Terms and conditions. The issuance and continued effectiveness of all grazing leases will be subject to the following terms and conditions.

(1) A grazing lease will authorize grazing use not in excess of the grazing capacity available for use by livestock as determined by the Authorized Officer in accordance with § 4121.2–1(a).

(2) Grazing leases will provide for the grazing of livestock on the lease land only during that part or parts of the year for which the area has been classified as proper for use, except as provided under § 4121.2–1(b).

(3) Upon the diminution of the public land used under any grazing lease, due to withdrawal, appropriation, selection, or otherwise, the lease will be adjusted proportionately to the reduction of the grazing capacity caused by the loss of such lease land and the grazing fee will be adjusted accordingly commencing with the ensuing lease year.

(4) The grazing lease will be terminated in whole or in part because of loss of control by the lessee of non-Federal lands that have been recognized as the basis for a grazing lease.

(5) The lease land may be reduced if it is determined that such area is required for the protection of forest plantations or sources of water supply to communities, or for recreation facilities, wildlife habitat, stock driveways, roads, trails, town sites, or for other public purposes. When it is determined by the Authorized Officer that the lease land is excessive to the lessee's need or that the lessee is not making substantial use of the lease land, the Authorized Officer may cancel the grazing lease in whole or in part in accordance with the provision of § 4125.1–1(h). In the case of any such reduction or adjustment, a proportionate fee adjustment will be made commencing with the ensuing lease year. If the entire grazing lease is canceled, the Director, as provided for under § 4125.1–1(m)(4), may refund any portion of the lease year grazing fees paid for any lease year commencing subsequent to the cancellation.

(6) The Authorized Officer may establish the size and boundaries of a grazing lease area to facilitate the proper and effective management of the resources. He may determine that two or more applicants shall be authorized to use the public land within a management area. He will give consideration to seasons of use, topography, and establishment of systems of grazing and any other pertinent factors.

(7) The Authorized Officer may make adjustments in grazing leases at any time when necessary to comply with these regulations for the public lands.

(8) If necessary to rehabilitate the vegetative resources on the public land, the Authorized Officer may temporarily close the lease land to grazing or reduce livestock use whenever vegetal cover is depleted due to drought, epidemic, fire, or any other cause, or for rehabilitation of the area. Such action will not exclude the closed area from the grazing lease.

(9) Authorized grazing use of the lease land may be adjusted by the Authorized Officer after a grazing lease has been issued to conform to needed refinements in the management plan as a result of more accurate determinations of grazing capacity, season and area of use, class of livestock, etc. Proportionate adjustment will be made in the annual grazing fee for the subsequent grazing season.

(10) The issuance of a grazing lease does not alter or restrict the authorized public use of the lease land including, but not limited to, hunting, fishing, camping, or hiking on such lands in accordance with the laws of the United States or of the State in which the lands are located, nor may the lessee interfere in any manner with the proper exercise of such rights. Neither shall the lessee maintain locked gates, signs, or other devices on the public lands which prevent or interfere with public use of the lease land. Nor shall such grazing lease restrict or limit prospecting, locating, developing, mining, or patenting the mineral resources in the public lands; miners, prospectors, and mineral lessees of the United States and all other authorized persons shall be entitled to enter the lease land for all lawful purposes.

(11) The Authorized Officer may require the lessee, as a condition to the granting and continued effectiveness of grazing leases, to fence or to contribute an equitable share to the cost of fencing the allotted areas and of maintenance of such fences.

(j) Change in grazing seasons. Any lessee who desires to use the lease area for a period or periods other than as authorized by his existing grazing lease may, upon written approval of the Authorized Officer and prior to his annual billing notice, be allowed to use the amount of his authorized grazing use during any period of time for which the lease area is classified as proper for use: Provided:

(1) Adjustments in season time or numbers does not result in an increase in the number of animal unit months utilized;

(2) Such use will not be detrimental to the resources of the lease area; and

(3) Such use will not adversely affect other leases.

(k) Interest of members of Congress prohibited. No member of or delegate to Congress shall be admitted to any share or part of any grazing lease issued or to derive any benefit to arise therefrom (41 U.S.C. sec. 22; 18 U.S.C. sec. 431–433).

(l) Exchange of use agreements. The Authorized Officer may enter into an exchange-of-use agreement with any applicant having ownership or control of non-Federal land interspersed and normally grazed in conjunction with the surrounding public land. The grazing use authorized, without payment of fees, will not exceed the grazing capacity of such non-Federal land. During the term of the agreement, the Bureau shall have the management and control of such non-Federal land for grazing purposes.

(m) Fees for grazing leases and crossing permits.—(1) Lease rates.[2] Each holder of a grazing lease will be charged annually grazing fees for the animal-unit months (AUM's) authorized by the grazing lease, at a rate per animal-unit month (AUM). All grazing fee billings shall be issued in accordance with the rates prescribed in subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph. All livestock six (6) months of age or over allowed on the lease area will be considered as a part of the total number for which a lease has been issued. No fees will be charged for livestock under 6 months of age.

(i) A minimum annual charge of $10 will be made on all leases.

(ii) The rate or rates per AUM for the fee year, beginning March 1 and ending the last day of February, will be established by the Director, and notice thereof shall be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The grazing fee or fees will become effective upon publication and applied to all billing notices issued during the fee year.

(2) Crossing permits. Upon application filed with the Authorized Officer by any person showing the necessity for crossing the public lands with livestock for proper and lawful purposes, a crossing permit may be issued to him at a charge, payable in advance, of 1 cent per head per day for cattle, 2 cents per head per day for horses, and one-fifth cent per head per day for sheep and goats. A minimum charge of $10 will be made for each crossing permit.

(3) Payment of rental fees and effect of failure to pay. No grazing lease shall be issued or renewed until payment of all fees due the United States under the Regulations in this part has been made. The first grazing rental fee payment shall be made within 15 days of receipt of the billing form; if not paid within that time, the lease shall not be issued by the Authorized Officer and all rights of the proposed lessee thereunder or under the application upon which it is based shall be considered as terminated. Upon timely payment of the grazing rental fee, the lessee will be executed and forwarded to the lessee. Subsequent annual grazing rental fee payments are due the United States upon issuance of the billing notice and are payable in advance of the first grazing period and for the full amount as indicated on the fee notice. No lease shall be effective to authorize grazing use thereunder until such advance payment has been made. A lease may be cancelled pursuant to § 4125.1–1(h) for failure to pay the grazing fee in accordance with the fee notice.

(4) Refunds. No refund of grazing fees properly paid in accordance with the

[1] 18 U.S.C. 1001 makes it a crime for any person knowingly and willfully to make any department or agency of the United States any false, fictitious or fraudulent statements or representations as to any matter within its jurisdiction.

[2] This section will be effective March 1, following approval of these Regulations.

regulations in this part and the terms of the grazing lease will be made because of a failure to make grazing use, either in whole or in part, authorized by the lease, except that during periods of range depletion due to severe drought or other natural causes or in case of a general epidemic of livestock disease during the life of the grazing lease, the Director on proper application may remit, refund, reduce in whole or in part, or postpone the payment of grazing fees for such period of depletion or general epidemic as he may determine. No part of the grazing fee paid will be refunded because of cancellation, relinquishment, or assignment, except as provided in § 4125.1–1 (1) (3), (5), (8), and (9), § 4125.1–4(a) (8) (ii).

(n) Period of lease. A grazing lease or lease renewal may be issued for any period, not to exceed 10 years and may be limited by the Authorized Officer to the term of a lease or control of lands that have been recognized as the basis for the grazing lease.

§ 4125.1–2 Assignment and relinquishment of grazing lease.

(a) Assignment of grazing lease. The lessee may assign a grazing lease only with the consent of the Authorized Officer, providing the assignee has control of the preference lands upon which the grazing lease is based. The Authorized Officer will require the assignee to furnish proof of ownership or control of the lands. The proposed assignment will be made on a form approved by the Director and must be filed with the Authorized Officer within 90 days from date of its execution. It shall contain all terms and conditions agreed upon between the parties. The assignment properly executed and signed by the assignor and the new application signed by the assignee, will constitute the assignee's acceptance of the terms of the grazing lease. No assignment will be recognized or confer on the assignee any privilege to use the leased area until approved by the Authorized Officer. Advance grazing fees paid by the assignor may be credited to the assignee. All cooperative agreements and permits to construct or maintain range improvements on the lease land must be assigned at the time of the grazing lease assignment.

(b) Relinquishment of grazing lease. Upon written request, the Authorized Officer may accept a grazing lease relinquishment in whole or in part: Provided, All fees and charges then due have been paid.

§ 4125.1–3 Appeals.

Any applicant or lessee whose interest is adversely affected by a final decision of the Authorized Officer may appeal to the Director, and from the Director to the Secretary, in accordance with the procedure for appeals and contests (Part 1840 of this chapter). The original appeal shall be filed with the Authorized Officer who rendered the decision.

§ 4125.1–4 Range improvements and contributions.

(a) Construction and maintenance of improvements on the lease lands—(1) Qualifications of applicant for range improvement permit. An applicant for a permit to construct or maintain range improvement or to use and maintain range improvements constructed and owned by a prior occupant, of the lease land, must be qualified under § 4121.1–1 and hold a valid lease.

(2) Applications. Applications for permits shall be approved, prior to construction. Applications for permits shall be filed with the Authorized Officer on a form approved by the Director. Construction of range improvements without an approved permit may result in cancellation of the grazing lease as provided in § 4125.1–1(h).

(3) Appeals. The Authorized Officer will act on the application and such action shall be final unless the applicant or any interested party appeals in accordance with § 4125.1–3.

(4) Assignments. Assignment of range improvement permits shall be filed with the Authorized Officer on a form approved by the Director and shall not be effective until approved by the Authorized Officer.

(5) Permit standards. The Authorized Officer will specify the minimum Bureau of Land Management standards and design for all range improvements. Failure to comply with the standards and design may result in cancellation of the range improvement permit and the grazing lease as provided in § 4125.1–1(h).

(6) Cooperative agreements. A lessee may enter into a cooperative agreement with the Authorized Officer to construct and maintain range improvements upon the lease land. Failure to comply with the terms of such an agreement within a reasonable time, as allowed by the Authorized Officer, may result in the cancellation of the agreement and the grazing lease as provided in § 4125.1–1(h). A cooperative agreement for range improvements shall be made on a form approved by the Director.

(7) Removal of improvements; compensation for loss of improvements. (i) When a grazing lease expires or is terminated, the Authorized Officer may require a proposed subsequent lessee to compensate the prior lessee for the current value of his share of the cost authorized permanent improvements placed on the lease land. The following conditions are required: (a) The lessee shall file a written application for compensation within 30 days after date of termination or expiration or date of final decision; (b) The improvements shall have been properly authorized; (c) Amount of compensation shall be determined in accordance with § 4125.1–4(a) (8) (i). The failure of the new lessee to pay the prior lessee in accordance with such agreement shall be just cause for cancellation of the new grazing lease.

(ii) The lessee will be allowed ninety (90) days from the date of expiration or termination of the grazing lease within which to remove such improvements not disposed of in the manner set forth in (i) above; if not removed or otherwise disposed of within the said period or any extension thereof granted by the Authorized Officer, such improvements shall become the property of the United States. No improvements may be removed if the lessee is in default with respect to the grazing lease.

(8) Lease land subject to disposition; compensation for loss of improvements. (i) Lands embraced in a grazing lease are subject to disposition under the provisions of the Act of June 28, 1934 (48 Stat. 1272, 1274), as amended, or other public land laws. Before an application for such disposition is allowed, evidence must be furnished that the applicant has agreed to compensate the lessee, other cooperators and the United States for any range improvements placed on the lands under the authority of the lease, permit, or cooperative agreement. If the parties are unable to agree to the amount, manner, and time for compensation for such improvements, they shall be fixed by the Authorized Officer. The failure of the applicant to comply with the agreement or the conditions fixed by the Authorized Officer shall be cause for cancellation of any right or interest in the lands acquired by the applicant by reason of the allowance of the application. If improvements have been constructed in whole or in part with Federal funds, are administered by the Bureau of Land Management, and the application for disposal is in satisfaction of any lieu or indemnity selection right of any State under R.S. 2275, as amended (43 U.S.C. 851), the application may be allowed in the discretion of the Authorized Officer without compensation to the United States for its share of the value of the improvements. In such cases, the Authorized Officer shall determine whether the grazing improvements are needed by the United States and whether the probable salvage value is sufficient to warrant removal of the salvageable materials.

(ii) Where part of the lease land is disposed of, the subsequent annual grazing use and rental fee will be reduced proportionately to reflect the loss of the grazing capacity of the lease land.

(b) Contributions for administration, protection, and improvement of public lands. The Authorized Officer may accept contributions, made under section 9 of the Taylor Act, of labor, materials, equipment, or money, toward any of the Bureau's functions in administering, protecting, and improving public lands under its jurisdiction.

(1) Any individual, association, corporation, State, or local body or private group, may enter into an agreement with the Authorized Officer with respect to such contribution.

§ 4125.1–5 Pledge of leases as security for loans.

(a) A grazing lease may be pledged as security for a loan from a lending agency

if the loan is for a substantial amount for the purpose of furthering the lessee's livestock operations. Before a loan is made, the lending agency may obtain from the Authorized Officer a written statement concerning the status of the grazing lease and related information. A service charge of $10 will be made for searching the records, except that Federal and State lending agencies shall be exempt from such charge.

(b) A borrower-lessee desiring an extension of the grazing lease term may file a request therefor, in writing, with the Authorized Officer, setting forth the name of the lending agency, purpose and amount of the loan, and the need for an extension of the grazing lease. If the Authorized Officer determines that an extension will not conflict with applicable laws and is not contrary to the public interest, he may issue a new grazing lease for a period up to 10 years from the date of the loan, but not to exceed the period of the loan. The new lease will be subject to such terms and conditions as are then provided by the regulations in this part, and by the Authorized Officer.

(c) If the preference land of the lessee is acquired by the lending agency through foreclosure, or otherwise, the agency or its authorized occupants of the property or a purchaser of the property from the agency, if qualified, may file a grazing lease application for the issuance of a new lease to be recognized as the new lessee. If, in selling the property, the lending agency takes back the mortgage on the property, the agency will receive the same consideration as in the case of an original loan.

(d) Where a lending agency files notice with the Authorized Officer that it has made a loan and has accepted a grazing lease as security, in conformity with the provisions of this section, such agency will be advised of any adverse action taken affecting the lease. The failure to give timely notice of such adverse action shall impose no legal liability or obligation on the Bureau or any of its employees.

HARRY R. ANDERSON,
Assistant Secretary of the Interior.

[Valencia Orange Reg. 212, Amdt. 1]

PART 908—VALENCIA ORANGES GROWN IN ARIZONA AND DESIGNATED PART OF CALIFORNIA

Limitation of Handling

Findings. (1) Pursuant to the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 908, as amended (7 CFR Part 908), regulating the handling of Valencia oranges grown in Arizona and designated part of California, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601–674), and upon the basis of the recommendation and information submitted by the Valencia Orange Administrative Committee, established under the said amended marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of handling of such Valencia oranges, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this amendment until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (5 U.S.C. 553) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which this amendment is based became available and the time when this amendment must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient, and this amendment relieves restriction on the handling of Valencia oranges grown in Arizona and designated part of California.

Order, as amended. The provisions in paragraph (b)(1) (i) and (ii) of § 908.512 (Valencia Orange Regulation 212, 32 F.R. 10781) are hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 908.512 Valencia Orange Regulation 212.

PART 958—ONIONS GROWN IN CERTAIN DESIGNATED COUNTIES IN IDAHO, AND MALHEUR COUNTY, OREGON

Limitation of Shipments

Findings. (a) Pursuant to Marketing Agreement No. 130 and Order No. 958 (7 CFR Part 958), regulating the handling of onions grown in the production area defined therein, effective under the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), and upon the basis of recommendations and information submitted by the Idaho-Eastern Oregon Onion Committee, established pursuant to the said marketing agreement and order, and other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of shipments hereinafter established, limiting the grade, size, and quality of such onions will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act and will maintain orderly marketing conditions and increase returns to producers of such onions.

(b) It is hereby found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, and engage in public rule making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this section until 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER (5 U.S.C. 553) in that (1) shipments of 1967 crop onions grown in the production area will begin on or about the effective date specified herein (2) to maximize benefits to producers, this regulation should apply to all such shipments, (3) the time intervening between the date of the Committee's recommendation and the date when this section must become effective in order to effectuate the policy of the act is insufficient, (4) compliance with this section will not require any special preparation by handlers which cannot be completed by the effective date, and (5) information regarding the Committee's recommendation of these regulations has been made available to producers and handlers in the production area.

§ 958.312 Limitation of shipments.

During the period from August 7, 1967, through June 15, 1968, no person may handle any lot of yellow or white varieties of onions unless such onions are at least "moderately cured" as defined in paragrph (e) of this section or unless such onions are handled in accordance with paragraphs (b) and (c), or paragraph (d), of this section, and beginning August 21, 1967, no person may handle any lot of such onions unless they meet the requirements of paragraph (a) of this section, or unless such onions are handled in accordance with paragraphs (b) and (c), or paragraph (d), of this section.

(a) Minimum grade and size requirements—(1) yellow varieties—(i) Grade. U.S. No. 1; or U.S. No. 2 if not more than 30 percent of the lot is comprised of onions of U.S. No. 1 quality.

(ii) Size. 2 inches in diameter.

(2) White varieties—(i) Grade. (a) U.S. No. 1; or U.S. No. 2 if not more than 30 percent of the lot is comprised of onions of U.S. No. 1 quality.

(b) U.S. No. 2, or better, grade if the minimum and maximum diameters of the onions in the lot are not less than 1 inch nor more than 2 inches.

(ii) Size. Except as otherwise provided in subdivision (i)(b) of this subparagraph, 1½ inches minimum diameter.

(b) Special purpose shipments. The minimum grade, size and quality requirements of this section shall not be applicable to shipments of onions for any of the following purposes:

(1) Planting;
(2) Livestock feed;
(3) Charity;
(4) Dehydration;
(5) Canning; and
(6) Freezing.

(c) Safeguards. Each handler making shipments of onions for dehydration, canning, or freezing pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section shall:

(1) First apply to the committee for and obtain a Certificate of Privilege to make such shipments;

(2) Prepare, on forms furnished by the committee, a report in quadruplicate on each individual shipment to such outlets authorized in paragraph (b) of this section;

(3) Bill or consign each shipment directly to the applicable processor; and

(4) Forward one copy of such report to the committee office, and two copies to the processor for signing and returning one copy to the committee office. Failure of the handler or processor to report such shipments by promptly signing and returning the applicable report to the committee office shall be cause for cancellation of such handler's Certificate of Privilege and/or the processor's eligibility to receive further shipments pursuant to such Certificate of Privilege. Upon cancellation of any such Certificate of Privilege the handler may appeal to the committee for reconsideration.

(d) Minimum quantity exception. Each handler may ship up to, but not to exceed, 1 ton of onions each day without regard to the inspection and assessment requirements of this part, if such onions meet minimum grade, size, and quality requirements of this section. This exception shall not apply to any portion of a shipment that exceeds 1 ton of onions.

(e) Definitions. The terms "U.S. No. 1" and "U.S. No. 2" shall have the same meaning as when used in the United States Standards for Grades of Onions (§§ 51.2830–51.2853 of this title). The term "moderately cured" means the onions are mature and are definitely fairly well cured but they need not be completely dry. Other terms used in this section shall have the same meaning as when used in Marketing Agreement No. 130 and this part.

(Secs. 1–19, 48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U.S.C. 601–674)

Dated: July 28, 1967, to become effective August 7, 1967.

PAUL A. NICHOLSON,
Acting Director, Fruit and Vegetable Division, Consumer and Marketing Service.

Chapter X—Consumer and Marketing Service (Marketing Agreements and Orders; Milk), Department of Agriculture

[Milk Order 4]

PART 1004—MILK IN DELAWARE VALLEY MARKETING AREA

Order Amending Order

§ 1004.0 Findings and determinations.

The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order and of the previously issued amendments thereto; and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held upon certain proposed amendments to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order regulating the handling of milk in the Delaware Valley marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order as hereby amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the Act;

(2) The parity prices of milk, as determined pursuant to section 2 of the Act, are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the said marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the order as hereby amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(3) The said order as hereby amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as, and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial or commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

(b) Additional findings. It is necessary in the public interest to make this order amending the order effective not later than August 1, 1967. Any delay beyond that date would tend to disrupt the orderly marketing of milk in the marketing area.

The provisions of the said order are known to handlers. The recommended decision of the Deputy Administrator, Regulatory Programs was issued June 30, 1967, and the decision of the Secretary containing all amendment provisions of this order was issued July 13, 1967. The changes effected by this order will not require extensive preparation or substantial alteration in method of operation for handlers. In view of the foregoing, it is hereby found and determined that good cause exists for making this order amending the order effective August 1, 1967, and that it would be contrary to the public interest to delay the effective date of this amendment for 30 days after its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER (sec. 553(d), Administrative Procedure Act, 5 U.S.C. 551–559).

(c) Determinations. It is hereby determined that:

(1) The refusal or failure of handlers (excluding cooperative associations specified in section 8c (9) of the Act) of more than 50 percent of the milk, which is marketed within the marketing area, to sign a proposed marketing agreement, tends to prevent the effectuation of the declared policy of the Act;

(2) The issuance of this order, amending the order, is the only practical means pursuant to the declared policy of the Act of advancing the interests of producers as defined in the order as hereby amended; and

(3) The issuance of the order amending the order is approved or favored by at least two-thirds of the producers who participated in a referendum in which each individual producer had one vote, and who during the determined representative period were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the marketing area.

Order relative to handling. It is therefore ordered, that on and after the effective date hereof, the handling of milk in the Delaware Valley marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order, as amended and as hereby amended, as follows:

1. In § 1004.16, the period at the end of paragraph (c) is changed to a semicolon and new paragraphs (d) and (e) are added to read as follows:

§ 1004.16 Milk and milk products.

* * * * *

(d) "Base milk" means milk received from a producer by a pool handler during any of the months of March through June of each year which is not in excess of such producer's daily base computed pursuant to § 1004.63 multiplied by the number of days in such months on which such producer's milk was so received: Provided, That with respect to any producer on every-other-day delivery, the day of nondelivery prior to a day of delivery, although such prior day is in the preceding month, shall be considered as a day of delivery for the purpose of this paragraph;

(e) "Excess milk" means milk received from a producer by a pool handler during any of the months of March through June which is in excess of base milk received from such producer during such month.

2. In § 1004.22, subparagraph (2) of paragraph (j) is revised and a new paragraph (o) is added, both to read as follows:

§ 1004.22 Duties.

* * * * * *

(j) * * *

(2) The 13th day of each month, the uniform price(s) computed pursuant to §§ 1004.71 and 1004.72 and the butterfat differential to producers computed pursuant to § 1004.81, both for the preceding month;

* * * * * *

(o) On or before February 20 of each year notify:

(1) Each cooperative association of the daily base established by each producer member of such association; and

(2) Each nonmember producer of the daily base established by such producer.

3. A new § 1004.63 is added to read as follows:

§ 1004.63 Computation of base for each producer.

For each of the months of March through June each year the market administrator shall compute, subject to the rules set forth in § 1004.64, a base for each producer described in paragraphs (a) through (d) of this section by dividing the applicable quantity of milk receipts specified in such paragraph by 184 (by 185, in the case of a producer on every-other-day delivery schedule who delivered July 1) less the number of days, if any, during the immediately preceding base-forming period of July through December for which it is shown that the day's production of milk of such producer was not received by a pool handler as described in the applicable paragraphs (a), (b), (c), or (d) of this section under which such producer's base is computed: Provided, That in no event shall the number of days used to compute a producer's base pursuant to this part be less than 154; except that with respect to this paragraph and paragraphs (a), (b), and (c) of this section the initial base-forming period shall be August through December 1967 and the minimum number of days used to compute the producer's base which will be applicable during the March through June 1968 base-paying period shall be not less than 123:

(a) For any producer, except as provided in paragraphs (b), (c), and (d) of this section, the quantity of milk receipts shall be the total pounds of producer milk received by all pool handlers from such producer during the preceding months of July through December;

(b) For any producer whose milk was received during the preceding months of July through December at a plant which became a pool plant after the beginning of such base-earning period, the quantity of milk receipts shall be the total pounds of milk received from such dairy farmer during such July–December period by pool handlers as producer milk or at the plant as a nonpool plant;

(c) For any producer who, during any of the three base-earning months July through September the preceding year (two base-earning months of August and September 1967 during the initial base-earning period), qualified under Order 3 (Washington, D.C.) or Order No. 16 (Upper Chesapeake Bay) as a producer and was a producer under Order No. 4 during all of each of the three remaining base-earning months of October, November, and December, the quantity of milk receipts shall be the total pounds of milk received from such farmer during all of the months of July through December by pool handlers under each of the orders; or

(d) For any producer not described in paragraph (b) or (c) of this section but whose milk was received by a handler as producer milk during the months of September, October, November, and December of the preceding year at a pool plant at which receipt of his milk in the immediately preceding months of July and August would have qualified or did qualify him as a "dairy farmer for other markets" pursuant to § 1004.14(b), the quantity of milk receipts shall be the total pounds of milk received from such producer by pool handlers during such months of July through December and verified receipts at the nonpool plant of the handler, affiliate of the handler or any person who controls or is controlled by the handler during such months of July through September.

4. A new § 1004.64 is added to read as follows:

§ 1004.64 Base rules.

The following rules shall apply in connection with the establishment of bases:

(a) A base computed pursuant to § 1004.63 or as designated pursuant to paragraph (c) of this section may be transferred in its entirety to any other person upon written application to the market administrator on or before the second day of the month following the month of transfer. Such application shall be on a form approved by the market administrator and shall be signed by the base holder, or his heirs, or assigns and by the person to whom such base is to be transferred: Provided, That if a base is held jointly, the entire base shall be transferable only upon receipt of such application signed by all joint holders or their heirs, or assigns;

(b) If a producer operates more than one farm, and milk is received from each at a pool plant or by a cooperative association in its capacity as a handler pursuant to § 1004.10 (b) or (c), he shall establish a separate base with respect to producer milk delivered from each such farm;

(c) Only one base shall be allotted with respect to milk produced by one or more persons where the dairy farm is jointly owned or operated: Provided, That in the case of a base established jointly, if a copy of the partnership agreement setting forth as a percentage of the total the interests of the partners in the base is filed with the market administrator before the end of the base-making period, then upon termination of the partnership agreement each partner will be entitled to his stated share of the base to hold in his own right, or to transfer as provided in paragraph (a) of this section (including transfer to a partnership of which he is a member) such division with respect to any member of the partnership to be effective as of the end of any month during which an application for such division signed by each member is received by the market administrator.

5. In § 1004.71, the introductory paragraph and paragraph (f) are revised to read as follows:

§ 1004.71 Computation of uniform price.

For each month the market administrator shall compute the weighted average price and for each of the months of July through February the uniform price per hundredweight of milk received from producers as follows:

* * * * * *

(f) Subtract not less than four cents or more than five cents per hundredweight. The result shall be the single "weighted average price" and also the "uniform price" per hundredweight for milk of 3.5 percent butterfat received from producers in the months of July through February.

6. A new § 1004.72 is added to read as follows:

§ 1004.72 Computation of uniform prices for base milk and excess milk.

For each of the months of March through June the market administrator shall compute the uniform prices per hundredweight for base milk and excess milk received from producers, each of 3.5 percent butterfat content, f.o.b. market, as follows:

(a) Compute the aggregate value of excess milk for all handlers included in the computations pursuant to § 1004.71 (a) as follows:

(1) Multiply the hundredweight quantity of such milk which does not exceed the total quantity of producer milk received by such handlers assigned to Class II milk by the Class II milk price;

(2) Multiply the remaining hundredweight quantity of excess milk by the Class I milk price; and

(3) Add together the resulting amounts;

(b) Divide the total value of excess milk obtained in paragraph (a) of this section by the total hundredweight of such milk and round to the nearest cent. The resulting figure shall be the uniform price for excess milk;

(c) From the amount resulting from the computations of § 1004.71 (a) through (d) subtract an amount computed by multiplying the hundredweight of milk specified in § 1004.71(e)(2) by the weighted average price;

(d) Subtract the total value of excess milk determined by multiplying the uniform price obtained in paragraph (b) of this section by the hundredweight of excess milk, from the amount computed pursuant to paragraph (c) of this section;

(e) Divide the amount calculated pursuant to paragraph (d) of this section by the total hundredweight of base milk for handlers included in these computations: Provided, That if the resulting price should exceed the Class I price by more than the amount deducted pursuant to paragraph (f) of this section the aggregate amount in excess thereof shall be included in the computation of the excess price pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section, except that if by such addition the excess price should exceed the base price then the aggregate amount of the excess shall be prorated to the aggregate values of base milk and excess milk on the basis of the respective volumes of base and excess milk; and

(f) Subtract not less than four cents nor more than five cents from the price computed pursuant to paragraph (e) of this section. The resulting figure shall be the uniform price for base milk.

7. In § 1004.80, paragraph (a) and subparagraph (2) of paragraph (d) are revised to read as follows:

§ 1004.80 Time and method of payment.

(a) Except as provided in (b) and (d) of this section, each pool handler shall make payment as specified in subparagraph (1) and (2) of this paragraph to each producer from whom milk is received.

(1) On or before the last day of each month at not less than the Class II price for the preceding month per hundredweight for his deliveries of producer milk during the first 15 days of the months of July through February and for his deliveries of base milk during the first 15 days of the months of March through June; and

(2) On or before the 20th of the following month at not less than the uniform price computed pursuant to § 1004.71 for the month of July through February and at not less than the price for base milk computed pursuant to § 1004.72 (c) through (f) with respect to base milk received from such producer and not less than the excess price determined pursuant to § 1004.72 (a) and (b) for excess milk received from such producers for the months of March through June subject to the following adjustments:

(i) Proper deductions authorized in writing by such producers;

(ii) Partial payments made pursuant to subparagraph (1) of this paragraph;

(iii) The butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 1004.81; and

(iv) Less the location differential received pursuant to § 1004.82: Provided, That if by such date such handler has not received full payment from the market administrator pursuant to § 1004.85 for such month he may reduce pro rata his payments to producers by not more than the amount of such underpayment. Payment to producers shall be completed thereafter not later than the date for making payments pursuant to this paragraph next following after receipt of the balance due from the market administrator;

* * * * *

(d) * * *

(2) A final payment equal to the value of such milk at the uniform price(s) adjusted by the applicable differentials pursuant to §§ 1004.81 and 1004.82, less the amount of partial payment on such milk.

8. Section 1004.82 is revised to read as follows:

§ 1004.82 Location differential to producers.

(a) For milk received from producers and from cooperative association handlers pursuant to § 1004.10(c), subject to the exception contained in § 1004.15(d):

(1) The uniform price computed pursuant to § 1004.71 during any month(s) of July through February and the uniform price for base milk computed pursuant to § 1004.72 for base milk received from producers during any month(s) of March through June at a pool plant located at least 45 miles from the nearest of the city halls, in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; Atlantic City or Trenton, New Jersey, by the shortest highway distance as determined by the market administrator shall be reduced 23 cents plus one and one-half cent for each additional 10 miles.

(2) The uniform price for excess milk computed pursuant to § 1004.72 for excess milk received from producers during any month(s) of March through June at a pool plant at which a location differential applies shall be reduced by a location differential computed pursuant to § 1004.52(c).

(b) For purposes of computations pursuant to §§ 1004.84 and 1004.85 the weighted average price shall be reduced at the rates set forth in paragraph (a) (1) of this section applicable at the location of the plant(s) at which the milk was received with respect to other source milk for which a value is computed pursuant to § 1004.70(e)(1) and at the location of the nonpool plant(s) from which the milk was received with respect to other source milk for which a value is computed pursuant to § 1004.70(e)(2).

9. In § 1004.84, paragraph (b) is revised to read as follows:

§ 1004.84 Payments to the producer-settlement fund.

* * * * *

(b) The sum of:

(1) The value of milk received by such handler from producers and from cooperative association handlers pursuant to § 1004.10(c) at the applicable uniform price(s) pursuant to § 1004.71 and § 1004.72 adjusted by producer butterfat and location differentials, less in the case of a cooperative association on milk for which it is a handler pursuant to § 1004.10(c), the amount due from other handlers pursuant to § 1004.80(d); and

(2) The value at the weighted average price adjusted by the producer butterfat differential pursuant to § 1004.81 and the location differential on nonpool milk pursuant to § 1004.82(b) (not to be less than the value at the Class II price) with respect to other source milk for which values are computed pursuant to § 1004.70(e).

[Milk Order 12]

PART 1012—MILK IN TAMPA BAY MARKETING AREA

Order Amending Order

§ 1012.0 Findings and determinations.

The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order and of the previously issued amendments thereto; and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held upon certain proposed amendments to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order regulating the handling of milk in the Tampa Bay marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order as hereby amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the Act;

(2) The parity prices of milk, as determined pursuant to section 2 of the Act, are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the said marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the order as hereby amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(3) The said order as hereby amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as, and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial or commercial activity specified in, a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

(b) Additional findings. It is necessary in the public interest to make this order amending the order effective not later than August 1, 1967. Any delay beyond that date would tend to disrupt the orderly marketing of milk in the marketing area.

The provisions of the said order are known to handlers. The recommended decision of the Deputy Administrator, Regulatory Programs, was issued June 22, 1967, and the decision of the Assistant Secretary containing all amendment provisions of this order, was issued July 19, 1967. The changes effected by this order will not require extensive preparation or substantial alteration in method of operation for handlers. In view of the foregoing, it is hereby found and determined that good cause exists for making this order amending the order effective August 1, 1967, and that it would be contrary to the public interest to delay the effective date of this order for 30 days after its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER. (Sec. 553(d), Administrative Procedure Act, 5 U.S.C. 551–559).

(c) Determinations. It is hereby determined that:

(1) The refusal or failure of handlers (excluding cooperative associations specified in section 8c(9) of the Act) of more than 50 percent of the milk, which is marketed within the marketing area, to sign a proposed marketing agreement, tends to prevent the effectuation of the declared policy of the Act;

(2) The issuance of this order, amending the order, is the only practical means pursuant to the declared policy of the Act of advancing the interests of producers as defined in the order as herein amended; and

(3) The issuance of the order amending the order is approved or favored by at least two-thirds of the producers who during the determined representative period were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the marketing area.

Order relative to handling. It is therefore ordered, that on and after the effective date hereof, the handling of milk in the Tampa Bay marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order, as amended and as hereby amended, as follows:

1. In § 1012.41(c), subparagraph (5) is revised to read as follows:

§ 1012.41 Classes of utilization.

* * * * *

(c) * * *

(5) Skim milk and butterfat, respectively, in shrinkage at each pool plant (except in milk diverted to a nonpool plant pursuant to § 1012.16) but not in excess of:

(i) Two percent of producer milk (including that received from a handler pursuant to § 1012.13(d)) if the handler receiving such milk files notice with the market administrator that he is purchasing it on the basis of farm weights. Otherwise, the applicable percentage pursuant to this subdivision shall be 1.5 percent;

(ii) Plus 1.5 percent of bulk fluid milk products received from other pool plants;

(iii) Plus 1.5 percent of bulk fluid milk products received from other order plants exclusive of the quantity for which Class II or Class III utilization was requested by the operators of both plants;

(iv) Plus 1.5 percent of bulk fluid milk products received from unregulated supply plants exclusive of the quantity for which Class II or Class III utilization was requested by the handler; and

(v) Less 1.5 percent of bulk fluid milk products transferred to other plants; and

* * * * *

§ 1012.50 [Amended]

2. In § 1012.50, the last sentence is deleted.

3. In § 1012.51, paragraph (a) is revised to read as follows:

§ 1012.51 Class prices.

* * * * *

(a) Class I price. From the effective date of this order through June 1968, the Class I price shall be the basic formula price for the preceding month plus $3, and plus or minus a supply-demand adjustment of not more than 30 cents, computed as follows:

(1) Determine the total hundredweight of producer milk pursuant to this part and Parts 1013 (Southeastern Florida) and 1006 (Upper Florida) of this chapter for the 3-month period ending with the second preceding month;

(2) Determine the total hundredweight of producer milk classified as Class I pursuant to this part and Parts 1013 and 1006 of this chapter for the 3-month period ending with the second preceding month;

(3) Determine the "current utilization percentage" by calculating the percentage, rounded to the nearest full percent, that the amount obtained in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph is of the amount obtained in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph; and

(4) Add or subtract 3 cents for each percent that the current utilization percentage is, respectively, below the minimum or above the maximum standard utilization percentages for the month in the following table: Provided, That such adjustment shall not vary from that for the preceding month by more than 10 cents:

Month for which price is being computed	Standard utilization percentage
	Minimum	Maximum
January	110	114
February	110	114
March	109	113
April	109	113
May	109	113
June	109	113
July	113	117
August	118	122
September	120	124
October	119	123
November	114	118
December	111	115

[Milk Order 50]

PART 1050—MILK IN CENTRAL ILLINOIS MARKETING AREA

Order Suspending Certain Provision

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), and of the order regulating the handling of milk in the Central Illinois marketing area (7 CFR Part 1050), it is hereby found and determined that:

(a) The following provision of the order does not tend to effectuate the declared policy of the Act for the month of July 1967: In § 1050.14(b)(2) the words "on any day during the months of May and June and in any other month for not more than 8 days of production of producer milk by such producer."

(b) Thirty days' notice of the effective date hereof is impractical, unnecessary, and contrary to the public interest in that:

(1) This suspension order does not require of persons affected substantial or extensive preparation prior to the effective date.

(2) This suspension order is necessary to reflect current marketing conditions and to maintain orderly marketing conditions in the marketing area.

(3) A public notice was issued July 20, 1967, and published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on July 22, 1967 (32 F.R. 10811), stating that the Department was giving consideration to a proposed suspension of the aforementioned provision for the months of July and August 1967. Interested parties were provided 3 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER to submit written data, views, or arguments in connection with the proposed suspension. In response to the notice of the proposed suspension, two cooperative associations which supply a large part of the producer milk for the Central Illinois market, and two handlers who handle a very high proportion of the milk processed in the market, supported this suspension as proposed.

Based upon materials submitted by interested parties and market information available, the suspension of the aforesaid provision is necessary for the month of July 1967. The abnormal seasonal increase in production during the month of July requires removal of the diversion limit so that many producers regularly associated with this market may maintain producer status. This suspension will allow for the movement of such producers' milk direct from their farms to nonpool manufacturing plants.

Data submitted by interested parties did not establish the need for suspension of this provision during the month of August 1967. From information available, the prospective volume of milk likely to be delivered to the market during the month of August 1967 would not exceed that which could be handled under the existing diversion provisions in the order as applicable to the month of August.

Therefore, good cause exists for making this order effective July 1, 1967.

It is therefore ordered, That the aforesaid provision of the order is hereby suspended for the month of July 1967.

Title 12—BANKS AND BANKING

Chapter II—Federal Reserve System

SUBCHAPTER A—BOARD OF GOVERNORS OF THE FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

[Reg. H]

PART 208—MEMBERSHIP OF STATE BANKING INSTITUTIONS IN THE FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

Investments in Bank Premises

§ 208.121 Investment in bank premises by holding company banks.

(a) The Board of Governors has been asked whether, in determining under section 24A of the Federal Reserve Act (12 U.S.C. 371d) how much may be invested in bank premises without prior Board approval, a State member bank, which is owned by a registered bank holding company, is required to include indebtedness of a corporation, wholly owned by the holding company, that is engaged in holding premises of banks in the holding company system.

(b) Section 24A provides, in part, as follows:

Hereafter * * * no State member bank, without the approval of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, shall (1) invest in bank premises, or in the stock, bonds, debentures, or other such obligations of any corporation holding the premises of such bank or (2) make loans to or upon the security of the stock of any such corporation, if the aggregate of all such investments and loans, together with the amount of any indebtedness incurred by any such corporation which is an affiliate of the bank, as defined in section 2 of the Banking Act of 1933, as amended [12 U.S.C. 221a], will exceed the amount of the capital stock of such banks.

(c) A corporation that is owned by a holding company is an "affiliate of each of the holding company's majority-owned banks as that term is defined in said section 2. Therefore, under the explicit provisions of section 24A, each State member bank, any part of whose premises is owned by such an affiliate, must include the affiliate's total indebtedness in determining whether a proposed premises investment by the bank would cause the aggregate figure to exceed the amount of the bank's capital stock, so that the Board's prior approval would be required. Where the affiliate holds the premises of a number of the holding company's banks, the amount of the affiliate's indebtedness may be so large that Board approval is required for every proposed investment in bank premises by each majority-owned State member bank, to which the entire indebtedness of the affiliate is required to be attributed. The Board believes that, in these circumstances, individual approvals are not essential to effectuate the purpose of section 24A, which is to safeguard the soundness and liquidity of member banks, and that the protection sought by Congress can be achieved by a suitably circumscribed general approval.

(d) Accordingly, the Board hereby grants general approval for any investment or loan (as described in section 24A) by any State member bank, the majority of the stock of which is owned by a registered bank holding company, if the proposed investment or loan will not cause either (1) all such investments and loans by the member bank (together with the indebtedness of any bank premises subsidiary thereof) to exceed 100 percent of the bank's capital stock, or (2) the aggregate of such investments and loans by all of the holding company's subsidiary banks (together with the indebtedness of any bank premises affiliates thereof) to exceed 100 percent of the aggregate capital stock of said banks.

(12 U.S.C. 248(i). Interprets and applies 12 U.S.C. 221a and 371d)

Dated at Washington, D.C., the 26th day of July 1967.

By order of the Board of Governors.

Title 13—BUSINESS CREDIT AND ASSISTANCE

Chapter I—Small Business Administration

[Rev. 7, Amdt. 5]

PART 121—SMALL BUSINESS SIZE STANDARDS

Definition of Small Business Retailer and of Small Wholesaler in Certain Retail and Wholesale Industries and Subindustries for Purpose of Receiving Financial Assistance

On June 30, 1967, there was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (32 F.R. 9322 and 9323) notices that the Administrator of the Small Business Administration had proposed to amend the Small Business Size Standards Regulation by establishing new definitions of a small retailer and of a small wholesaler in certain retail and wholesale industries and subindustries for the purpose of receiving financial assistance.

Under the proposed amendment, the size standard for certain retail industries and subindustries would be increased from $1 million annual receipts to $1.5 million, $2 million, $3 million, or $5 million, and the size standard for certain wholesale industries and subindustries would be increased from $5 million annual receipts to $10 million or $15 million.

Interested persons were given 15 days in which to file with the Small Business Administration, written statements of facts, opinions, or arguments concerning the proposals. After consideration of all relevant matters regarding the proposal, the amendment set forth below is hereby adopted. The wholesale industry or subindustry codes in the notice of proposal were in accordance with the 1957 Edition of the Standard Industrial Classification Manual. The wholesale codes in the amendment below reflect changes made in the 1967 Edition of the Manual. The changes in the codes in no way change the definitions as proposed.

The new definitions established by this amendment are the same as proposed, with the exception that no action is being taken at this time on the proposal to increase the size standard for retailers of men's and boy's clothing and furnishings (SIC 5611, Men's and Boy's Clothing and Furnishings) from $1 million to $1.5 million annual sales. Further study will be given to this proposal.

Part 121 of Chapter I of Title 13 of the Code of Federal Regulations is hereby amended by:

1. Revising § 121.3-10 (c) and (g) thereof to read as follows:

* * * * *

(g) Wholesale. (1) Any wholesaling concern is classified:

(i) As small if it is primarily engaged in an industry or subindustry set forth in Schedule C of this part and its annual sales do not exceed the size standard established therein for that industry or subindustry.

Title 14—AERONAUTICS AND SPACE

Chapter I—Federal Aviation Administration, Department of Transportation

[Docket No. 67-SO-50; Amdt. 39-456]

PART 39—AIRWORTHINESS DIRECTIVES

Piper PA-28 and PA-32 Series Airplanes

Amendment 39-438 F.R. Doc. 67-7362, AD 67-20-4, requires inspection of the main landing gear torque links and replacement as necessary on Piper PA-28 and PA-32 series airplanes. After issuing Amendment 39-438, the Agency determined that more airplanes are affected than originally considered and the manufacturer will be unable to supply a sufficient number of replacement parts by the effective date of the AD. Therefore, the AD is being amended to change the effective date from July 29, 1967, to September 27, 1967.

Since this amendment provides additional time for compliance and imposes no additional burden on any person, notice and public procedure hereon are unnecessary and the amendment may be made effective in less than 30 days.

In consideration of the foregoing, and pursuant to the authority delegated to me by the Administrator (25 F.R. 6489), § 39.13 of the Federal Aviation Regulations, Amendment 39-438 F.R. Doc. 67-7362, AD 67-20-4 is amended by changing the effective date from July 29, 1967, to September 27, 1967.

Chapter I—Internal Revenue Service, Department of the Treasury

SUBCHAPTER E—ALCOHOL, TOBACCO, AND OTHER EXCISE TAXES

[T.D. 6925]

PART 211—DISTRIBUTION AND USE OF DENATURED ALCOHOL AND RUM

Marks and Brands on Packages

In order to recognize the provisions of the Fair Packaging and Labeling Act (Public Law 89-755) and any applicable regulations in 16 CFR Part 500 and 21 CFR Part 1, the regulations in 26 CFR Part 211 are amended as follows:

§ 211.33 [Amended]

PARAGRAPH 1. The undesignated center heading immediately preceding § 211.33 is amended to read "Marks and Brands; Packaging and Labeling".

PAR. 2. Section 211.33a is amended by revising the section heading, by revising paragraph (a), and by adding a new paragraph (c). As amended, § 211.33a reads as follows:

§ 211.33a Labeling.

(a) General. In addition to the marks and brands required by this part, other governmental agencies may impose labeling requirements on denatured spirits, and articles made therefrom. It is the responsibility of the person filling containers with articles manufactured under the provisions of this part to assure that the labels or marks on such containers satisfy all pertinent State and Federal requirements.

(b) Federal Hazardous Substances Labeling Act. Whenever this part requires the container of any substance to be marked or labeled so as to convey information with respect to hazardous properties of the substance, and such substance is also subject to substantially similar requirements under the Federal Hazardous Substances Labeling Act (72 Stat. 372) and regulations in 21 CFR Part 191, information on the container of such substance shall be deemed to comply with the requirements of this part, insofar as they relate to the hazardous properties of the substance, if such information complies with the labeling requirements of such Act and of regulations in 21 CFR Part 191.

(c) Fair Packaging and Labeling Act. Packages containing denatured spirits or articles may also be subject to the provisions of the Fair Packaging and Labeling Act (80 Stat. 1296) and to any applicable regulations promulgated by the Federal Trade Commission in 16 CFR Part 500 and by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare in 21 CFR Part 1. Compliance with the provisions of this part does not afford any relief from the necessity of also complying with the requirements of that Act and regulations.

Because this Treasury decision is merely conforming in nature and should be effected without delay, it is found that it is unnecessary to issue this Treasury decision with notice and public procedure thereon under section 553(b) of Title 5 of the United States Code or subject to the effective-date limitation of section 553(d) thereof. Accordingly, this Treasury decision shall become effective on the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Chapter I—Coast Guard, Department of Transportation

[CGFR 67-13]

SUBCHAPTER A—PROVISIONS

PART 1—GENERAL PROVISIONS

Fees and Charges or Sales of Matters Requested by the Public

The changes to the regulations contained in this document revise the schedules of fees and charges to be imposed by the Coast Guard for furnishing the public copies or excerpts of information or records and for issuing certain duplicate documents, certificates, or licenses. The special Coast Guard fees and charges are designated 33 CFR Subpart 1.25. The regulations of the Department of Transportation in 49 CFR Part 7 regarding "Public Availability of Information" set forth the basic regulations and policy governing the Coast Guard and fees and charges for obtaining copies of records. These regulations were published in the FEDERAL REGISTER dated June 29, 1967 (32 F.R. 9284-9292), and effective July 4, 1967. For convenience, applicable fees and charges are repeated in 33 CFR Subpart 1.25.

New regulations are added as 33 CFR Subpart 1.26 regarding the sales of certain items or services under emergencies or other circumstances to permit repayment of costs involved by the public as permitted by various provisions of law.

The fees and charges in 33 CFR 1.25-40 are issued pursuant to Title V of the Independent Offices Appropriation Act of 1952 (Sec. 501, 65 Stat. 290), and are charges considered to be commensurate with the costs to comply with the request.

By virtue of the authority vested in me as Commandant, U.S. Coast Guard, by Title 5, U.S. Code, section 552, Title 14, U.S. Code, sections 632 and 633, and subsection 6(b)(1) of the Department of Transportation Act, as well as the delegation of authority in Department of Transportation Order 1100.1, dated March 31, 1967 (49 CFR 1.4(a)(2), 32 F.R. 5606), the following amendments or new regulations are prescribed, effective on and after July 4, 1967:

1. The title and entire text of Subpart 1.25, containing §§ 1.25-1 to 1.25-80, inclusive, is amended to read as follows:

(a) The regulations in this subpart established fees and charges which shall be imposed by the Coast Guard for making copies or excerpts of information or records, and for issuing certain duplicate documents, certificates, or licenses.

(b) These fees and charges are imposed as required by Title V of the Independent Offices Appropriation Act of 1952 (Sec. 501, 65 Stat. 290, 31 U.S.C. 483a). This act states that it is the sense of Congress that fees and charges shall be charged for services rendered the public by Federal agencies in order that such services may be performed on a self-sustaining basis to the fullest extent possible.

§ 1.25-30 Exceptions.

(a) The general policies and instructions of the Bureau of the Budget specify when certain services as specifically described in this subpart will be furnished without charge.

(b) The fees and charges prescribed in this subpart are not applicable when requested by, or furnished to, the following persons, or under the following circumstances:

These fees and charges are described in Table 1.25-40(a) and will be imposed and collected, but in event of difference those in 49 CFR Part 7 apply since such fees and charges repeated herein are only given as a matter of convenience.

(1) Auxiliary flags and pennants.

(Sec. 891, 63 Stat. 557; 14 U.S.C. 891)

§ 1.26-15 Sales of nonexcess personal property and services.

(a) Authority. The provisions of Title 14, U.S. Code, section 641(b), authorizes the Coast Guard to sell apparatus or equipment manufactured by or in use in the Coast Guard, which is not readily procurable in the open market. The provisions of Title 14, U.S. Code, section 654 (Public Law 86-159 approved Aug. 14, 1959), authorize the Coast Guard to sell supplies and furnish services to public and commercial vessels, and other watercraft. The provisions of Title 49, U.S. Code, section 1507 (Act of May 20, 1936, as amended), authorize the Coast Guard to sell to any aircraft, fuel, oil, equipment, and other supplies, and to furnish mechanical service, temporary shelter, and other assistance.

(b) Charges established by District Commander. The charges for supplies and services which may be normally expected to be furnished to persons, corporations, companies, vessels, and other watercraft, and non-Federal aircraft will vary between various geographical regions depending on local circumstances. The District Commander is hereby delegated authority to prescribe and he shall establish, in advance wherever practicable, the charges to be imposed and collected in various areas under his jurisdiction, which will be in accordance with the applicable general minimum terms and conditions in the laws and this section. In those cases where the charges have not been established in advance, the matter shall be priced on an individual basis, taking into consideration the facts and circumstances regarding the situation. The list(s) of charges established by the District Commander shall be available for reading and copying at the office of the issuing District Commander, which list(s) will be up-dated and reissued when necessary.

(c) Sales to vessels and other watercraft. (1) The charges imposed for services are intended to permit repayment of costs involved in those instances where supplies and services are furnished to meet the necessities of the circumstances, and such vessels or watercraft are not within the scope of those distress services performed by the Coast Guard.

(2) Charges for sales of supplies and/or furnishing of services are considered appropriate when the furnishing of food, fuel, general stores, or repairs to the vessel or its equipage are primarily for the convenience of the owner, master, or crew, and furnished at his or their request. It is not intended and the Coast Guard does not procure and stock equipment and supplies except as provided for in current instructions issued by competent authority.

(3) Supplies provided and services performed will be of a limited nature consistent with the situation and within the capabilities of the Coast Guard unit concerned; provided this will not be in competition with commercial enterprise when such facilities are available and deemed adequate. It is not intended to permit the operators of vessels or watercraft to take advantage of the Government by demanding free supplies or services. Determination as to whether charges will be made is dependent upon the circumstances involved in each instance. The responsibility to make this determination rests with the District Commander who may delegate it to his subordinates.

(4) The minimum charge for any supplies or services furnished to a vessel or other watercraft shall be $10. The prices for fuels and materials which may be sold will be at Coast Guard cost plus 20 percent or, if readily determinable, at the commercial price in the immediate operating area, whichever is higher. The charges for services furnished a vessel or watercraft will be an average cost equal to the full price, plus taxes, that a boat owner would pay a local commercial concern for such services.

(5) The sales of supplies and services will be documented and will set forth the name, type, and identifying number of the vessel or watercraft receiving supplies or services; name and address of vessel's owner; and conditions under which it was determined to make a sale to the vessel or watercraft. Wherever possible, payment shall be obtained at the time supplies and services are furnished.

(d) Sales of equipment not readily procurable on the open market. Charges imposed for sales of apparatus and equipment manufactured by or in use in the Coast Guard which, in the opinion of the Commandant (FS), is not readily procurable in the open market, are subject to the following conditions:

(1) The apparatus or equipment has not been reported as excess to the General Services Administration (if so reported, requests to purchase will be submitted by the Commandant (FS) to the General Services Administration); and,

(2) The apparatus or equipment is not classified for security reasons or is not dangerous to the public health and safety; and,

(3) The authorized buyers of this apparatus or equipment are foreign, State, or municipal governments or governmental units thereof; parties required to maintain private aids to navigation; contractors engaged on public works; and in other cases in which, in the judgment of the Commandant (FS), the public interest may be served; and,

(4) The approved sales will be at prices determined by the Commandant (FS), which will include an overhead charge not to exceed 25 percent of acquisition cost.

(e) Sales to and storage of non-Federal aircraft. (1) Activities having the necessary supplies and facilities are authorized to furnish fuel, oil, equipment, supplies, mechanical services, temporary storage, or other assistance to any aircraft operated by State, municipal, or private enterprise in emergency cases. Complete engines, airplane wings, or other major items of equipment shall not be furnished without prior authority from the Commandant.

(2) Aircraft damaged to the extent that major repairs are required may be given emergency storage at the request of the pilot, provided the necessary facilities are available. No such aircraft will be given a major or minor overhaul. Damaged aircraft may be stored in its original damaged condition. If aircraft requires extensive repairs, such as would include the replacing of major parts and such major parts cannot be made available or supplied within a reasonable length of time by the operator of such aircraft, then the aircraft must be removed from the Coast Guard reservation by the operator without delay.

(3) The Government will not assume any responsibility for any loss or damage incurred by such aircraft while on a Coast Guard reservation and the owner shall be required to remove the aircraft from the reservation at the earliest practicable date.

(4) Storage charges for such aircraft on a Coast Guard reservation shall be as follows:

(i) For the first 6 working days, no charge;

(ii) For each calendar day thereafter, $3 for a single motor plane and $5 for a dual or multiengine plane.

(5) In the absence of any information to the contrary regarding a particular item or material, the price at which the item is carried in stock, or on the Plant Property Record (book price) will be regarded as the fair market value.

(6) When materials or services or both materials and services are furnished an aircraft, a deposit equal to the estimated value of such services and materials as will be required shall be obtained in advance of the rendition of the services and issuance of the materials.

(7) The charges for mechanical services rendered (other than in connection with the arrival, refueling, and departure of airplanes) shall be an hourly charge for labor, with a minimum of 1 hour, which shall be the equivalent to the schedule of wage rates for civilian personnel for the district (i.e., machinists, helpers, etc.), regardless of whether the services are performed by enlisted or civilian personnel.

PART 0—COMMISSION ORGANIZATION

Order Regarding Records Not Routinely Available for Public Inspection

1. As part of our review of rules implementing the Public Information Act of 1966 (32 F.R. 10568, July 19, 1967), we have concluded that § 0.457(g) of the rules and regulations, concerning the availability of investigatory files for inspection, should be revised as set forth below. We will continue to review these rules and make such other changes, on the basis of comment and experience, as may be appropriate and consistent with the purposes of the Public Information Act.

2. Authority for the amendments adopted herein is contained in sections 4(i), 4(j), and 303(r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, 47 U.S.C. 154(i), 154(j), and 303(r), and section 3(b)(7) of the Administrative Procedure Act, 5 U.S.C. 552(b)(7). Because these amendments pertain to matters of procedure and internal organization, compliance with the notice and effective date provisions of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act is unnecessary.

3. In view of the foregoing, it is ordered, effective August 2, 1967, That § 0.457(g) of the rules and regulations is revised as set forth below.

(Secs. 4, 303, 48 Stat., as amended, 1066, 1082; 47 U.S.C. 154, 303; and 5 U.S.C. 552)

Adopted: July 26, 1967.

Released: July 28, 1967.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION,[1]
[SEAL] BEN F. WAPLE,
Secretary.

In Part 0 of Chapter I of Title 47 of the Code of Federal Regulations, § 0.457(g) is revised to read as follows:

§ 0.457 Records not routinely available for public inspection.

* * * * *

[1] Commissioners Bartley, Lee and Loevinger absent; Commissioner Johnson concurring the result.

(g) Investigatory files compiled for law enforcement purposes except to the extent available by law to a private party. 5 U.S.C. 552(b)(7). Papers relating to the institution or conduct of an investigation are placed in an investigatory file. Except as provided in this paragraph, such files are not available for public inspection.

(i) Complaints. Except with respect to complaints filed under Section 208 of the Communications Act (see § 0.455(c)), when a complaint is received by the Commission, an initial determination is made as to whether the matters related in the complaint warrant (or may warrant) an investigation. If it is determined that such matters warrant (or may warrant) an investigation, the complaint is placed in an investigatory file. A complaint which is placed in an investigatory file may be made available for inspection upon request if it appears that its disclosure will not prejudice the conduct of the investigation (e.g., if information concerning the complaint has otherwise been disclosed). Except as provided in subdivisions (i) and (ii) of this subparagraph, the complaint will be made available for inspection, upon request, when it has been determined that no investigation should be conducted or when the investigation has been completed.

(ii) If the complainant has requested that his identity not be disclosed, or if there is reason to believe that disclosure of complainant's identity could embarrass him or subject him to harassment, the complaint will not be made available for inspection without his consent. If no investigation is conducted or if the investigation has been completed, however, such complaints will be made available for inspection upon request if, and to the extent that, it is possible to do so without disclosing the complainant's identity.

(iii) Complaints or portions of complaints containing scurrilous or defamatory statements will not be made available for inspection, except upon a compelling showing that the public interest so requires.

(2) Work papers and memoranda. Personal work papers, memoranda, or reports prepared by Commission personnel relating to the institution, conduct, or outcome of an investigation are placed in an investigatory file and are retained in that file. They are not available for public inspection. Requests for inspection of such materials will be considered under § 0.461. Materials of this nature received from other Government agencies are placed and retained in an investigatory file; requests for inspection of such materials will be referred to the agency from which they were received.

(3) Statements and documents. Statements and documents obtained by Commission investigators in the course of an investigation are handled in the same manner as records referred to in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph.

PART 1—PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

Order Regarding Procedure for Processing of Television Translator Stations

1. The Commission has under consideration § 1.572 of the Commission's rules which deals with the processing of television broadcast applications. Paragraph (a) of § 1.572 classifies and divides such applications into two groups: (1) Applications for new stations or for major changes in the facilities of authorized stations; and (2) applications for licenses to cover construction permits and all other changes in the facilities of authorized stations. The subject here under consideration is the standards to be used to define a major change in the facilities of a television broadcast translator station. The provisions of § 1.572 apply to such translator applications. However, service contours are not the standard used in the allocation of translator stations and consequently a gap exists in our rules as to the definition of a major change in the facilities of such stations. The Commission is of the opinion that specific standards should be promulgated to define what constitutes a major change in the facilities of an authorized television broadcast translator station.

2. Recently, the Commission stated that a major change in the facilities of a television broadcast translator station is one "* * * which involves a change in frequency, a change in principal communities, or such other change as the Commission may determine in a given fact situation * * * *". KAKE-TV and Radio, Inc., FCC 67-468, 7 FCC (2d) 879, released April 17, 1967. The Commission believes that the definition set forth in KAKE should be incorporated into § 1.572. In addition, we believe that a change in primary station should also be considered as a major change in the facilities of a translator station, because such a change can have a great significance in the performance of the translator station. Adoption of specific standards in this matter, as opposed to our acting on a case-by-case basis, which will expedite the Commission's processing of application and also will give licensees, permittees and other parties interested in television broadcast translator modification applications notice as to what coristitutes a major change. Thus they can, without specific notice from the Commission, effect compliance with processing and publication requirements of our rules and policies.

3. Authority for this amendment is contained in sections 4(i) and 303(r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended. Since this amendment is procedural in nature, the prior notice and effective date provisions of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act do not apply.

Accordingly, it is ordered, That paragraph (a)(1) of § 1.572 of the Commission's rules is amended to read as follows, effective August 4, 1967:

§ 1.572 Processing of television broadcast applications.

(a) * * *

(1) In the first group are applications for new stations or for major changes in the facilities of authorized stations. A major change is, in the case of stations authorized under Part 73 of this chapter, any change in frequency or station location, or any change in power or antenna location or height above average terrain (or combination thereof) which would result in a change of 50 percent or more of the area within the Grade B contour of the station; in the case of television translator stations authorized under Part 74 of this chapter it is any change in frequency (output channel), primary station (input channel) or principal community or communities: Provided, however, That, the Commission may, within 15 days after the tender for filing of any other application for modification of facilities, advise the applicant that such application is considered to be one for a major change and therefore subject to the provisions of § 1.580.

PART 73—RADIO BROADCAST SERVICES

Table of Assignments; Television Broadcast Stations, Tulare, Calif.

In the matter of amendment of § 73.606 Table of Assignments, Television Broadcast Stations (Tulare, Calif.), Docket No. 17435, RM-1118.

Report and Order.

1. On May 12, 1967, in response to a petition filed by Pappas Electronics, Inc., the Commission issued a notice of proposed rule making, FCC 67-567, 32 F.R. 7344, proposing to assign Channel 26 to Tulare, Calif., as a first UHF television assignment.

2. No oppositions to the proposal were received. Suporting comments were filed by petitioner, which reaffirmed its intention to apply for authority to construct and operate a station on the channel if it is assigned to Tulare.

3. As we stated in the notice of proposed rule making, we do not normally assign UHF channels to communities with a population under 25,000[1] except where a showing is made that there is a need for the assignment and an interested party states a station would be built on an assigned channel. Here, the supply of available but unassigned UHF channels is considered to be adequate to meet expected demands in the general area, and there are no larger communities in the area without assignments.

4. Under the above circumstances, we are of the view that the assignment of Channel 26 to Tulare, Calif., would serve the public interest since it will provide a first local TV outlet in the community. However, this action is taken on the representations made by petitioner that it will file an application for authority to construct and operate a new UHF television broadcast station. Failure to do so may result in the removal of the assignment.

5. Authority for the amendment adopted herein is contained in sections 4(i), 303, and 307(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

6. In view of the foregoing: It is ordered, That effective September 5, 1967, § 73.606 of the Commission's rules and regulations is amended to add the following entry:

City	Channel No.
Tulare, Calif.	26

NOTE: The appropriate offset for Channel 26 will be supplied in a subsequent Order.

7. It is further ordered, That this proceeding is terminated.

(Secs. 4, 303, 307, 48 Stat., as amended, 1066, 1082, 1083; 47 U.S.C. 154, 303, 307)

Adopted: July 26, 1967.

Book-Entry Procedure; Notice of Proposed Rule Making

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act, approved June 11, 1946, that the regulations set forth in Treasury Department Circular No. 300, Third Revision (31 CFR Part 306) are proposed to be further amended as tentatively shown below. However, prior to their final adoption, consideration will be given to any data, views, or arguments pertaining thereto which are submitted in writing, in duplicate, to the Commissioner of the Public Debt, Washington, D.C. 20220, within the period of 30 days from the date of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

[SEAL] JOHN K. CARLOCK,
Fiscal Assistant Secretary.

JULY 28, 1967.

Department Circular No. 300, Third Revision, dated December 23, 1964, is hereby amended effective September 5, 1967, by redesignating Subpart O (entitled "Miscellaneous Provisions") as Subpart P, and renumbering §§ 306.115 through 306.118 as §§ 306.123 through 306.126, respectively, and by inserting a new Subpart O as follows:

Subpart O—Book-Entry Procedure

§ 306.115 Definition of terms.

In this subpart, unless the context otherwise requires or indicates:

(a) "Reserve Bank" means a Federal Reserve Bank and its branches acting as Fiscal Agent of the United States.

(b) "Treasury security" means a transferable Treasury bond, note, certificate of indebtedness, or bill issued under the Second Liberty Bond Act, as amended, in the form of a definitive Treasury security or a book entry Treasury security.

(c) "Definitive Treasury security" means a transferable Treasury bond, note, certificate of indebtedness, or bill issued under the Second Liberty Bond Act, as amended, in the form of a physical security.

(d) "Book-entry Treasury security" means a transferable Treasury bond, note, certificate of indebtedness, or bill issued under the Second Liberty Bond Act, as amended, in the form of an entry made as prescribed in this subpart on the records of a Reserve Bank.

§ 306.116 Applicability.

This subpart is applicable to any Treasury securities now on deposit or hereafter deposited with any Reserve Bank for any purpose specified in § 306.118(a) except that no deposits will be accepted thereunder on or after the date of maturity or call of the securities.[1] Any depositor which on the effective date of this subpart has definitive Treasury securities on deposit with a Reserve Bank (in either its individual capacity or as Fiscal Agent) for any purpose specified in § 306.118(a) shall be deemed to have consented to their conversion to book-entry Treasury securities pursuant to the provisions of this subpart, and in the manner and under the procedures prescribed by the Reserve Bank.

§ 306.117 Authority of Reserve Banks.

Each Reserve Bank is hereby authorized and directed, in accordance with the provisions of this subpart, to (a) issue book-entry Treasury securities by means of entries on its records which shall include the name of the depositor, the amount, the title of the loan (or the series) and the maturity date; (b) effect conversions between book-entry Treasury securities and definitive Treasury securities; and (c) otherwise service and maintain book-entry Treasury securities.

§ 306.118 Accounts subject to book-entry procedure; pledges.

(a) The book-entry procedure applies to Treasury securities now on deposit or hereafter deposited in accounts with any Reserve Bank (1) as collateral pledged to a Reserve Bank (in its individual capacity) for advances by it, (2) as collateral pledged to the United States under Treasury Department Circulars No. 92 or 176, both as revised and amended, and (3) by a member bank of the Federal Reserve System for its sole account and in lieu of the safekeeping of definitive Treasury securities by a Reserve Bank in its individual capacity. Entries will be made for the amounts deposited for each specific purpose.

(b) A pledge of book-entry Treasury securities in the name of a pledgor, or any interest therein, in favor of a Reserve Bank in its own right as pledgee or in favor of the United States as pledgee, is effected, notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary, by the making of an appropriate entry under paragraph (a)(1) or (2) of this section, of the amount of the securities pledged. The making of such entry shall have the effect of a delivery of a definitive Treasury security in bearer form representing the amount of the obligations pledged and shall effect a perfected security interest therein in favor of the pledgee, who shall be a holder. No filing or recording with a public recording office or officer shall be necessary to perfect the pledge or security interest in book-entry Treasury securities under this section. Pledges of, or security interest in, definitive Treasury securities which are under pledge to a Reserve Bank in its own right or to the United States at the time of their conversion to book-entry Treasury securities shall be fully effective with respect to such book-entry Treasury securities. A Reserve Bank, when requested by the pledgee, shall convert book-entry Treasury securities into definitive Treasury securities and deliver them to the pledgee for disposition under the applicable pledge arrangement; and the pledge or security interest of the pledgee in the book-entry Treasury securities prior to conversion shall continue to be fully effective with respect to such definitive Treasury securities.

§ 306.119 Limitations on transfers or pledges.

Except as provided in this subpart, book-entry Treasury securities may not be assigned, transferred, hypothecated, pledged as collateral, or used as security for the performance of an obligation, and the Treasury Department will not recognize any such assignment, transfer, hypothecation, pledge or use.

§ 306.120 Withdrawals and transfers.

Withdrawals and transfers of book-entry Treasury securities may be made upon a depositor requesting (a) delivery of like definitive Treasury securities to itself or on its order to a transferee, or (b) transfer to any transferee eligible under § 306.118(a). The making of any book-entry transfer by a Reserve Bank shall have the same effect as a delivery to the transferee of definitive Treasury securities in bearer form. The transfer of book-entry Treasury securities within a Reserve Bank will be made in accordance with procedures established by the latter not inconsistent with this subpart. The transfer of book-entry Treasury securities between Reserve Banks will be made through a telegraphic transfer procedure. All requests for withdrawal or for transfer must be made prior to the maturity or date of call of the securities. Treasury bonds and notes which are to be delivered physically upon withdrawal or transfer may be issued either in registered[2] or in bearer form.

[1] The date of call as defined in these regulations (sec. 306.2) is "the date fixed in the official notice of call published in the Federal Register * * * on which the obligor will make payment of the security before maturity in accordance with its terms."

[2] Except for Treasury notes, EA and EO Series.

§ 306.121 Registered bonds and notes.

No formal assignment shall be required for the conversion to book-entry Treasury securities of registered Treasury securities held by a Reserve Bank (in either its individual capacity or as fiscal agent) on the effective date of this subpart for any purpose specified in § 306.118(a). Registered Treasury securities deposited thereafter with a Reserve Bank for any purpose specified in § 306.118(a) shall be assigned for conversion to book-entry Treasury securities. The assignment, which shall be executed in accordance with the provisions of Subpart F of the regulations of this part so far as applicable, shall be to "The Secretary of the Treasury for conversion to book-entry Treasury securities by the Federal Reserve Bank of _____, as Fiscal Agent of the United States."

§ 306.122 Servicing book-entry Treasury securities; payment of interest, payment at maturity or upon call.

Interest becoming due on book-entry Treasury securities shall be charged in the Treasurer's account on the interest due date and remitted or credited in accordance with the depositors' instructions. Such securities shall be redeemed and charged in the Treasurer's account on the date of maturity, call or advance refunding, and the redemption proceeds, principal and interest, shall be disposed of in accordance with the depositors' instructions.

The following forms shall be filed: For organizations described in section 501(c)(3), Form 1023; in section 501(c) (4), (5), (6), or (8), Form 1024; in section 501(c)(7), Form 1025; in section 501(c) (2), (12), (13), or (15), Form 1026; and in section 501(c) (9), or (17), Form 1027. State chartered credit unions described in section 501(c)(14) shall submit an application for exemption showing the State and date of incorporation. The application should show that the State credit union law with respect to loans, investments, and dividends, if any, is being complied with. All other organizations claiming exemption, other than employees' trusts described in section 401(a), shall file an application for exemption showing the character of the organization, the purpose for which it was organized, its actual activities, the sources of its income and receipts and the disposition thereof, whether or not any of its income or receipts is credited to surplus or may inure to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual, and in general all facts relating to its operations which may affect its right to exemption. To each such form or application shall be attached a conformed copy of the articles of incorporation, declaration of trust, or other instrument of similar import, setting forth the permitted powers or activities of the organization, the bylaws or other code of regulations, and the latest financial statement showing the assets, liabilities, receipts, and disbursements of the organization. In the case of a trust claiming and exemption under section 501(c)(17) a conformed copy of any plan of which it forms a part shall be attached to the form or application for exemption. Each such form or application shall contain or be verified by a written declaration that it is made under the penalties of perjury.

PAR. 2. There are inserted immediately before § 1.501(d) the following new sections:

§ 1.501(c)(17) Statutory provisions; exemption from tax on corporations, certain trusts, etc.; supplemental unemployment benefit trusts.

Sec. 501. Exemption from tax on corporations, certain trusts, etc. * * *

(c) List of exempt organizations. The following organizations are referred to in subsection (a):

* * * * * *

(17) (A) A trust or trusts forming part of a plan providing for the payment of supplemental unemployment compensation benefits, if—

(i) Under the plan, it is impossible, at any time prior to the satisfaction of all liabilities with respect to employees under the plan, for any part of the corpus or income to be (within the taxable year or thereafter) used for, or diverted to, any purpose other than the providing of supplemental unemployment compensation benefits,

(ii) Such benefits are payable to employees under a classification which is set forth in the plan and which is found by the Secretary or his delegate not to be discriminatory in favor of employees who are officers, shareholders, persons whose principal duties consist of supervising the work of other employees, or highly compensated employees, and

(iii) Such benefits do not discriminate in favor of employees who are officers, shareholders, persons whose principal duties consist of supervising the work of other employees, or highly compensated employees. A plan shall not be considered discriminatory within the meaning of this clause merely because the benefits received under the plan bear a uniform relationship to the total compensation, or the basic or regular rate of compensation, of the employees covered by the plan.

(B) In determining whether a plan meets the requirements of subparagraph (A), any benefits provided under any other plan shall not be taken into consideration, except that a plan shall not be considered discriminatory—

(i) Merely because the benefits under the plan which are first determined in a nondiscriminatory manner within the meaning of subparagraph (A) are then reduced by any sick, accident, or unemployment compensation benefits received under State or Federal law (or reduced by a portion of such benefits if determined in a nondiscriminatory manner), or

(ii) Merely because the plan provides only for employees who are not eligible to receive sick, accident, or unemployment compensation benefits under State or Federal law the same benefits (or a portion of such benefits if determined in a nondiscriminatory manner) which such employees would receive under such laws if such employees were eligible for such benefits, or

(iii) Merely because the plan provides only for employees who are not eligible under another plan (which meets the requirements of subparagraph (A)) of supplemental unemployment compensation benefits provided wholly by the employer the same benefits (or a portion of such benefits if determined in a nondiscriminatory manner) which such employees would receive under such other plan if such employees were eligible under such other plan, but only if the employees eligible under both plans would make a classification which would be nondiscriminatory within the meaning of subparagraph (A).

(C) A plan shall be considered to meet the requirements of subparagraph (A) during the whole of any year of the plan if on one day in each quarter it satisfies such requirements.

(D) The term "supplemental unemployment compensation benefits" means only—

(i) Benefits which are paid to an employee because of his involuntary separation from the employment of the employer (whether or not such separation is temporary) resulting directly from a reduction in force, the discontinuance of a plant or operation, or other similar conditions, and

(ii) Sick and accident benefits subordinate to the benefits described in clause (i).

(E) Exemption shall not be denied under subsection (a) to any organization entitled to such exemption as an association described in paragraph (9) of this subsection merely because such organization provides for the payment of supplemental unemployment benefits (as defined in subparagraph (D) (i)).

[Sec. 501(c)(17) as added by Act of July 14, 1960 (Pub. Law 86-667, 74 Stat. 534)]

§ 1.501(c)(17)–1 Supplemental unemployment benefit trusts.

(a) Requirements for qualification. (1) A supplemental unemployment benefit trust may be exempt as an organization described in section 501(c)(17) if the requirements of subparagraphs (2) through (6) of this paragraph are satisfied.

(2) The trust is a valid, existing trust under local law and is evidenced by an executed written document.

(3) The trust is part of a written plan established and maintained by an employer, his employees, or both the employer and his employees, solely for the purpose of providing supplemental unemployment compensation benefits (as defined in section 501(c)(17)(D) and paragraph (b)(1) of § 1.501(c)(17)–1).

(4) The trust is part of a plan which provides that the corpus and income of the trust cannot (in the taxable year, and at any time thereafter, before the satisfaction of all liabilities to employees covered by the plan) be used for, or diverted to, any purpose other than the providing of supplemental unemployment compensation benefits. Thus, if the plan provides for the payment of any benefits other than supplemental unemployment compensation benefits as defined in paragraph (b) of this section, the trust will not be entitled to exemption as an organization described in section 501(c)(17). However, the payment of any necessary or appropriate expenses in connection with the administration of a plan providing supplemental unemployment compensation benefits shall be considered a payment to provide such benefits and shall not affect the qualification of the trust.

(5) The trust is part of a plan whose eligibility conditions and benefits do not discriminate in favor of employees who are officers, shareholders, persons whose principal duties consist of supervising the work of other employees, or highly compensated employees. See sections 401(a)(3)(B) and 401(a)(4) and §§ 1.401–3 and 1.401–4. However, a plan is not discriminatory within the meaning of section 501(c)(17)(A)(iii), relating to the requirement that the benefits paid under the plan be nondiscriminatory, merely because the benefits received under the plan bear a uniform relationship to the total compensation, or the basic or regular rate of compensation, of the employees covered by the plan. Accordingly, the benefits provided for highly paid employees may be greater than the benefits provided for lower paid employees if the benefits are determined by reference to their compensation; but, in such a case, the plan will not qualify if the benefits paid to the higher paid employees bear a larger ratio to their compensation than the benefits paid to the lower paid employees bear to their compensation. In addition, section 501(c)(17)(B) sets forth certain other instances in which a plan will not be considered discriminatory (see paragraph (c) of § 1.501(c)(17)–2).

(6) The trust is part of a plan which requires that benefits are to be determined according to objective standards. Thus, a plan may provide similarly situated employees with benefits which differ in kind and amount, but may not permit such benefits to be determined solely in the discretion of the trustees.

(b) Meaning of terms. The following terms are defined for purposes of section 501(c)(17):

(1) Supplemental unemployment compensation benefits. The term supplemental unemployment compensation benefits means only—

(i) Benefits paid to an employee because of his involuntary separation from the employment of the employer, whether or not such separation is temporary, but only when such separation is one resulting directly from a reduction in force, the discontinuance of a plant or operation, or other similar conditions; and

(ii) Sick and accident benefits subordinate to the benefits described in subdivision (i) of this subparagraph.

(2) Employee. The term "employee" means an individual whose status is that of an employee under the usual common-law rules applicable in determining the employer-employee relationship. The term "employee" also includes an individual who qualifies as an "employee" under the State or Federal unemployment compensation law covering his employment, whether or not such an individual could qualify as an employee under such common-law rules.

(3) Involuntary separation from the employment of the employer. Whether a "separation from the employment of the employer" occurs is a question to be decided with regard to all the facts and circumstances. However, for purposes of section 501(c)(17), the term "separation" includes both a temporary separation and a permanent severance of the employment relationship. Thus, for example, an employee may be separated from the employment of his employer even though at the time of separation it is believed that he will be reemployed by the same employer. Whether or not an employee is "involuntarily" separated from the employment of the employer is a question of fact. However, normally, an employee will not be deemed to have separated himself voluntarily from the employment of his employer merely because his collective-bargaining agreement provides for the termination of his services upon the happening of a condition subsequent and that condition does in fact occur. For example, if the collective-bargaining agreement provides that the employer may automate a given department and thereby dislocate several employees, the fact that the employees' collective-bargaining agent has consented to such a condition will not render any employee's subsequent unemployment for such cause voluntary.

(4) Other similar conditions. Involuntary separation directly resulting from "other similar conditions" includes, for example, involuntary separation from the employment of the employer resulting from cyclical, seasonal, or technological causes. Some causes of involuntary separation from the employment of the employer which are not similar to those enumerated in section 501(c)(17)(D)(i) are separation for disciplinary reasons or separation because of age.

(5) Subordinate sick and accident benefits. In general, as sick and accident benefit payment is an amount paid to an employee in the event of his illness or personal injury (whether or not such illness or injury results in the employee's separation from the service of his employer). In addition, the phrase "sick and accident benefits" includes amounts provided under the plan to reimburse an employee for amounts he expends because of the illness or injury of his spouse or a dependent (as defined in section 152). Sick and accident benefits may be paid by a trust described in section 501(c)(17) only if such benefits are subordinate to the separation payments provided under the plan of which the trust forms a part. Whether the sick and accident benefits provided under a supplemental unemployment compensation benefit plan are subordinate to the separation benefits provided under such plan is a question to be decided with regard to all the facts and circumstances.

§ 1.501(c)(17)–2 General rules.

(a) Supplemental unemployment compensation benefits. Supplemental unemployment compensation benefits as defined in section 501(c)(17)(D) and paragraph (b)(1) of § 1.501(c)(17)–1 may be paid in a lump sum or installments. Such benefits may be paid to an employee who has, subsequent to his separation from the employment of the employer, obtained other part-time, temporary, or permanent employment. Furthermore, such payments may be made in cash, services, or property. Thus, supplemental unemployment compensation benefits provided to involuntarily separated employees may include, for example, the following: Furnishing of medical care at an established clinic, furnishing of food, job training and schooling, and job counseling. If such benefits are furnished in services or property, the fair market value of the benefits must satisfy the requirements of section 501(c)(17)(A)(iii), relating to nondiscrimination as to benefits. However, supplemental unemployment compensation benefits may be provided only to an employee and only under circumstances described in paragraph (b)(1) of § 1.501(c)(17)–1. Thus, a trust described in section 501(c)(17) may not provide, for example, for the payment of a death, vacation, or retirement benefit.

(b) Sick and accident benefits. If a trust described in section 501(c)(17) provides for the payment of sick and accident benefits, such benefits may only be provided for employees who are eligible for receipt of separation benefits under the plan of which the trust is a part. However, the sick and accident benefits need not be provided for all the employees who are eligible for receipt of separation benefits, so long as the plan does not discriminate in favor of persons with respect to whom discrimination is proscribed in section 501(c)(17)(A)(ii) and (iii). Furthermore, the portion of the plan which provides for the payment of sick and accident benefits must satisfy the nondiscrimination requirements of section 501(c)(17)(A)(ii) and (iii) without regard to the portion of the plan which provides for the payment of benefits because of involuntary separation.

(c) Correlation with other plans. (1) In determining whether a plan meets the requirements of section 501(c)(17)(A)(ii) and (iii), any benefits provided under any other plan shall not be taken into consideration except in the particular instances enumerated in section 501(c)(17)(B)(i), (ii), and (iii). In general, these three exceptions permit a plan providing for the payment of supplemental unemployment compensation benefits to satisfy the nondiscrimination requirements in section 501(c)(17)(A)(ii) and (iii) if the plan is able to satisfy such requirements when it is correlated with one or more of the plans described in section 501(c)(17)(B).

(2) Under section 501(c)(17)(B)(i), a plan will not be considered discriminatory merely because the benefits under the plan which are first determined in a nondiscriminatory manner (within the meaning of section 501(c)(17)(A)) are then reduced by any sick, accident, or unemployment compensation benefits received under State or Federal law, or are reduced by a portion of these benefits if determined in a nondiscriminatory manner. Under this exception, a plan may, for example, satisfy the requirements of section 501(c)(17)(A)(iii) if it provides for the payment of an unemployment benefit and the amount of such benefit is determined as a percentage of the employee's compensation which is then reduced by any unemployment benefit which the employee receives under a State plan. In addition, a plan could provide for the reduction of such a plan benefit by a percentage of the State benefit. Furthermore, a plan may also satisfy the requirements of section 501(c)(17)(A) if it provides for the payment to an employee of an amount which when added to any State unemployment benefit equals a percentage of the employee's compensation.

(3) Under section 501(c)(17)(B)(ii), a plan will not be considered discriminatory merely because the plan provides benefits only for employees who are not eligible to receive sick, accident, or unemployment compensation benefits under State or Federal law. In such a case, however, the benefits provided under the plan seeking to satisfy the requirements of section 501(c)(17) must be the same benefits, or a portion of the same benefits if determined in a nondiscriminatory manner, which such ineligible employees would receive under State or Federal law if they were eligible for such benefits. Under this exception, for example, an employer may establish a plan only for employees who have exhausted their benefits under the State law, and, if the plan provides for such employees the same benefits which they would receive under the State plan, the State plan and the plan of the employer will be considered as one plan in determining whether the requirements relating to nondiscrimination in section 501(c)(17)(A) are satisfied. Furthermore, such a plan could also qualify even though it does not provide all of the benefits provided under the State plan. Thus, a plan could provide for the payment of a reduced amount of the benefits, or for the payment of only certain of the types of benefits, provided by the State plan. For example, if the State plan provides for the payment of sick, accident, and separation benefits, the plan of the employer may provide for the payment of only separation benefits, or for the payment of an amount equal to only one-half of the State provided benefit. However, if a plan provides benefits for employees who are not eligible to receive the benefits provided under a State plan and such benefits are greater or of a different type than those under the State plan, the plan of the employer must satisfy the requirements of section 501(c)(17)(A) without regard to the benefits and coverage provided by the State plan.

(4) Under section 501(c)(17)(B)(iii), a plan is not considered discriminatory merely because the plan provides benefits only for employees who are not eligible to receive benefits under another plan which satisfies the requirements of section 501(c)(17)(A) and which is funded solely by contributions of the employer. In such a case, the plan seeking to qualify under section 501(c)(17) must provide the same benefits, or a portion of such benefits if determined in a nondiscriminatory manner, as are provided for the employees under the plan funded solely by employer contributions. Furthermore, this exception only applies if the employees eligible to receive benefits under both plans would satisfy the requirements in section 501(c)(17)(A)(ii), relating to nondiscrimination as to coverage. The plan of the employer which is being correlated with the plan seeking to satisfy the requirements of section 501(c)(17) may be a plan which forms part of a voluntary employees' beneficiary association described in section 501(c)(9), if such plan satisfies all the requirements of section 501(c)(17)(A). Under this exception, for example, if an employer has established a plan providing for the payment of supplemental unemployment compensation benefits for his hourly wage employees and such plan satisfies the requirements of section 501(c)(17)(A) (even though the plan forms part of a voluntary employees of such employer may establish in section 501(c)(9)), the salaried employees of such employee may establish a plan for themselves, and, if such plan provides for the same benefits as the plan covering hourly wage employees, both plans may be considered as one plan in determining whether the plan covering the salaried employees satisfies the requirement that it be nondiscriminatory as to coverage. The foregoing example would also be applicable if the benefits provided for the salaried employees were funded solely or in part by employer contributions.

(d) Permanency of the plan. A plan providing for the payment of supplemental unemployment compensation benefits contemplates a permanent as distinguished from a temporary program. Thus, although there may be reserved the right to change or terminate the plan, and to discontinue contributions thereunder, the abandonment of the plan for any reason other than business necessity within a few years after it has taken effect will be evidence that the plan from its inception was not a bona fide program for the purpose of providing supplemental unemployment compensation benefits to employees. Whether or not a particular plan constitutes a permanent arrangement will be determined by all of the surrounding facts and circumstances. However, merely because a collective bargaining agreement provides that a plan may be modified at the termination of such agreement, or that particular provisions of the plan are subject to renegotiation during the duration of such agreement, does not necessarily imply that the plan is not a permanent arrangement. Moreover, the fact that the plan provides that the assets remaining in the trust after the satisfaction of all liabilities (including contingent liabilities) under the plan may be returned to the employer does not imply that the plan is not a permanent arrangement nor preclude the trust from qualifying under section 501(c)(17).

(e) Portions of years. A plan must satisfy the requirements of section 501(c)(17) throughout the entire taxable year of the trust in order for the trust to be exempt for such year. However, section 501(c)(17)(C) provides that a plan will satisfy the nondiscrimination as to classification requirements of section 501(c)(17)(A) if on at least one day in each quarter of the taxable year of the trust it satisfies such requirements.

(f) Several trusts constituting one plan. Several trusts may be designated as constituting part of one plan which is intended to satisfy the requirements of section 501(c)(17), in which case all of such trusts taken as a whole must meet the requirements of such section. The fact that a combination of trusts fails to satisfy the requirements of section 501(c)(17) as one plan does not prevent such of the trusts as satisfy the requirements of section 501(c)(17) from qualifying for exemption under that section.

(g) Plan of several employers. A trust forming part of a plan of several employers, or the employees of several employers, will be a supplemental unemployment benefit trust described in section 501(c)(17) if all the requirements of that section are otherwise satisfied.

(h) Investment of trust funds. No specific limitations are provided in section 501(c)(17) with respect to investments which may be made by the trustees of a trust qualifying under that section. Generally, the contributions may be used by the trustees to purchase any investments permitted by the trust agreement to the extent allowed by local law. However, the tax-exempt status of the trust will be forfeited if the investments made by the trustees constitute "prohibited transactions" within the meaning of section 503. See section 503 and the regulations thereunder. In addition, such a trust will be subject to tax under section 511 with respect to any "unrelated business taxable income" (as defined in section 512) realized by it from its investments. See sections 511 to 515, inclusive, and the regulations thereunder.

(i) Allocations. If a plan which provides sick and accident benefits is financed solely by employer contributions to the trust, and such sick and accident benefits are funded by payment of premiums on an accident or health insurance policy (whether on a group or individual basis) or by contributions to a separate fund which pays such sick and accident benefits, the plan must specify that portion of the contributions to be used to fund such benefits. If a plan which is financed in whole or in part by employee contributions provides sick and accident benefits, the plan must specify the portion, if any, of employee contributions allocated to the cost of funding such benefits, and must allocate the cost of funding such benefits between employer contributions and employee contributions.

(j) Required records and returns. Every trust described in section 501(c)(17) must maintain records indicating the amount of separation benefits and sick and accident benefits which have been provided to each employee. If a plan is financed, in whole or in part, by employee contributions to the trust, the trust must maintain records indicating the amount of each employee's total contributions allocable to separation benefits. In addition, every trust described in section 501(c)(17) which makes one or more payments (including separation and sick and accident benefits) totaling $600 or more in 1 year to an individual must file an annual information return on Form 1096, accompanied by a statement on Form 1099, for each such individual. Payments made by an employer or a person other than the trustee of the trust should not be considered in determining whether the $600 minimum has been paid by the trustee.

§ 1.501(c)(17)-3 Relation to other sections of the Code.

(a) Taxability of benefit distributions—(1) Separation benefits. If the separation benefits described in section 501(c)(17)(D)(i) are funded entirely by employer contributions, then the full amount of any separation benefit payment received by an employee is includible in his gross income under section 61(a). If any such separation benefit is funded by both employer and employee contributions, or solely by employee contributions, the amount of any separation benefit payment which is includible in the gross income of the employee is the amount by which such distribution and any prior distributions of such separation payments exceeds the employee's total contributions to fund such separation benefits.

(2) Sick and accident benefits. Any benefit payment received from the trust under the part of the plan, if any, which provides for the payment of sick and accident benefits must be included in gross income under section 61(a), unless specifically excluded under section 104 or 105 and the regulations thereunder. See section 105(b) and § 1.105-2 for benefit payments expended for medical care, benefit payments in excess of actual medical expenses, and benefit payments which an employee is entitled to receive irrespective of whether or not he incurs expenses for medical care. See section 213 and § 1.213-1(g) for benefit payments representing reimbursement for medical expenses paid in prior years. See § 1.501(c)(17)-2(i) for the requirement that a trust described in section 501(c)(17) which receives employee contributions must be part of a written plan which provides for the allocation of the cost of funding sick and accident benefits.

(b) Exemption as a voluntary employees' beneficiary association. Section 501(c)(17)(E) contemplates that a trust forming part of a plan providing for the payment of supplemental unemployment compensation benefits may, if it qualifies, apply for exemption from income tax under section 501(a) either as a voluntary employees' beneficiary association described in section 501(c)(9) or as a trust described in section 501(c)(17). However, if an organization applies for an exemption under section 501(c)(17) and is granted an exemption under that section, it shall be treated as an organization described in section 501(c)(17) so long as it continues to qualify under that section.

(c) Returns. A trust which is described in section 501(c)(17) and which is exempt from tax under section 501(a) must file a return in accordance with section 6033 and the regulations thereunder. If such a trust realizes any unrelated business taxable income, as defined in section 512, the trust is also required to file a return with respect to such income.

(d) Effective date. Section 501(c)(17) shall apply to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1969, and shall apply to supplemental unemployment benefit trusts regardless of when created or organized.

PAR. 3. Section 1.503(a) is amended to read as follows:

§ 1.503(a) Statutory provisions; requirements for exemption; denial of exemption to organizations engaged in prohibited transactions.

SEC. 503. Requirements for exemption—(a) Denial of exemption to organizations engaged in prohibited transactions—(1) General rule.

(A) An organization described in section 501(c)(3) which is subject to the provisions of this section shall not be exempt from taxation under section 501(a) if it has engaged in a prohibited transaction after July 1, 1950.

(B) An organization described in section 501(c)(17) which is subject to the provisions of this section shall not be exempt from taxation under section 501(a) if it has engaged in a prohibited transaction after December 31, 1959.

(C) An organization described in section 401(a) which is subject to the provisions of this section shall not be exempt from taxation under section 501(a) if it has engaged in a prohibited transaction after March 1, 1954.

(2) Taxable years affected. An organization described in section 501(c)(3) or (17) or section 401(a) shall be denied exemption from taxation under section 501(a) by reason of paragraph (1) only for taxable years after the taxable year during which it is notified by the Secretary or his delegate that it has engaged in a prohibited transaction, unless such organization entered into such prohibited transaction with the purpose of diverting corpus or income of the organization from its exempt purposes, and such transaction involved a substantial part of the corpus or income of such organization.

[Sec. 503(a) as amended by sec. 3, Act of July 14, 1960 (P.L. 86-667, 74 Stat. 535)]

PAR. 4. Section 1.503(a)-1 is amended by revising paragraphs (a) and (b). These amended provisions read as follows:

§ 1.503(a)-1 Denial of exemption to organizations engaged in prohibited transactions.

(a) The prohibited transactions enumerated in section 503(c) are in addition to and not in limitation of the restrictions contained in section 501(c)(3) or (17), or section 401(a). Even though an organization has not engaged in any of the prohibited transactions referred to in section 503(c), it still may not qualify for tax exemption in view of the general provisions of section 501(c)(3) or (17), or section 401(a). Thus, if a trustee or other fiduciary of the organization (whether or not he is also a creator of such organization) enters into a transaction with the organization, such transaction will be closely scrutinized in the light of the fiduciary principle requiring undivided loyalty to ascertain whether the organization is in fact being operated for the stated exempt purposes.

(b) An organization;

(1) Described in section 501(c)(3) which after July 1, 1960, has engaged in any prohibited transaction as defined in section 503(c), unless it is excepted by the provisions of section 503(b), or

(2) Described in section 401(a) which after March 1, 1954, has engaged in any prohibited transaction as defined in section 503(c) or which after December 31, 1962, has engaged in any prohibited transaction as defined in section 503(j); or

(3) Described in section 501(c)(17) which after December 31, 1959, has engaged in any prohibited transactions as defined in section 503(c); shall not be exempt from taxation under section 501(a) for any taxable year subsequent to the taxable year in which there is mailed to it a notice in writing by the Commissioner that it has engaged in such prohibited transaction. Such notification by the Commissioner shall be by registered or certified mail to the last known address of the organization. However, notwithstanding the requirement of notification by the Commissioner, exemption shall be denied with respect to any taxable year if such organization during or prior to such taxable year commenced the prohibited transaction with the purpose of diverting income or corpus from its exempt purposes and such transaction involved a substantial part of the income or corpus of such organization. For the purpose of this section, the term "taxable year" means the established annual accounting period of the organization; or, if the organization has no such established annual accounting period, the "taxable year" of the organization means the calendar year.

PAR. 5. Section 1.503(b) is amended by revising the portion of paragraph (b) preceding subparagraph (1) and by adding a historical note at the end thereof. These amended and added provisions read as follows:

§ 1.503(b) Statutory provisions; requirements for exemption; organizations to which section 503 applies.

(b) Organizations to which section applies. This section shall apply to any organization described in section 501(c)(3) or (17) or section 401(a) except—

PAR. 6. Section 1.503(c)-1 is amended by revising paragraph (a); by adding a new subdivision (vi) to paragraph (b)(2); by revising paragraph (b)(3); and the introductory clause and examples (5) and (6) of paragraph (c). These amended and added provisions read as follows:

§ 1.503(c)-1 Prohibited transactions.

(a) In general. The term "prohibited transaction" means any transaction set forth in section 503(c) engaged in by an organization described in section 501(c)(3) or (17), or section 401(a), other than those organizations excepted by section 503(b). Whether a transaction is a prohibited transaction depends on the facts and circumstances of the particular case. This section is intended to deny tax-exempt status to those organizations described in section 501(c)(3) or (17), or section 401(a), which engage in certain transactions which inure to the private advantage of (1) the creator of such organization (if it is a trust); (2) any substantial contributor to the organization; (3) a member of the family (as defined in section 267(c)(4)) of an individual who is such creator of or such substantial contributor to such organization; or (4) a corporation controlled, as set forth in section 503(c), by such creator or substantial contributor.

(2) Effective dates. * * *

(vi) January 1, 1960, for loans (including the purchase of debentures) made by supplemental unemployment benefit trusts, described in section 501(c)(17).

(3) Certain exceptions to section 503(c)(1). See section 503(h) and §§ 1.503(h)-1, 1.503(h)-2, and 1.503(h)-3 for special rules providing that certain obligations acquired by trusts described in section 401(a) or section 501(c)(17) shall not be treated as loans made without the receipt of adequate security for purposes of section 503(c)(1). See section 503(i) and § 1.503(i)-1 for an exception to the application of section 503(c)(1) for certain loans made by employees' trusts described in section 401(a).

(c) Examples. The following examples illustrate the operation of section 503(c)(1) with regard to organizations described in section 501(c)(3). The examples are also illustrative of the operation of section 503(c)(1) with respect to employees' trusts described in section 401(a), to the extent that section 503(h) or (i) is not applicable. In addition, the following examples are illustrative of the operation of section 503(c)(1) with respect to supplemental unemployment benefit trusts described in section 501(c)(17), to the extent that section 503(h) is not applicable.

Example (5). N Corporation, a substantial contributor to an exempt organization subject to section 503 borrows $50,000 on or after March 16, 1956, from the organization. If the loan is not adequately secured, the organization has committed a prohibited transaction at the time the loan was made. If the loan had been made on or before March 15, 1956, and is continued after January 31, 1957, it must be adequately secured on February 1, 1957, or it will be considered a prohibited transaction on that date. However, if the exempt organization were an employee's trust, described in section 401(a), and the loan were made before March 1, 1954, repayable by its terms after December 31, 1955, it would not have to be adequately secured on February 1, 1957. Moreover, if the exempt organization were a supplemental unemployment benefit trust, described in section 501(c)(17), and the loan were made before January 1, 1960, repayable by its terms after December 31, 1959, it would not have to be adequately secured on January 1, 1960.

Example (6). An exempt organization subject to section 503 purchases a debenture issued by O Corporation, which is a substantial contributor to the organization. The organization purchases the debenture in an arm's length transaction from a third person on or after November 9, 1956. The purchase is considered as a loan by the organization to O Corporation. The loan must be adequately secured when it is made, or it is considered as a prohibited transaction at that time. If the organization purchased the debenture before November 9, 1956, and holds it after December 1, 1958, the debenture must be adequately secured on December 2, 1968, or it will then be considered as prohibited transaction. However, if the organization were an employees' trust described in section 401(a), and if the debenture were purchased before March 1, 1954, and its maturity date is after December 31, 1955, the debenture does not have to be adequately secured. Moreover, if the organization were a supplemental unemployment benefit trust, described in section 501(c)(17), and if the debenture were purchased before January 1, 1960, and its maturity date is after December 31, 1959, the debenture does not have to be adequately secured.

PAR. 7. Section 1.503(d) is amended to read as follows:

§ 1.503(d) Statutory provisions; requirements for exemption; future status of organizations denied exemption.

SEC. 503. Requirements for exemption. * * *

(d) Future status of organizations denied exemption. Any organization described in section 501(c)(3) or (17) of section 401(a) which is denied exemption under section 501(a) by reason of subsection (a) of this section, with respect to any taxable year following the taxable year in which notice of denial of exemption was received, may, under regulations prescribed by the Secretary or his delegate, file claim for exemption, and if the Secretary or his delegate, pursuant to such regulations, is satisfied that such organization will not knowingly again engage in a prohibited transaction, such organization shall be exempt with respect to taxable years after the year in which such claim is filed.

[Sec. 503(d) as amended by sec. 2(c), Act of July 14, 1960 (Public Law 86-667, 74 Stat. 535)]

PAR. 8. Section 1.503(d)-1 is amended to read as follows:

§ 1.503(d)-1 Future status of organizations denied exemption.

(a) Any organization described in section 501(c)(3) or (17), or an employees' trust described in section 401(a), which is denied exemption under section 501(a) by reason of the provisions of section 503(a), may file, in any taxable year following the taxable year in which notice of denial was issued, a claim for exemption. In the case of organizations described in section 501(c)(3) or (17), the appropriate exemption application shall be used for this purpose, and shall be filed with the district director for the internal revenue district in which is located the principal place of business or principal office of the organization claiming exemption. In the case of an employees' trust described in section 401(a), the information described in § 1.404(a)-2 shall be submitted with a letter claiming exemption. An employees' trust described in section 401(a) shall submit this information to the district director with whom a request for a determination as to its qualification under section 401 and exemption under section 501 may be submitted under paragraph (1) of § 601.201 of this chapter (Statement of Procedural Rules). A claim for exemption must contain or have attached to it, in addition to the information generally required of such an organization claiming exemption as an organization described in section 501(c) (3) or (17), or section 401(a), a written declaration made under the penalties of perjury by a principal officer of such organization authorized to make such declaration that the organization will not knowingly again engage in a prohibited transaction. See § 1.501(a)–1 for proof of exemption requirements in general.

(b) If the Commissioner is satisfied that such organization will not knowingly again engage in a prohibited transaction and that the organization also satisfied all other requirements under section 501(c) (3) or (17), or section 401(a), the organization will be so notified in writing. In such case the organization will be exempt (subject to the provisions of 501(c) (3), (17), 401(a), 503, and 504 when applicable) with respect to the taxable years subsequent to the taxable year in which the claim prescribed in section 503(d) is filed. Section 503 contemplates that an organization denied exemption because of the terms of such section will be subject to taxation for at least one full taxable year. For the purpose of this section, the term "taxable year" means the established annual accounting period of the organization; or, if the organization has no such established annual accounting period, the "taxable year" of the organization means the calendar year.

PAR. 9. Section 1.503(h) is amended by revising the title of such section, the portion of paragraph (h) preceding subparagraph (1), and by amending the historical note at the end thereof. These amended provisions read as follows:

§ 1.503(h) Statutory provisions; requirements for exemption; special rules relating to lending by section 401(a) and section 501(c)(17) trusts to certain persons.

Sec. 503. Requirements for exemption. * * *

(h) Special rules relating to lending by section 401(a) and section 501(c)(17) trusts to certain persons. For purposes of subsection (c)(1), a bond, debenture, note, or certificate or other evidence of indebtedness (hereinafter in this subsection referred to as "obligation") acquired by a trust described in section 401(a) or section 501(c)(17) shall not be treated as a loan made without the receipt of adequate security if—

* * * * *

[Sec. 503(h) as added by sec. 30(a), Technical Amendments Act 1958 (72 Stat. 1629); amended by sec. 2(d), Act of July 14, 1960 (Public Law 86–667, 74 Stat. 535).]

PAR. 10. Section 1.503 (h)–1 is amended by revising the title of such section and paragraph (a) (1) and (3) thereof. These amended provisions read as follows:

§ 1.503(h)–1 Certain loans by employees' trusts and supplemental 'unemployment benefit trusts.

(a) In general. (1) Section 503(h) provides that the acquisition by an employees' trust described in section 401(a), or a supplemental unemployment benefit trust described in section 501(c)(17), of a bond, debenture, note, or certificate or other evidence of indebtedness shall not be treated as a loan made without the receipt of adequate security for purposes of section 503(c)(1), relating to loans made without the receipt of adequate security and a reasonable rate of interest, if certain requirements are met. Those requirements are described in § 1.503(h)–2.

* * * * *

(3) The provisions of section 503(h) do not limit the effect of section 401(a) and § 1.401–2, relating to the use or diversion of corpus or income of an employees' trust, or the effect of the provisions of section 501(c)(17)(A)(i), relating to the diversion of the corpus or income of a supplemental unemployment benefit trust. Furthermore, the provisions of section 503(h) do not limit the effect of any of the provisions of section 503 other than section 503(c)(1). Thus, for example, although a loan made by an employees' trust described in section 401 (a) meets all the requirements of section 503(h) and therefore is not treated as a loan made without the receipt of adequate security, an employees' trust making such a loan will lose its exempt status if the loan is not considered as made for the exclusive benefit of the employees or their beneficiaries. Similarly, a loan which meets the requirements of section 503(h) will constitute a prohibited transaction within the meaning of section 503(c)(3) if it results in a substantial diversion of the trust's income or corpus to a person described in section 503(c).

* * * * *

PAR. 11. Section 1.503(h)–2 is amended by revising paragraph (b) (1), (2)(ii) (a), and (iii) (b), (3) and (4) and paragraph (c) (1) and (2)(ii). These amended provisions read as follows:

§ 1.503(h)–2 Requirements.

* * * * *

(b) Methods of acquisition—(1) In general. The employees' trust described in section 401(a) or the supplemental unemployment benefit trust described in section 501(c)(17) must acquire the obligation on the market, by purchase from an underwriter, or by purchase from the issuer, in the manner described in subparagraph (2), (3), or (4) of this paragraph.

(2) On the market. * * *

(ii) (a) If the obligation is listed on a national securities exchange registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission, it must be purchased through such an exchange or in an over-the-counter transaction at a price not greater than the price of the obligation prevailing on such an exchange at the time of the purchase by the employees' trust or supplemental unemployment benefit trust.

* * * * *

(iii) * * *

(b) For purposes of section 503(h), the offering price for the obligation at the time of the purchase means the price which accurately reflects the market value of the obligation. The offering price may be the price at which the last sale of the obligation to a person independent of the issuer was effected immediately before the trust's purchase of such obligation on the same day or may be the mean between the highest and lowest prices at which sales to persons independent of the issuer were effected on the same day or on the immediately preceding day or on the last day during which there were sales of such obligation or may be a price determined by any other method which accurately reflects the market value of the obligation. The offering price for an obligation must be a valid price for the amount of the obligations which the trust is purchasing. For example, if an employees' trust described in section 401(a) purchases 1,000 bonds of the employer corporation at the offering price established by current prices for a lot of 10 such bonds, such offering price may not be a valid price for 1,000 bonds and the purchase may therefore not meet the requirements of this subdivision. For a purchase of an obligation to qualify under this subdivision, there must be sufficient current prices quoted by persons independent of the issuer to establish accurately the current value of the obligation. Thus, if there are no current prices quoted by persons independent of the issuer, an over-the-counter transaction will not qualify under this subparagraph although the obligation was purchased in an arm's length transaction from a person independent of the issuer.

* * * * *

(3) From an underwriter. An obligation may be purchased from an underwriter if it is purchased at a price not greater than:

(i) The public offering price for the obligation as set forth in a prospectus or offering circular filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission, or

(ii) The price at which a substantial portion of the issue including such obligation is acquired by persons independent of the issuer, whichever is the lesser price. For purposes of this subparagraph, a portion of the issue will be considered substantial if the purchases of such portion by persons independent of the issuer are sufficient to establish the fair market value of the obligations included in such issue. In determining whether the purchases are sufficient to establish the fair market value, all the surrounding facts and circumstances will be considered, including the number of independent purchasers, the aggregate amount purchased by each such independent purchaser, and the number of transactions. In the case of a large issue, purchases of a small percentage of the outstanding obligations may be considered purchases of a substantial portion of the issue; whereas, in the case of a small issue, purchases of a larger percentage of the outstanding obligations will ordinarily be required. The requirement in subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph contemplates purchase of the obligations by persons independent of the issuer contemporaneously with the purchase by the employees' trust or supplemental unemployment benefit trust. If a substantial portion has been purchased at different prices, the price of the portion may be based on the average of such prices, and if several substantial portions have been sold to persons independent of the issuer, the price of any of the substantial portions may be used for purposes of this subparagraph.

(4) From the issuer. An obligation may be purchased directly from the issuer at a price not greater than the price paid currently for a substantial portion of the same issue by persons independent of the issuer. This requirement contemplates purchase of a substantial portion of the same issue by persons independent of the issuer contemporaneously with the purchase by the employees' trust or supplemental unemployment benefit trust. For purposes of this subparagraph, a portion of the issue will be considered substantial if the purchases of such portion by persons independent of the issuer are sufficient to establish the fair market value of the obligations included in such issue. In determining whether the purchases are sufficient to establish the fair market value, all the surrounding facts and circumstances will be considered, including the number of independent purchasers, the aggregate amount purchased by each such independent purchaser, and the number of transactions. In the case of a large issue, purchases of a small percentage of the outstanding obligations may be considered purchases of the substantial portion of the issue; whereas, in the case of a small issue, purchases of a larger percentage of the outstanding obligations will ordinarily be required. The price paid for a substantial portion of the issue may be determined in the manner provided in subparagraph (3) of this paragraph.

(c) Limitations on holdings of obligations. (1) Immediately following acquisition of the obligation by the employees' trust or the supplemental unemployment benefit trust.

* * * * *

(2) (i) * * *

(ii) For purposes of subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, the amounts of the obligations held by the trust and by persons independent of the issuer shall be computed on the basis of the face amount of the obligations.

PAR. 12. Section 1.503(h)–3 is revised to read as follows:

§ 1.503(h)–3 Effective dates.

(a) Section 503(h) and §§ 1.503(h)–1 and 1.503(h)–2 are effective in the case of an employees' trust described in section 401(a) for taxable years ending after March 15, 1956. Thus, if during a taxable year ending before March 16, 1956, an employees' trust made a loan which meets the requirements of section 503(h), such loan will not be treated as made without the receipt of adequate security and will not cause loss of exemption for taxable years ending after March 15, 1956, although such loan was not considered adequately secured when made.

(b) (1) In the case of obligations acquired by an employees' trust described in section 401(a) before September 2, 1958, which were held on that date, the requirements described in paragraphs (c) and (d) of § 1.503(h)–2 which were not satisfied immediately following the acquisition shall be treated as satisfied at that time if those requirements would have been satisfied had the obligations been acquired on September 2, 1958. For example, on January 3, 1955, an employees' trust described in section 401(a) purchased through the New York Stock Exchange unsecured debentures issued by the employer corporation. Under section 503(h) the acquisition of such debentures by the trust will not be treated for taxable years ending after March 15, 1956, as a loan made without the receipt of adequate security if the debentures were held by the employees' trust on September 2, 1958, and if the requirements of paragraphs (c) and (d) of § 1.503(h)–2 which were not met on January 3, 1955, were met on September 2, 1958, as if that date were the date of acquisition.

(2) In the case of obligations acquired before September 2, 1958, which were not held by the employees' trust described in section 401(a) on that date, only the requirement described in paragraph (b) of § 1.503(h)–2 must be satisfied for section 503(h) to be applicable to such acquisition. For example, if on December 5, 1956, an employees' trust lent money to the employer corporation by purchasing a debenture issued by the employer and if the trust sold the debenture on August 1, 1958, such loan would not be treated as made without the receipt of adequate security if the requirement described in paragraph (b) of § 1.503(h)–2 was met on December 5, 1956.

(c) Section 503(h) and §§ 1.503(h)–1 and 1.503(h)–2 are effective in the case of supplemental unemployment benefit trusts described in section 501(c)(17) with respect to loans made, renewed, or, in the case of demand loans, continued after December 31, 1959.

(d) See paragraph (b)(2) of § 1.503 (c)–1 for the effective dates for the application of the definition of adequate security.

PAR. 13. Section 1.511 is amended by revising paragraph (a)(2)(A) and paragraph (b)(2), and by adding a historical note at the end thereof. These amended and added provisions read as follows:

§ 1.511 Statutory provisions; imposition of tax on unrelated business income of charitable, etc., organizations.

Sec. 511. Imposition of tax on unrelated business income of charitable, etc., organizations—

(a) Charitable, etc., organizations taxable at corporation rates. * * *

(2) Organizations subject to tax—

(A) Organizations described in section 501 (c) (2), (3), (5), (6), and (17), and section 401(a). The taxes imposed by paragraph (1) shall apply in the case of any organization (other than a church, a convention or association of churches, or a trust described in subsection (b)) which is exempt, except as provided in this part, from taxation under this subtitle by reason of section 401(a) or of paragraph (3), (5), (6), or (17) of section 501(c). Such taxes shall also apply in the case of a corporation described in section 501 (c)(2) if the income is payable to an organization which itself is subject to the taxes imposed by paragraph (1) or to a church or to a convention or association of churches.

* * * * *

(b) Tax on charitable, etc., trusts. * * *

(2) Charitable, etc., trusts subject to tax. The tax imposed by paragraph (1) shall apply in the case of any trust which is exempt, except as provided in this part, from taxation under this subtitle by reason of section 501(c) (3) or (17) or section 401(a) and which, if it were not for such exemption, would be subject to subchapter J (sec. 641 and following, relating to estates, trusts, beneficiaries, and decedents).

* * * * *

[Sec. 511 as amended by sec. 3, Act of July 14, 1960 (Pub. Law 86–667, 74 Stat. 535).]

PAR. 14. Section 1.511–2 is amended by revising paragraphs (a)(1) and (b). These amended provisions read as follows:

§ 1.511–2 Organizations subject to tax.

(a) (1) The taxes imposed by section 511(a)(1) apply in the case of any organization (other than a church, a convention or association of churches, or a trust described in section 511(b)(2)) which is exempt (except as provided in sections 511 through 515) from taxation under section 501(a) as an organization described in section 501(c) (3), (5), (6), or (17), or section 401(a). A corporation described in section 501(c)(2) exempt from taxation under section 501(a) holding property for an organization which itself is subject to the tax or for a church or a convention or association of churches, is also subject to the tax imposed by section 511(a)(1).

* * * * *

(b) The taxes imposed by section 511 (b) apply in the case of any trust which is exempt (except as provided in sections 511 through 515) from taxation under section 501(a) as an organization described in section 501(c) (3) or (17), or section 401(a), and which, if it were not for such exemption, would be subject to the provisions of subchapter J, chapter 1, of the Code. In the case of a trust described in section 401(a), the tax imposed by section 511(b) and this section shall apply only for taxable years beginning after June 30, 1954. In the case of a trust described in section 501(c)(17), the tax imposed by section 511(b) and this section shall apply only for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1959. An organization which is considered as "trustee" of a stock bonus, pension, or profit-sharing plan described in section 401(a), or a supplemental unemployment benefit trust described in section 501(c)(17) (regardless of the form of such organization) is subject to the taxes imposed by section 511(b)(1) on its unrelated business income. However, if such an organization conducts a business which is a separate taxable entity on the basis of all the facts and circumstances, for example, as a corporation or an association taxable as a corporation, the business will be taxable as a feeder organization described in section 502.

PAR. 15. Paragraph (b) of § 1.513 is amended by revising paragraph (b)(2) and by adding a historical note at the end thereof. These amended and added provisions read as follows:

§ 1.513 Statutory provisions; unrelated trade or business.

Sec. 513. Unrelated trade or business. * * *

(b) Special rule for trusts. * * *

(2) A trust described in section 401(a), or section 501(c)(17), which is exempt from tax under section 501(a);

* * * * *

[Sec. 513(b)(2) as amended by sec. 4, Act of July 14, 1960 (Pub. Law 86-667, 74 Stat. 536)]

PAR. 16. Section 1.514(c) is amended by adding a new subparagraph (8) and a historical note. These amended and added provisions read as follows:

§ 1.514(c) Statutory provisions; business leases; business lease indebtedness.

Sec. 514. Business leases. * * *

(c) Business lease indebtedness. * * *

(8) Trusts described in section 501(c)(17).—

(A) In the case of a trust described in section 501(c)(17), or in the case of a corporation described in section 501(c)(2), all of the stock of which was acquired before January 1, 1960, by a trust described in section 501(c)(17), any indebtedness incurred by such trust or such corporation before January 1, 1960, in connection with real property which is leased before January 1, 1960, and any indebtedness incurred by such trust or such corporation on or after such date necessary to carry out the terms of such lease, shall not be considered as an indebtedness with respect to such trust or such corporation for purposes of this subsection.

(B) In the application of paragraph (1), if a trust described in section 501(c)(17) forming part of a supplemental unemployment compensation benefit plan lends any money to another trust described in section 501(c)(17) forming part of the same plan, such loan shall not be treated as an indebtedness of the borrowing trust, except to the extent that the loaning trust—

(i) Incurs any indebtedness in order to make such loan;

(ii) Incurred indebtedness before the making of such loan which would not have been incurred but for the making of such loan; or

(iii) Incurred indebtedness after the making of such loan which would not have been incurred but for the making of such loan and which was reasonably foreseeable at the time of making such loan.

[Sec. 514(c) as amended by sec. 5, Act of July 14, 1960 (Pub. Law 86-667, 74 Stat. 536)]

PAR. 17. Section 514(c)-1 is amended by adding a new paragraph (j) at the end thereof. These added provisions read as follows:

§ 1.514(c)-1 Business lease indebtedness.

* * * * *

(j) Certain trusts described in section 501(c)(17). (1) In the case of a supplemental unemployment benefit trust described in section 501(c)(17), or in the case of a corporation described in section 501(c)(2) all of the stock of which was acquired before January 1, 1960, by such a trust, any indebtedness incurred by such trust or such corporation before such date, in connection with real property which is leased before such date, and any indebtedness incurred by such trust or such corporation on or after such date necessary to carry out the terms of such lease, shall not be considered as an indebtedness described in section 514(c) and in this section.

(2) If a supplemental unemployment benefit trust described in section 501(c)(17) lends any money to another such supplemental unemployment benefit trust forming part of the same plan, for the purpose of acquiring or improving real property, such loan will not be treated as an indebtedness of the borrowing trust except to the extent that the loaning trust—

(i) Incurs any indebtedness in order to make such loan;

(ii) Incurred indebtedness before the making of such loan which would not have been incurred but for the making of such loan; or

(iii) Incurred indebtedness after the making of such loan which would not have been incurred but for the making of such loan and which was reasonably foreseeable at the time of making such loan.

PAR. 18. Paragraph (a)(5) of § 1.6012-3 is amended to read as follows:

§ 1.6012-3 Returns by fiduciaries.

(a) For estates and trusts. * * *

(5) Trusts with unrelated business income. Every fiduciary for a trust, described in section 501(c)(3) or (17), or section 401(a), which is otherwise exempt from tax under section 501(a), and which is subject to the tax imposed on unrelated business taxable income by section 511(b)(1), shall make a return on Form 990-T for each taxable year if the trust has gross income, included in computing unrelated business taxable income for such taxable year, of $1,000 or more. The filing of a return of unrelated business income does not relieve the fiduciary of such trust from the duty of filing other required returns.

* * * * *

PAR. 19. Paragraph (i) of § 1.6033-1 is amended to read as follows:

§ 1.6033-1 Returns by exempt organizations.

* * * * *

(i) Unrelated business tax returns. In addition to the foregoing requirements of this section, certain organizations otherwise exempt from tax under section 501(a) and described in section 501(c)(2), (3), (5), (6), or (17) or section 401(a) which are subject to tax on unrelated business taxable income are also required to file returns on Form 990-T. See paragraph (e) of § 1.6012-2 and paragraph (a)(5) of § 1.6012-3 for requirements with respect to such returns.

Oil Import Administration

[32A CFR Ch. X]

[Oil Import Reg. 1, Rev. 5]

ALLOCATIONS OF IMPORTS, LOW SULPHUR RESIDUAL FUEL OIL

Notice of Proposed Rule Making

Presidential Proclamation 3279, as amended, has been modified to help abate air pollution on both the East and West Coasts.

The amended proclamation has redefined residual fuel oil as follows: "Residual fuel oil—topped crude oil or viscous residuum which has a viscosity of not less than 45 seconds Saybolt Universal at 100° F. and crude oil which has a viscosity of not less than 45 seconds Saybolt Universal at 100° F. and which is to be used as fuel without further processing other than by blending by mechanical means." This new definition expands the viscosity range of fuel oil and permits imports under a residual fuel oil license of oil of lower viscosity than was heretofore permitted. By permitting imports of residual fuel oil of lower viscosity than in the past, the industry's capability to supply greater quantities of low sulphur fuel oil will be enhanced. Accordingly, subparagraph (7), of paragraph (g) of section 22 of the Oil Import Regulation 1, as amended, will be so revised.

In addition, the amended proclamation authorizes the Secretary of the Interior, to allocate imports of low sulphur residual fuel oil to marketers of this fuel in District V who have access to ocean terminals and to grant allocations of imports of crude oil and unfinished oils to refiners in all districts, who process imported crude oil or unfinished oils into low sulphur residual fuel oil to be used as fuel. In order to implement these provisions of the amendatory proclamation, I propose to issue amendments to Oil Import Regulation 1, as amended, which would embody the following plan:

(1) Persons in the business of selling residual fuel oil in District V who have access to deepwater terminals, either by ownership or throughput agreements and a recent history of inputs of residual fuel oil to such terminals would be granted an allocation of imports of residual fuel oil to be used as fuel containing not more than a percent of sulphur by weight, as the Secretary of the Interior may determine in consultation with the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare. The quantity of individual allocations would be that amount of low sulphur residual fuel equaling the difference between individual certified availability of domestic supply and estimates of requirements of low sulphur residual fuel oil to be used as fuel to meet consumer demand in District V.

(2) In Districts I–IV and District V, eligible persons with refinery capacity who are receiving allocations of imports of crude and unfinished oils would be given additional allocations based on the low sulphur residual fuel oil produced from crude oil or unfinished oils imported pursuant to their allocations. The additional allocations of crude oil and unfinished oils would not exceed the quantity of low sulphur residual fuel oil produced from imported crude for United States consumption. Provisions would be made to adjust "inputs" so that there would be no pyramiding of "inputs" for the purpose of enlarging individual import allocations.

Example: Any eligible person who receives an allocation of imports of crude oil and unfinished oils of 1 million barrels for the allocation period January 1–December 31, 1968, manufactures 100,000 barrels of low sulphur residual fuel oil from his imported foreign crude oil or unfinished oil. Upon receipt of certification by the Oil Import Administration, the applicant would be entitled to receive an additional allocation not to exceed 100,000 barrels of crude oil. Further, if he manufactures 10,000 barrels of low sulphur residual fuel oil from this additional imported crude oil he would be entitled to receive a second additional allocation of 10,000 barrels of crude oil and unfinished oils. However, for the purpose of computing import allocations under section 10 or 11 of Oil Import Regulation 1 for future allocation periods crude oil imported under an additional allocation and processed would not qualify as "refinery inputs".

It is the policy of the Department of the Interior, whenever practicable, to afford the public an opportunity to participate in the rule making process. Accordingly, interested persons may submit written comments, suggestions, or objections (six copies) with respect to the proposed plan to the Administrator, Oil Import Administration, Washington, D.C. 20240, on or before August 15, 1967.

STEWART L. UDALL,
Secretary of the Interior.

FIRE-CURED, DARK AIR-CURED, AND VIRGINIA SUN-CURED TOBACCO

Sale, Lease, and Transfer of Acreage Allotments for 1967 and Subsequent Crop Years

Notice of determinations to be made with respect to sale, lease, and transfer of fire-cured, dark air-cured, and Virginia sun-cured tobacco acreage allotments for 1967 and subsequent crop years.

Pursuant to the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended, and as further amended through the addition of section 318 by P.L. 90-51, approved July 7, 1967, hereinafter referred to as the "Act," the Secretary is preparing to make determinations regarding the provisions of section 318 of the Act.

Section 318 of the Act provides as follows:

(a) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Secretary, if he determines that it will not impair the effective operation of the tobacco marketing quota or price support programs, (1) may permit the owner and operator of any farm for which a fire-cured, dark air-cured, or Virginia sun-cured tobacco acreage allotment or acreage-poundage quota is established under this Act to sell or lease all or any part or the right to all or any part of such allotment or quota to any other owner or operator of a farm for transfer to such farm; and (2) may permit the owner of a farm to transfer all or any part of such allotment or quota to any other farm owned or controlled by him.

(b) Transfers under this section shall be subject to the following conditions: (1) No allotment or quota shall be transferred to a farm in another county; (2) no transfer of an allotment or quota from a farm subject to a mortgage or other lien shall be permitted unless the transfer is agreed to by the lienholders; (3) no sale of a farm allotment or quota from a farm shall be permitted if any sale of allotment or quota to the same farm has been made within the three immediately preceding crop years; and (4) no transfer of allotment or quota shall be effective until a record thereof is filed with the county committee of the county to which such transfer is made and such committee determines that the transfer complies with the provisions of this section.

(c) The transfer of an allotment or quota under this section shall have the effect of transferring also the acreage history and marketing quota attributable to such allotment or quota and if the transfer is made prior to the determination of the allotment or quota for any year the transfer shall include the right of the owner or operator to have an allotment or quota determined for the farm for such year: Provided, That in the case of a transfer by lease the amount of the allotment or quota shall be considered for purposes of determining allotments or quotas after the expiration of the lease to have been planted on the farm from which such allotment is transferred.

(d) The land in the farm from which the entire tobacco allotment or quota has been transferred shall not be eligible for a new farm tobacco allotment or quota during the 5 years following the year in which such transfer is made.

(e) If the normal yield established by the county committee for the farm to which the allotment is transferred does not exceed the normal yield established by the county committee for the farm from which the allotment is transferred by more than 10 per centum, the transfer shall be approved acre for acre. If the normal yield for the farm to which the allotment is transferred exceeds the normal yield for the farm from which the allotment is transferred by more than 10 per centum, the county committee shall make a downward adjustment in the amount of the acreage allotment transferred by multiplying the normal yield established for the farm from which the allotment is transferred by the acreage being transferred and dividing the result by the normal yield established for the farm to which the allotment is transferred.

(f) Any lease under this section may be made for such term of years not to exceed five as the parties thereto agree, and on such other terms and conditions except as otherwise provided in this section as the parties thereto agree.

(g) Under the provisions of this section not more than 10 acres of allotment may be transferred to any farm: Provided, That the total acreage allotted to any farm after such transfer shall not exceed 50 per centum of the acreage of cropland in the farm.

(h) The lease of any part of a tobacco acreage allotment or acreage-poundage quota under this section determined for a farm shall not affect the allotment or quota for the farm from which such allotment or quota is transferred or the farm to which it is transferred, except with respect to the crop year or years specified in the lease. The amount of the acreage allotment and acreage-poundage quota which is leased from a farm shall be considered for purposes of determining future allotments and quotas to have been planted to tobacco on the farm from which such allotment or quota is leased and the production pursuant to the lease shall not be taken into account in establishing allotments or quotas for subsequent years for the farm to which such allotment is leased. The lessor shall be considered to have been engaged in the production of tobacco for purposes of eligibility to vote in the referendum.

(i) If the sale or transfer under this section occurs during a period in which the farm is covered by a conservation reserve contract, cropland conversion agreement, or other similar land utilization agreement the rates of payment provided for in the contract or agreement of the farm from which the transfer is made shall be subject to an appropriate adjustment, but no adjustment shall be made in the contract or agreement of the farm to which the transfer is made.

(j) The Secretary shall prescribe such regulations and other terms and conditions as he deems necessary for the administration of this section.

The issues involved in these determinations are: (1) Whether the sale, lease, and transfer of fire-cured, dark air-cured, or Virginia sun-cured tobacco acreage allotments would impair the effective operation of the tobacco marketing quota or price support program for such kind of tobacco for 1968 and subsequent years, (2) whether the sale, lease, and transfer of acreage allotments for any such kind of tobacco would, if made effective for the 1967 crop, impair the 1967 marketing quota or price support program for such kind of tobacco in view of the fact that it is too late to plant any of such kinds of tobacco for 1967, and (3) development of regulations for operation of the program if put into effect. Consideration will be given to data, views, and recommendations pertaining to the proposed determinations, rules, and regulations covered by this notice which are submitted in writing to the Director, Policy and Program Appraisal Division, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250. All written submissions made pursuant to the notice will be made available for public inspection at such times and in a manner convenient to the public business (7 CFR 1.27(b)). All submissions must be postmarked not later than 15 days from the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Signed at Washington, D.C., on July 26, 1967.

Administrator, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

[7 CFR Part 989]

[Docket No. AO 198-A8]

RAISINS PRODUCED FROM GRAPES GROWN IN CALIFORNIA

Decision and Referendum Order With Respect to Proposed Amendment of Marketing Agreement and Order, as Amended

Pursuant to the rules of practice and procedure governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held in Fresno, Calif., on April 24–27, 1967, after notice thereof published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (32 F.R. 5690) on proposals to amend the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 989, as amended (7 CFR Part 989), regulating the handling of raisins produced from grapes grown in California. The amended marketing agreement and the amended order are effective pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601–674).

On the basis of the evidence adduced at the hearing, and the record thereof, the recommended decision in this proceeding was filed on June 22, 1967, with the Hearing Clerk, U.S. Department of Agriculture, and notice thereof, affording opportunity to file written exceptions thereto, was published June 27, 1967, in the FEDERAL REGISTER (F.R. Doc. 67–7196; 32 F.R. 9084).

The material issues, findings and conclusions, and general findings of the recommended decision set forth in the FEDERAL REGISTER (F.R. Doc. 67–7196; 32 F.R. 9084) are hereby approved and adopted as the material issues, findings and conclusions, and general findings of this decision as if set forth in full herein, except as they are modified by correction of typographical errors and rulings on the exceptions as hereinafter set forth.

Correction of typographical errors. The third sentence of the penultimate paragraph of the discussion on material issue (11) in the recommended decision which reads, "If any such sale is approved, the offer to handlers should be made as now provided in paragraphs (d) and (h) of new § 989.67 but price determination should continue as presently prescribed in § 989.66(b)" should be corrected to read as follows: "If any such sale is approved, the offer to handlers should be made as now provided in paragraphs (d) and (h) of new § 989.67 but price determination should continue as presently prescribed in § 989.67(b)".

Rulings on exceptions. Exceptions to the recommended decision were filed, within the prescribed time, by the following: A Setrakian, on his own behalf; Allen F. Mather for Sun-Maid Raisin Growers of California; Ernest A. Bedrosian for the Raisin Bargaining Association; C. W. Bonner for Bonner Packing Co.; Dan Hoak for West Coast Growers and Packers, Inc.; W. L. Jackson for the Raisin Administrative Committee; and R. L. Engell for Del Monte Corp.

These exceptions have been considered carefully and fully, in connection with the evidence in the record and the proposed findings and conclusions of the recommended decision in arriving at the findings and conclusions set forth herein. To any extent that the findings and conclusions contained herein are at variance with any of the exceptions pertaining thereto, such exceptions are denied on the basis of the findings and conclusions relating to the issues to which the exceptions refer.

The exceptions, and the rulings thereon, are as follows:

Two exceptors took the position that provision should not be made to include the newly formed cooperative bargaining association within the framework of the order. They contended that to do so would cause the Raisin Advisory Board and the Raisin Administrative Committee to be producer dominated to an even greater degree. This reason, and others, which the two exceptors gave for excluding the cooperative bargaining association was presented at the public hearing and was in proposed findings and conclusions filed subsequent to said hearing. However, the preponderance of evidence was that a cooperative bargaining association has become a major entity in the raisin industry and should directly participate in the industry's marketing decisions. This was the appropriate conclusion of the recommended decision and hence the exception is denied.

Three exceptors requested that the initial release percentage in recommended § 989.54(b) be increased from "not less than 65 percent" to 75 or even 85 percent to assure adequate early supplies of free tonnage raisins. However, the recommended decision notes that 65 percent will release approximately 91,000 tons and this is adequate for September–February shipments. No later than February 15, the committee is required to recommend the change of percentage which will release the full desirable free tonnage. The provision is flexible enough to assure adequate free tonnage supplies in that the initial release may exceed 65 percent or, in the alternative, the full release may occur prior to February 15 of a crop year. Hence, the exceptions are denied.

An exception was taken to the recommended decision not adopting the proposal in the notice of hearing which would permit the committee to require handlers to set aside a portion of their acquisitions prior to the establishment of free and reserve percentages for the crop year. The latter occurs in October whereas the crop year begins the first of September. In the opposite sense, handler exceptors protested the recommended deletion of the right to use reserve tonnage, in free tonnage outlets, up to November 15 of the crop year. Under present provisions of the order, handlers have had temporary opportunity to defer set aside of reserve tonnage even after percentages were established. However, this deferment being inconsistent with the supply stabilizing intent of new § 989.54, the recommended decision correctly concluded that the provision for deferment should be deleted. The decision also concluded that provision should be made for a portion of the desirable free tonnage to be withheld early in the crop year. Since handlers in general carry into the crop year sufficient supplies to meet September free tonnage needs and shipments of new crop are negligible, little purpose would be served by having the withholding requirement effective on new crop in September. It should be effective early in October and this can be achieved by the committee recommending, on or before September 1, and the Secretary proposing in September whether the preliminary free tonnage percentage is to release 65 percent or a higher percentage of the desirable free tonnage. Then, as soon as the crop estimate is known and the committee computes and recommends the appropriate free and reserve percentages, the percentages can be promptly established. Accordingly, the exceptions are denied.

Several exceptors indicated that paragraph (c) of § 989.54 should either be deleted or revised to make it more restrictive as to possible changes of the free tonnage percentage. While the paragraph is presently in the order to assure full flexibility of adjustment to unforeseen circumstances, it admittedly poses the issue as to whether the committee could, for relatively minor reasons, recommend a late in the crop year change of such matters of marketing policy as the final free tonnage percentage. Such could adversely affect market stability and is not within the intended scope nor the historic usage of the provision. Hence, the exceptions are granted and there is added to the penultimate paragraph of the discussion (32 F.R. 9087) on material issue (8) in the recommended decision the following: "With respect to paragraph (c) of new § 989.54, the committee should be restricted as to any modification of its marketing policy to that arising from a national emergency, crop failure, or other major changes in economic conditions. Such would assure, under normal conditions, continuity of policy and maintenance of market stability throughout the crop year". Section 989.54(c) is revised accordingly.

Exceptions were taken to recommended paragraph (j) of § 989.67 as permitting uncertainty among raisin packers as to the actual free tonnage supply. Exceptors indicated that the language of said paragraph would lead handlers to possibly believe they would be able to purchase reserve raisins for use as free tonnage after the final free percentage is established prior to or in February of each crop year. If such were permitted in normal crop years, it would continue the price instability which has been a characteristic of the sale of free tonnage raisins. While the interpretation of the exceptors is not consistent with the discussion under material issue (11), the fact that the interpretation arose means the exceptions should be granted. Hence, the second sentence of the penultimate paragraph of the discussion on material issue (11) in the recommended decision should be revised to read as follows: "Thus, the committee should not be permitted to sell reserve tonnage unless it finds, and the Secretary approves, that because of a national emergency, crop failure, major change in economic conditions or an inadequate carryover for September shipment the free tonnage outlets cannot be reasonably well supplied by the tonnage released to the industry by the final free percentage". In other words, once the free tonnage is set for the crop year it should remain a fixed amount throughout any normal crop year. However, since additional supplies can only be obtained from the carryin in an average year, this could result in an inadequate carryout and hence inability to supply the September demand unless an offer of reserve tonnage is made to supply the temporary needs of handlers. Paragraph (j) of § 989.67 is revised accordingly.

Exceptions were taken to the proviso at the end of paragraph (j) of § 989.67 and request made that it be deleted. However, the proviso is presently in the order, it states how prices may be determined for reserve tonnage when there is a downward trend to prices, no evidence was presented on the record to alter methods of price determinations, and no change of this provision is warranted as a conforming change arising from other changes. Accordingly these exceptions are denied.

Amendment of the amended marketing agreement and order. Annexed hereto and made a part hereof are two documents entitled, respectively, "Marketing Agreement, as Amended, Regulating the Handling of Raisins Produced from Grapes Grown in California" and "Order Amending the Order, as Amended, Regulating the Handling of Raisins Produced from Grapes Grown in California" which have been decided upon as the appropriate and detailed means of effecting the foregoing conclusions. These documents shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the aforesaid rules of practice and procedure governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders have been met.

Referendum order. Pursuant to the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601–674), it is hereby directed that a referendum be conducted among producers who, during the period July 1, 1966, through June 30, 1967 (which period is hereby determined to be a representative period for the purpose of such referendum), have been engaged in the State of California, in the production for market of grapes which were sun-dried or dehydrated by artificial means until they became raisins to determine whether such producers favor the issuance of the said annexed order amending the order, as amended, regulating the handling of raisins produced from grapes grown in California.

Charles Fuqua, Martin Kelly, and Joseph C. Genske of the Fruit and Vegetable Division, Consumer and Marketing Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, are hereby designated referendum agents of the Secretary of Agriculture to conduct said referendum severally or jointly.

The procedure applicable to the referendum shall be the "Procedure for the Conduct of Referenda in Connection with Marketing Orders for Fruits, Vegetables, and Tree Nuts Pursuant to the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended" (30 F.R. 15414).

The ballots used in the referendum shall contain a summary describing the terms and conditions of the proposed amendatory order.

Any producer entitled to vote in the referendum who does not receive a copy of the aforesaid annexed order, voting instructions, or a ballot or other necessary information will be able to obtain the same from any of the County Directors of Agricultural Extension in the California Counties of Fresno, Kern, Kings, Madera, Merced, Stanislaus, and Tulare, or from Charles Fuqua, Fresno Marketing Field Office, Fruit and Vegetable Division, Consumer and Marketing Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Room 3114, Federal Building, 1130 O Street, Fresno, Calif. 93721, or Dower T. Mohun, San Francisco Marketing Field Office, Fruit and Vegetable Division, Consumer and Marketing Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Room 836, 630 Sansome Street, San Francisco, Calif. 94111.

It is hereby ordered, That all of this decision and referendum order, except the annexed marketing agreement, as amended, be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The regulatory provisions of the said marketing agreement, as amended, are identical with those contained in the said order, as amended, and as further amended by the annexed order which will be published with this decision.

Dated: July 27, 1967.

GEORGE L. MEHREN,
Assistant Secretary.

Order[1] Amending the Order, as Amended, Regulating the Handling of Raisins Produced From Grapes Grown in California

§ 989.0 Findings and determinations.

(a) Previous findings and determinations. The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary, and in addition, to the findings and determinations made in connection with the issuance of the order and the previously issued amendments hereby ratified and affirmed except insofar as such prior findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein. (For prior findings and determinations see 14 F.R. 5136;

[1] This order shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the rules of practice and procedure governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and orders have been met.

20 F.R. 6435; 21 F.R. 8182; 25 F.R. 12814; 29 F.R. 9482.)

(b) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601–674), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure effective thereunder (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held in Fresno, Calif., on April 24–27, 1967, on a proposed amendment of the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 989, as amended (7 CFR Part 989), regulating the handling of raisins produced from grapes grown in California. On the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order, as amended and as hereby further amended, and all the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(2) The said order, as amended and as hereby further amended, regulates the handling of raisins produced from grapes grown in California in the same manner as, and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of commercial or industrial activity specified in, the marketing agreement and order upon which hearings have been held;

(3) The said order, as amended and as hereby further amended, is limited in application to the smallest regional production area which is practicable, consistently with carrying out the declared policy of the act, and the issuance of several orders applicable to subdivisions of the area of production would not effectively carry out the declared policy of the act;

(4) There are no differences in the production and marketing of raisins in the production area covered by the order, as amended and as hereby further amended, which would require different terms applicable to different parts of such area; and

(5) All handling of raisins produced from grapes grown in the area of production is in the current of interstate or foreign commerce or directly burdens, obstructs, or affects such commerce.

It is, therefore, ordered, That, on and after the effective date hereof, all handling of raisins produced from grapes grown in California shall be in conformity to, and in compliance with, the terms and conditions of the said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended as follows:

1. Add a new section, § 989.12a, as follows:

§ 989.12a Cooperative bargaining association.

"Cooperative bargaining association" means a nonprofit cooperative association of raisin producers engaged within the area in bargaining with handlers as to price and otherwise arranging for the sale of natural condition raisins of its members.

2. Revise § 989.13 to read:

§ 989.13 Processor.

"Processor" means any person who receives or acquires natural condition raisins, off-grade raisins, other failing raisins (as defined in paragraph (f) of § 989.59), or raisin residual material and uses them or it within the area, with or without other ingredients, in the production of a product other than raisins, for market or distribution.

3. Revise § 989.14 to read:

§ 989.14 Packer.

"Packer" means any person who, within the area, stems, sorts, cleans, or seeds raisins, grades stemmed raisins, or packages raisins for market as raisins: Provided, That:

(a) No producer with respect to the raisins produced by him, and no group of producers with respect to raisins produced by the producers comprising the group, and not otherwise a packer, shall be deemed a packer if he or it sorts or cleans (with or without water) such raisins in their unstemmed form;

(b) Any dehydrator shall be deemed to be a packer, with respect to raisins dehydrated by him, only if he stems, cleans with water subsequent to such dehydration, seeds or packages them for market as raisins;

(c) The committee may, with the approval of the Secretary, restrict the exceptions as to permitted cleaning if necessary to cause delivery of sound raisins; and

(d) No person shall be deemed a packer by reason of the fact he repackages for market (with or without additional preparation) packed raisins which, in the hands of a previous holder, have been inspected and certified as meeting the applicable minimum grade standards for packed raisins.

§ 989.24 [Amended]

4. At the end of the sentence in § 989.24(b) change the period to a colon and add the following: "Provided, That raisins which are certified as off-grade raisins shall continue to be such until successfully reconditioned or for purposes of disposition become 'other failing raisins' pursuant to § 989.59(f)".

§ 989.26 [Amended]

5. Revise the first sentence of § 989.26 to read: "A Raisin Advisory Board is hereby established consisting of 46 members, of whom 35 shall represent producers, 8 shall represent handlers, 2 shall represent dehydrators, and one shall represent the cooperative bargaining association(s)".

6. Revise § 989.27 to read:

§ 989.27 Eligibility.

No person shall be selected or continue to serve as a member or alternate member of the board, who is not actively engaged in the business of the group which he represents, either in his own behalf, or as an officer, agent, or employee of a business unit engaged in such business: Provided, That, any handler eligible to represent a particular size group shall continue to represent for the entire term the size group for which he was selected. The committee shall certify during April of each crop year each member's and alternate member's eligibility to continue to serve on the board.

7. Revise §989.28 to read:

§ 989.28 Term of office.

(a) Producer members. The terms of one-third or approximately one-third of the producer members and producer alternate members of the board shall end on April 30 of each year, but each such member and alternate member shall continue to serve until his respective successor is selected and has qualified. The producer members and producer alternate members of the board shall serve for terms of three years beginning May 1 and ending April 30 of the third following year.

(b) Handler, dehydrator, and cooperative bargaining association members. The handler, dehydrator, and cooperative bargaining association members, and their respective alternates, shall each serve for terms of one year, beginning May 1 and ending April 30 of the following year, but each shall continue to serve until his respective successor is selected and has qualified.

8. Revise § 989.29(a) and (b) (1) and (2) to read:

§ 989.29 Initial members and nomination of successor members.

(a) Initial members. Members and alternate members of the board serving immediately prior to the effective date of this amended subpart shall, if thereafter they are also eligible, continue to serve on the board for their specified terms of office and until their respective successors have been selected and have qualified.

(b) Nomination for successor members. Nominations for successor members and alternate members of the board shall be made as set forth in subparagraphs (1) to (6) of this paragraph.

(1) The board shall give reasonable publicity of a meeting or meetings of producers, handlers and dehydrators, and if applicable, cooperative bargaining association(s), for the purpose of making nominations for member and alternate member positions to be filled on the board: Provided, That with respect to producer members and producer alternate members, a meeting or meetings shall be held in each district for which nominations are to be made to fill producer member and producer alternate member positions on the board: And provided further, That member and alternate member nominations of handlers, dehydrators, and cooperative bargaining association(s) may be made to the board by mail in lieu of meetings.

(2) Only producers as defined in § 989.11, engaged as such with respect to the most recent grape crop in the particular district for which nominations are to be made, may nominate, or vote for, any producer member or producer alternate member for such district. Any producer so engaged with respect to the most recent grape crop in the particular district for which nominations are to be made, may be nominated to represent said district as a producer member or producer alternate member of the board; in the event any of such nominees are engaged as producers in more than one district, he may be a nominee for only one district. One or more eligible producers for each producer member position to be filled on the board may be proposed for nomination and one or more eligible producers for each alternate member position to be filled may be proposed for nomination. Each producer shall cast only one vote with respect to each position for which nomination is to be made. The person receiving a majority of the votes with respect to each producer member or producer alternate member position shall be the persons to be certified to the Secretary as the nominee for each such position. In the event no person receives a majority, there shall be a run-off vote between the two persons receiving the largest number of votes. The eligibility of each producer voting in a nomination meeting shall be certified by the committee during or after the meeting, and, in the event one or more who voted was not eligible and this may have affected the result of any nomination vote, another meeting with respect to such nomination shall be held.

* * * * *

9. Revise § 989.30 to read:

§ 989.30 Selection.

The Secretary shall select producer, handler, dehydrator, and cooperative bargaining association members and alternate members in the numbers specified in § 989.26, or pursuant to § 989.26a or § 989.26b, as applicable, and with the qualifications specified in § 989.27. Such selections may be made from the nominations certified pursuant to § 989.29 or from other eligible producers, handlers, dehydrators, or cooperative bargaining association officers or employees.

10. Revise the first sentence of § 989.35 to read:

§ 989.35 Meetings.

The board shall meet at the call of its chairman or its vice-chairman when acting as chairman, or at the call of any three members. * * *

11. Revise § 989.36 to read:

§ 989.36 Duties.

The duties of the board shall consist of the conducting of meetings for the purpose of making nominations for membership on the board and the certifying of nominations made for such purpose to the Secretary, the making of nominations to the Secretary for member and alternate member positions on the committee, the making of recommendations to the committee with respect to marketing policy, the free and reserve percentages, and other operational matters as it deems proper or as the committee may request.

§ 989.39 [Amended]

12. Revise the second sentence of § 989.39 and add a new third sentence to read: "Such committee shall consist of 15 members, of whom 8 shall represent producers, 5 shall represent handlers, one shall represent dehydrators, and one shall represent the cooperative bargaining association(s). The producer members shall be selected to represent such district or groups of districts as the committee may establish with the approval of the Secretary".

13. Revise § 989.39b to read:

§ 989.39b Changes in producer representation.

The Secretary, on recommendation of the committee, may change the total number of producer members on the committee and may change the number of producer members which shall be selected to represent particular districts or groups of districts. In making any such change consideration shall be given to such factors as changes in producer and handler membership on the board, representation of the several producing districts, maintenance of producer positions as majority of the committee, and geographical shifts in the number of producers and in raisin production within the area.

§ 989.40 [Amended]

14. Delete the first sentence of § 989.40.

§ 989.42 [Amended]

15. In the first sentence of § 989.42(a), delete the proviso and change the colon to a period.

16. In § 989.42, reletter paragraphs (d) and (e) to (e) and (f), respectively, and add a new paragraph (d) reading:

§§ 989.54–989.57, 989.63, 989.64 [Deleted]

18. Delete present §§ 989.54, 989.55, 989.56, 989.57, 989.63 and 989.64 and insert in lieu thereof the following:

§ 989.54 Marketing policy.

(a) Desirable free tonnage. On or before September 1 of each crop year the committee shall review shipment data and other matters relating to tons of raisins which can be sold as the free tonnage of any varietal type. This tonnage to be sold in the ensuing crop year shall be designated as "desirable free tonnage." Until changed by the committee, with the approval of the Secretary, the desirable free tonnage shall be 140,000 tons for Natural Thompson Seedless raisins.

(b) Free and reserve percentages. On or before October 5 of each crop year (except that this date may be extended by the committee not more than 5 days if warranted by a late crop) the committee shall recommend to the Secretary a preliminary free tonnage percentage which will release not less than 65 percent of the desirable free tonnage established for any varietal type. Upon a committee determination that field prices are firmly established and open price contracts have been closed as to price on at least 65 percent of the tonnage acquired by packers not marketing cooperatives, or such other percent as is recommended by the committee and approved by the Secretary, but no later than February 15, the committee shall recommend to the Secretary a free percentage which will tend to release the full desirable free tonnage. Prior to February 15, an interim change of percentage may be made to release less than the full tonnage. The difference between any preliminary or final free tonnage percentage and 100 percent shall be the reserve percentage. In developing its free and reserve percentages for any varietal type, the committee shall consider and report to the Secretary on the following factors:

(1) The estimated tonnage held by producers, handlers, and for the account of the committee at the beginning of the crop year;

(2) The expected general quality and any modifications of the minimum grade standards;

(3) The estimated tonnage of standard and off-grade raisins which will be produced;

(4) If different than the desirable free tonnage, the estimated trade demand for raisins in free tonnage outlets;

(5) An estimated desirable carryout at the end of the crop year for free tonnage and, if applicable, for reserve tonnage;

(6) The estimated market requirements for raisins outside free tonnage outlets, considering the estimated world raisin supply and demand situation;

(7) Current prices being received and the probable general level of prices to be received for raisins by producers and handlers;

(8) The trend and level of consumer income;

(9) Any prohibition of trade practices, pursuant to § 989.62, intended for the crop year; and

(10) Any other pertinent factors bearing on the marketing of raisins including the estimated supply of and demand for other varietal types and regulations applicable thereto.

(c) Modification. In the event the committee subsequently deems it advisable to modify its marketing policy on any crop, because of national emergency, crop failure or other major change in economic conditions, it shall hold a meeting for that purpose, and file a report thereof with the Secretary within five days (exclusive of Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays) after holding of such meeting, which report shall show each modification, the bases therefor, as well as the recommendation of the board.

(d) Verbatim record. The committee shall file with its report to the Secretary a verbatim record of that portion of its meeting or meetings relating to its marketing policy.

(e) Publicity and notice. The committee shall promptly give reasonable publicity to producers, dehydrators, handlers, and the cooperative bargaining association(s) of each meeting to consider a marketing policy or any modification thereof, and each such meeting shall be open to them. Similar notice shall be given to producers, dehydrators, handlers, and the cooperative bargaining association(s) of each marketing policy report or modification thereof, filed with the Secretary and of the Secretary's action thereon. Copies of all marketing policy reports shall be maintained in the office of the committee, where they shall be made available for examination by any producer, dehydrator, handler, or cooperative bargaining association representative. The committee shall notify handlers, dehydrators, and cooperative bargaining association(s) of the Secretary's action on percentages by registered or certified mail.

§ 989.55 Regulation by the Secretary.

(a) Whenever the Secretary finds from the recommendation and supporting information supplied by the committee, or from other available information, that to designate or modify the percentages for any varietal type of standard raisins acquired by handlers during any crop year which shall be free tonnage and reserve tonnage, respectively, would tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act, he shall designate such percentages and such modifications thereof as are consistent with § 989.54(b). In the event the Secretary subsequently finds from the recommendations and supporting information supplied by the committee, or from any other available information, that modification, suspension, or termination of any such designation will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act, he shall so modify, suspend, or terminate such designation. No such modification shall decrease the free percentage initially designated by the Secretary. The Secretary shall notify the committee promptly of each such percentage fixed.

§ 989.58 [Amended]

19. Revise the first sentence of subparagraph (1) of § 989.58(d) to read:

(d) Inspection and certification. (1) Each handler shall cause an inspection and certification to be made of all natural condition raisins acquired or received by him, except with respect to: (i) An interplant or interhandler transfer of off-grade raisins as described in paragraph (e)(2) of this section, unless such inspection and certification are required by rules and procedures made effective pursuant to this amended subpart; (ii) an inter-plant or inter-handler transfer of free tonnage raisins as described in § 989.59(e); (iii) raisins received from a dehydrator which have been previously inspected pursuant to subparagraph (2) of this paragraph; (iv) any raisins for which minimum grade and condition standards are not then in effect; (v) raisins received from a cooperative bargaining association which have been inspected and are in compliance with requirements established pursuant to subparagraph (3) of this paragraph; and (vi) any raisins, if permitted in accordance with such rules and procedures as the committee may establish with the approval of the Secretary, acquired or received for disposition in eligible nonnormal outlets. * * *

20. Add a new subparagraph, subparagraph (3), to § 989.58(d), reading:

(3) The committee may, in accordance with rules and the procedures established with the approval of the Secretary, authorize handlers to receive or acquire without further inspection and certification, natural condition raisins, standard or off-grade, which have been inspected, certified and held, in compliance with committee requirements, at a receiving station of a cooperative bargaining association.

§ 989.59 [Amended]

21. Revise paragraph (c) of § 989.59 to read:

(c) Publicity and notice. The committee shall give prompt and reasonable notice to producers, dehydrators, handlers, and the cooperative bargaining association(s) of each recommendation submitted by it to the Secretary and of each regulation issued by the Secretary. Notice of such regulation shall be given to all handlers of record by registered or certified mail.

22. In the first sentence of § 989.59(f), delete the words "any raisins acquired by a handler as standard raisins which subsequently fail to meet the applicable grade and condition standards for shipment or final disposition as raisins" and substitute therefor, "other failing raisins" and following the first sentence insert "For the purposes of disposition and reporting, 'other failing raisins' means any raisins received or acquired by a handler either as standard raisins or off-grade raisins, which are processed to a point where they qualify as packed raisins but fail to meet the applicable minimum grade standards for packed raisins."

23. Revise § 989.66 to read:

§ 989.66 Reserve tonnage generally.

(a) The standard raisins acquired by a handler which are designated as reserve tonnage shall be held by him for the account of the committee and subject to the applicable restrictions of this part.

(b) (1) Each handler shall hold in storage all reserve tonnage acquired by him until he has been relieved of such responsibility by the committee, either by delivery to the committee, or otherwise. Such handler shall store such reserve tonnage raisins in natural condition without addition of moisture and in such manner as will maintain the raisins in the same condition as when he acquired them, except for normal and natural deterioration and shrinkage, and except for loss through fire, acts of God or other conditions beyond the handler's control: Provided, That in the case of Layer Muscat raisins, the committee may permit handlers to satisfy the applicable reserve tonnage obligations with residual Muscat raisins obtained by them in layering operations subject to such safeguards as it may prescribe.

(2) Reserve tonnage acquired or held by a handler shall be stored separate and apart from other raisins to such extent and identified in such manner as the committee shall specify in its rules and procedures with the approval of the Secretary.

(3) Each handler may, under the direction and supervision of the committee, substitute for any quantity of reserve tonnage raisins a like quantity of free tonnage raisins of like quality and varietal type and of the same or more recent year's production. Each such handler shall give the committee reasonable advance notice of his intention to substitute, the exact location of the raisins for which substitution is to be made, and arrange with the committee a mutually satisfactory time for the substitution.

(4) The committee may, after giving reasonable notice, require a handler to deliver to it, or to anyone designated by it, at such handler's warehouse or at such other place as the raisins may be stored, part or all of the reserve tonnage raisins held by him. The committee may require that such delivery consist of natural condition raisins, or it may arrange for such delivery to consist of packed raisins.

(c) Each handler shall, at all times, hold in his possession or under his control reserve tonnage referable to his acquisitions of standard raisins, less any quantity of such reserve tonnage released to him by a change of percentages, delivered by him pursuant to instructions of the committee, or sold to him by the committee.

(d) Reserve tonnage raisins delivered by any handler to the committee, or to any person designated by it, whether in the form of natural condition raisins or packed raisins shall meet the applicable minimum grade or grade and condition standards, except for normal and natural deterioration. The committee shall have the authority to require, in its discretion and at its expense, such reinspection and certification of reserve pool tonnage raisins as it may deem necessary.

(e) In the event the committee offers to handlers reserve tonnage raisins for contract packing or for sale in export, as provided in § 989.67, each handler shall be given the opportunity to pack or purchase his share of each offer.

(f) Handlers shall be compensated for receiving, storing, handling and inspection of that tonnage of reserve raisins determined by the final reserve percentage of a crop year and held by them for the account of the committee, in accordance with a schedule of payments established by the committee and approved by the Secretary. A box rental shall be paid by the committee to producers or handlers for boxes used in storing reserve tonnage raisins beyond the crop year of acquisition in accordance with a rental schedule established by the committee and approved by the Secretary. The handler compensation shall be reviewed annually and shall be paid, as to the amount determined to be earned and unpaid, as soon as practicable after the end of the second quarter of the crop year and quarterly thereafter. Any handler may request the committee, by registered or certified mail, at any time after July 15 of a crop year to remove reserve tonnage raisins of the current crop year which remain in his possession. At any time in a crop year, a handler may request removal of reserve tonnage raisins of the prior crop year. In each instance, he may request that the committee provide the necessary containers for any such removal. When so requested as to current crop year raisins, the committee shall make the removal, the availability of containers, storage space and time of request permitting, by September 15 of the subsequent crop year, and as to raisins of the prior crop year, within 30 days, supplying the necessary containers if so requested. If any handler makes such a request, the committee shall immediately give nctice thereof to the Secretary.

(g) The committee shall have the authority, in its discretion, to obtain loans, nonrecourse or otherwise, on any part of the reserve tonnage not subject to release as desirable free tonnage and to pledge or hypothecate the raisins on which such loans are obtained as security therefor: Provided, That in every such case, there shall be included in the loan agreement a provision to the effect that, in case the lender obtains possession or control of such raisins, he will dispose of them in such a manner as will not tend to defeat the objectives of this amended subpart. The net proceeds of any such loan shall be distributed by the committee pursuant to paragraph (h) of this section.

(h) The net proceeds from the disposition of reserve tonnage raisins of any varietal type shall be distributed by the committee to the respective producers, or their successor in interest thereto, on the basis of the volume of their respective contributions to the reserve tonnage of such varietal type. Distribution of the proceeds in connection with the reserve tonnage contributed by a non-profit cooperative marketing association which has authority to market the raisins of its members and to allocate the proceeds therefrom to such members shall be made to such association. Advance or progress payments may be made by the committee, in conformity with the provisions of this paragraph, as sufficient funds become available.

24. Revise § 989.67 to read:

§ 989.67 Disposal of reserve raisins.

(a) The committee shall dispose of all reserve tonnage raisins in such a manner as to achieve, as nearly as may be practicable, complete disposal of such raisins by November 1 of the subsequent crop year. Any reserve tonnage raisins held unsold by the committee on November 1 of the subsequent crop year shall be physically disposed of promptly in any available outlet not competitive with normal market channels for free tonnage raisins or sales of new crop reserve tonnage raisins in export: Provided, That, whenever the Secretary approves of a finding by the committee or finds, on the basis of information otherwise available to him that because of national emergency, crop failure or other major change in economic conditions, retention of reserve tonnage raisins carried over is warranted, the foregoing requirements as to disposal shall not apply and such carried over raisins may be disposed of in any outlet recommended by the committee and approved by the Secretary.

(b) Reserve tonnage raisins shall be disposed of by the committee: (1) By sale to handlers for sale in specified outlets or for resale to exporters for sale in export outlets; (2) by direct sale to any agency of the U.S. Government for noncompetitive use; (3) by direct sale to foreign government agencies or foreign importers in any country not listed pursuant to paragraph (c) of this section or where the procurement of raisins is so regulated as to preclude purchases from domestic handlers; (4) by gift; and (5) by any other means consistent with the provisions of this section, and in outlets noncompetitive with those for free tonnage raisins.

(c) The committee shall sell reserve raisins to handlers for export sale to countries on a list established by the Secretary, on the basis of the recommendation of the committee or from other available information. The recommended list shall be submitted by the committee to the Secretary at the time it submits its recommendation as to volume percentages, and in recommending such list the committee shall give consideration to the pertinent factors enumerated in § 989.54. The list shall not be changed except upon approval by the Secretary of a recommendation by the committee subsequent to its review of such pertinent factors. No country may be removed from the list unless a finding is made by the committee that such removal and subsequent direct sale by the committee shall not lead to disruption of sales of reserve tonnage raisins by handlers in other countries on the list and a further finding that, although handlers have been able to offer reserve tonnage raisins at competitive prices to the country to be removed, there remains an unfulfilled demand in such country which has not been supplied by handlers and which could be supplied by the committee at the same prices by means of direct sale. No country may be added to the list unless a finding is made by the committee that such addition represents a practical means of making sales of reserve raisins to such country.

(d)(1) Reserve tonnage raisins shall be sold to handlers at prices and in a manner intended to maximize producer returns and achieve complete disposition of such raisins by or before November 1 of the subsequent crop year. No offer shall be made until 5 days (exclusive of Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays) have elapsed from the time it files with the Secretary complete information as to varietal type, quantity, and price involved in such offer, and the Secretary may disapprove the offer or any term thereof: Provided, That, at any time prior to the expiration of the 5-day period, the offer may be made to handlers upon the committee receiving from the Secretary notice that he does not disapprove the making of the offer. Subject to the same conditions as are set forth in the preceding sentence with respect to the making of such offer, the committee may withdraw an offer to sell reserve tonnage raisins to handlers or may extend the offer period but not when such extensions would deprive one or more handlers of any opportunity to purchase raisins. If the committee includes in its terms of sale the minimum packer resale prices (effective pursuant to provisions of its export sales agreement with packers) it shall review annually the costs which determine the spread between the committee's sale price of natural condition raisins and the packer's resale price of packed raisins and make such adjustments as it concludes are appropriate.

(2) An offer of reserve tonnage for export may be either an open-as-to-tonnage offer to handlers to purchase at a price and to export reserve tonnage each holds for the account of the committee, consistent with the probable final reserve percentage, or may be an offer of a specific tonnage. If the former, and a handler has insufficient reserve tonnage to meet his needs, the committee may accept arrangements with other handlers to supply reserve tonnage. If the latter, each handler's share of the reserve tonnage offered prior to November 1 of any crop year shall be determined as the same proportion of the quantity offered that the free tonnage raisins acquired by him during the preceding crop year is of the free tonnage raisins acquired by all handlers during the preceding crop year who remain handlers. Subsequent to October 31, each handler's share shall be determined as the same proportion of the quantity offered that the free tonnage raisins acquired by the handler during the then current crop year is of the total free tonnage raisins acquired by all handlers during the then current crop year. With respect to any offer other than the initial offer, each handler's share of the total quantity offered as of that date (the then current offer plus all prior offers of that crop year) shall first be determined by the appropriate formula. His share of the current offer shall then be determined by subtracting from his share of the total quantity offered, the total of his share of prior offers from the beginning of the crop year. If any handler did not acquire raisins during the preceding crop year, the basis for his share of any quantity of reserve tonnage raisins offered prior to November 1 shall be his acquisitions of free tonnage raisins during the then current crop year. The current free tonnage acquisitions of all such new handlers shall, for the purposes of determining the shares of all handlers prior to November 1 be added to the total acquisitions of free tonnage raisins during the preceding crop year of all handlers in business at the time the offer is made.

(3) At any time during a crop year when there is an accumulation of unsold reserve tonnage raisins previously offered by the committee for sale to handlers for resale in export, the committee may make a special offer to sell such unsold tonnage, or any portion thereof, to handlers for such resale. Each handler's share of any such offer shall be determined as the same proportion of the quantity offered that the free tonnage raisins acquired by him during the then current crop year is of the total free tonnage raisins acquired by all handlers during such year. The committee may provide with respect to such a special offer that any reserve tonnage unpurchased at the end of the share reservation period will be reoffered to handlers without regard to shares and that approval for handler's applications for purchase may be made in the same order in which the applications are received by the committee. The committee may allocate and deliver to any handler, holding insufficient special offer tonnage, sufficient such tonnage to fulfill his purchase in such a special offer and his purchase in any reoffer. The cost of transporting any such reserve tonnage raisins from one handler to another shall be paid by the committee from reserve pool funds.

(4) Whenever essentially all of the reserve tonnage raisins have been offered and any unpurchased or unoffered tonnage is offered to handlers, approval of applications may be made in the same order in which the applications are filed with the committee.

(5) Whenever a handler's share or allocation pursuant to this subparagraph is less than or exceeds his holdings of reserve tonnage by a minor quantity, the committee may adjust the handler's share or allocation so as to avoid the cost of the physical transfer. The maximum quantity by which a handler's share or allocation may be so allocated shall be prescribed in rules and procedures which the committee shall establish with the approval of the Secretary.

(e) The committee may sell reserve tonnage raisins as provided in paragraph (b)(3) of this section only when such country is not included in the list of specified countries established pursuant to paragraph (c) of this section and may sell reserve tonnage raisins to foreign government agencies of foreign importers in any country removed from such list. No agreement to sell reserve tonnage raisins shall be entered into by the committee until 5 days (exclusive of Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays) have elapsed from the time it files with the Secretary complete information as to varietal type, quantity, price, and foreign country involved in any such proposed sale, and the Secretary may disapprove such sale or any term thereof: Provided, That, at any time prior to the expiration of the 5-day period, the sale may be made upon the committee receiving from the Secretary notice that he does not disapprove the making of the sale.

(f) Whenever the committee determines, prior to the beginning of a crop year, that the orderly disposition of reserve tonnage of that crop year would be promoted by the committee replacing any portion of or all handler export shipments of free tonnage raisins, to other than free tonnage outlets, made prior to the committee's first offer to sell reserve tonnage, but after September 1 it may do so and may specify such requirements and conditions as are necessary to carry out the replacement consistent with the objectives of this amended subpart. The committee may establish a price for such replacement tonnage which is higher, the same as, or lower than that for reserve tonnage in the first offer of the crop year and shall announce such replacement tonnage price prior to or at the beginning of the crop year. Any such replacement offer by the committee shall be governed by those provisions of paragraph (d)(1) of this section which prescribe prior action by the Secretary on committee offers to sell tonnage to handlers.

(g) The committee may refuse to sell reserve tonnage raisins for export: (1) To any handler who is in default on any previous purchase of reserve tonnage raisins from the committee; (2) to any handler currently not in compliance with the provisions of a sales agreement covering reserve tonnage raisins, executed by such handler with the committee; or (3) to any handler who signifies an intention to sell reserve tonnage to or through any person who has previously failed to complete a sale of reserve tonnage raisins to a foreign buyer and such raisins remain to be exported and remain unsold to any foreign buyer in an eligible export market.

(h) Each packer's share of an offer of reserve tonnage raisins for contract packing shall be determined as the same proportion that the reserve tonnage raisins acquired by him is of the reserve tonnage raisins acquired by all packers. In the event that any packer fails to contract for packing any or all of his share of any offer, the remaining portion thereof shall be reoffered by the committee to all packers who contracted for packing all of their respective shares, in proportion to their respective acquisitions: Provided, That, if such amount which packers fail to contract for packing does not exceed 350 tons, or if it is necessary to deviate from the foregoing in order to meet terms and conditions of shipment, the committee may, in its discretion, allocate such reserve tonnage raisins among packers as it deems appropriate, but the shares of packers in subsequent offers of reoffers shall be adjusted accordingly.

(i) In the event the committee determines that the applicable procedures as specified in paragraphs (d) and (h) of this section will not provide an allocation for handlers which is suitable for a particular situation, the committee, with the approval of the Secretary, may establish such modifications of procedures, consistent with § 989.66(e), as will facilitate the disposition of reserve tonnage through handlers.

(j) The committee shall not sell reserve tonnage of any varietal type to handlers to provide them with raisins to sell as free tonnage unless it finds, and the Secretary approves, that because of national emergency, crop failure, major change of economic conditions or an inadequate carryover for September shipment the free tonnage outlets cannot be reasonably well supplied by the tonnage released to the industry as a whole by the final free percentage for that varietal type. Any quantities made available for such sale to handlers shall be offered to them in the same manner as in (d)(1) of this section, with shares determined pursuant to paragraph (h) of this section. However, such raisins shall not be sold at a price below that which the committee concludes reflects the average price received by producers for free tonnage of the same varietal type purchased by handlers during the current crop year up to the time of any offer for sale of reserve tonnage by the committee, to which shall be added the costs incurred by the committee on account of the receiving, inspecting, storing, insuring, and holding of said raisins: Provided, That, where the outlook for the next crop year or other factors have caused a downward trend in the prices received by producers for free tonnage packed raisins, reserve tonnage may be sold to handlers at the currently prevailing or the approximate computed field price for free tonnage raisins, as determined by the committee.

25. Delete § 989.68.

§ 989.69 [Amended]

26. Revise the first sentence of § 989.69 by deleting the words "and surplus".

27. Revise § 989.71 to read:

§ 989.71 Disposition of unsold reserve tonnage in above parity situations.

In the event that the Secretary should find, during a crop year when reserve tonnage percentages have been designated and are in effect pursuant to this part, that the estimated season average price for raisins for that crop year will be in excess of the price level contemplated by the provisions of section 2(1) of the act, he shall issue an order providing for the orderly disposition of the unsold reserve tonnage then on hand, in such outlets, at such time, and in accordance with such terms and conditions, as he may determine to be appropriate in the circumstances. In determining the liquidation procedures and terms, the Secretary shall give consideration to the data and recommendations, if any, which may be submitted by the committee.

28. Revise paragraph (b) of § 989.73 to read:

* * * * *

(b) Acquisition reports. Each handler shall submit to the committee in accordance with such rules and procedures as are prescribed by the committee, with the approval of the Secretary, certified reports, for such periods as the committee may require, with respect to his acquisitions of each varietal type of raisins during the particular period covered by such report, which report shall include, but not be limited to: (1) The total quantity of standard raisins acquired; (2) the quantity of reserve tonnage referable to his acquisitions of standard raisins; (3) the locations of such reserve tonnages; (4) the total quantity of off-grade raisins acquired pursuant to § 989.58(e)(1)(i); and (5) cumulative totals of such acquisitions from the beginning of the then current crop year to and including the end of the period for which the report is made. Upon written application made to the committee, a handler may be relieved of submitting such reports after completing his packing operations for the season. Upon request of the committee, each handler shall furnish to the committee, in such manner and at such times as it may require, the name and address of each person from whom he acquired raisins and the quantity of each varietal type of raisins acquired from each such person.

§ 989.79 [Amended]

29. In the penultimate sentence of § 989.79 delete the words "or surplus".

30. Revise paragraphs (a) and (b) of § 989.80 to read:

§ 989.80 Assessments.

(a) Each handler shall, with respect to free tonnage acquired by him, and any reserve tonnage released or sold to him for use in free tonnage outlets, pay to the committee, upon demand, his pro rata share of the expenses (exclusive of expenses for receiving, handling, holding, or disposing of reserve pool tonnage) which the Secretary finds will be incurred, as aforesaid, by the committee during each crop year. Such handler's pro rata share of such expenses shall be equal to the ratio between the total free tonnage acquired by such handler plus any reserve tonnage released or sold to him for use as free tonnage, during the applicable crop year and the total free tonnage acquired by all handlers plus all reserve tonnage released or sold to all handlers for use as free tonnage, during the same crop year: Provided, That (1) In computing the total free tonnage acquired by a particular handler, there shall be excluded all standard raisins (recovered by the reconditioning of off-grade raisins) acquired by the handler and which comprise the assessable portion of another handler pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section, and (2) the computation of the total free tonnage acquired by all handlers shall not be similarly reduced.

(b) Each handler who reconditions off-grade raisins but does not acquire the standard raisins recovered therefrom shall, with respect to his assessable portion of all such standard raisins, pay to the committee, upon demand, his pro rata share of the expenses which the Secretary finds will be incurred by the committee each crop year. Such handler's pro rata share of such expenses shall be equal to the ratio between the handler's assessable portion (which shall be a quantity equal to the free tonnage portions of such handler's standard raisins which are acquired by some other handler or handlers) during the applicable crop year and the total free tonnage acquired by all handlers, plus all reserve tonnage released or sold to all handlers for use as free tonnage, during the same crop year.

* * * * *

31. Revise § 989.82 to read:

§ 989.82 Expenses of reserve raisin operations.

The committee is authorized to incur such expenses as are reasonable and are necessary in discharging its obligations, pursuant to this part, with respect to the receiving, handling, holding, or disposing of any quantity of reserve pool raisins held for the account of the committee. The committee is authorized to pay any taxes assessed against raisins held by or for the account of the committee on the first Monday in March, in the reserve pool established pursuant to this subpart: Provided, That any equity holder may pay his own taxes upon giving notice to the committee on or before May 1 of each year of his intention to do so. All pool expenses shall be deducted from the proceeds obtained by the committee from the sale or other disposal of such reserve raisins held for the account of the committee.

32. Revise § 989.84 to read:

§ 989.84 Disposition limitation.

No handler shall dispose of free or reserve tonnage raisins, off-grade raisins, or other failing raisins (as defined in § 989.59(f)), except in accordance with the provisions of this subpart or pursuant to regulations issued by the committee.

§ 989.96 [Amended]

33. Revise § 989.96 by (1) deleting the words in (b) "Three members", in (c) "Five members", in (d) "Three members", in (e) "Three members", in (f) "Three members", in (g) "Effective May 1, 1961, three members", and in each instance inserting in lieu of the deletions: "One member"; and (2) adding at the end a new paragraph (h) as follows:

(h) The remaining members shall be allocated to the districts so as to achieve, as nearly as practicable, representation by each member of one-thirty-fifth of the total raisin production or total number of producers or such other fraction as may result from changes pursuant to § 989.26b.

Notice of Extension of Time for Filing Written Exceptions To Recommended Decision on Proposed Amendment of Marketing Agreement, as Amended, and Order, as Amended

Pursuant to the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (secs. 1-19, 48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U.S.C. 601-674), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), notice is hereby given that the time fixed in the recommended decision dated July 14, 1967 (32 F.R. 10579), with respect to proposed amendment of the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 993, as amended (7 CFR Part 993), regulating the handling of dried prunes produced in California, for filing written exceptions to such decision is hereby extended to and including November 1, 1967. MILK IN WICHITA, KANS., MARKETING AREA

Notice of Recommended Decision and Opportunity To File Written Exceptions on Proposed Amendments to Tentative Marketing Agreement and to Order

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), notice is hereby given of the filing with the Hearing Clerk of this recommended decision with respect to proposed amendments to the tentative marketing agreement and order regulating the handling of milk in the Wichita, Kans., marketing area. Interested parties may file written exceptions to this decision with the Hearing Clerk, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250, by the fifth day after publication of this decision in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The exceptions should be filed in quadruplicate. All written submissions made pursuant to this notice will be made available for public inspection at the office of the Hearing Clerk during regular business hours (7 CFR 1.27(b)).

Preliminary statement. The hearing on the record of which the proposed amendments, as hereinafter set forth, to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order as amended, were formulated, was conducted at Wichita, Kansas, on June 15, 1967, pursuant to notice thereof which was issued June 5, 1967 (32 F.R. 8247).

The material issue on the record of the hearing relates to revision of the Class I price supply-demand adjustment.

Findings and conclusions. The following findings and conclusions on the material issue are based on evidence presented at the hearing and the record thereof:

Revision of the supply-demand adjustment. The supply-demand adjustment to the Class I price of the Wichita order should be revised.

The supply-demand adjustment should continue to be based on changes in the quantity of producer milk received by handlers regulated under the order and the quantity of such milk assigned to Class I use. The current supply-demand ratio should reflect the relationship of producer milk to producer milk in Class I for the 12-month period ending with the second month preceding the pricing month, adjusted for trend by the same relationship in the fourth preceding month. A standard annual utilization percentage ranging from 133 to 137 in which no adjustment would apply to the Class I price should replace the present varying monthly standard percentages, the midpoints of which average 135.6 percent annually. The Class I price would be increased by one cent for each percentage point less than 133 and would be decreased by the same rate for each percentage point the current supply-demand ratio is more than 137.

The two cooperative associations representing most of the producers in the area proposed elimination of the adjustor, or in the alternative, that a 12-month mover be used to replace the present seasonally varied 2-month movers and that gross Class I sales replace the present producer milk in Class I as a measure of demand. Standard utilization percentages of 125 to 135 were proposed to replace seasonally varied ratios ranging from 116–126 as the lowest to 145–155 as the highest for any 2-month period of the year.

The Wichita order was amended September 1, 1966. At that time the Southwest Kansas order was consolidated with the Wichita order and the marketing areas were combined with the addition of some previously unregulated territory in Kansas. Also, the present supply-demand adjustment was established, based on the relationship of producer milk to producer milk used in Class I under the two separate orders using the supplies and sales that prevailed in 1964 and 1965.

The present supply-demand adjustment adjusts the Class I price each month according to the relationship of producer receipts to producer receipts used in Class I for the second and third months preceding the pricing month. This "current utilization percentage" is then compared with a "standard utilization percentage" for the pricing month. Any amount by which the current utilization percentage is greater than the maximum standard utilization percentage decreases the Class I price. Conversely, any amount by which the current utilization percentage is less than the minimum standard utilization percentage increases the Class I price. The rate of adjustment is based upon the extent to which deviation percentages of the most recent 2-month period were also present in the two such periods immediately preceding. For deviation in the current period, the rate of adjustment is one-half cent per point; one-half cent per point is added for each of the preceding two periods in which a deviation of like nature and extent had occurred.

This supply-demand adjustment that became effective September 1, 1966, reflected a relatively stable marketing situation during the 2 years prior to the merger of the orders. The present adjustor gives a relatively fast response in changing the Class I price to reflect significant changes in the supply-sales balance. It has provided a reasonable measure of the supplies necessary to provide an adequate supply and reserve for the fluid milk needs of the Wichita market. Use of the longer term 12-month mover will delay the effect of changes in the supply-demand balance on the Class I price.

One of the cooperative associations in the Wichita market, the Southwest Milk Producers Association, in addition to supplying producer milk to the Wichita market and the nearby Neosho Valley market, exports about 22 percent of its total member milk in bulk for fluid use to outlets located to the south and west of Wichita. These outside accounts have in recent years approximated about 22 percent of the association's total member milk.

Recently, one of these outlets closed its bottling operation to which the association had marketed milk as producer milk under the Rio Grande Valley order for the past 3 years. The volume of milk delivered to this plant and pooled under the Rio Grande Valley order averaged 1.6 million pounds per month during a 24-month period. Beginning in May 1967 the milk used to supply this outlet is currently pooled under the Wichita order, where it is used in manufactured milk products.

Because the present Wichita order Class I price supply-demand adjustor is relatively quick acting, this additional quantity in Class II use has resulted in a rapid reduction from month-to-month in the local supply-demand adjustment. The adjustment for supply versus demand has declined from plus four cents in March 1967 to zero in April, minus 1 cent in May, minus 8 cents in June to an indicated minus 15 cents in July 1967. (The July adjustment was suspended pending action on the record of this hearing.)

This situation is a reflection of the cooperative's loss of Class I sales. Although this loss of Class I sales represents a situation which should be reflected in lower Class I prices if no substitute outlets are acquired, it is doubtful if the rapid price adjustment now provided is desirable or necessary.

Proponent cooperatives proposed that gross Class I utilization be used as a measure of demand. Gross Class I utilization would include producer milk in Class I (excluding interhandler transfers), other source milk and overage in Class I, plus Class I milk disposed of in the marketing area by nonpool plants (excluding producer-handlers). They maintained that a monthly average of 15,000 pounds of other order milk allocated to Class I uses in the market and 1.6 to 2.2 million pounds of milk sales monthly on routes in the area from plants of handlers regulated by other orders has displaced producer milk from such uses and should be reflected in the supply-demand utilization ratio.

The supply-demand adjustments should be based on the amount of producer milk in Class I instead of on the proposed gross Class I utilization of handlers, including marketing area Class I sales of handlers regulated by other orders. The gross utilization proposed reflects the quantities of both producer milk and other source milk in Class I disposition. The other order milk disposition in this area is a measure of demand for the milk supply in the other order market. Inclusion of such sales of other order milk in the Wichita supply-demand adjustment would not be a measure of demand for producer milk in this market. The measure of demand should be limited to producer milk allocated to Class I under this order. The adjustor will then use as the supply factor only producer milk which is affected by any price adjustment computed, and the Class I sales assigned to such receipts. Since the price of producer milk is what is affected by the adjustor, it is logical that the amount of producer milk paid for as Class I be the demand factor under the order. The use of this factor will avoid need for adjustment to avoid duplication through classification of packaged milk inventories in Class I.

There is little difference between gross Class I sales of Wichita pool handlers and the producer milk classified as Class I under the order. The producer proposal, however, would have included in the demand side of the adjustor route sales of other order plants in the Wichita marketing area without any receipts of such plants. The difference between the demand factor proposed and the utilization of producer milk in Class I is fairly substantial, over 5 percent. In evident recognition of this proposed change in the demand factor, proponents had proposed that the supply-sales ratio to be used as a norm be reduced. The midpoints of the present seasonally varied 2-month norms average 135 percent on an annual basis. The midpoint of the standard utilization ratio proposed was 130 percent.

Since the demand factor will continue to be the producer milk classified as Class I, the normal supply to sales ratio should continue to be 135 percent. The range within which no adjustment occurs should, however, be less than the 10 percentage points provided for the present seasonally varied 2-month norms. This range is designed to prevent price movements from random variations in the supply-sales relationship during short periods of time. The use of 12-month relationships dampens the influence of such random variations and thus makes unnecessary substantial range of no adjustment. Under the 12-month proposal herein provided a total of four points of no adjustment should suffice. It is provided, therefore, that when the current supply-demand ratio is less than 133 the price should be increased and that when it exceeds 137 it should be decreased.

Proponents proposed that the actual 12-month relationship ending with the second month preceding the pricing month be adjusted by adding any amount by which the ratio had increased over the ratio computed 2 months earlier or by subtracting any amount by which it was less than the same earlier ratio. A current utilization ratio so adjusted gives added weight to changes that have occurred recently within the 12-month experience. This adjustment for current trends may prevent the 12-month mover from providing adjustments inappropriate for current conditions, and should be adopted.

The rate of adjustments per percentage point of deviation outside these maximum and minimum percentages should be 1 cent as proposed by producers. The present maximum rate is 1.5 cents for each percentage point deviation beyond the maximums and minimums in three successive 2-month periods. In view of the changes in the range of maximum and minimum percentages, 1 cent corresponds fairly closely to the rate which presently varies by whether the deviation has occurred for one, two or three successive 2-month periods.

The annual ratio of producer receipts to producer milk assigned to Class I was 133.41 percent in 1965 and 129.30 percent in 1966. The 12-month ratio of producer receipts to producer milk used in Class I, adjusted for trend as proposed, averaged 131.84 for the 24-month period (applicable to the pricing months of June 1965 through May 1967) ranging from 128.55 for December 1966 to 137.84 for August 1965.

The adjustor provided herein would have increased the Class I price in the 24-month period beginning in June 1965 by an average of less than 2 cents per month. Had the receipts now in the Wichita pool which were formerly sold to an out-of-State account been pooled since July 1964 without increase in sales, the adjustor would have reduced the price an average of 2.7 cents per month. Based upon producer receipts and Class I utilization in May and June (official notice is hereby taken of data released by the Market Administrator for such months) the adjustor proposed herein would have reduced the August price by 2 cents as compared with the 13 cents reduction provided by the present adjustor. If the milk supplies recently added to the pool continue to be pooled without a corresponding increase in sales, the price will gradually be reduced further. While in time reductions could approximate those of the present adjustor, the timing and extent of such adjustments are much more predictable so that the cooperative and its member producers can make plans based upon more precise knowledge of future adjustments.

It is appropriate that the Class I price of the local market be adjusted to reflect these supplies of producer milk for Class I uses now being attached to the local pool. However, the precipitate effect of reduction in the Class I price as a result of these additional supplies should be minimized to avoid undue disorder and uneconomic shifts in producer deliveries. A gradual reflection in the Class I price of recent changes in marketing practices will assist in maintaining a market for producer milk in this market and provide opportunity for adjustment in supplies and sales to reestablish a balance in production for local and out-of-State sales. The proposed supply-demand adjustor which provides for a gradual long-term effect on the Class I price is appropriate for the retention of orderly marketing conditions in this market.

Rulings on proposed findings and conclusions. Briefs and proposed findings and conclusions were filed on behalf of certain interested parties. These briefs, proposed findings and conclusions and the evidence in the record were considered in making the findings and conclusions set forth above. To the extent that the suggested findings and conclusions filed by interested parties are inconsistent with the findings and conclusions set forth herein, the request to make such findings or reach such conclusions are denied for the reasons previously stated in this decision.

General findings. The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order and of the previously issued amendments thereto; and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) The tentative marketing agreement and the order, as hereby proposed to be amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the Act;

(b) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the Act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the proposed marketing agreement and the order, as hereby proposed to be amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(c) The tentative marketing agreement and the order, as hereby proposed to be amended, will regulate the handling of milk in the same manner as, and will be applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in, a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Recommended marketing agreement and order amending the order. The following order amending the order as amended regulating the handling of milk in the Wichita, Kans., marketing area is recommended as the detailed and appropriate means by which the foregoing conclusions may be carried out. The recommended marketing agreement is not included in this decision because the regulatory provisions thereof would be the same as those contained in the order, as hereby proposed to be amended:

Section 1073.51(a) is revised to read as follows:

§ 1073.51 Class prices.

* * * * *

(a) Class I milk. The price for Class I milk at plants located in Zone 1 shall be the basic formula price for the preceding month plus $1.60, plus 20 cents through April 1968, subject to a supply-demand adjustment computed pursuant to subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph. Such price shall not be less than the Class I price established for the same month pursuant to Part 1064 (Greater Kansas City) of this chapter, nor more than the Greater Kansas City Class I price plus 60 cents:

(1) For each month calculate a utilization ratio as follows:

(i) Calculate a utilization ratio for the 12-month period ending with the second preceding month by dividing the total receipts of producer milk in such period by the total volume of producer milk in Class I milk in such period and multiply by 100;

(ii) Add or subtract, respectively, any amount by which the percentage computed pursuant to subdivision (i) of this subparagraph is greater or less than the comparable utilization ratio calculated for the 12-month period ending with the fourth preceding month; and

(iii) The result rounded to the nearest percent shall be known as the utilization ratio.

(2) For each percentage by which the utilization ratio calculated for the month pursuant to subparagraph (1) of this paragraph exceeds 137, subtract 1 cent from the Class I price, and for each percentage by which it is less than 133, add 1 cent to the Class I price.

[9 CFR Part 328]

OLEOMARGARINE OR MARGARINE

Definition and Standard of Identity

Notice is hereby given, in accordance with the administrative procedure provisions in 5 U.S.C. 553, that pursuant to the authority conferred by the Meat Inspection Act, as amended (21 U.S.C. 71-91) and paragraphs 306 (b) and (c) of the Tariff Act of 1930, as amended (19 U.S.C. 1306 (b) and (c)), it is proposed to amend as follows, § 328.1 of the Meat Inspection Regulations (9 CFR 328.1) relating to the definition and standard of identity for oleomargarine or margarine, issued under said Acts, in order to provide further assurance that meat food products will not be sold in interstate or foreign commerce under false or deceptive names.

1. In subparagraph (2) of § 328.1(a), subdivision (v) would be redesignated as (viii), and the following sentences would be substituted for the introductory text of the subparagraph:

(2) One of the articles (or combinations) named under subdivision (i), (ii), (iii), (iv), (v), (vi), or (vii) of this subparagraph is intimately mixed with the fat ingredient or ingredients. The ingredients named under subdivisions (i), (ii), (iii), (iv), and (v) of this subparagraph are pasteurized and then subjected to the action of harmless bacterial starters. The term "milk" as used in this subparagraph means cow's milk.

2. Section 328.1(a)(3) would be further amended by adding thereto new subdivisions (v), (vi), and (vii), reading, respectively, as follows:

(v) Any combination of two or more of the articles (or combinations) named under subdivisions (i), (ii), (iii) and (iv) of this subparagraph.

(vi) In case only of the fat ingredient named under subparagraph (1)(ii) of this paragraph, any combination of finely ground soybeans and water, in which the weight of the finely ground soybeans is not less than 10 percent of the weight of the water. The finely ground soybeans are subjected to a heat treatment before or after mixing with the water. The soybeans may or may not be dehulled.

(vii) Water in lieu of any of the articles (or combinations) designated in subdivision (i), (ii), (iii), (iv), (v), or (vi) of this subparagraph.

3. Section 328.1(a)(3) would be revised by changing subdivision (iv) to read:

(iv) Any safe and suitable artificial flavoring substance that imparts to the food a flavor in semblance of butter. Such artificial flavoring substances are deemed to be safe for use in oleomargarine or margarine which contains any fat ingredient named under subparagraph (1)(i) of this paragraph if they have been approved for such use by the Administrator, and they are deemed to be safe for use in other oleomargarine or margarine if they are used in conformity with regulations established pursuant to section 409 of the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act or their use is otherwise lawful under that Act.

4. Section 328.1(a)(3) would be further amended by adding two new subdivisions (xi) and (xii) to read as follows:

(xi) Potassium sorbate, in an amount not to exceed 0.1 percent by weight of the finished oleomargarine or margarine.

(xii) Calcium disodium EDTA (calcium disodium ethylenediaminetetraacetate) in an amount not to exceed 75 parts per million by weight of the finished oleomargarine or margarine.

5. In § 328.1, paragraph (b) would be revised, and new paragraph (c) would be added, to read, respectively, as follows:

(b) The name of the food for which a definition and standard of identity is prescribed by this section is "oleomargarine" or "margarine." The presence of optional ingredients, provided for in paragraph (a) of this section, in the finished product shall be declared as follows:

(1) Fat ingredients shall be declared first in the ingredient statement by the name of the specific fat or oil or stearin used. Where combinations of fat ingredients are used, the names shall be arranged in order of decreasing predominance. If any fat ingredient is hydrogenated, the ingredient statement shall include the word "Hydrogenated" or "hardened" at such place or places in the list of fats as to indicate which fats are hydrogenated: For example, "corn oil, hardened soybean oil."

(2) Immediately following the listing of fat ingredients, other optional ingredients used shall be named in the order of decreasing predominance.

(i) The optional ingredients butter, salt, water, cream, milk, skim milk, nonfat dry milk and water, ground soybeans and water, lecithin, mono- or diglycerides, and sodium sulfo-acetate derivatives of mono- or diglycerides shall each be declared by those terms.

(ii) Artificial colors shall be declared by the statement "Artificially colored" or "Artificial coloring added" or "With added artificial coloring."

(iii) Artificial flavors shall be declared by the statement "Artificially flavored" or "Artificial flavoring added" or "With added artificial flavoring."

(iv) Oleomargarine or margarine that contains the optional ingredients citric acid, isopropyl citrate, stearyl citrate, or calcium disodium EDTA shall be labeled by the statement "_____ added as a preservative" or "_____ added to protect flavor." Oleomargarine or margarine that contains the optional ingredient sodium benzoate or benzoic acid shall be labeled by the statement "_____ added as a preservative" or "_____ as a preservative" or "With added _____ as a preservative." Oleomargarine or margarine that contains the optional ingredient potassium sorbate shall be labeled by the statement "_____ added as a preservative" or "_____ added to retard mold growth." The blank in each of the statements in this subdivision is filled in with the common name of the preservative ingredient used.

(v) Vitamin A shall be declared by the statement "Vitamin A added" or "With added vitamin A." Vitamin D shall be declared by the statement "Vitamin D added" or "With added vitamin D."

(vi) Where two or more optional ingredients named in paragraph (a)(3) of this section are used, the words "Added" or "With Added" need appear only once, either at the beginning or end of the list of such ingredients declared.

(3) Wherever the name "oleomargarine" or "margarine" appears on the label so conspicuously as to be easily seen under customary conditions of purchase, the words and statements prescribed in this section, showing the ingredients used, shall immediately and conspicuously precede or follow, or in part precede and in part follow, such name, without intervening written, printed, or other graphic matter.

(c) Colored oleomargarine or colored margarine which is packed for retail sale and contains any ingredient named under paragraph (a)(1)(i) of this section must also comply with the requirements of § 317.8(c)(53) of this chapter.

Statement of consideration. For over a year the margarine industry has operated under two different standards of identity for commodities designated as "oleomargarine" or "margarine," one standard for products containing animal fat issued under the Meat Inspection Act, the other standard issued under the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act for products subject to that Act. This proposal would eliminate such differences to the extent possible. Primarily, the differences involve the manner of identification of fats and oils on the label; and permission for the use of combinations of water or water and finely ground soybeans, the use of all safe and suitable artificial flavoring substances which impart to margarine a flavor in semblance of butter, and the use of potassium sorbate or calcium disodium EDTA (calcium disodium ethylenediaminetetraacetate).

Butterlike flavoring substances have been permitted by the Food and Drug Administration in the standard for oleomargarine and margarine issued under the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act (21 CFR Part 45) since 1941. Many consumers prefer this butterlike flavor that is imparted to fried foods. The use of water alone in lieu of other water solutions or suspensions would not significantly change the moisture or nutritional content of the product. It has been demonstrated that in high temperature frying such product does not scorch, or discolor and is free of off-flavors. The definition and standard for oleomargarine or margarine under the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act has provided for the use of these ingredients since April 6, 1966.

To assist the consumer in making a knowledgeable selection, the identification of the specific fat or oil used should be declared in the ingredient statement. There are ethnic and dietary reasons for requiring that the species of animal fat used be specifically identified. This would make labeling of noncolored oleomargarine or margarine as fully informative with respect to such ingredients as is now required by the regulation in 9 CFR 317.8(c)(53) for colored margarine under the Meat Inspection Act and for all oleomargarine or margarine under the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act. The other changes are proposed to conform the wording of the standard under the Meat Inspection Act to the standard under the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act.

Historically, the two standards have been kept quite similar, so that a manufacturer of a margarine containing animal fats and vegetable oils could comply with both standards at once. The proposed amendments would further coordinate the two standards for the purposes of alleviating confusion in the oleomargarine industry and enabling the processors to provide consumers with more versatile and more informatively labeled products.

Any person who wishes to submit written data, views or arguments concerning the proposed amendments may do so by filing them in duplicate with the Hearing Clerk, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250, within 60 days after the publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER. All written submissions made pursuant to this notice will be made available for public inspection at the Office of the Hearing Clerk during regular business hours (7 CFR 1.27(b)).

FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

[12 CFR Part 220]

[Reg. T]

CREDIT BY BROKERS, DEALERS, AND MEMBERS OF NATIONAL SECURITIES EXCHANGES

Financing Transactions in a Specialist's Account

The Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System is considering amending § 220.4(g) to permit more than one creditor to join in financing transactions in a specialist's account when an appropriate committee of an Exchange designated as requiring reports under that section determines that emergency market conditions warrant such action.

As amended, § 220.4(g) would read as follows (the proposed change consisting of the addition of the last two sentences):

§ 220.4 Special accounts.

* * * * *

(g) Specialist's account. In a special account designated as a specialist's account, a creditor may effect and finance, for any member of a national securities exchange who is registered and acts as a specialist in securities on the exchange, such member's transactions in a specialist in such securities, or effect and finance, for any joint adventure in which the creditor participates, any transactions in any securities of an issue with respect to which all participants, or all participants other than the creditor, are registered and act on a national securities exchange as specialists. Such specialist's account shall be subject to the same conditions to which it would be subject if it were a general account except that if the specialist's exchange, in addition to the other requirements applicable to specialists, is designated by the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System as requiring reports suitable for supplying current information regarding specialists' use of credit pursuant to this paragraph, the requirements of § 220.6(b) regarding joint adventures shall not apply to such account and the maximum loan value of a registered security in such account shall be determined by the creditor in good faith. If an appropriate committee of such designated exchange determines that emergency market conditions warrant such action, it may authorize additional creditors to join in financing transactions in a specialist's account for as long as such conditions continue, but not for more than 2 weeks unless such committee determines that such conditions continue to exist. Such account shall not be used in connection with any distribution in which the specialist or any creditor financing transactions in the account participates.

* * * * *

On some occasions, public interest in a particular registered stock has been aroused to such an extent, with resulting large price fluctuations and volume of orders, that the stock exchange specialist assigned to the stock has not had sufficient resources to make the large purchases or sales that were necessary if he was to fulfill his duty to maintain a "fair and orderly market" in the stock; and apparently no single creditor has been willing to undertake the risk involved in financing such large operations by the specialist.

Accordingly, the Board proposes to amend § 220.4(g) of Regulation T, the section providing for "specialist's accounts", to permit more than one creditor to join in financing transactions in such an account when an appropriate committee of the Exchange determines that emergency market conditions warrant such action. The final sentence of the amendment is designed to make explicit in this connection the principle that the section does not create an exception to any applicable rule or regulation other than those sections of Regulation T which are specifically mentioned.

This notice is published pursuant to section 553(b) of Title 5, United States Code, and section 1(b) of the Rules of Procedure of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System (12 CFR 262.1(b)).

To aid in the consideration of this matter by the Board, interested persons are invited to submit relevant data, views, or arguments. Any such material should be submited in writing to the Secretary, Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, Washington, D.C. 20551, to be received not later than August 21, 1967.

Dated at Washington, D.C., the 25th day of July, 1967.

By order of the Board of Governors.

Secretary.

National Bureau of Standards

NBS RADIO STATIONS

Notice of Standard Frequency and Time Broadcasts

In accordance with the National Bureau of Standards policy of giving monthly notices regarding changes of phases in seconds pulses, notice is hereby given that there will be an adjustment in the phase of seconds pulses emitted from radio station WWVB, Fort Collins, Colo. On September 1, 1967, the clock at the station will be retarded by 300 ms at 0000 hours, UT, as announced by the Bureau International de l'Heure (BIH) for the stepped atomic time (SAT) system. The successive time pulses emitted from station WWVB are one second apart. The carrier frequency is 60 kHz and is broadcast without offset.

Notice is also hereby given that there will be no adjustment in the phases of time signals emitted from radio stations WWV, Fort Collins, Colo., and WWVH, Maui, Hawaii, on September 1, 1967. During 1967, the pulses will occur at intervals which are longer than one second by 300 parts in 10^{10}, due to the offset to be maintained in carrier frequencies, as coordinated by the BIH.

Phase adjustments, when made, insure that the emitted pulses from all stations will remain within about 100 ms of the UT2 scale. They are made necessary because of changes in the speed of rotation of the earth with which the UT2 scale is associated. Daily UT2 information is obtained from weekly forecasts of extrapolated UT2 clock readings provided by the U.S. Naval Observatory in accordance with the close cooperation maintained between the two agencies.

Director.

The provisional construction permit would authorize Georgia Tech to receive at The University of Akron's campus at Akron, Ohio, transport to and possess and store on the campus in Atlanta, Ga., but not to assemble, components and fuel of the Model AGN-201, Serial No. 104, nuclear reactor presently located on The University of Akron's campus at Akron, Ohio, for later use as a nuclear reactor facility.

Within 15 days from the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER, the applicant may file a request for a hearing, and any person whose interest may be affected by the issuance of this provisional construction permit may file a petition for leave to intervene. Requests for a hearing and petitions to intervene shall be filed in accordance with the provisions of the Commission's "Rules of Practice", 10 CFR Part 2. If a request for a hearing or a petition for leave to intervene is filed within the time prescribed in this notice, a notice of hearing or an appropriate order will be issued.

For further details with respect to this proposed license, see (1) the applications from Georgia Tech dated January 18 and 26, 1967, and June 14, 1967, and supplement dated June 28, 1967, and (2) a related Safety Evaluation prepared by the Division of Reactor Licensing, which are available for public inspection in the Commission's Public Document Room, 1717 H Street NW., Washington, D.C. [Independent Ocean Freight Forwarder License No. 990]

CIRCLE FORWARDERS, INC.

Order To Show Cause

On July 10, 1967, the Insurance Company of North America notified the Commission that the surety bond filed pursuant to Section 44(c), Shipping Act, 1916 (46 U.S.C. 841(b)) by Circle Forwarders, Inc., 4461 West Jefferson, Detroit, Mich. 48209, would be canceled effective August 10, 1967.

Section 44(c) of the Shipping Act, 1916 (46 U.S.C. 841(b)) and Section 510.5(f) of General Order 4 (46 C.F.R.) provide that no license shall remain in force unless such forwarder shall have furnished a bond.

Section 44(d) of the Shipping Act, 1916 (46 U.S.C. 841(b)) provides that licenses may, after notice and hearing, be suspended or revoked for willful failure to comply with any provision of the Act, or with any lawful rule of the Commission promulgated thereunder.

Now, therefore, by virtue of authority vested in me by the Federal Maritime Commission, as set forth in Manual of Orders, Commission Order 201.1 (revised), Section 6.03.

It is ordered, That Circle Forwarders, Inc. on or before August 3, 1967, either (1) submit a valid bond effective on or before August 10, 1967, or (2) show cause in writing or request a hearing to be held at 10 a.m. on August 7, 1967, in Room 505, Federal Maritime Commission, 1321 H Street NW., Washington, D.C. 20573, to show cause why its license should not be suspended or revoked pursuant to Section 44(d), Shipping Act, 1916.

It is further ordered, That License No. 990 be forthwith revoked if the licensee fails to comply with this order.

It is further ordered, That a copy of this order to show cause and all subsequent orders in this matter be served upon the licensee and be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Director,
Bureau of Domestic Regulation.

FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION

[Docket Nos. RI67-423 etc.]

HUNT OIL CO. ET AL.

Order Modifying Suspension Order

JULY 25, 1967.

Hunt Oil Company, Docket No. RI67-423; H. L. Hunt et al., Docket No. RI67-424; Hassie Hunt Trust (Operator) et al., Docket No. RI67-425.

Hunt Oil Co., H. L. Hunt et al. and Hassie Hunt Trust (Operator) et al. (collectively referred to as Hunt) filed on June 27, 1967, an application for rehearing and reconsideration of the Commission's suspension order issued June 7, 1967, in the above-entitled proceedings requesting that they be permitted to continue collection of their presently effective rates during the suspension period provided in the June 7 order with respect to their rate increases, in lieu of the 20-cent reduced rates accepted by that order. In the alternative, Hunt requests permission to withdraw the rate filings involved here.

Hunt filed on May 8, 1967, rate charges for four of their sales of natural gas from the South Louisiana Area which were treated as two-step changes.[1] The first step decreased the then effective rates of 23.55 cents, 23.6 cents, and 23.25 cents[2] to the 20-cent initial rates authorized for these sales in Opinion No. 436. These reductions were accepted as of the date of filing by the June 7 order. The second step of such filings increased the 20-cent rates to 23.25 cents and 23.55 cents. These increases were suspended in the June 7 order for 5 months from the date of filing.

Hunt contends that we have erroneously interpreted each of their rate filings as comprising two separate rate changes, whereas they intended each of the filings to constitute a single rate change.[3] Hunt points out that if the filings had been interpreted in the manner intended by them such filings would have been suspended for 5 months, but their rates during this period would not have been reduced to 20 cents per Mcf as provided in the June 7 order. In support of their position Hunt refers to the order issued May 6, 1964 in Hassie Hunt Trust (Operator) et al., Docket Nos. RI64-733, et al. where the Commission suspended for 5 months rate decreases from 20 cents to 19 cents but did not require Hunt to reduce their 20-cent rates to the 16-cent initial rate authorized in Opinion No. 412.[4]

The filings by Hunt in this case were treated as two-step filings based on our interpretation of their proposed rate changes. We have no objection, however, to treating each rate filing as a single rate change and would have done so in the first instance had Hunt's intent been clear. In view thereof, we shall modify the June 7 order so as to eliminate the acceptance of the 20-cent initial rates. The 23.25-cent and 23.55-cent suspended rate changes will continue under suspension as provided in that order.[5] In the meantime Hunt may continue collection during the suspension period of the 23.55-cent, 23.6-cent and 23.25-cent rates now in effect, subject, however, to the stay provisions of Opinion No. 436-A and the refund obligations contained therein.[6]

The Commission orders: For the reasons set forth above, Paragraph (B) of the order issued June 7, 1967, in the above-entitled proceedings, which provides for the acceptance of the 20-cent rates, is deleted.

By the Commission.

PACIFIC GAS TRANSMISSION CO. AND EL PASO NATURAL GAS CO.

Order Consolidating Proceedings, Granting Interventions and Fixing Date for a Prehearing Conference

JULY 26, 1967.

Pacific Gas Transmission Co., El Paso Natural Gas Co., CP67-187, CP67-188, CP67-217.

On December 23, 1966 Pacific Gas Transmission Co. (Pacific Gas) filed in Docket No. CP67-188 an application pursuant to section 3 of the Natural Gas Act requesting authorization to import an additional 211,000 Mcf of natural gas per day from Canada and in Docket No. CP 67-187 an application pursuant to section 7 of the Natural Gas Act for a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing the construction and operation of facilities to transport this gas to Pacific Gas and Electric Co., its customer in the California market. Notice of these applications was issued on January 14, 1967 (32 F.R. 428).

On January 30, 1967 El Paso Natural Gas Co. (El Paso) filed in Docket No. CP67-217 an application pursuant to section 7 of the Natural Gas Act, for a certificate of public convenience and necessity authorizing the construction and operation of facilities to transport and sell additional volumes of gas to its customers in California and along its Southern Division System east of California. El Paso's Maximum Daily Design Capacity would be increased by 310,282 Mcf per day. El Paso proposes to deliver an additional firm daily quantity of 103,212 Mcf of gas to Pacific Gas and Electric (PG&E), 154,130 Mcf to Southern California Gas Co. and Southern Counties Gas Co. of California (jointly referred to as Southern) and 52,940 to its customers east of California. Notice of this application was issued on February 15, 1967 (32 F.R. 2913).

Petitions seeking leave to intervene in these proceedings were filed as follows:

Notices of intervention were filed in these proceedings by the following parties: (1) Public Utility Commissioner of Oregon; (2) The People of The State of California and The Public Utilities Commission of the State of California; (3) State of Texas and The Railroad Commission of Texas; (4) Idaho Public Utilities Commission; (5) Washington Utilities and Transportation Commission.

On March 10, 1967, the California Gas Producers Association and the Independent Oil and Gas Producers of California filed a motion to consolidate the above-styled proceedings. The latter organizations represent numerous California gas producers from whom PG&E purchases natural gas. It is their contention that PG&E's market will not expand at a sufficient rate to utilize all of the additional gas that that company will acquire in the next few years in the event the Commission issues the certificates sought by the applicants in the above-styled proceedings. It is the fear of these California producers that in the event that PG&E does acquire an over-supply of natural gas as a result of the issuance of certificates sought in these proceedings they will suffer revenue losses because PG&E will be forced to cut back on its natural gas purchases from local sources of supply.

Answers to the Motion to Consolidate were filed by El Paso, The State of Texas, Pacific Gas, PG&E, Southern, San Diego Gas and Electric Co., and the Public Utility Commissioner of Oregon (Oregon). All but Oregon opposed the Motion to Consolidate.

Issues which have been raised and which we believe are present in this proceeding require that a formal hearing be held on the applications. These issues make it apparent that the applications should be consolidated for a joint hearing. Accordingly, we will require that a formal hearing be held at the earliest reasonable time. In order to expedite the matter it would seem appropriate that those issues which will be tried be specified insofar as possible.

A review of the applications, the petitions to intervene, and the motion raises questions which we feel must be disposed of in this proceeding. Among these, and without limitation to the presentation of other questions by the parties, are the following:

1. Is there a market at this time for the volumes of gas proposed to be transported and sold in these applications?

2. Should the Commission permit the importation of the volumes of gas herein proposed without limitation, in the light of the facts in this case?

3. Is it preferable that other markets along the route of either pipeline receive the gas proposed to be transported and sold, in preference to the proposed markets herein? Should provision be made for those markets?

4. Are there alternative means available to meet the requirements of the customers proposed to be served which would be more preferable than the proposal herein?

We find that there should be a resolution of these issues without foreclosing a consideration of any other issues which may be raised. In order to expeditiously process this matter, the parties should be required to set forth any other issues which they believe are involved. To accomplish this, we will require that the parties to the proceeding submit, in writing, on or before September 27, 1967, a specification, in detail, of any other issues which they believe are present in this matter. We will thereafter institute a prehearing conference to be held before an examiner on October 17, 1967. At this conference all parties should attempt further to limit the issues in this proceeding, to stipulate as to evidentiary [1] The rate reduction to 16 cents had been stayed pending judicial review.

[1] Amendment filed as part of the original document.

[2] While 3 of the 4 proposed changes are nominally decreased rate filings, they also represent increases above the initial rate determined to be proper in Opinion No. 436. For this reason, the 5-month suspension periods provided in the June 7 order remain justifiable.

[3] The 10th Circuit on Mar. 9, 1967, in Pan American Petroleum Corp., et al. v. F.P.C. affirmed the Commission's in-line base price determination in Opinion No. 436, but remanded the proceedings to the Commission for further consideration of the tax reimbursement allowance, among other things.

[4] Supplemental No. 3 to Hunt Oil Co.'s FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 50, and Supplement No. 4 to H. L. Hunt et al. FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 29 and Hassie Hunt Trust (Operator) et al. FPC Gas Rate Schedule Nos. 24 and 29, respectively.

[5] These rates are in effect pursuant to the stay provisions of Opinion No. 436-A.

[6] Hunt concedes, however, that their filings were reasonably susceptible of the interpretation placed upon them.

matters, to resolve those issues which are capable of resolution on agreed evidence, and to use any other possible means to dispose of this matter consistent with due process and the Natural Gas Act.

The Commission finds:

(1) It is desirable to allow the above-named petitioners to intervene in these proceedings in order to show what further action may be appropriate under the circumstances in the administration of the Natural Gas Act.

(2) The processing of this proceeding will be expedited by the filing of statements of proposed issues by the participants herein and discussion thereafter at a prehearing conference, prior to the submittal of prepared testimony on the issues involved.

(3) It is necessary and appropriate that the proceedings in the above-named applications be consolidated for hearing and decision. It appears that the scheduling of a prehearing conference prior to the formal hearing may be in the public interest.

The Commission orders:

(A) The above-designated matters are consolidated for the purposes of hearing and disposition.

(B) Each of the above-mentioned Petitioners is permitted to intervene in these proceedings subject to the rules and regulations of the Commission: Provided, however, That the participation of such interveners shall be limited: to matters affecting asserted rights and interests specifically set forth in the petitions to intervene: And provided, further, That the admission of such interveners shall not be construed as recognition by the Commission that they or any of them might be aggrieved by any order or orders entered in these proceedings.

(C) The parties to this proceeding shall submit in writing on or before September 27, 1967, a statement of the issues which they believe have been raised by the above-docketed applications. The statement of issues need not include those issues already noted by the Commission in this order. Said statement of issues shall be served on the other parties to the proceeding and the Commission staff, in accordance with the Commission's rules.

(D) A prehearing conference be convened in the proceedings entitled Pacific Gas Transmission Co., et al., Docket Nos. CP67–187 et al. in a hearing room of the Federal Power Commission, 441 G Street NW., Washington, D.C. on October 17, 1967, at 10 a.m., e.d.s.t. The Chief Examiner will designate an appropriate officer of the Commission to preside at the prehearing conference and at the formal hearing of these matters, pursuant to the Commission's rules of practice and procedure. The Examiner shall fix a date of hearing and, subject to further order of the Commission, shall be responsible for the conduct of these proceedings.

By the Commission.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

[812–2137]

INSURANCE SECURITIES TRUST FUND

Notice of Filing of Application

JULY 26, 1967.

Notice is hereby given that Insurance Securities Trust Fund ("ISTF"), 100 California Street, San Francisco, Calif. 94120, a California trust registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 ("Act") as an open-end diversified investment company, has filed an application pursuant to section 6(c) of the Act requesting an order of the Commission exempting from the provisions of section 22(d) certain sales at a reduced sales load, or without sales load, upon the reinvestment of the proceeds of Participating Agreements upon maturity. All interested persons are referred to the application on file with the Commission for a statement of the representations therein, which are summarized below.

Insurance Securities Incorporated ("ISI") is the principal underwriter for, and investment adviser of, ISTF. Under the Trust Agreement, ISI is entitled to be paid a creation fee or sales load of 8.85 percent on each Single Payment Participating Agreement and a like amount on the aggregate amount paid on each Accumulative Plan Participating Agreement. Until recently, investors who wished to reinvest all or a portion of the proceeds of a matured Participating Agreement in a new Participating Agreement paid the full 8.85 percent sales load applicable to new Participating Agreements.

Beginning March 27, 1967, ISI, by waiver, eliminated the sales load on the reinvestment at maturity (or within 60 days thereafter) in the single payment security then being issued by ISTF of all or a portion of the proceeds payable upon maturity of any Participating Agreement issued on or after March 27, 1967. At the same time ISI, by waiver, also reduced from 8.85 percent to 5 percent the sales load on the reinvestment at maturity (or within 60 days thereafter) in the single payment security then being issued by ISTF of all or a portion of the proceeds payable upon maturity of any Single Payment Participating Agreement or Accumulative Plan Participating Agreement issued, outstanding and fully paid as of March 24, 1967. In the case of any Accumulative Plan Participating Agreement issued and outstanding as of March 24, 1967, but not fully paid as of that date, all or a portion of the maturity proceeds may, within 60 days following maturity, be reinvested in the single payment security then being issued by ISTF subject to a sales load of 5 percent of the lesser of (a) that portion of the maturity proceeds which is equal to the net asset value on maturity of the sum of the net asset value of such Participating Agreement as of March 24, 1967, and any amounts withdrawn therefrom but not repaid as of March 24, 1967, or (b) the amount reinvested. The minimum amount which may be reinvested without load or at the reduced load of 5 percent is $1,000, or the entire proceeds upon maturity if such proceeds are less than $1,000.

ISI intends, subject to satisfactory resolution of problems of tax considerations and administrative feasibility, to propose to the board of directors of ISTF, for proposal in turn to investors in ISTF, amendments to the Trust Agreement that would effectuate substantially the following results: (1) Each holder of a Participating Agreement issued and outstanding as of March 24, 1967, would have a right to convert immediately prior to maturity all or a portion of his equity in the Participating Agreement into the form of single payment security then currently being issued by the Trust Fund, at a fee commensurate with the reduced 5 percent sales load as described above; (2) provide a similar conversion right, but with no fee for such conversion, to each holder of a Participating Agreement issued on or after March 27, 1967, and prior to the effective date of the amendments to the Trust Agreement; and (3) provide that prior to maturity of any Participating Agreement issued from and after the effective date of such amendments, such Participating Agreement will be replaced, at no charge to the investor and with no act required on his part, with the form of single payment security then currently being issued by ISTF.

ISTF asserts that the transactions described above do not and will not violate the terms or the intent of section 22(d) of the Act. It represents, however, that because the proposed incorporation of the terms of the transactions into the Trust Agreement will result in that document providing for one creation fee or sales load upon the issuance of redeemable securities for newly invested funds, and a lesser creation fee or no creation fee upon the issuance of redeemable securities for reinvested funds, it is applying for the order requested so as to avoid any possible prejudice to the rights of any investor.

Section 22(d) of the Act provides: "No registered investment company shall sell any redeemable security issued by it to any person except either to or through a principal underwriter for distribution or at a current public offering price described in the prospectus, and, if such class of security is being currently offered to the public by or through an underwriter, no principal underwriter of such security and no dealer shall sell any such security to any person except a dealer, a principal underwriter or the issuer, except at a current public offering price described in the prospectus: Provided, however, That nothing in this subsection shall prevent a sale made (i) pursuant to an offer of exchange permitted by section 11 hereof including any offer made pursuant to clause (1) or (2) of section 11(b); (ii) pursuant to an offer made solely to all registered holders of the securities, or of a particular class or series of securities issued by the company proportionate to their holdings or proportionate to any cash distribution made to them by the company (subject to appropriate qualifications designed solely to avoid issuance of fractional securities); or (iii) in accordance with rules and regulations of the Commission made pursuant to subsection (b) of section 12."

Section 6(c) of the Act provides: "The Commission, by rules and regulations upon its own motion, or by order upon application, may conditionally or unconditionally exempt any person, security, or transaction, or any class or classes of persons, securities, or transactions, from any provision or provisions of this title or of any rule or regulation thereunder, if and to the extent that such exemption is necessary or appropriate in the public interest and consistent with the protection of investors and the purposes fairly intended by the policy and provisions of this title."

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than August 11, 1967, at 5:30 p.m., submit to the Commission in writing a request for a hearing on the matter accompanied by a statement as to the nature of his interest, the reason for such request and the issues of fact or law proposed to be controverted, or he may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such communication should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington, D.C. 20549. A copy of such request shall be served personally or by mail (airmail if the person being served is located more than 500 miles from the point of mailing) upon ISTF at the address stated above. Proof of such service (by affidavit or in case of an attorney-at-law by certificate) shall be filed contemporaneously with the request. At any time after said date, as provided by Rule 0–5 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the Act, an order disposing of the application herein may be issued by the Commission upon the basis of the information stated in said application, unless an order for hearing upon said application shall be issued upon request or upon the Commission's own motion. Persons who request a hearing or advice as to whether a hearing is ordered will receive notice of further developments in this matter, including the date of the hearing (if ordered) and any postponements thereof.

NEW ENGLAND ELECTRIC SYSTEM

Notice of Proposed Amendment of Debenture Indenture

JULY 27, 1967.

Notice is hereby given that New England Electric System ("NEES"), 441 Stuart Street, Boston, Mass. 02116, a registered holding company, has filed a declaration with this Commission pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("Act"), designating sections 6(a) and 7 thereof as applicable to the proposed transaction. All interested persons are referred to the declaration, which is summarized below, for a complete statement of the proposed transaction.

In 1947, pursuant to an order of the Commission under section 11(e) of the Act (26 SEC 1), New England Power Association, the predecessor company of NEES, issued $75 million of debentures and $10 million of 10-year serial notes. The Indenture relating to the debentures contained covenants specifying the amount of funded debt and preferred stock that might be issued by subsidiary companies and funded debt that might be issued by the parent company. The filing states, among other things, that since 1947 NEES has increased its common-share equity by over $185 million, thereby increasing its consolidated common-share equity ratio at December 31, 1966, to 36.7 percent. Of said $85 million of debt issued by the parent company in 1947, only $43,476,000 of the 3¼ percent Debentures, due 1977, remain outstanding.

NEES now proposes to amend the Indenture to substitute for security issues tests based upon consolidated capitalization and surplus in place of the present test based upon consolidated net assets. As amended, the Indenture will permit a maximum consolidated funded debt ratio of 65 percent of consolidated capitalization and surplus and will reduce the maximum funded debt of NEES itself to 15 percent thereof. In addition, it will provide for a minimum consolidated common-share equity ratio of 30 percent. In the computation of consolidated common equity, minority interests in the common equities of subsidiary companies are not to be included therein except pursuant to specific authorization of the Commission, but, in the computation of consolidated capitalization and surplus, such minority interests are to be included and shown separately as such. The issue of debt and equity securities by NEES and its subsidiary companies remains, as heretofore, subject to the standards and requirements of sections 6 and 7 of the Act.

The declaration states that the written consent of holders of not less than 66⅔ percent in principal amount of the outstanding debentures are required for the adoption of the proposed amendments and that the five principal holders of the debentures, representing over $36 million of the $43,476,000 of debentures presently outstanding, have orally agreed to the substance of the proposed amendments. It is further stated that the solicitation of consents from debenture holders will be subject to the exemption provided by Rule 62(b)(1), since NEES has not and will not solicit consents from more than 10 such holders.

Fees and expenses in connection with the proposed transaction are estimated not to exceed $23,000, including a legal fee of $6,000 and charges, at cost, of the system service company of $12,000. It is stated that no State commission and no Federal commission, other than this Commission, has jurisdiction over the proposed transaction.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than August 18, 1967, request in writing that a hearing be held on such matter, stating the nature of his interest, the reasons for such request, and the issues of fact or law raised by said declaration which he desires to controvert; or he may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington, D.C. 20549. A copy of such request should be served personally or by mail (air mail if the person being served is located more than 500 miles from the point of mailing) upon the declarant at the above-stated address, and proof of service (by affidavit or, in case of an attorney at law, by certificate) should be filed with the request. At any time after said date, the declaration, as filed or as amended, may be permitted to become effective as provided in Rule 23 of the general rules and regulations promulgated under the Act, or the Commission may grant exemption from such rules as provided in Rules 20(a) and 100 thereof or take such other action as it may deem appropriate. Persons who request a hearing or advice as to whether a hearing is ordered will receive notice of further developments in this matter, including the date of the hearing (if ordered) and any postponements thereof.

For the Commission (pursuant to delegated authority).

Dak.; from Scottsbluff over Nebraska Highway 71 to junction Nebraska Highway 2, thence over Nebraska Highway 2 to junction U.S. Highway 20 at Crawford, Nebr., thence over U.S. Highway 20 to junction U.S. Highway 385, thence over U.S. Highway 385 to junction U.S. Highway 16, thence over U.S. Highway 16 to Rapid City, and return over the same route, serving the intermediate point of Crawford and the off-route point of Chadron, Nebr., and (2) from Alliance, Nebr., to Rapid City, S. No. MC 113678 (Sub-No. 110) (Republication), filed March 8, 1965, published FEDERAL REGISTER issue of March 25, 1965, and republished this issue. Because it is possible that other parties, who have relied upon the notice of the application as published, may have an interest in and would be prejudiced by the lack of proper notice of the authority described in the findings in this order, a notice of the authority actually granted will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER and issuance of a certificate in this proceeding will be withheld for a period of 30 days from the date of such publication, during which period any proper party in interest may file a petition to reopen or for other appropriate relief setting forth in detail the precise manner in which it has been so prejudiced.

Because it is possible that other persons, who have relied upon the notice of the application as published, may have an interest in and would be prejudiced by the lack of proper notice of the authority described in the findings in this order, a notice of the authority actually granted will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER and issuance of a certificate in this proceeding will be withheld for a period of 30 days from the date of such publication, during which period any proper party in interest may file a petition to reopen or for other appropriate relief setting forth in detail the precise manner in which it has been so prejudiced.

Petitioner has always believed he could transport general commodities with certain exceptions, between Vichy and the St. Louis area. However, in order to remove any cloud on this two-way general-commodity authority, petitioner requests the Commission waive Rule 1.101(e), accept this petition for reconsideration or further hearing, and assign the petition for hearing at the same time and place as No. MC-F-9556, and an application filed by petitioner on June 23, 1967, in MC 22285 Sub. No. 1, published in the FEDERAL REGISTER, issue of July 13, 1967. Pursuant to an order in MC-C-2253, dated December 12, 1958, the above-referred-to permit was revoked. Petitioner states that at the time the permit was revoked its business became intrastate in nature, however, its shipper's requirements have been revised so that the shipments are interstate in nature. By the instant petition, petitioner prays that its petition be granted, and that the permit which was revoked by order of the Commission be reinstated. Any interested person desiring to participate, may file an original and six copies of his written representations, views or argument in support of, or against the petition within 30 days from the date of publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Title 3—THE PRESIDENT

Proclamation 3797

UNITED NATIONS DAY, 1967

By the President of the United States of America

A Proclamation

Twenty-two years ago, the United States joined in founding the United Nations. Since that time, our Nation has faithfully honored its commitments to the world body, in pursuit of a just and lasting peace.

Every President and Congress since the time of Franklin Delano Roosevelt has given full support to the United Nations. Under every Administration, and without regard to party, our country has:

—cooperated actively in the United Nations search for peace in the Middle East, Kashmir, and other troubled areas around the world;

—supported the United Nations efforts to strengthen the respect of men and nations for the rule of law, and for fundamental human rights and freedoms; —worked to limit armaments, including nuclear weapons, under effective international control;

—supported the principle of self-determination for areas emerging from dependent status;

—contributed abundantly to United Nations humanitarian activities, and to its programs of economic and social development.

The successful negotiation of a treaty banning weapons of mass destruction from outer space is an outstanding recent example of our support for the UN's work.

The United Nations has no magic formula for solving the increasingly complex problems of our revolutionary age. Its failures have disheartened those who saw in it the only hope for peace in a world torn by strife. Yet despite those failures, it has achieved much that could not have been achieved without it. It remains the symbol, and the standard, of man's desire to turn away from ancient quarrels and make peace with his neighbor.

I urge Americans to study the United Nations—its accomplishments, its strengths, its limitations, and its potential for the future. Broad public knowledge of the United Nations can provide a firm base for future United States action in the organization.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, LYNDON B. JOHNSON, President of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim Tuesday, October 24, 1967, as United Nations Day, and urge the citizens of this Nation to observe that day by means of community programs that will contribute to a realistic understanding of the aims, problems, and achievements of the United Nations and its associated organizations.

I also call upon officials of the Federal and State Governments and upon local officials to encourage citizen groups and agencies of communication—press, radio, television, and motion pictures—to engage in special and appropriate observance of United Nations Day this year in cooperation with the United Nations Association of the United States of America and other interested organizations.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this first day of August in the year of our Lord Nineteen hundred and sixty-seven, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and ninety-second.

Chapter IX—Consumer and Marketing Service (Marketing Agreements and Orders; Fruits, Vegetables, Nuts), Department of Agriculture

PART 958—ONIONS GROWN IN CERTAIN DESIGNATED COUNTIES IN IDAHO, AND MALHEUR COUNTY, OREG.

Order Amending Order

§ 958.0 Findings and determinations.

The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations made in connection with the issuance of the order, and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U.S.C. 601–674) and the applicable rules of practice and procedure effective thereunder (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held at Parma, Idaho, on April 19, 1967, upon proposed amendments to Marketing Agreement No. 130 and Order No. 958 (7 CFR Part 958), regulating the handling of onions grown in the Idaho and Malheur County, Oreg., production area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is hereby found that:

(1) The said order, and all the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(2) The said order regulates the handling of onions produced in the production area in the same manner as, and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial or commercial activity specified in, the marketing agreement and order upon which a hearing has been held;

(3) The said order is limited in its application to the smallest regional production area which is practicable, consistently with carrying out the declared policy of the act, and the issuance of several orders applicable to subdivisions of the production area would not effectively carry out the declared policy of the act;

(4) There are no differences in the production and marketing of onions in the production area covered by the order which require different terms applicable to different parts of such area; and

(5) All handling of onions produced in the production area is in the current of interstate or foreign commerce, or directly burdens, obstructs, or affects such commerce.

(b) Determinations. It is hereby determined that:

(1) Handlers (excluding cooperative associations of producers who are not engaged in processing, distributing or shipping onions covered by the order) who during the representative period (July 1, 1966, through June 30, 1967) handled more than 50 percent of the volume of onions covered by the order have signed the marketing agreement, as amended, regulating the handling of onions grown in the production area, and

(2) The issuance of this order amending the order is approved or favored (i) by at least two-thirds of the producers of onions who participated in a referendum held during the period July 7–17, 1967, and who, during the determined representative period (July 1, 1966, through June 30, 1967) were engaged within the production area in the production of onions for market, and (ii) by producers who participated in the aforesaid referendum and who, during the aforesaid representative period, produced for market at least two-thirds of the volume of such onions produced for market within the production area.

It is therefore ordered, That, on and after the effective date hereof, all handling of onions produced in the production area shall be in conformity to, and in compliance with, the terms and conditions of the said order as hereby amended, which are as follows:

1. Delete § 958.44 "Refunds" and in lieu thereof insert a new § 958.44 and add a new § 958.45, as follows:

§ 958.44 Reserve fund.

At the end of each fiscal period, funds in excess of the committee's expenses may be placed in an operating reserve not to exceed approximately 1 fiscal year's operational expenses or such lower limits as the committee, with the approval of the Secretary, may establish. Also, the committee, with the approval of the Secretary, may include in its budget an item for such reserve. Funds in the reserve shall be available for use by the committee for expenses authorized pursuant to § 958.40. Funds in excess of those placed in the operating reserve shall be refunded to handlers. Each handler's share of such excess shall be the amount he paid in excess of his pro rata share of the expenses of the committee.

§ 958.45 Accounting of funds upon termination of the order.

Any funds collected as assessments pursuant to this subpart and remaining unexpended in the possession of the committee after termination of this part shall be distributed in such manner as the Secretary may direct: Provided, That to the extent practical, such funds shall be returned pro rata to the persons from whom such funds were collected.

2. Amend § 958.47 to read as follows:

§ 958.47 Marketing research and development.

(a) The committee, with the approval of the Secretary, may establish or provide for the establishment of marketing research and development projects, including paid advertising, designed to assist, improve, or promote the marketing, distribution, and consumption of onions. Any such project for the promotion and advertising of onions may utilize an identifying mark which shall be made available for use by all handlers in accordance with such terms and conditions as the committee, with the approval of the Secretary, may prescribe. The expenses of such projects shall be paid from funds collected pursuant to § 958.42.

(b) In recommending projects pursuant to this section the committee shall give consideration to the following:

(1) The expected supply of onions in relation to market requirements;

(2) The supply situation among competing areas and commodities;

(3) The anticipated benefits from such projects in relation to their costs;

(4) The need for marketing research with respect to any market development activity; and

(5) The need for a coordinated effort with USDA's Plentiful Foods Program.

(c) If the committee should conclude that a program of marketing research or development should be undertaken, or continued, in any crop year, it shall submit the following for the approval of the Secretary:

(1) Its recommendations as to the funds to be obtained pursuant to § 958.42;

(2) Its recommendation as to any marketing research projects; and

(3) Its recommendation as to promotion activity and paid advertising.

3. Amend subparagraph (3), paragraph (a), of § 958.52 to read as follows:

§ 958.52 Issuance of regulations.

* * * * *

(a) * * *

(3) Provide a method, through rules and regulations issued pursuant to this part, for fixing the size, capacity, weight, dimensions, or pack of the container, or containers, which may be used in the packaging or handling of onions, including appropriate container markings to identify the contents thereof.

(Secs. 1–19, 48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U.S.C. 601–674)

Effective date: Issued at Washington, D.C., July 28, 1967, to become effective September 4, 1967.

Assistant Secretary.

Title 12—BANKS AND BANKING

Chapter II—Federal Reserve System

SUBCHAPTER A—BOARD OF GOVERNORS OF THE FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

[Reg. H]

PART 208—MEMBERSHIP OF STATE BANKING INSTITUTIONS IN THE FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

Branches

§ 208.122 Loan "production offices" as branches.

(a) The Board of Governors has been asked whether the so-called production offices of a member State bank, operated in conjunction with its mortgage loan activities, are branches of the bank within the meaning of applicable Federal law.

(b) The production offices which are open to the public, are staffed by employees of the bank who regularly engage in the business of soliciting borrowers, negotiating terms, and processing applications for real property loans that are placed with various institutional investors. With few exceptions, the loan funds are initially advanced by the bank for its own account. Terms are arranged and loan applications are executed at the production offices, but other documents, such as notes and mortgages, are completed at authorized offices of the bank (or at an office of a title insurance or escrow company, in a few cases). Loan proceeds are also disbursed through the bank's authorized offices and not through the production offices. The latter offices do not service loans and have no authority to commit the bank on loan contracts.

(c) Section 5155(f) of the Revised Statutes (12 U.S.C. 36), which is made applicable to member State banks by section 9 of the Federal Reserve Act (12 U.S.C. 321), provides that the term branch "shall be held to include any branch bank, branch office, branch agency, additional office, or any branch place of business * * * at which deposits are received, or checks paid, or money lent." It appears that the bulk of the activities of the production offices relates to the lending of money by the bank (although the loans are thereafter sold to others).

(d) The Board concluded that an office through which loan transactions are initiated, the terms of loan negotiated, and other steps that lead to completed loan transactions are carried on by a member bank is a branch within the purview of section 9 of the Federal Reserve Act and section 5155 of the Revised Statutes.

(e) The statutory enumeration of three specific functions that establish branch status is not meant to be exclusive but to assure that offices at which any of these functions is performed are regarded as branches by the bank regulatory authorities. The facts that final approval of loans arranged at "production offices" emanates from the home-office or authorized branches, and that checks for the proceeds of loans are issued from such authorized offices, are not controlling for this purpose. In view of the objective of the cited statutes to permit significant banking services to be made available only at governmentally authorized offices. Put another way, the fact that, for purposes of contract law, a loan may be regarded as "made" at the place and time of legal "acceptance" or "approval" does not govern the interpretation of these bank regulatory statutes. If the contrary were true, the Board observed, member banks could conduct their operation at numerous locations, without the approval of supervisory authorities, by the device of performing the final step in each transaction at an authorized office of the bank, thereby substantially nullifying the legislative purpose.

(12 U.S.C. 248(i). Interprets 12 U.S.C. 36 and 321)

Dated at Washington, D.C., the 26th day of July 1967.

By order of the Board of Governors.

[SEAL] MERRITT SHERMAN,
Secretary.

§ 1240.200 Policy on awards to employees of NASA and NASA contractors for reported technical and scientific contributions.

§ 1240.200–1 Scope.

This § 1240.200 establishes the policy for making awards to employees of NASA and NASA contractors for scientific and technical contributions reported to NASA which are determined to have significant value in the conduct of aeronautical and space activities.

§ 1240.200–2 Applicability.

Subpart 2 applies to any scientific or technical contribution which is the subject of a NASA Tech Brief or a U.S. patent application and to the action to be taken with respect thereto.

§ 1240.200–3 Authority.

Section 306 of the National Aeronautics and Space Act (42 U.S.C. 2458) authorizes the Administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to make monetary awards to any individual, partnership, corporation, association, institution, or other entity for any scientific or technical contribution to the Administration which is determined by the Administrator to have significant value in the conduct of aeronautical and space activities.

§ 1240.200–4 Definition.

As used in this Subpart 2, a contribution having "significant value in the conduct of aeronautical and space activities" must be an item that contributes to the advancement of aeronautical or space science or operation and has demonstrable value and utility.

§ 1240.200–5 Policy.

Suitable monetary awards shall be made to employees of NASA and NASA contractors for scientific and technical contributions, whether or not patentable, when determined to have significant value in the conduct of aeronautical and space activities.

§ 1240.200–6 General provisions.

(a) Each contribution on which a NASA Tech Brief is published shall be considered to be worthy of an award in at least the amount of $25, and an award in at least that amount shall normally be given to each individual originating the contribution.

(b) Each contribution on which a U.S. patent application is filed shall be considered to be worthy of an award in at least that amount of $50, and an award in at least that amount shall normally be made to each individual originating the contribution.

(c) Where a Tech Brief is issued and a patent application is filed on the same contribution, the minimum awards under paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section shall be cumulative. The awards specified in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section shall not be granted to a contributor who previously had received full compensation for or on account of the use of such contribution by the United States.

(d) Contributions eligible for award are not limited to those specified in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this § 1240.200–6.

(e) Appropriate written acknowledgment will accompany each of the awards to be made in accordance with this § 1240.200.

§ 1240.201–1 Scope.

This § 1240.201 establishes the procedures for making awards to employees of NASA and NASA contractors for scientific and technical contributions reported to NASA which are determined to have significant value in the conduct of aeronautical and space activities.

§ 1240.201–2 Procedures.

(a) When the Inventions and Contributions Board (hereafter referred to as "Board") is notified of the issuance of a NASA Tech Brief by the Office of Technology Utilization, NASA Headquarters, or the filing of a patent application on a contribution submitted by an employee of NASA or a NASA contractor, it will take action to make the applicable minimum awards as set forth in paragraphs (a) and (b) of § 1240.200–6.

(b) The Board will make additional awards under the provisions of section 306 of the National Aeronautics and Space Act of 1958 (42 U.S.C. 2458) if it considers that the contribution is of a value of $250 or more. Where two or more persons are responsible for the contribution, the Board will determine the amount to be paid to each contributor. In the case of minimum awards, each contributor will receive the minimum amount.

(c) Reevaluation: When contributions as first reported and evaluated are not considered to merit an additional award, as provided for in paragraph (a) of this § 1240.201–2, but later are shown to have proven value, they may be submitted for reevaluation. NASA offices and contractors will be encouraged to review periodically such reported contributions and resubmit them for reconsideration through the same channels as originally reported.

(a) All monetary awards and accompanying written acknowledgments to employees of NASA will be presented in accordance with the following procedures:

(1) Awards in amounts less than $1,000 will be presented to the employee in an appropriate ceremony by the appropriate Official-in-Charge of the Headquarters Office or Director of the Field Installation (or their designee).

PART 120—TOLERANCES AND EXEMPTIONS FROM TOLERANCES FOR PESTICIDE CHEMICALS IN OR ON RAW AGRICULTURAL COMMODITIES

1,1-Bis(p-Chlorophenyl)-2,2,2-Trichloroethanol

A petition (PP7F0590) was filed with the Food and Drug Administration by the Rohm and Haas Co., Independence Mall West, Philadelphia, Pa. 19105, proposing the establishment of a tolerance of 25 parts per million for residues of the insecticide 1,1-bis(p-chlorophenyl)-2,2,2-trichloroethanol in or on the raw agricultural commodities peppermint hay and spearmint hay.

The Secretary of Agriculture has certified that this pesticide chemical is useful for the purposes for which the tolerance is being established.

Based on consideration given the data submitted in the petition, and other relevant material, the Commissioner of Food and Drugs concludes that the tolerance established by this order will protect the public health. Therefore, by virtue of the authority vested in the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare by the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (sec. 408(d)(2), 68 Stat. 512; 21 U.S.C. 346a(d)(2)) and delegated by him to the Commissioner (21 CFR 2.120), § 120.163 is amended by adding a new tolerance after "30 parts per million " " ", as follows:

§ 120.163 1,1-Bis(p-chlorophenyl)-2,2,2-trichloroethanol; tolerances for residues.

25 parts per million in or on peppermint hay and spearmint hay.

Any person who will be adversely affected by the foregoing order may at any time within 30 days from the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER file with the Hearing Clerk, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, Room 5440, 330 Independence Avenue SW., Washington, D.C. 20201, written objections thereto, preferably in quintuplicate. Objections shall show wherein the person filing will be adversely affected by the order and specify with particularity the provisions of the order deemed objectionable and the grounds for the objections. If a hearing is requested, the objections must state the issues for the hearing. A hearing will be granted if the objections are supported by grounds legally sufficient to justify the relief sought. Objections may be accompanied by a memorandum or brief in support thereof.

Effective date. This order shall become effective on the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Title 47—TELECOMMUNICATION

Chapter I—Federal Communications Commission

[Docket No. 18474; FCC 67-871]

PART 17—CONSTRUCTION, MARKING AND LIGHTING OF ANTENNA STRUCTURES

Miscellaneous Amendments

Report and order. 1. The Commission, on February 23, 1966, adopted a notice of proposed rulemaking in the above-entitled matter (FCC 66-174) which was duly published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on March 2, 1966 (31 F.R. 3302). Opportunity was afforded interested persons to submit comments by March 25, 1966, in support of, or in opposition to, the proposed rule amendments. By order of March 21, 1966, the time for filing comments was extended to May 25, 1966, and for filing reply comments from April 4, 1966, to June 4, 1966. By further Order of June 10, 1966, the time for filing reply comments was extended to July 5, 1966.

2. The proposed revision was primarily for the addition of obstruction markings applicable to towers over 1,500 feet up to, and including, 2,000 feet in height and for consistency with Federal Aviation Administration regulations.

3. In addition, it was intended to provide improved public service through the introduction of procedures permitting more expeditious processing of the antenna structure aspects of applications by the adoption of proposed § 17.3(c) which would require applicants in all services to file a statement certifying to the accuracy of geographic coordinates.

4. Comments were filed by: Aerospace and Flight Test Radio Coordinating Council; Air Transport Association of America; American Automobile Association, Inc.; American Radio Relay League, Inc.; American Taxicab Association; American Telephone and Telegraph Co.; American Trucking Associations, Inc.; Associated Public Safety Communication Officers, Inc.; Association of American Railroads; Breiner, Allen R., W3ZRQ; California, State of, California State Communications Advisory Board; California, State of, State Public Safety Comunications Committee; Central Committee on Communications Facilities of the American Petroleum Institute; Chertok, Leonard, W3GRF; City of Burbank, Communications Engineer; Collins Radio Co.; Colorado, State of, Colorado State Patrol; Cullum, A. Earl, Jr. & Associates; Deane, William, W6RET; Fagan Electric Co.; Forestry Conservation Communications Association; GT&E Service Corp.; Graham 2-Way Radio, Ira D. Graham; Greene, C. R., K9JQY; Harlow, Lester C., W4CVO; Haskins & Associates; Hetland, Harvey, WA6KZI/WB6SLG; Hughey & Phillips, Inc.; International Association of Chiefs of Police, Inc.; International Municipal Signal Association; Iowa Chapter of Associated Public Safety Communication Officers, Inc.; KAV372—West Penn Communications Corp./KGA252—Allegheny Mobile Communications (Ben Farkas); Land Mobile Communications Section of Electronics Industries Association; McNutt, Kenneth R. (thru Senator Philip A. Hart); NAM Communications Committee; National Association of Business and Educational Radio, Inc.; National Association of Radiotelephone Systems; National Business Aircraft Association, Inc.; National Committee for Utilities Radio; New York Central Railroad Co.; Northern California Chapter of the Associated Public Safety Communication Officers, Inc.; Ohio, State of, Department of Highways; P. E. I. Corp.; Radio Specialists Co.; Radio Users Interference Association of Arizona; Sanial, James A., K4AQW; Shafer, David P., W4AX; Sioux Falls Amateur Radio Club, Inc.; Sioux Falls-Minnehaha District Office of Civil Defense; Smith, Kenneth Raymond, W9STG; Southern California Mobile Radio Association; Southern California Radio Taxicab Association; Special Industrial Radio Service Association, Inc.; Spittler, Kenneth R., WAOJPR; The Six Meter Nomad Amateur Radio Club of Greater Cleveland, Inc.; Tri-State Amateur Radio Society, Inc.; Union Pacific Railroad Co.; U.S. Independent Telephone Association; Vir James Consulting Radio Engineers; Westwood Lutheran Church, Dayton, Ohio; Wilmot, Thomas, KOWFK; Wisconsin, State of, Motor Vehicle Department.

5. The comments received generally favored a revision of the rules in the interest of improved air safety and to reflect current FAA requirements. The Commission's findings with respect to objections or suggested amendments to the proposal are as follows.

6. One comment noted that the phrase "radio stations" is used in reciting the Commission's authority for the issuance of licenses in § 17.1(a), Basis and Purpose. It was suggested that "radio stations" be changed to "antenna structures". The suggestion is not being adopted since the paragraph is a statement of the Commission's authority as contained in the Communications Act.

7. One comment proposed modification of § 17.3(b) to provide that any structure within 500 feet of an antenna may be used as an existing man-made structure. This is primarily a question of shielding, for which provision has been made in § 17.14(a). Broadening the shielding exemption could give rise to situations adversely affecting the safety of air navigation, and would be at variance with existing FAA requirements. Accordingly, the proposal has not been adopted.

8. Proposed § 17.3(c), if adopted, would have required a registered or licensed engineer or surveyor to prepare a map and certify as to the accuracy of geographic coordinates. While this proposal was favored by the Air Transport Association and several consulting engineers, there was a substantially larger number of comments which opposed it or suggested alternatives. In view of the comments the Commission has found that the proposed § 17.3(c) should not be adopted at this time. The submission of inaccurate coordinates remains as a problem and an appropriate solution will continue to be sought.

9. The requirements for § 17.3(a) are removed with the deletion of § 17.3(c). Likewise, § 17.3(b), which for editorial purposes was to have replaced old § 17.4(f), is deleted. The requirements for the submission of FCC Form 714 will remain as before in § 17.4(f) which has been expanded to include the Broadcast and Auxiliary Broadcast Services. Section 17.3(d) which relates to § 17.4(f) is renumbered § 17.4(g). In consequence of the foregoing, § 17.3 is being deleted in its entirety.

10. Proposed § 17.4(d) provides that if the FAA approves an antenna proposal, the application for a radio station authorization will be processed as not involving a hazard[1] to air navigation (1) if the application for the authorization has been filed with the FCC within 6 months of the effective date of the FAA "no hazard" determination and (2) if the FAA "no hazard" determination has not expired. One comment stated that the time required for the preparation of an application for a broadcast station construction permit may exceed 6 months and urged that the 6 months period be extended to 12 months. Experience has shown that cases requiring more than 6 months between the effective date of the "no hazard" determination and the filing for a construction permit are in the minority. The 6 months limitation is established by the FAA with respect to the effective period of a "no hazard" determination. The FAA regulations include provisions for extension of the effective period of "no hazard" determinations. Accordingly, the 6 months limitation has been eliminated from § 17.4(d), as adopted, which retains only the requirement that an application must be filed while the "no hazard" determination is in effect. Thus if the FAA either extends the effective date of a determination, as has been done in the past, or modifies its applicable rules, applicants will have the benefit of an extended period within which to file applications.

11. Section 17.4(f) provides that a Form 714 is not required for proposed antenna structures which will not extend more than 20 feet above the ground or natural formation or more than 20 feet above an existing man-made structure. One comment says this 20-foot limitation is not realistic; however, it is retained since it is in accord with the FAA notification criteria.

12. It was stated in one of the comments that the antenna data required in connection with common carrier station applications on Forms 401, 401A, and 714 represent a duplication that should be eliminated. These forms serve different purposes, do not contain identical information, and in this sense do not represent duplication. Providing one form to serve the several purposes would introduce inefficiencies and complications which would be undesirable both from the standpoint of the public and the government.

13. Form 714 is necessary to provide the FCC with positive information from the applicant that the FAA has or has not been notified of the proposed construction. If in the affirmative, it is necessary for the FCC to know which FAA region was notified, including the date and particulars of the notification given to the FAA. In many cases this differs from the particulars supplied in the application for radio station authorization filed with the FCC and coordination is necessary to insure that the clearance given by the FAA and the authorization issued by the FCC are in harmony.

14. Form 401 is an application for a new or modified common carrier radio station construction permit and such duplication as may exist between this and other forms is necessary to properly identify the antenna structure and provide information for the Commission's licensing function.

15. Form 401A was originally intended to provide information to the Antenna Survey Branch, necessary in its processing activities. Changes in the antenna survey procedures have been instituted so that Form 401A can be eliminated. The Rules governing services using this form will be modified accordingly in connection with related changes which are under consideration.

16. As proposed, § 17.21(a) would have required that antenna structures exceeding 170 feet be painted or lighted; however, as the comments on the rulemaking indicate, antennas are not considered a hazard under § 17.4(c) unless notification to FAA is required. Notification to FAA is required if the antenna exceeds 200 feet or exceeds the criteria prescribed in new § 17.7 (§ 17.8 of the notice of proposed rulemaking). This is consistent with the FAA Notice of Obstruction, Marking and Lighting Change (N 7460.1) dated February 6, 1967. Accordingly, § 17.21(a) has been modified to require painting and lighting of antennas that exceed 200 feet (instead of 170 feet) or require special aeronautical study.

17. A number of comments noted that proposed § 17.24(a) does not limit the requirement for lighting of structures up to and including 150 feet to those structures located in areas set forth in § 17.7 (see § 17.8 of the notice of proposed rulemaking), and which require notification to the FAA. The suggestion that § 17.24 be modified accordingly has been adopted. A corresponding change has been made in § 17.25.

18. It was suggested that provision be made for the use of 700-watt 6,000-hour lamps. Sections 17.25 through 17.37 and § 17.53 have been revised to authorize such use.

19. One comment suggested a change in the wording of the rules concerning the requirements for installation of beacons with respect to visibility and flashing. The present text of §§ 17.25 through 17.37 of the rules pertaining to the installation of beacons to ensure unobstructed visibility and flashing requirements conforms with the text of the FAA obstruction, Marking, and Lighting publication and is being retained.

20. In §§ 17.24 through 17.37 the word "normal" has been added to the phrase "angle of approach" in the requirement that lights shall be positioned so as to ensure unobstructed visibility of at least one light to approaching aircraft. In §§ 17.25 through 17.37 the word "approximately" has been added to the phrase "one-half of the luminous period" in the requirement prescribing the period of darkness for flashing beacons. Both changes bring the rules into accord with the language of the FAA Obstruction, Marking, and Lighting publication.

21. Under the provisions of § 17.43(a) of the rules issued March 30, 1953, the painting of all antenna towers was to have been brought into conformity with the rules no later than January 1, 1960. Since all existing structures should now be painted in accordance with the rules, old § 17.43(a) is not being retained.

22. New § 17.43(a) prescribes the applicability of the revised rules to new antenna structures and to existing antenna structures, the height or location of which are being changed.

23. With respect to existing antenna structures, the height or location of which are not being changed, new § 17.43(b) prescribes the applicability of the new provisions concerning lights and associated equipment. One comment suggested that these provisions be made retroactive; however, the Commission has found that the public interest would be served if an orderly changeover of the lighting of existing structures is made as provided in the new § 17.43(b).

24. In order to make it clear that the new FAA "notification criteria" do not affect the painting and lighting requirements for existing antenna structures, appropriate provisions have been included in § 17.43(c).

25. One comment urged that the rules be modified to require a positive indication that tower lights had been turned on. The rules provide in §§ 17.25 through 17.37 that the lights on all towers over 150 feet in height shall burn continuously or be controlled (turned off and on) by a light sensitive device. The rules also provide in § 17.47 that a visual observation of the lights shall be made each 24 hours or that visual observation shall be made of an automatic device provided to register any failure of the lights. Alternatively an automatic alarm system may be used to provide the licensee with an indication of any tower light failure.

26. The FCC requirements pertaining to lamp failure alarm devices coincide with the language of the FAA Obstruction, Marking and Lighting publication. When and if the FAA modifies its publication to specifically require a positive indication at a remote point that the lights have been turned on, the FCC will consider appropriate parallel action, including any necessary changes in other sections of the rules.

27. Changes were suggested in the paragraphs dealing with notification to the FAA concerning extinguishment or improper functioning of lights, inspection of tower lights and recording of results of inspections of tower lights in the station records. The following three paragraphs deal with these suggestions.

28. In the interest of clarity, the "notification requirement" has been removed from the "inspection requirement" (§ 17.47) and has been designated as § 17.48, titled, "Notification of extinguishment or improper functioning of lights". The language of the notificaton requirement section has been modified by replacing the word "failure" with "extinguishment or improper functioning" to make it consistent with the language contained in the related paragraph of the FAA Obstruction, Marking, and Lighting publication. This modification includes rotating beacons and is responsive to comments in this regard.

29. Similarly, in proposed § 17.49 (§ 17.48 of the notice of proposed rulemaking) titled, "Recording of tower light inspections in the station record", the word "failure" has been replaced with the phrase "extinguishment of improper functioning" in the interest of uniformity.

[1] Because of the phraseology in section 303(q) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended (47 U.S.C. 303(q)), the word "menace" is used in revised Part 17 (17.1 for example). The Federal Aviation Administration uses the word "hazard" in its rules and notifications, some of which are referred to in Part 17. In the interest of clarity with respect to the use of these words in Part 17 of the rules, the word "hazard" is construed to have the same meaning as the word "menace".

30. The language of § 17.47, titled, "Inspection of tower lights and associated control equipment" is consistent with the language in the related paragraph of the FAA Obstruction, Marking, and Lighting publication. The suggestion for further definition of "failure" has not been adopted since § 17.47(a)(1) specifies, as does the FAA publication, that an indicator used as an alternative to observation shall register any failure of such lights "to ensure that all lights are functioning properly as required".

31. One comment suggested that because of technological advances in the field of automatic devices § 17.48 (§ 17.47 (c) of the notice of proposed rulemaking) should be modified to extend the inspection interval of the automatic devices to one year rather than every 3 months. A sufficient showing has not been made in this rulemaking to warrant a finding that, in balance with the requirements of air navigational safety, automatic devices should be permitted to remain uninspected for a period as long as a year. It was also suggested that § 17.48 should affirmatively specify that notification to FAA is not required upon failure of nonflashing lights to bring the rules into conformity with FAA specifications. The pertinent language in the FAA Obstruction, Marking, and Lighting publication has been included in § 17.48(b).

32. Some installations include a "fail safe" feature which will cause a beacon to burn continuously if the flashing mechanism fails. One comment states that the continuous burning of a flashing beacon constitutes "improper functioning" and suggests modification of the rules to require reporting and recording of such an occurrence. The new § 17.48 (old § 17.31 as modified) provides for notification of extinguishment or improper functioning of a code or rotating beacon and is responsive to comments in this regard.

33. The suggestion that all installations should be required to meet FAA specifications for color intensity and beam distribution is provided for in § 17.58 and other related sections of the rules.

34. It was suggested that the rules be amended to require that the rated voltage of obstruction lamps correspond to or be within 3 percent higher than the average voltage across the lamps during normal hours of operation. This provision is contained in the FAA Obstruction, Marking and Lighting publication and is being included in § 17.54.

35. In accordance with several comments the language of new § 17.57, as adopted, has been brought into conformity with former § 17.45, thereby requiring that C & GS Form 844 be filed with the Director, U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey only for construction of towers for which obstruction markings are required instead of for all structures as would have been required by the proposed rulemaking.

36. A suggestion was made that guy wires be marked. This has not been adopted since the FAA requirements do not specify such marking. It is understood that the FAA has this project under special study.

37. Editorial changes have been made and paragraphs have been renumbered for clarity and consistency.

38. In view of the foregoing considerations, the Commission finds that the amendments to Part 17, concerning construction, marking and lighting of antenna structures as set forth below are in the public interest, convenience and necessity. The authority for the adoption of such amendments is contained in sections 4(f), 303(q), and 303(r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

39. Accordingly, it is ordered, That effective September 5, 1967, Part 17 of the Commission's rules and regulations are amended, as set forth below.

40. It is further ordered, That the proceeding in Docket 16474 is terminated.

41. It is further ordered, That the Commission's "Interim Procedures Governing Airspace Clearances for Broadcast Antenna Structures", contained in Public Notice 44605 of December 10, 1963, are canceled as of the effective date of the amendments herein ordered.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION,[1]

[SEAL] BEN F. WAPLE, Secretary.

Subpart A—General Information

1. Section 17.1 is amended to read as follows:

§ 17.1 Basis and purposes.

(a) The rules in this part are issued pursuant to the authority contained in Title III of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, which vests authority in the Federal Communications Commission to issue licenses for radio stations when it is found that the public interest, convenience, and necessity would be served thereby, and to require the painting, and/or illumination of radio towers if and when in its judgment such towers constitute, or there is a reasonable possibility that they may constitute, a menace to air navigation.

(b) The purpose of the rules in this part is to prescribe certain procedures and standards with respect to the Commission's consideration of proposed antenna structures which will serve as a guide to persons intending to apply for radio station licenses. The standards were developed in conjunction with the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA).

2. Section 17.2 (a) and (c) through (n) are deleted; paragraph (b) is amended and redesignated as (a) and paragraph (o) is redesignated as (b). As amended paragraph (a) reads as follows:

§ 17.2 Definitions.

(a) Antenna structures. The term antenna structures includes the radiating system, its supporting structures and any appurtenances mounted thereon.

* * * * *

§ 17.3 [Deleted]

3. Section 17.3 is deleted in its entirety.

4. Section 17.4 is amended to read as follows:

§ 17.4 Commission consideration of proposed antenna structure with respect to possible hazard to air navigation.

(a) All applications are reviewed to determine whether there is a requirement that the applicant file a Notice of Proposed Construction or Alteration (Form FAA–117) with the Federal Aviation Administration.

(b) Whenever applications require the filing of "Notice of Proposed Construction or Alteration", Form FAA–117, the applicant will be advised to do so unless the application includes an FCC Form 714 certifying that notification has been submitted to FAA or the application form itself specifically supplies all of the information which would be provided on the FCC Form 714.

(c) All applications which do not require the filing of Form FAA–117 with the FAA will be deemed not to involve a hazard to air navigation and will be considered by the Commission without further reference to the FAA.

(d) Whenever a "no hazard determination" is received from the FAA concerning any proposed antenna structure, the antenna structure is deemed not to involve a hazard to air navigation and the antenna aspect of the application for radio station authorization will be processed accordingly; provided that the FAA "no hazard determination" has not expired.

(e) Whenever a report is received from the FAA indicating that a proposed antenna structure is a hazard, the Commission will take further appropriate action.

(f) Applications which show on their face that the antenna structure will extend more than 20 feet above the ground or natural formation or more than 20 feet above an existing manmade structure (other than an antenna structure) shall be accompanied by FCC Form 714 indicating that notification has or has not been submitted to FAA or the application form itself shall specifically supply all of the information which would be provided on the FCC Form 714.

(g) In addition to the other requirements of this part of the rules, each application for a radio station authorization shall include such information regarding proposed antenna construction as may be required by the FCC. Such information is to be supplied on the FCC application form specified in the rules pertaining to the radio service in which application is being made or as may otherwise be required.

[1] Commissioners Bartley, Lee and Loevinger absent.

Subpart B—Criteria for Determining Whether Applications for Radio Towers Require Notification of Proposed Construction to Federal Aviation Administration

5. New § 17.7 is added to read as follows:

§ 17.7 Antenna structures requiring notification to the FAA.

A notification to the Federal Aviation Administration is required, except as set forth in § 17.14, for any of the following construction or alteration:

(a) Any construction or alteration of more than 200 feet in height above ground level at its site.

(b) Any construction or alteration of greater height than an imaginary surface extending outward and upward at one of the following slopes:

(1) 100 to 1 for a horizontal distance of 20,000 feet from the nearest point of the nearest runway of each airport with at least one runway more than 3,200 feet in length, excluding heliports and seaplane bases without specified boundaries, if that airport is either listed in the Airport Directory of the current Airman's Information Manual or is operated by a Federal military agency.

(2) 50 to 1 for a horizontal distance of 10,000 feet from the nearest point of the nearest runway of each airport with its longest runway no more than 3,200 feet in length, excluding heliports and seaplane bases without specified boundaries, if that airport is either listed in the Airport Directory or is operated by a Federal military agency.

(3) 25 to 1 for a horizontal distance of 5,000 feet from the nearest point of the nearest landing and takeoff area of each heliport listed in the Airport Directory or operated by a Federal military agency.

(c) Any construction or alteration on an airport listed in the Airport Directory of the current Airman's Information Manual.

(d) When requested by the FAA, any construction or alteration that would be in an instrument approach area (defined in the FAA standards governing instrument approach procedures) and available information indicates it might exceed an obstruction standard of the FAA.

NOTE: Consideration to seronautical facilities not in existence at the time of the filing of the application for radio facilities will be given only when proposed airport construction or improvement plans are on file with the Federal Aviation Administration as of the filing date of the application for such radio facilities.

§§ 17.11, 17.12, 17.13 [Deleted]

6. Sections 17.11, 17.12, and 17.13 are deleted in their entirety.

7. Section 17.14 is amended to read as follows:

§ 17.14 Certain antenna structures exempt from notification to the FAA.

A notification to the Federal Aviation Administration is not required for any of the following construction or alteration:

(a) Any object that would be shielded by existing structures of a permanent and substantial character or by natural terrain or topographic features of equal or greater height, and would be located in the congested area of a city, town, or settlement where it is evident beyond all reasonable doubt that the structure so shielded will not adversely affect safety in air navigation. Applicants claiming such exemption under § 17.14(a) shall submit a statement with their application to the FCC explaining basis in detail for their finding.

(b) Any antenna structure of 20 feet or less in height except one that would increase the height of another antenna structure.

(c) Any electronic facility, the signal of which is used primarily for navigational guidance by aircraft, any airport visual approach or landing aid, or any airport ceiling or visibility indicator device, or other meteorological facility or instrument, approved by the Administrator, the location and height of which would be fixed by its functional purpose.

§§ 17.15, 17.16 [Deleted]

8. Sections 17.15 and 17.16 are deleted in their entirety.

9. Section 17.17 is amended to read as follows:

§ 17.17 Existing structures.

(a) Nothing in the criteria in this subpart concerning antenna structures or locations shall apply to those structures authorized prior to September 5, 1967.

(b) No change in any of these criteria or relocation of airports shall at any time impose a new restriction upon any then existing or authorized antenna structure or structures.

Subpart C—Specifications for Obstruction Marking and Lighting of Antenna Structures

10. Section 17.21 is amended to read as follows:

§ 17.21 Painting and lighting, when required.

Antenna structures shall be painted and lighted when:

(a) They exceed 200 feet in height above the ground or they require special seronautical study.

(b) The Commission may modify the above requirement for painting and/or lighting of antenna structures, when it is shown by the applicant that the absence of such marking would not impair the safety of air navigation, or that a lesser marking requirement would insure the safety thereof.

11. Section 17.22 is amended to read as follows:

§ 17.22 Particular specifications to be used.

Whenever painting and lighting are required, the Commission will assign painting and lighting specifications pursuant to the provisions of this subpart. If an antenna installation is of such a nature that its painting and lighting in accordance with these specifications are confusing or endanger, rather than assist airmen, or are otherwise inadequate, the Commission will specify the type of painting and lighting or other marking to be used in the individual situation.

12. Section 17.24 is amended to read as follows:

§ 17.24 Specifications for the lighting of antenna structures up to and including 150 feet in height.

Antenna structures up to and including 150 feet in height above ground, which are required to be lighted as a result of notification to the FAA under § 17.7, shall be lighted as follows:

(a) There shall be installed at the top of the tower at least two 100-, 107-, or 116-watt lamps (No. 100 A21/TS, No. 107 A21/TS, or No. 116 A21/TS, respectively) enclosed in aviation red obstruction light globes. The two lights shall burn simultaneously from sunset to sunrise and shall be positioned so as to insure unobstructed visibility of at least one of the lights from aircraft at any normal angle of approach. A light sensitive control device or an astronomic dial clock and time switch may be used to control the obstruction lighting in lieu of manual control. When a light sensitive device is used, it should be adjusted so that the lights will be turned on at a north sky light intensity level of about 35-foot candles and turned off at a north sky light intensity level of about 58-foot candles.

13. Section 17.25(a), (a) (1) and (2) is amended to read as follows:

§ 17.25 Specifications for the lighting of antenna structures over 150 feet up to and including 300 feet in height.

(a) Antenna structures over 150 feet, up to and including 200 feet in height above ground, which are required to be lighted as a result of notification to the FAA under § 17.7 and antenna structures over 200 feet, up to and including 300 feet in height above ground, shall be lighted as follows:

(1) There shall be installed at the top of the structure one 300 m/m electric code beacon equipped with two 500-, 620-, or 700-watt lamps (PS–40 Code Beacon type) both lamps to burn simultaneously, and equipped with aviation red color filters. Where a rod or other construction of not more than 20 feet in height and incapable of supporting this beacon is mounted on top of the structure and it is determined that this additional construction does not permit unobstructed visibility of the code beacon from aircraft at any normal angle of approach, there shall be installed two such beacons position so as to insure unobstructed visibility of at least one of the beacons from aircraft at any normal angle of approach. The beacons shall be equipped with a flashing mechanism producing not more than 40 flashes per minute nor less than 12 flashes per minute, with a period of darkness equal to approximately one-half of the luminous period.

(2) At the approximate mid point of the overall height of the tower there shall be installed at least two 100-, 107-, or 116-watt lamps (No. 100 A21/TS, No.

107 A21/TS, or No. 116 A21/TS, respectively) enclosed in aviation red obstruction light globes. Each light shall be mounted so as to insure unobstructed visibility of at least one light at each level from aircraft at any normal angle of approach.

* * * * *

Where a rod or other construction of not more than 20 feet in height and incapable of supporting this beacon is mounted on top of the structure and it is determined that this additional construction does not permit unobstructed visibility of the code beacon from aircraft at any normal angle of approach, there shall be installed two such beacons positioned so as to insure unobstructed visibility of at least one of the beacons from aircraft at any normal angle of approach. (1) There shall be installed at the top of the structure one 300 m/m electric code beacon equipped with two 500-, 620-, or 700-watt lamps (PS-40 Code Beacon type) both lamps to burn simultaneously, and equipped with aviation red color filters. Where a rod or other construction of not more than 20 feet in height and incapable of supporting this beacon is mounted on top of the structure and it is determined that this additional construction does not permit unobstructed visibility of the code beacon from aircraft at any normal angle of approach, there shall be installed two such beacons positioned so as to insure unobstructed visibility of at least one of the beacons from aircraft at any normal angle of approach. The beacons shall be equipped with a flashing mechanism producing not more than 40 flashes per minute nor less than 12 flashes per minute, with a period of darkness equal to approximately one-half of the luminous period.

(2) On levels at approximately four-fifths, three-fifths, two-fifths, and one-fifth of the overall height of the tower one similar flashing 300 m/m electric code beacon shall be installed in such position within the tower proper that the structural members will not impair the visibility of this beacon from aircraft at any normal angle of approach. In the event these beacons cannot be installed in a manner to insure unobstructed visibility of the beacons from aircraft at any normal angle of approach, there shall be installed two such beacons, at each level. Each beacon shall be mounted on the outside of diagonally opposite corners or opposite sides of the tower at the prescribed height.

[Docket No. 17153; FCC 67-892]

PART 64—MISCELLANEOUS RULES RELATING TO COMMON CARRIERS

Use of Recording Devices by Telephone Companies

Report and order. 1. On January 30, 1967, the Commission issued a notice of proposed rule-making in the above-entitled matter, 6 FCC 2d 587. (See also FEDERAL REGISTER of Feb. 3, 1967; 32 F.R. 284). Comments were requested by March 21, 1967, and reply comments by April 10, 1967.

2. In the notice, we proposed to establish rules that would require telephone common carriers that are subject, in whole or in part, to the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, to transmit a "beep tone" whenever any such carrier uses a recording device to record interstate or foreign telephone communications that take place between the telephone company as the called or calling party and the telephone using public. Tariffs of these companies now require the public user to transmit a "beep tone" on all such calls whenever he uses a recording device, but the tariff requirements do not apply to telephone company usage of recording devices on such calls.

3. Timely comments were submitted by American Telephone and Telegraph Company (A.T. & T.), GT&E Service Corp. (General), National Telephone Cooperative Association (NTCA), and James R. Squire. The Communications Workers of America (CWA) submitted reply comments.

Comments summarized. 4. A.T. & T., in its comments for the Bell System companies, maintains that there is no necessity for the proposed rule; that, although the present "beep tone" tariffs are not applicable to the telephone companies, the Bell System companies, as a matter of policy, have adopted the practice of using a "beep tone" in their own operations in the area covered by the proposed rule and that nothing would be gained by such rule; that any problems concerning the recording of customer contacts by a regulated carrier should be handled on a case-by-case basis, rather than by general rule; that the recording of customer contacts with telephone company employees is used by the Bell System only for plant repair service calls; and that the Commission may be assured that the Bell System will make no change in its existing practices regarding the use of the "beep tone" without prior notice to the Commission.

5. General states that the General System telephone companies limit the use of recordings solely to improving the quality of service rendered by the telephone company without invading privacy; that the telephone subscriber calling into the business office of a telephone company, or placing a call with an operator, or calling information for a telephone number, is not engaged in a conversation which he expects will be kept secret from the telephone company; that the service observing techniques employed by the General companies is the only way that they can insure that the public will continue to receive adequate service; that to prohibit service observing, or the recording that accompanies service observing, would severely inhibit efforts by the companies to maintain and improve service quality; that the General companies retain recordings of conversations for only the briefest periods; that such recordings are not made for record-keeping purposes but as training devices aimed at insuring that telephone company employees can properly handle customer requests and continue to render good service; and that the practical effect of the proposed rule would be to prohibit the use of recording devices since the value of recorded service observing as a training device lies in the absence of knowledge on the part of the telephone company employee that a particular call is being observed.

6. General also asserts that the proposed rule is premature in that the 90th Congress now has before it for consideration a number of Bills relating to the subject of eavesdropping (e.g., S. 634, S. 887, S. 928, H.R. 5386); and that Administration Bills H.R. 5386 and S. 298 provide for a general prohibition on intercepting or disclosing wire communication but that one of the exceptions thereto is an exception whereby a telephone company employee may intercept, disclose or use wire communication "in the normal course of his employment while engaged in any activity which is a necessary incident of the rendition of service." General contends that, until Congress acts on these Bills, it would be untimely for the Commission now to adopt rules in this area since the statutory amendments would quite likely require a subsequent overhaul of all rules in this area.

7. NTCA asserts that the Commission is here dealing with minutia and that rather than adopt the proposed rules, the Commission should reinstitute the 1947 recording device tariff prescription procedures (11 FCC 1033; 12 FCC 1005, 1008), appoint an advisory committee to look into the current problems of telephone recording devices, and propose effective legislation to correct all abuses in connection with the recording of telephone conversations. NTCA alleges that there have been revolutionary changes since the presently effective tariffs were prescribed regarding the use of the "beep tone"; that the present tariffs should be revised to permit the use of acoustical recordings with an appropriate warning; that the wisdom of retaining the "beep tone" in the tariffs as the warning mechanism is highly doubtful since many different tones are being used today in the telephone system; that the practice of broadcasters in filtering out the "beep tone" diminishes its value as a warning; that the public has little awareness of the "beep tone" tariff requirements and there is widespread disregard of such requirements; that the "beep tone" requirements should have been extended to the private line tariffs; that the Commission should seek a new warning mechanism capable of use on all recorders that is simple, incapable of being misunderstood and without cost or unnecessary subscriber involvement; and that the Commission should provide for telephone companies an adequate subscriber education program using, among other means, telephone directory, newsletter, and notices with billings.

8. CWA, in its comments in reply, supports the proposed rule and cites actions taken by state regulatory agencies in Connecticut and Massachusetts concerning this matter. CWA states that the question presented is whether or not the claimed benefit gained from recording conversations of telephone company employees outweighs the benefit accruing to the public from the knowledge that its telephone conversations are private and are not being monitored by unknown persons; that with the growing use of the telephone the contents of conversations should not be made known to persons other than those for whom they are intended; that the need for privacy obtains no less to employees of the telephone company; and that the public will make known its dissatisfactions with the telephone company service without the use of unexpected surveillance, eavesdropping or monitoring of the telephone conversations of telephone company employees; and that the human dignity of such employees is more important than using such methods as an attempt to achieve a perfect world of electronics.

9. In his comments, Mr. James R. Squire, supports the proposed rule and he also asserts that the Commission should go further and prohibit the recording of telephone conversations completely. He states that there is no valid reason for the recording of telephone conversations by telephone companies.

Conclusions. 10. We have carefully considered all of the comments. Our initial objective in proposing this rule was to assure that the public user of the telephone service would have notice whenever any telephone conversation that he is conducting with a telephone company is being recorded by the latter and to require that such notice be achieved by the same "beep tone" method that the public user must use if he himself desired to use a device to record the same telephone conversation. None of the comments take issue with this objective, although NTCA, as indicated, suggests that some warning method other than the "beep tone" should be devised.

11. The comments of CWA and General raise the question of whether there may not be a further and additional reason for adopting the proposed rule over and above that set forth above. Thus, the comments of these parties indicate that where the General System companies use a recording device for conversations with the public user it appears that neither the public user nor the telephone company employee engaged in the conversation has any knowledge that it is being recorded. General contends that if the employee knows that a recording device is being used, such knowledge would destroy the value thereof for service observing and training. We think it significant that the Bell System companies do not make any contention that their use of the "beep tone" impairs their service observing or training program, and we do not believe that General has made any showing to support its allegation that the service observing techniques employed by the General companies "is the only way that they can insure that he [the telephone subscriber] continues to receive adequate service."

12. As we stated in the notice, we believe that the principles that govern our decision in Use of Recording Devices in Connection With Telephone Service, 11 FCC 1033 (1947), 12 FCC 1005 (1947), 12 FCC 1008 (1948), apply with equal force to the recording of telephone conversations by telephone companies when they are the called or calling party to a telephone conversation. We believe that the comments of the parties support and reinforce the need and desirability for the proposed rule. Moreover, we do not agree with the contention of General that our proposed rule-making is premature and that we should defer action on the proposed rule until Congress acts on a number of bills now pending in Congress relating to the subject of eavesdropping. These bills, as we read them have the objective of buttressing the right of privacy in telephone and other conversations. Our proposed rule is in harmony with that objective, and we see no reason to defer action thereon.

13. NTCA's comments urging a general overhaul of the present tariff provisions of the telephone companies relating to the use of recording devices would entail tariff prescription proceedings under section 205 of the Act and such comments are outside the scope of the proposed rule-making herein.

Accordingly, it is ordered, Pursuant to sections 4(i), 201(b), and 202(a) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, That effective September 5, 1967, Part 64 of the Commission's rules and regulations, 47 CFR Part 64, is amended by the addition of new Subpart E as set forth below, and that this proceeding is terminated.

Part 64—Miscellaneous Rules Relating to Common Carriers, is amended to add a new Subpart E as follows:

Subpart E—Use of Recording Devices by Telephone Companies

§ 64.501 Recording of telephone conversations with telephone companies.

No telephone common carrier, subject in whole or in part to the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, may use any recording device in connection with any interstate or foreign telephone conversation between any member of the public, on the one hand, and any officer, agent or other person acting for or employed by any such telephone common carrier, on the other hand, except under the following conditions:

(a) That such use shall be accompanied by adequate notice to all parties to the telephone conversation that the conversation is being recorded;

(b) That such notice shall be given by the use of an automatic tone warning device, which will automatically produce a distinct signal that is repeated at regular intervals during the course of the telephone conversation when the recording device is in use;

(c) That the characteristics of the warning tone shall be the same as those specified in the Orders of this Commission adopted by it in "Use of Recording Devices in Connection With Telephone Service," Docket 6787; 11 F.C.C. 1033 (1947); 12 F.C.C. 1005 (November 26, 1947); 12 F.C.C. 1008 (May 20, 1948);

(d) That no recording device shall be used unless it can be physically connected to and disconnected from the telephone line or switched on and off.

PART 87—AVIATION SERVICES

Aeronautical Multicom Service

Report and order. 1. The Commission on December 21, 1966, adopted a notice of proposed rule making in the above-entitled matter (FCC 66-1183) which made provision for the filing of comments and was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on December 28, 1966 (31 F.R. 16577). The time for filing comments and reply comments has passed.

2. The notice of proposed rule making was based on information gained from administering the multicom service and requests for waivers of the rules governing the service. It proposed elimination of the enumeration of particular activities to which the multicom communications must pertain and the substitution of a general statement regarding the use of the frequency. No change was proposed in the original objective of the multicom service to provide for activities of a temporary, seasonal, or emergency nature and to exclude those activities which are of a continuing or permanent nature, particularly where provision is already made for communications under another part of the Rules.

3. Formal comments were filed by National Association of State Aviation Officers (NASAO) and National Business Aircraft Association and informal comments by the Federal Aviation Agency and National Pilots Association. The commentators supported the proposal. NASAO, however, suggested that the prohibition against air traffic control communications be clarified.

4. NASAO points out that the present language can be interpreted to preclude the relaying of air traffic control information by the multicom station operator between the pilot and air traffic controller. Examples cited by NASAO where relaying results in savings of time and airspace are: (a) After receiving an ATC clearance for takeoff at a specific time, the pilot may encounter a delay, such as trouble starting his engine in cold weather. If the pilot cannot notify ATC by radio he may have to run back and forth to a telephone several times to amend his flight plan; and (b) after landing, the pilot must taxi in, shut down his engine, possibly fill out a log book, walk to a telephone and complete a call to FAA, before the FAA knows the airplane is clear.

5. The situations described by NASAO occur at uncontrolled landing areas. At these airfields, in many instances, the only air ground communications facility will be the multicom or aeronautical advisory station. Allowing the operators of these stations to relay air traffic control messages between pilots and controllers is very desirable and the Commission's rules are not to be interpreted as precluding this type of communications. In order that no misunderstanding exists, a phrase will be added to the rules which will specifically authorize relaying. Inasmuch as this clarification is editorial in nature and merely reflects a long standing policy, it appears appropriate to make a similar addition to the aeronautical advisory station rules § 87.257 (c) which contain the same prohibition.

6. In view of the foregoing: It is ordered, Pursuant to the authority contained in sections 4(i) and 303 (b) and (r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, that effective September 5, 1967, Part 87 of the Commission's rules is amended as set forth below. It is further ordered, That this proceeding is terminated.

(Secs. 4, 303, 48 Stat., as amended 1066, 1082; 47 U.S.C. 154, 303)

Adopted: July 26, 1967.

Released: July 31, 1967.

(1) Revisions of proposed departure time.

(2) Takeoff, arrival or flight plan cancellation time.

(3) ATC clearances provided a letter of agreement is consummated by the licensee of the advisory station with the FAA.
